tions of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Paper records are subject to the same safeguards as all other information in the Social Security Administration relating to claims and beneficiary records—limited access to social security offices, limited employee access to those that have a need to know, all employees receive instruction in Social Security Administration confidentiality rules in an initial orientation. Guidelines contained in the FIPS PUB 41, Computer Security Guidelines for Implementing the Privacy Act of 1974; FIPS PUB 31, Guidelines for Automatic Data Processing Physical Security and Risk Management, and FIPS PUB 3, ADP System Security Required by the Privacy Act of 1974, were taken into account in development of these safeguards.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained on-line in the system from the time of control until 13 months after the final response is released. Tape records are then maintained on magnetic tape for an additional 24 months before being erased.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Claims folders are maintained in file cabinets by service area as set out in location above.

Retrievability: Filed in numerical sequence by social security number. The folders are used throughout the Social Security Administration for the purposes of determining, organizing, and maintaining documents for making normal determination as to eligibility to benefits, the amount of benefits, reviewing continuing eligibility, holding hearings or administrative review processes, and to ensure that proper adjustments are made based on events affecting entitlement. The folder may be referred to State Disability Determination Sections or Vocational Rehabilitation Agencies in disability cases. They may also be used for quality review, evaluation, and measurement studies, and other statistical and research purposes.

The claims folder constitutes the basic record for payments and determinations under the Social Security Act and the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act (black lung). Data are used to produce and maintain the master beneficiary record system (see Systems Notice) which is the automated payment system for retirement, survivors, and disability benefits, the supplemental security income automated system for the aged, blind, and disabled payments, the black lung payment process for black lung claims, and the Health Insurance and Billing and Collection Master record systems for Hospital and supplementary medical (medicare) insurance benefits.

This paper file is controlled by the Social Security Administration Claims Control System while the claim is pending development for adjudication in the district or branch office, and by the Case Control System once the folder has been transferred to the reviewing office (program service centers, Division of International Operations, or the Bureau of Disability Insurance).

Safeguards: Claims folders are protected through limited access to Social Security Administration records, limited employee access to need to know. All employees are instructed in Social Security Administration confidentiality rules as a part of their initial orientation training.

Retention and disposal: The claims folder is initially maintained in the reviewing office. Later, both active and inactive folders are transferred to the Federal Archives and Records Center for storage and inactive (no one is entitled to benefits) folders are scheduled for destruction. The time for retention prior to destruction is 5-year retention - no record of surviving potential beneficiaries, 20-year retention - withdrawn claims, claims disallowed or lump-sum death payments only, and 55-year retention - potential future claimants indicated in the file. When a subsequent claim is filed on the social security number, the claims file is recalled from the Records Center. Similarly, the claims files may be recalled from the Records Center at any time by the Social Security Administration as necessary in the administration of the social security programs.

In response to legal process or interrogatories relating to the enforcement of an individual's child support or alimony obligations, as required by sections 459 and 461 of the Social Security Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape, magnetic disk, microform, and paper.

Retrievability: Based on social security number on magnetic tape, microform readers and printers, listings, and online computer terminals. Master beneficiary record data are used by a broad range of social security employees for responding to inquiries, generating followups on beneficiary reporting events, computer exception processing, statistical studies, conversion of benefits, and to generate payment records for Treasury. Data are received from the States regarding health insurance third party premium payment/buy-in information. Data are made available to the Inspector General for use in the performance of his duties.

Safeguards: All magnetic tapes and discs are within an enclosure attended by security guards. Anyone entering or leaving this enclosure must have special badges which are issued only to authorized personnel. All microfilm and paper files are accessible only by authorized personnel with a need to know. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: Magnetic tape records are used to update the disc files and then are retained up to 90 days, the majority of magnetic tape reels are erased and returned to stock after processing is completed, while the disc files are continuously updated and retained indefinitely. Microfilm is disposed of by shredding after periodic replacement of a complete file. Paper records are usually destroyed after use, by shredding, except where needed for documentation of the claims folder, in which case they are retained therein indefinitely (see notices for claims folders and post-judicative records of applicants and beneficiaries for social security benefits).

System manager(s) and address:

Director

Notification procedure: Contact the most convenient social security office (see Appendix F). The social security claim number (social security number plus alphabetic symbols), and name and address must be furnished with proper identification.

Record access procedures: Same as notification procedures. Requesters should also reasonably specify the record contents being sought. (These access procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.5(a)(2)) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47410.)

Contesting record procedures: Contact the official at the address specified under notification procedures above, and reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Section 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: The information for the master beneficiary record comes primarily from the claims folder and/or is furnished by the beneficiary at the time of filing for benefits, via the application form and necessary proofs, and during the period of entitlement when notices of events such as changes of address, work, marriage, are given the Social Security Administration by the beneficiary from States regarding health insurance buy-in cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: None

System name: Social Security Administration Claims Control System HEW SSA OPO

Security classification: None

Bureau of Data Processing
6401 Security Boulevard
Baltimore, Maryland 21235

Categories of individuals covered by the system: A control record is established when a claim(s) for Retirement, Survivors, Disability, and/or Health Insurance Benefits is filed on a particular social security number (SSN). Only one record is established for each social security number even though more than one claim may be filed simultaneously—e.g., claims for the wage earner, his wife, and children on one social security number.

Categories of records in the system: The record content is: social security number and wage earner's name, the date the application was filed—for a few cases it is not included because it is not known when the record is established, the type of action—i.e., Retirement, Survivors, Disability, and/or Health Insurance Benefits, the potential month of entitlement—for monthly benefits this will be the first month for which benefits may be paid, the code for the district office that processed the application, the district office that released the claim to the State agency or program center, the present location of the claim, the date the claim was released by one office and received by another.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 204 of the Social Security Act—This provision necessitates a systems control of claims to ensure payment within prescribed time parts.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic tape and disk for online and offline retrieval.

Retrievability: Indexed by social security number. Controlling claims from the point they originate in a district office until they are finally processed to completion enables the Administration to identify those claims for which inordinate delays occur. Once identified, expeditious processing is initiated. Moreover, the data present in the system is useful in the reconstruction of a claim if the application were to be lost.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape and disk records protected through standard security measures used for all SSA's computer records—limited access to Social Security Administration offices—limited employee access to computer facilities based on specific authorization. For computerized records, electronically transmitted between Central Office and field office locations (including organizations administering SSA programs under contractual agreements), systems securities are established in accordance with Departmental standards and National Bureau of Standards guidelines. Safeguards include a lock/unlock password system, exclusive use of leased telephone lines, a terminal oriented transaction matrix, and an audit trail.

Retention and disposal: The records on the magnetic tapes are purged when the decision of award or disallowance is made on the social security number or at 1 year from the date the record is established, whichever occurs first. The old versions of tapes are erased and returned to stock. The disk files are continuously updated and retained indefinitely.

Notification procedure: Social Security District Offices and Branch Offices (See Appendix F.)

Record access procedures: Social Security District Offices and Branch Offices. The data in this system are extremely limited since the system is a mechanism used by the agency to control and expedite the processing of claims. An individual may access the information about him in the system by contacting the most convenient social security office, referencing the system, providing name, social security number, approximate date and place claim was filed, type of claim (retirement, survivors, disability, or health insurance), and return address or phone number.

Contesting record procedures: It is maintained that little of the data in this system is contestable; however, should an individual wish to contest it upon review, he may discuss the matter with the social security office staff. If he decides to contest, he should reasonably identify the record and specify the information to be contested. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45 CFR, Sec. 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: The data are derived from the information furnished by the claimant on his application and by control data that is received as the claim is sent from the district office to other social security offices.

Categories of records in the system: A control record by social security number containing data relative to the location of the claim serviced by one of the offices maintaining jurisdictional responsibility.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The payment provisions of the Social Security Act and Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, Sections 202, 223, 226, 228, and 1611 of the Social Security Act and 411 of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act. The information for this system is derived from the claims filing process and duplicates, in fact, that set out in the Claims Folder Systems Notice.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity, (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components, or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic disk storage files and magnetic tape files.

Retrievability: Social security number. Control records containing social security numbers are used by the offices to identify the location of claims as well as enabling them to associate and process incoming material in a timely fashion. The identification and exact location feature assists Social Security Administration in meeting the standards of service to the public in processing and deciding claims for benefits. Data are also used to identify where operating weaknesses are to facilitate corrective action by management. Management data is also derived from the control records to provide statistical data relative to workloads, staffing, and manpower usage.

Safeguards: Disk and tape files protected through standard security measures used for all of Social Security Administration's computer records—limited access to social security offices, and limited employee access to computer facilities based on specific authorizations.

Retention and disposal: The control records are maintained indefinitely. No provisions have been made to dispose of the control records nor is any contemplated as of now. When disk files are rewritten, the old disks are erased and returned to stock.

security number, name and related address. (These procedures are in accordance with Department Regulations (45CFR, Sec 5b.7) Federal Register, October 8, 1975, page 47411.)

Record source categories: The control records are developed from recordings of cards containing social security numbers and coded location identifiers. Also, magnetic tape files prepared in Baltimore containing social security numbers and location identifiers are provided to the jurisdictional offices to reflect the location of claims wherever located in Social Security Administration offices.

It does not contain a record of any hospital or supplementary medical insurance enrollee who has had premiums deducted from monthly benefits or paid through a third party payer arrangement continuously from the initial month of entitlement.

Categories of records in the system: It contains identifying information as well as information regarding entitlement to hospital or supplementary medical insurance, current address information, individual records of premium payments, premium adjustments, refunds of excess payments, and current amounts due.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Sections 1840(c) and 1871 of the Social Security Act.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual. In the event of litigation where one of the parties is (a) the Department, any component of the Department, or any employee of the Department in his or her official capacity; (b) the United States where the Department determines that the claim, if successful, is likely to directly affect the operations of the Department or any of its components; or (c) any Department employee in his or her individual capacity where the Justice Department has agreed to represent such employee, the Department may disclose such records as it deems desirable or necessary to the Department of Justice to enable that Department to effectively represent such party, provided such disclosure is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Primary record storage is by magnetic tape and disk. Monthly updates of the record are also provided to the Social Security Administration program service centers, the Division of International Operations, Bureau of Retirement and Survivors Insurance, and the Division of Benefit Payments, Bureau of Disability Insurance in microform records.

supplementary medical insurance coverage for non-payment of premiums; (5) reverse termination actions; (6) maintain a history of premium payments, adjustments, or other events which alter the billing status; (7) provide up-to-date premium and billing information to Social Security Administration clerical and electronic operations. Information is used to respond to specific beneficiary inquiries or to facilitate the proper adjustment of social security benefit payments. Information is also accessed electronically by social security benefit programs for the proper adjustment of payment amounts.

Safeguards: Magnetic tape, and disk records are protected through standard security measures used for all of Social Security Administration's computer records, microform records are subject to the same rules and security as all other information in Social Security Administration relating to claims and beneficiary records; limited access to Social Security Administration offices, limited employee access to need to know.

Retention and disposal: Microform and tape records can routinely be sent to the Federal Records Center after 2 years. However, since this record is updated monthly, even though the physical records are released to the Federal Records Center, current record will contain full history of all transactions. An inactive tape file, i.e., a file containing the records of cases where the enrollee has died, been in payment status for 2 or more years, etc., is maintained in each program center. This file currently has no disposal schedule.

This application contains data which may be used to prove the identity of the applicant, determine his eligibility for SSI payments and in cases where eligibility is determined, to compute the amount of the payment. #### APPENDIX A Retirement and Survivors Insurance Claims

1. Determining Appropriate Office to Contact

Records relating to retirement and survivor insurance claims are maintained primarily in six program service centers across the country. The responsibility for the payment of benefits and the maintenance of records is assigned to each office according to the first three digits of the social security number.

However, if the only individual entitled to survivor's monthly benefits on one claim number is also entitled to a retirement benefit on another claim number, the office which is assigned the responsibility for the retirement benefit claim also handles the survivor claim. If the only individual on the record is entitled to a survivor benefit which has been reduced because the survivor is under age 65, and the individual is also entitled to a disability benefit (which is higher), on another record, the Bureau of Disability Insurance certifies the payments and maintains both records (see Appendix B). The Bureau of Disability Insurance is also responsible for payment certification and record maintenance if the only survivor on a record is entitled as a childhood disability beneficiary and the survivor is also entitled to a disability benefit on another record.

In addition, when one of the individuals in the record resides outside the United States or its possessions, the responsibility for payment certification and record maintenance is assigned to the Division of International Operations without reference to the social security claim number or the type of benefit.

With the exceptions noted above, the appropriate program service center to contact can be determined by checking the first three (left side) digits of the social security number and comparing to the chart below. For example, if the first three digits are 076, the appropriate program service center to contact will be the Northeastern Program Service Center; similarly, if the first three digits were 437, the appropriate office would be Mid-America Program Service Center, and if they are 728, the appropriate office would be the Great Lakes Program Service Center.

If the first three digits fall within the range of:

135 - 222 the Mid-Atlantic Program Service Center;
223 - 231 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
232 - 236 the Mid-Atlantic Program Service Center;
237 - 267 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
268 - 302 the Great Lakes Program Service Center;
303 - 315 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
316 - 399 the Great Lakes Program Service Center;
400 - 428 the Southeastern Program Service Center;
429 - 500 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
501 - 504 the Western Program Service Center;
505 - 515 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
516 - 524 the Western Program Service Center;
525 the Mid-America Program Service Center;
526 - 576 the Western Program Service Center;

APPENDIX J Social Security Administration Data Security Measures

The confidentiality of records has been a cornerstone of Social Security Administration policy from the very beginning of the agency under the mandate of Title 20, Chapter III, Part 401 of the Code of Federal Regulations issued in 1937 and Section 1106 of the Social Security Act Passed by the Congress in 1939. Data security measures begin with the thorough training of employees in the restrictions against disclosure contained in the Act and the Regulations, the criminal sanctions for unauthorized disclosure, and the procedures used to assure that disclosures authorized by statute and regulation are released to the proper parties. The physical security measures established to safeguard records are discussed below:

1. Manually Maintained Records

Manually maintained records are kept in locked file cabinets or in otherwise secure areas. Access to the records is limited to those employees who require the information contained in the records to perform the duties assigned to them. In most cases, the records are selected for the employees needing access to them by other employees who are specifically charged with the maintenance of the records. This restricts the number of persons authorized to be in the storage areas and facilitates the control over the access to the information contained in the records to those who need it. Those records not handled in this manner are securely stored so that unauthorized individuals may not gain access to them.

2. Automated Records

Entry into the computer rooms in the headquarters complex located in Woodlawn, Maryland is restricted to those employees whose duties require such entry. A special pass containing the employee's photograph is issued to all personnel authorized to enter this area. Marshals are stationed at each entrance to assure that only possessors of the special passes are admitted. Magnetic tape records and records stored on other automated devices are kept in a library to which entry is further restricted by a lock whose opening combination is known only to a select few authorized to enter this area. Access to the information contained in these records is controlled by various manual and automated devices. Only employees who require the information to perform their duties may obtain it.

Some automated records are maintained in program service centers located across the country (See Appendix A). Entrance to the program service center buildings is restricted to employees with building passes. In addition, special passes identify those employees whose duties require entry into the computer rooms. Access to the information contained in these records is also controlled. Only employees who require the information to perform their duties may obtain it.

Data is transmitted from field offices and program service centers to headquarters and return. For the most part, sensitive and urgent traffic is sent over lines leased by the Social Security Administration for its sole use. The remaining traffic sent directly by wire is sent via lines leased by the Federal Government for use of all Federal agencies. Sometimes the length of the record precludes direct wire transmission and magnetic tape stored on reels must be used. When this occurs, special procedures assure the delivery of the tape reels to the proper location.

Internal computer security is safeguarded by access codes, edit checks, data reformatting and return address codes. These assure that only authorized access to the computer system is permitted, that the particular data requested from the system can be released to the requester, and that control is maintained over the locations to which systems data may be sent.

APPENDIX K

An individual must present sufficient evidence to establish identity in order to obtain information pertaining to him from the Social Security Administration's records.

Requests for disclosure of information may be made in the following ways:

1. In Person--No special documents of identity are required if a request for disclosure of information is made in person. It is expected that documents an individual would normally carry on his person would be sufficient. The following would be acceptable although this list is not intended to be all-inclusive: credit cards, driver's license, motor vehicle registration card, building pass, voter registration cards, and selective service registration certificate. A social security number card is acceptable only when presented with other evidence.

2. Via Mail--An individual requesting disclosure of information from the Social Security Administration's records via mail must provide his name, date of birth, and address in order to establish his identity plus any additional information required (in the system notice) to access his record within a specific system.

3. Via Telephone--An individual requesting disclosure of information via telephone must furnish the same information as listed in 2 above.

Papers maintained by individual employees of the Department which are prepared, maintained, or discarded at the discretion of the employee and which are not subject to the Federal Records Act, 44 U.S.C. 2901, are not part of a system of records, provided that such personal papers are not used by the employee or the Department to determine any rights, benefits, or privileges of individuals.

(a) This Part implements section 3 of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a (hereinafter referred to as the Act), by establishing agency policies and procedures for the maintenance of records. This Part also establishes agency policies and procedures under which a subject individual may be given notification of or access to a record pertaining to him and policies and procedures under which a subject individual may have his record corrected or amended if he believes that his record is not accurate, timely, complete, or relevant or necessary to accomplish a Department function.

(2) Make available to the general public records which are retrieved by a subject individual's name or other personal identifier or make available to the general public records which would otherwise not be available to the general public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

§ 5b.3 Policy.

It is the policy of the Department to protect the privacy of individuals to the fullest extent possible while nonetheless permitting the exchange of records required to fulfill the administrative and program responsibilities of the Department, and responsibilities of the Department for disclosing records which the general public is entitled to have under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

(2) It is acquired to the greatest extent practicable from the subject individual when maintenance of the record may result in a determination about the subject individual's rights, benefits or privileges under Federal programs;

(3) The individual providing the record is informed of the authority for providing the record (including whether the providing of the record is mandatory or voluntary, the principal purpose for maintaining the record, the routine uses for the record, what effect his refusal to provide the record may have on him), and if the record is not required by statute or Executive Order to be provided by the individual, he agrees to provide the record.

(b) No record will be maintained by the Department which describes how an individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized (1) by statute, or (2) by the subject individual, or (3) unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity

§ 5b.5 Notification of or access to records.

(a) Times, places, and manner of requesting notification of or access to a record

(1) Subject to the provisions governing medical records in § 5b.6 of this part, any individual may request notification of a record. He may at the same time request access to any record pertaining to him. An individual may be accompanied by another individual of his choice when he requests access to a record in person. Provided, That he affirmatively authorizes the presence of such other individual during any discussion of a record to which access is requested.

(2) An individual making a request for notification of or access to a record shall address his request to the responsible Department official and shall verify his identity when required in accordance with paragraph (b)(2) of this section. At the time the request is made, the individual shall specify which systems of records he wishes to have searched and the records to which he wishes to have access. He may also request that copies be made of all or any such records. An individual shall also provide the responsible Department official with sufficient particulars to enable such official to distinguish between records on subject individuals with the same name. The necessary particulars are set forth in the notices of systems of records.

(3) An individual who makes a request in person may leave with any responsible Department official a request for notification of or access to a record under the control of another responsible Department official. Provided, That the request is addressed in writing to the appropriate responsible Department official.

(b) Verification of identity—(1) When required. Unless an individual, who is making a request for notification of or access to a record in person, is personally known to the responsible Department official, he shall be required to verify his identity in accordance with paragraph (b)(2) of this section if:

(i) he makes a request for notification of a record and the responsible

Department official determines that the mere disclosure of the existence of the record would be a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy if disclosed to someone other than the subject individual; or

(ii) he makes a request for access to a record which is not required to be disclosed to the general public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, and Part 5 of this title.

(2) Manner of verifying identity.

(i) An individual who makes a request in person shall provide to the responsible Department official at least one piece of tangible identification such as a driver's license, passport, alien or voter registration card, or union card to verify his identity. If an individual does not have identification papers to verify his identity he shall certify in writing that he is the individual who he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense under the Act subject to a $5,000 fine.

(ii) Except as provided in paragraph (b)(2)(v) of this section, an individual who does not make a request in person shall submit a notarized request to the responsible Department official to verify his identity or shall certify in his request that he is the individual who he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense under the Act subject to a $5,000 fine.

(iii) An individual who makes a request on behalf of a minor or legal incompetent as authorized under § 5b.10 of this Part shall verify his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent, in addition to verifying his own identity, by providing a copy of the minor's birth certificate, a court order, or other competent evidence of guardianship to the responsible Department official; except that, an individual is not required to verify his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent when he is not required to verify his own identity or when evidence of his relationship to the minor or legal incompetent has been previously given to the responsible Department official.

(iv) An individual shall further verify his identity if he is requesting notification of or access to sensitive records such as medical records. Any further verification shall parallel the record to which notification or access is being sought. Such further verification may include such particulars as the individual's years of attendance at a particular educational institution, rank attained in the uniformed services, date of place of birth, names of parents, an occupation or the specific times the individual received medical treatment.

(v) An individual who makes a request by telephone shall verify his identity by providing to the responsible Department official identifying particulars which parallel the record to which notification or access is being sought. If the responsible Department official determines that the particulars provided by telephone are in sufficient, the requester will be required to submit the request in writing or in person. Telephone requests will not be accepted where an individual is requesting notification of or access to sensitive records such as medical records.

(c) Granting notification of or access to a record

(1) Subject to the provisions governing medical records in § 5b.6 of this part and the provisions governing exempt systems in § 5b.11 of this part, a responsible Department official, who receives a request for notification of or access to a record and, if required, verification of an individual's identity, will review the request and grant notification or access to a record, if the individual requesting access to the record is the subject individual.

(2) If the responsible Department official determines that there will be a delay in responding to a request because of the number of requests being processed, a breakdown of equipment, shortage of personnel, storage of records in other locations, etc., he will so inform the individual and indicate when notification or access will be granted.

(3) Prior to granting notification of or access to a record, the responsible Department official may at his discretion require an individual making a request in person to reduce his request to writing if the individual has not already done so at the time the request is made.

§ 5b.6 Special procedures for notification of or access to medical records.

(a) General. An individual in general has a right to notification of or access to his medical records, including psychological records, as well as to other records pertaining to him maintained by the Department. This section sets forth special procedures as permitted by the Act for notification of or access to medical records, including a special procedure for notification of or access to medical records of minors. The special procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section may not be suitable for use by every component of the Department. Therefore, components may follow the paragraph (b) procedure for notification of or access to medical records, or may issue regulations establishing special procedures for such purposes. The special procedure set forth in paragraph (c) of this section relating to medical records of minors, is mandatory.

(b) Medical records procedures—(1) Notification of or access to medical records

(i) Any individual may request notification of or access to a medical record pertaining to him. Unless the individual is a parent or guardian requesting notification of or access to a minor's medical record, an individual shall make a request for a medical record in accordance with this section and the procedures in § 5b.5 of this Part.

(ii) An individual who requests notification of or access to a medical record shall, at the time the request is made, designate a representative in writing. The representative may be a physician, other health professional, or other responsible individual, who would be willing to review the record and inform the subject individual of its contents at the representative's discretion.

(2) Utilization of the designated representative. A subject individual will be granted direct access to a medical record if the responsible official determines that direct access is not likely to have an adverse effect on the subject individual. If the responsible Department official believes that he is not qualified to determine, or if he does determine, that direct access to the subject individual is likely to have an adverse effect on the subject individual, the record will be sent to the designated representative. The subject individual will be informed in writing that the record has been sent.

(c) Medical records of minors—(1) Requests by minors: notification of or access to medical records to minors. A minor may request notification of or access to a medical record pertaining to him in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) Requests on a minor's behalf: notification of or access to medical records to an individual on a minor's behalf

(i) In order to protect the privacy of a minor, a parent or guardian, authorized to act on a minor's behalf as provided in § 5b.10 of this part, who makes a request for notification of or access to a minor's medical record will not be given direct notification of or access to such record.

(ii) A parent or guardian shall make all requests for notification of or access to a minor's medical record in accordance with this paragraph and the procedures in § 5b.5 of this part. A parent or guardian shall at the time he makes a request designate a family physician or other health professional (other than a family member) to whom the record, if any, will be sent.

(iii) Where a medical record on the minor exists, it will be sent to the physician or health professional designated by the parent or guardian in all cases. If disclosure of the record would constitute an invasion of the minor's privacy, that fact will be brought to the attention of the physician or health professional to whom the record is sent. The physician or health professional will be asked to consider the effect that disclosure of the record to the parent of guardian would have on the minor in determining whether the minor's medical record should be made available to the parent or guardian. Response to the parent or guardian making the request will be made in substantially the following form.

We have completed processing your request for notification of or access to medical records. Please be informed that if any medical records were found pertaining to that individual, they have not been sent to your designated physician or health professional.

In each case where a minor's medical records is sent to a physician or health professional, reasonable efforts will be made to so inform the minor.

§ 5b.7 Procedures for correction or amendment of records.

(a) Any subject individual may request that his record be corrected or amended if he believes that the record is not accurate, timely, complete, or relevant or necessary to accomplish a Department function. A subject individual making a request to amend or correct his record shall address his request to the responsible Department official in writing; except that, the request need not be in writing if the subject individual makes his request in person and the responsible Department official corrects or amends the record at that time. The subject individual shall specify in each request:

(1) The system of records from which the record is retrieved;

(2) The particular record which he is seeking to correct or amend;

(3) Whether he is seeking an addition to or a deletion or substitution of the record; and,

(4) His reasons for requesting correction or amendment of the record.

(b) A request for correction or amendment of a record will be acknowledged within 10 working days of its receipt unless the request can be processed and the subject individual informed of the responsible Department official's decision on the request within that 10 day period.

(c) If the responsible Department official agrees that the record is not accurate, timely, or complete based on a preponderance of the evidence, the record will be corrected or amended. The record will be deleted without regard to its accuracy, if the record is not relevant or necessary to accom-

In either case, the subject individual will be informed in writing of the correction, amendment, or deletion and, if accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be informed of the corrective action taken.

(d) If the responsible Department official does not agree that the record should be corrected or amended, the subject individual will be informed in writing of the refusal to correct or amend the record. He will also be informed that he may appeal the refusal to correct or amend his record to the appropriate appeal authority listed in § 5b.8 of this Part. The appropriate appeal authority will be identified to the subject individual by name, title, and business address.

(e) Requests to correct or amend a record governed by the regulation of another government agency, e.g., Civil Service Commission, Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be forwarded to such government agency for processing and the subject individual will be informed in writing of the referral.

§ 5b.8 Appeals of refusals to correct or amend records.

(a) Processing the appeal. (1) A subject individual who disagrees with a refusal to correct or amend his record may appeal the refusal in writing. All appeals shall be made to the following appeal authorities, or their designees, or successors in function:

(i) Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management for records of the Office of the Secretary, or where the initial refusal to correct or amend was made by another appeal authority. The appeal authority for an initial refusal by the Assistant Secretary for Administration and Management is the Under Secretary.

(ii) Assistant Secretary for Health for records of the Public Health Service including Office of Assistant Secretary for Health; Health Resources Administration; Health Services Administration; Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration; Center for Disease Control; National Institutes of Health; and Food and Drug Administration.

(iii) Assistant Secretary for Education for records of the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Education, National Center for Education Statistics, National Institute of Education, and Office of Education.

(iv) Assistant Secretary for Human Development for records of the Office of Human Development.

(v) Commissioner of Social Security for records of the Social Security Administration.

(vi) Administrator, Social and Rehabilitation Service for the records of the Social and Rehabilitation Service.

(2) An appeal will be completed within 30 working days from its receipt by the appeal authority; except that, the appeal authority may for good cause extend this period for an additional 30 days. Should the appeal period be extended, the subject individual appealing the refusal to correct or amend the record will be informed in writing of the extension and the circumstances of the delay. The subject individual's request to amend or correct the record, the responsible Department official's refusal to correct or amend, and any other pertinent material relating to the appeal will be reviewed. No hearing will be held.

(3) If the appeal authority agrees that the record subject to the appeal should be corrected or amended, the record will be amended and the subject individual will be informed in writing of the correction or amendment. Where an accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be informed of the corrective action taken.

(4) If the appeal is denied, the subject individual will be informed in writing:

(i) of the denial and the reasons for the denial;

(ii) that he has a right to seek judicial review of the denial; and,

(iii) that he may submit to the responsible Department official a concise statement of disagreement to be associated with the disputed record and disclosed whenever the record is disclosed.

(b) Notation and disclosure of disputed records. Whenever a subject individual submits a statement of disagreement to the responsible Department official in accordance with paragraph (a)(4)(iii) of this section, the record will be noted to indicate that it is disputed. In any subsequent disclosure, a copy of the subject individual's statement of disagreement, will be disclosed with the record. If the responsible Department official deems it appropriate, a concise statement of the appeal authority's reasons for denying the subject individual's appeal may also be disclosed with the record. While the subject individual will have access to this statement of reasons, such statement will not be subject to correction or amendment. Where an accounting was made of prior disclosures of the record, all previous recipients of the record will be provided a copy of the subject individual's statement of disagreement, as well as the statement, if any, of the appeal authority's reasons for denying the subject individual's appeal.

§ 5b.9 Disclosure of records.

(a) Consent to disclosure by a subject individual.

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section authorizing disclo-

In each case the consent, whether obtained from the subject individual at the request of the Department or whether provided to the Department by the subject individual on his own initiative, shall be in writing. The consent shall specify the individual, organizational unit or class of individuals or organizational units to whom the record may be disclosed, where applicable, during which time frame the record may be disclosed (e.g., during the school year, while the subject individual is out of the country, whenever the subject individual is receiving specific services). A blanket consent to disclose all of a subject individual's records to unspecified individuals or organizational units will not be honored. The subject individual's identity and, where applicable (e.g., where a subject individual gives consent to disclosure of a record to a specific individual), the identity of the individual to whom the record is to be disclosed shall be verified.

(2) A parent or guardian of any minor is not authorized to give consent to a disclosure of the minor's medical record.

(b) Disclosures without the consent of the subject individual.

The disclosures listed in this paragraph may be made without the consent of the subject individual. Such disclosures are:

§ 5b.11 Exempt systems.

(a) General policy. The Act permits certain types of specific systems of records to be exempt from some of its requirements. It is the policy of the Department to exercise authority to exempt systems of records only in compelling cases.

This exemption applies only to an investigatory record compiled by the Department for criminal law enforcement purposes in a system of records exempt under subsection (j)(2) of the Act to the extent that these requirements would prejudice the conduct of the investigation.

(2) The following systems of records are exempt from those provisions of the Act and this part listed in paragraph (b)(1) of this section.

An individual shall make requests for notification of or access to a record in an exempt system of records in accordance with the procedures of §§ 5b.5 and 5b.6 of this part.

(2) An individual will be granted notification of or access to a record in an exempt system but only to the extent such notification or access would not reveal the identity of a source who furnished the record to the Department under an express promise, and prior to September 27, 1975 an implied promise, that his identity would be held in confidence, if:

(d) Discretionary actions by the responsible Department official. Unless disclosure of a record to the general public is otherwise prohibited by law, the responsible Department official may in his discretion grant notification of or access to a record in a system of records which is exempt under paragraph (b) of this section. Discretionary notification of or access to a record in accordance with this paragraph will not be a precedent for discretionary notification of or access to a similar or related record and will not obligate the responsible Department official to exercise his discretion to grant notification of or access to any other record in a system of records which is exempt under paragraph (b) of this section.

§ 5b.12 Contractors.

(a) All contracts entered into on or after September 27, 1975 which require a contractor to maintain or on behalf of the Department to maintain, a system of records to accomplish a Department function must contain a provision requiring the contractor to comply with the Act and this part.

(c) A contractor and any employee of such contractor shall be considered employees of the Department only for the purposes of the criminal penalties of the Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(i), and the employee standards of conduct listed in Appendix A of this part where the contract contains a provision requiring the contractor to comply with the Act and this part.

§ 5b.13 Fees.

(a) Policy. Where applicable, fees for copying records will be charged in accordance with the schedule set forth in this section. Fees may only be charged where an individual requests that a copy be made of the record to which he is granted access. No fee may be charged for making a search of the system of records whether the search is manual, mechanical, or electronic. Where a copy of the record must be made in order to provide access to the record (e.g., computer printout where no screen reading is available), the copy will be made available to the individual without cost. Where a medical record is made available to a representative designated by the individual or to a physician or health professional designated by a parent or guardian under § 5b.6 of this Part, no fee will be charged.

(b) Fee schedule. The fee schedule for the Department is as follows:

APPENDIX A

EMPLOYEE STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

(a) General. All employees are required to be aware of their responsibilities under the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a. Regulations implementing the Act are set forth in 45 CFR 5b. Instruction on the requirements of the Act and regulation shall be provided to all new employees of the Department. In addition, supervisors shall be responsible for assuring that employees who are working with systems of records or who undertake new duties which require the use of systems of records are informed of their responsibilities. Supervisors shall also be responsible for assuring that all employees who work with such systems of records are periodically reminded of the requirements of the Act and are advised of any new provisions or interpretations of the Act.

(b) Penalties. (1) All employees must guard against improper disclosure of records which are governed by the Act. Because of the serious consequences of improper invasions of personal privacy employees may be subject to disciplinary action and criminal prosecution for knowing and willful violations of the Act and regulation. In addition, employees may also be subject to disciplinary action for unknowing or willful violations, where the employee had notice of the provisions of the Act and regulations and failed to inform himself sufficiently or to conduct himself in accordance with the requirements to avoid violations.

(2) The Department may be subjected to civil liability for the following actions undertaken by its employees:

(a) Making a determination under the Act and section 5b.7 and 5b.8 of the regulation not to amend an individual's record in accordance with his request, or failing to make such review in conformity of those provisions;

(b) Refusing to comply with an individual's request for notification of or access to a record pertaining to him;

(c) Failing to maintain any record pertaining to any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is necessary to assure fairness in any determination relating to the qualifications, character, rights, or opportunities of or benefits to the individual that may be made on the basis of such a record, and consequently a determination is made which is adverse to the individual; or

(d) Failing to comply with any other provision of the Act or any rule promulgated thereunder, in such a way as to have an adverse effect on an individual.

(3) "An employee may be personally subject to criminal liability as set forth below and in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i):"

(a) Any officer or employee of an agency, who by virtue of his employment or official position, has possession of or access to, agency records which contain individually identifiable information the disclosure of which is prohibited by the Act or by rules or regulations established thereunder, and who, knowing that disclosure of the specific material is so prohibited, willfully discloses the material in any manner to any person or agency not entitled to receive it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

(b) "Any officer or employee of any agency who willfully maintains a system of records without meeting the notice requirements (of the Act) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000."

This does not preclude employees from discussing matters which are known to them personally and without resort to a record to official investigators of Federal agencies for official purposes such as suitability checks, Equal Employment Opportunity investigations, adverse action proceedings, grievance proceedings, etc.

(d) Rules governing employees whose duties require use or reference to systems of records. Employees whose official duties require that they refer to maintain, service, or otherwise deal with systems of records (hereinafter referred to as "Systems Em-

(1) Contracts for design, or development of systems and equipment. No contract for the design or development of a system of records, or for equipment to store, service or maintain a system of records shall be entered into unless the contracting officer has made reasonable effort to ensure that the product to be purchased is capable of being used without violation of the Act or regulation. Special attention shall be given to provision of physical safeguards.

(2) Contracts for the operation of systems and equipment. No contract for the design or development of a system of whom he feels appropriate, of all proposed contracts providing for the operation of systems of records shall be made prior to execution of the contracts to determine whether operation of the system of records is for the purpose of accomplishing a Department function. If a determination is made that the operation of the system is to accomplish a Department function, the contracting officer shall be responsible for including in the contract appropriate provisions to apply the provisions of the Act and regulation to the system, including prohibitions against improper release by the contractor, his employees, agents, or subcontractors.

officers entering into general service contracts shall be responsible for determining the appropriateness of including provisions in the contract to prevent potential misuse (inadvertent or otherwise) by employees, agents, or subcontractors of the contractor.

Subpart A—General Provisions

§ 21.1 Scope

(a) This part establishes procedures to implement the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a). It applies to records about individuals that are maintained, collected, used or disclosed by the Food and Drug Administration and contained in Privacy Act Record Systems.

(b) This part does not:
(1) Apply to Food and Drug Administration record systems that are not Privacy Act Record Systems or make available to an individual records that may include references to him but that are not retrieved by his name or other personal identifier whether or not contained in a Privacy Act Record System. Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) and other regulations referred to therein determined when records are made available in such cases.

(2) Make any records available to persons other than (i) individuals who are the subjects of the records, (ii) persons accompanying such individuals under § 21.43, (iii) persons provided records pursuant to individual consent under § 21.72, or (iv) persons acting on behalf of such individuals as legal guardians under § 21.75. Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) and other regulations referred to therein determine when Food and Drug Administration records are disclosable to members of the public generally. Subpart G of this part limits the provisions of Part 20 of this chapter with respect to disclosures of records about individuals from Privacy Act Record Systems to persons other than individuals who are the subjects of the records.

(3) Make available information compiled by the Food and Drug Administration in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings. The availability of such information to any member of the public, including any subject individual or party to such litigation or proceeding shall be governed by applicable constitutional principles, rules of discovery, and Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(4) Apply to personnel records maintained by the Division of Personnel Management, Food and Drug Administration, except as provided in § 21.32. Such records are subject to regulations of the Civil Service Commission in 5 CFR Parts 293, 294, and 297.

§ 21.3 Definitions

As used in this part:
(a) "Individual" means a natural living person who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. Individual does not include sole proprietorships, partnerships, or corporations engaged in the production or distribution of products regulated by the Food and Drug Administration or with which the Food and Drug Administration has business dealings. Any such business enterprise that is identified by the name of one or more individuals is not an individual within the meaning of this part. Employees of regulated business enterprises are considered individuals. Accordingly, physicians and other health professionals who are engaged in business as proprietors of establishments regulated by the Food and Drug Administration are not considered individuals; however, physicians and other health professionals who are engaged in clinical investigations, employed by regulated enterprises, or the subjects of records concerning their own health, e.g., exposure to excessive radiation, are considered individuals. Food and Drug Administration employees, consultants, and advisory committee members, State and local officials, and consumers are considered individuals.

(b) "Records about individuals" means items, collections or groupings of information about individuals contained in Privacy Act Record Systems, including, but not limited to education, financial transactions, medical history, criminal history, or employment history that contain names or personal identifiers.

(c) "Privacy Act Record System" means a system of records about individuals under the control of the Food and Drug Administration from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers. The term includes such a system of records whether subject to a notice published by the Food and Drug Administration, the Department, or another agency. Where records are retrieved only by personal identifiers other than individual names, a system of records is not a Privacy Act Record System if the Food and Drug Administration cannot, by reference to information under its control or by reference to records of contractors that are subject to this part under § 21.30, ascertain the identity of individuals who are the subjects of the records.

(d) "Personal identifiers" includes individual names, identifying numbers, symbols, or other identifying designations assigned to individuals. "Personal identifiers" does not include names, numbers, symbols, or other identifying designations that identify products, establishments, or actions.

(e) "Personnel records" means any personal information maintained in a Privacy Act Record System that is needed for personnel management programs or processes such as staffing, employee development, retirement, and grievances and appeals.

(f) "Department" means Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

§ 21.10 Policy concerning records about individuals.

Information about individuals in Food and Drug Administration records shall be collected, maintained, used, and disseminated so as to protect the right to privacy of the individual to the fullest possible extent consistent with laws relating to disclosure of information to the general public, the law enforcement responsibilities of the agency, and administrative and program management needs.

Subpart B—Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems

§ 21.20 Procedures for notice of Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue in the Federal Register on or before August 30 of each year a notice concerning each Privacy Act Record System as defined in § 21.3(c) that is not covered by a notice published by the Department, the Civil Service Commission, or another agency.

(b) The notice shall include the following information:

- (1) The name and location(s) of the system.
- (2) The categories of individuals about whom records are maintained in the system.

(3) The categories of records maintained in the system.

(4) The authority for the system.
(5) Each routine use of the records contained in the system (i.e., use outside the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected and described in the notice) including the categories of users and the purposes of such use.

(6) The policies and practices of the Food and Drug Administration regarding storage, retrievability (i.e., how the records are indexed and what intra-agency uses are made of the records), access controls, retention, and disposal of the records in that system.

(7) The title and business address of the official who is responsible for the system of records.

(8) The notification procedure, i.e., the address of the FDA Privacy Coordinator, whom any individual can contact to seek notification whether the system contains a record about him.

(9) The record access and contest procedures, which shall be the same as the notification procedure except that a reference shall be included to any exemption from access and contest.

(10) Where any records in the system are subject to an exemption under § 21.61, a reference to this exemption.

(11) The categories of sources of records in the system.

§ 21.21 Changes in systems and new systems.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall notify the designated Department official, the Office of Management and Budget (Information Systems Division), and the Congress of proposals to change or establish Privacy Act Record Systems in accordance with procedures of the Department and the Office of Management and Budget.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue a notice, in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section and § 21.20(b), of any change in a Privacy Act Record System which:

- (1) Increases the number or types of individuals about whom records are maintained;
- (2) Expands the type or amount of information about individuals that is maintained;
- (3) Increases the number of categories of agencies or other persons who may have access to those records;
- (4) Alters the manner in which the records are organized so as to change the nature or scope of those records, such as the combining of two or more existing systems;
- (5) Modifies the way in which the system operates or its location(s) in a manner that alters the process by which individuals can exercise their rights under this part, such as the ways in which they seek access or request amendment of a record; or

(6) Changes the equipment configuration on which the system is operated so as to create the potential for greater access, such as adding a telecommunications capability.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration shall issue a notice of its intention to establish new Privacy Act Record Systems in accordance with paragraph (d) of this section and § 21.20(b).

(d) Notices under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section shall be published in the Federal Register for comment at least 30 days prior to implementation of the proposed changes or establishment of new systems. Interested persons shall have the opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments on such proposed new uses or systems.

Subpart C—Requirements for Specific Categories of Records

§ 21.30 Records of contractors.

(a) Systems of records that are required to be operated, or as a matter of practical necessity must be operated, by contractors to accomplish Food and Drug Administration functions, from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers, may be subject to the provisions of this part. If the contract is agreed to on or after September 27, 1975, the criminal penalties set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) are applicable to such contractor, and any employee of such contractor, for disclosures prohibited in § 21.71 or for maintenance of a system of records without notice as required in § 21.20.

(b) A contract is considered to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration function if the proposal or activity it supports is principally operated on behalf of and is under the direct management of the Food and Drug Administration. Systems of records from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers and that are operated under contracts to accomplish Food and Drug Administration functions are deemed to be maintained by the agency and shall be subject to the procedures and requirements of this part.

(c) A contract is not considered to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration function if the program or activity it supports is not principally operated on behalf of, or is not under the direct management of, the Food and Drug Administration. For example, this part does not apply to systems of records:

- (1) Operated under contract with the Food and Drug Administration by State or local government agencies, or organizations representing such agencies, when such agencies or organizations are also performing State or local government functions.

(2) Operated by contractors with the Food and Drug Administration by individuals or organizations whose primary function is delivery of health services, such as hospitals, physicians, pharmacists, and other health professionals, and that report information concerning products, e.g., injuries or product defects, to the Food and Drug Administration. Before such contractors submit information to the Food and Drug Administration, the names and other personal identifiers of patients or research subjects in any medical or similar report, test, study, or other research project shall be deleted, unless the contract provides otherwise. If the Food and Drug Administration subsequently needs the names of such individuals, a separate request will be made.

(3) Relating to individuals whom the contractor employs, or with whom the contractor otherwise deals, in the course of providing goods and services to the Food and Drug Administration.

(4) Operated under grants.

(d) The requirements of this part shall apply when a contractor who operates a system of records not subject to this part reports to the Food and Drug Administration information that is a system of records about individuals from which personal information is retrieved by names or other personal identifiers. Where the information would be a new Privacy Act Record System, or a change in an existing Privacy Act Record System of a type described in § 21.21, the Food and Drug Administration shall comply with the requirements of § 21.21.

(e) The Food and Drug Administration will review all contracts before award to determine whether operation of a system from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers will be required of the contractor, by the terms of the contract or as a matter of practical necessity. If such operation will be required, the solicitation and contract shall include the following clause, or a clause of similar effect:

Whenever the contractor or any of his employees is required by this contract to operate a system of records from which information is retrieved by individual names or other personal identifiers in order to accomplish a Food and Drug Administration function, the contractor and every employee is considered to be an employee of the Food and Drug Administration and shall operate such system of records in accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), regulations of the Food and Drug Administration in 21 CFR Part 21, and rules of conduct that apply to Food and Drug Administration employees who work with such systems of records. The contractor and his employees are subject to the criminal penalties set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) for violations of the Privacy Act.

§ 21.31 Records stored by the General Services Administration and archival records.

(a) Food and Drug Administration records that are stored, processed, and serviced by the General Services Administration in accordance with 44 U.S.C. 3103 shall be considered to be maintained by the Food and Drug Administration. The General Services Administration shall not disclose the record except to authorized Food and Drug Administration employees.

(b) Each Food and Drug Administration record pertaining to an identifiable individual that was transferred to the National Archives of the United States as a record determined by the National Archives to have sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation shall be considered to be maintained by the National Archives and shall not be subject to the provisions of this part.

21.32 Personnel records.

(a) Present and former Food and Drug Administration employees desiring access to personnel records about themselves should consult system notices applicable to the agency's personnel records that are published by the Civil Service Commission and the Department as well as any notice issued by the Food and Drug Administration.

(b)(1) The procedures of the Civil Service Commission at 5 CFR Parts 293, 294, and 297, rather than the procedures in § 21.33 and Subparts D through F of this part, govern systems of personnel records about Food and Drug Administration employees that are subject to notices published by the Commission, i.e., systems that:

(i) The Commission maintains.

(ii) Are maintained by the Division of Personnel Management, Food and Drug Administration.

(iii) Are maintained by Department Regional Offices, concerning field employees.

(2) The Commission's procedures may, if necessary, be supplemented in the Food and Drug Administration Staff Manual Guide. Current Food and Drug Administration employees should mail or deliver written requests under the Privacy Act for access to personnel records described in this paragraph to the Commission in accordance with 5 CFR 297.106, the Director, Division of Personnel Management (HFA-400), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, or the personnel officer in the servicing HEW Regional Personnel Office. An employee may consult with or direct his request to the FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18). Requests for access to personnel records of former employees that are located in Federal records centers should be directed to the Commission. Requests under the Privacy Act for amendment of personnel records should be directed to these same officials who are responsible for access to personnel records under this paragraph.

(3) With respect to records subject to paragraph (b)(1) of this section:

(i) Refusal to grant access to a record or refusal to amend a record upon request of an employee, shall only be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate; and

(ii) Appeals of refusals under paragraph (b)(3)(i) of this section may be made to the Civil Service Commission in accordance with 5 CFR 297.108(g)(3) and 297.113(b).

(c) Any other Privacy Act Record Systems that contain personnel records, or records that otherwise concern agency employees, that are maintained by offices of the Food and Drug Administration rather than the Division of Personnel Management but which are not subject to the Department's notice for personnel records in operating offices are subject to this part, except that refusals under this part to grant access to or amend records about present or former employees shall be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration rather than the Associate Commissioner for Compliance.

(d) The following procedures shall govern requests under the Privacy Act for personnel records that are maintained by the operating offices of the Food and Drug Administration in which employees work:

(1) An employee shall upon request be told whether records about him are maintained. An employee shall be given access to records about himself that are subject to this paragraph in response to an oral or written request and through informal procedures, rather than the procedures specified in §§ 21.40 through 21.43.

(2) Employee identity may be verified, if necessary, by an FDA ID card rather than in accordance with § 21.44.

(3) Generally no fee shall be charged for records requested under this paragraph. However, in cases where the records requested are voluminous, a fee may be charged in accordance with § 21.45.

(4) Records that are subject to this paragraph shall be available for access to an individual, except to the extent that access is refused by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate on the ground that the record is subject to an exemption under § 21.61 or 5 CFR 297.111.

(5) Requests under the Privacy Act for amendment of records subject to this paragraph should be directed to the Director, Division of Personnel Management (HFA-400). Such requests shall be reviewed in accordance with Subpart E of this part. Refusal to amend a record subject to this paragraph (d)(5) shall only be made by the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate.

(6) Appeals of refusals under paragraph (d)(4) or (5) of this section may be made to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, except where the Associate Commissioner for Administration or his designate indicates with his refusal that the appeal should be made to the Civil Service Commission.

(7) Disclosures of records subject to this paragraph are subject to Subpart G of this part.

§ 21.33 Medical records.

(a) In general, an individual is entitled to have access to any medical records about himself in Privacy Act Record Systems maintained by the Food and Drug Administration.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration may apply the following special procedures in disclosing medical records to an individual:

(1) The agency may review the records to determine whether disclosure of the record to the individual who is the subject of the records might have an adverse effect on him. If it is determined that disclosure is not likely to have an adverse effect on the individual, the record shall be disclosed to him. If it is determined that disclosure is very likely to have an adverse effect on the individual, he may be requested to designate, in writing, a representative to whom the record shall be disclosed. Such representative may be a physician, other health professional, or other responsible person who would be willing to review the record and discuss it with the individual.

(2) The availability of the record may be subject to any procedures for disclosure to an individual of medical records about himself under Part 20 of this chapter, in addition to or in lieu of the procedures in paragraph (b)(1), that are not inconsistent with § 21.41(f).

Subpart D—Procedures for Notification of and Access to Records in Privacy Act Record Systems

§ 21.40 Procedures for submitting requests for notification and access.

(a) An individual may request that the Food and Drug Administration notify him whether a Privacy Act Record System contains records about him that are retrieved by reference to his name or other personal identifier. An individual may at the same time, or after receiving notification that such a record about him exists, request that he be given access to the record.

(b) An individual desiring notification or access to records shall mail or deliver a request for records in any

Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record System to the FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

(c) Requests shall be in writing and shall name the Privacy Act Record System or Systems concerning which the individual requests notification of whether there are records about him that are retrieved by reference to his name or other personal identifier. To help assure a prompt response, an individual should indicate that he is making a "Privacy Act Request" on the envelope and in a prominent manner in the letter.

(d) An individual who merely wishes to be notified whether a Privacy Act Record System contains a record about him ordinarily need not provide any verification of his identity other than his name. The mere fact that the Food and Drug Administration has a record about an individual in any of its Privacy Act Records Systems would not be likely to constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Where mere disclosure of the fact that a record about the individual exists would be a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, further verification of the identity of the individual shall be required.

(e) An individual who requests that he be given access to a copy of records about himself, if any exist, would indicate whether he prefers (1) to have copies of any such records mailed to him in accordance with § 21.43(a)(1), which may involve a fee under § 21.45, including information to verify his identity under § 21.44 or (2) to use the procedures for access in person under § 21.43(a)(2).

(f) A request for notification and access may be submitted under this subpart concerning any Privacy Act Record System that is exempt under § 21.61, as indicated in the notice for the system. An individual seeking access to records under § 21.65(b)(2) to investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes other than criminal law enforcement purposes should submit a description of the right, benefit, or privilege that he believes he was denied as the result of the Food and Drug Administration's maintenance of the records. Where the system is exempt under § 21.61, and access to the requested records is not granted under § 21.65, the request shall be handled under their provisions of Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(g) The Public Records and Documents Center shall maintain and make available copies of the forms (OP-203, Privacy Act Request forms) to assist individuals in filing requests under § 21.40.

§ 21.41 Processing of requests.

(a) An individual or his guardian under § 21.75 shall not be required to show any justification or need to obtain notification under § 21.42 or access to a record under § 21.43.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration will determine whether a request by an individual for record about himself is appropriately treated as a request under this subpart, or under the provisions of Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations), or both. Where appropriate, the Food and Drug Administration will consult with the individual concerning the appropriate treatment of the request.

(c) The FDA Privacy Coordinator (HFC-18) in the Public Records and Documents Center shall be responsible for the handling of Privacy Act requests received by the Food and Drug Administration. Requests mailed or delivered to any other office shall be promptly redirected to the FDA Privacy Coordinator. Where this procedure would unduly delay the agency's response, however, the agency employee who received the request should consult with the FDA Privacy Coordinator and obtain advice as to whether the employee can respond to the request directly.

(d) Upon receipt of a request by the FDA Privacy Coordinator, a record shall promptly be made that a request has been received and the date.

(e) A letter in accordance with § 21.42 responding to the request for notification shall issue as promptly as possible after receipt of the request by the Food and Drug Administration. Upon determination by the Public Records and Documents Center that a request for access to records is appropriately treated as a request under Part 20 rather than this Part 21, or under both parts, the time limitations prescribed in § 21.41 of this chapter shall apply. In any case, access to available records shall be provided as promptly as possible.

(f) Except as provided in § 21.32, an individual's access to records about himself that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifiers and contained in any Privacy Act Record System may only be denied by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate. An individual shall not be denied access to any record that is otherwise available to him under this part except on the grounds that it is exempt under § 21.61 and not required to be disclosed under § 21.65(a)(2), that it was compiled in reasonable anticipation of court litigation of formal administrative proceedings, or to the extent that it is exempt or prohibited from disclosure because it includes a trade secret or commercial or financial information that is privileged or confidential information the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy of another individual.

(g) The FDA Privacy Coordinator shall assure that records are maintained of the number, status, and disposition of requests under this subpart, including the number of requests for records exempt from access under this subpart and other information required for purposes of the annual report to Congress under the Privacy Act. These temporary administrative management records shall not be considered to be Privacy Act Record Systems. All records required to be kept under this paragraph shall only include requesting individuals' names or personal identifiers for so long as any request for notification access, or amendment is pending. The identity of individuals making requests under this subpart shall be regarded as confidential and shall not be disclosed under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) to any other person or agency except as is necessary for the processing of requests under this subpart.

§ 21.42 Responses to requests.

(a) The FDA shall respond to an individual's request for notification as to whether a Privacy Act Record System contains records about him that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier by sending a letter under this paragraph.

(1) If there are no records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier in the named Privacy Act Record System, or the requester is not an "individual" under § 21.3(a), the letter shall so state. Where appropriate, the letter shall indicate that the Food and Drug Administration's public information regulations in Part 20 of this chapter prescribe general rules governing the availability of information to members of the public, and that a request may be made in accordance with Part 20 of this chapter for records that are not retrieved by the requester's name or other personal identifier from a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) If there are records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier and the named Privacy Act Record System is not exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61, or the system is exempt but access is allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter shall inform him that the records exist and shall either:

(i) Enclose a copy of the records under § 21.43(a)(1) or indicate that the records will be sent under separate cover, where there has been adequate verification of the identity of the individual under § 21.44 and the fees under § 21.45 do not exceed $25, or

(ii) Inform the individual of the procedures to obtain access to the records by mail or in person under

§ 21.43(a)(2), as well as the approximate dates by which the requested records can be provided (if the records are not then available), the locations at which access in person may be had, and the information needed, if any, to verify the identity of the individual under § 21.44.

(3) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, and the system is exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61 and access is not allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter should inform him that the records are exempted from access and contest by § 21.61. The letter shall also inform him if the records sought are not available because they were compiled in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings or are otherwise not available under § 21.41(b). Where appropriate, the letter shall also indicate whether the records are available under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations), and it may disclose the records in accordance with Part 20.

(4) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, but a final determination has not yet been made with respect to disclosure of all of the records covered by the request, e.g., because it is necessary to consult another person or agency having an interest in the confidentiality of the records, the letter shall explain the circumstances and indicate when a final answer will be given.

(b) Except as provided in § 21.32, access to a record may only be denied by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate. If access to any record is denied, wholly or in substantial part, the letter shall state the right of the individual to appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs.

(c) If a request for a copy of the records will result in a fee of more than $25, the letter shall specify or estimate the fee involved. Where the individual has requested a copy of any records about him and copying the records would result in a fee of over $50, the Food and Drug Administration shall require advance deposit as well as payment of any amount not yet received as a result of any previous request by the individual for a record about himself, under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) before the records are made available. If the fee is less than $50, prepayment shall not be required unless payment has not yet been received for records disclosed as a result of a previous request by the individual for a record about himself under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter.

§ 21.43 Access to requested records.

(a) Access may be granted to requested records by:

(1) Mailing a copy of the records to the requesting individual, or

(2) Permitting the requesting individual to review the record in person between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the office of the FDA Privacy Coordinator, at the Public Records and Documents Center at the address shown in § 20.30 of this chapter, or at any Food and Drug Administration field office listed in § 5.115 of this chapter, or at another location or time upon which the Food and Drug Administration and the individual agree. Arrangements for such review can be made by consultation between the FDA Privacy Coordinator and the individual. An individual seeking to review records in person shall generally be permitted access to the file copy, except that where the records include nondisclosable information, a copy shall be made of that portion of the records, with the nondisclosable information blocked out. Where the individual is not given a copy of the record to retain, no charge shall be made for the costs of copying a record to make it available to an individual who reviews a record in person under this paragraph.

(b) An individual may request that a record be disclosed to or discussed in the presence of another individual, such as an attorney. The individual may be required to furnish a written statement authorizing the disclosure or discussion in such other individual's presence.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration will make every reasonable effort to assure that records made available under this section can be understood by the individual, such as by providing an oral or written explanation of the records.

§ 21.44 Verification of identity.

(a) An individual seeking access to records in a Privacy Act Record System may be required to comply with reasonable requirements to enable the Food and Drug Administration to determine his identity. The identification required shall be suitable considering the nature of the records sought. No identification shall be required to receive access to information that is required to be disclosed to any member of the public under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(b) An individual who appears in person for access to records about himself shall be required to provide at least one document to identify himself, e.g., driver's license, passport, or alien or voter registration card to verify his identity. If an individual does not have any such document or requests access to records about himself without appearing in person under circumstances in which his identity cannot be verified from the request itself, he shall be required to certify in writing that he is the individual he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense subject to a $5,000 fine.

(c) In making requests under § 21.75, a parent of a minor child or legal guardian of an incompetent individual may be required to verify his relationship to the minor child or the incompetent individual, in addition to verifying his own identity, by providing a copy of the minor's birth certificate, a court order, or other evidence of guardianship.

(d) Where an individual seeks access to particularly sensitive records, such as medical records, the individual may be required to provide additional information beyond that specified in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, such as the individual's years of attendance at a particular educational institution, rank attained in the uniformed services, date or place of birth, names of parents, an occupation, or the specific times the individual received medical treatment.

§ 21.45 Fees.

(a) Where applicable, fees for copying records shall be charged in accordance with the schedule set forth in this section. Fees may only be charged where an individual has requested that a copy be made of a record to which he is granted access. No fee may be charged for making a search of a Privacy Act Record System whether the search is manual, mechanical, or electronic. Where a copy of the record must be made to provide access to the record, e.g., computer printout where no screen reading is available, the copy shall be made available to the individual without cost. Where a medical record is made available to a representative designated by the individual under § 21.33, no fee will be charged.

(b) The fee schedule is as follows:

(1) Copying of records susceptible to photocopying—$.10 per page.

(2) Copying of records not susceptible to photocopying, e.g., punch cards or magnetic tapes—at actual cost to be determined on a case-by-case basis.

(3) No charge will be made if the total amount of copying for an individual does not exceed $25.

(c) When a fee is to be assessed, the individual shall be notified prior to the processing of the copies, and be given an opportunity to amend his request. Payment shall be made by check or money order made payable to the "Food and Drug Administration" and shall be sent to the Accounting Operations Branch (HFA-210), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers

Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Advance deposit shall be required where the total amount exceeds $50.

Subpart E—Procedures for Requests for Amendment of Records

§ 21.50 Procedures for submitting requests for amendment of records.

(a) An individual who received access to a record about himself under Subpart D of this part may request that the record be amended if he believes that the record or an item of information is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete.

(b) Amendments under this subpart shall not violate existing statute, regulation, or administrative procedure.

(1) This subpart does not permit alteration of evidence presented in the course of judicial proceedings or Food and Drug Administration adjudicatory or rule making proceedings or collateral attack upon that which has already been the subject of any such proceedings.

(2) If the accuracy, relevancy, timeliness, or completeness of the records may be contested in any other pending or imminent agency proceeding, the Food and Drug Administration may refer the individual to the other proceeding as the appropriate means to obtain relief. If the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, or completeness of a record is, or has been, an issue in another agency proceeding, the request under this section shall be disposed of in accordance with the decision in the other proceeding, absent unusual circumstances.

(c) Requests to amend records shall be submitted in writing, to the FDA Privacy Coordinator in accordance with § 21.40(b). Such requests shall include information sufficient to enable the Food and Drug Administration to locate the record, a brief description of the items of information requested to be amended and the reasons why the record should be amended together with any appropriate documentation or arguments in support of the requested amendment. An edited copy of the record showing the described amendment may be included. Verification of identity should be provided in accordance with § 21.44.

(d) Written acknowledgement to the receipt of a request to amend a record shall be provided within 10 working days to the individual who requested the amendment. Such acknowledgement may request any additional information needed to verify identity or make a determination. No acknowledgement need be made if the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual notified of the agency's agreement with the request or refusal within the 10-day period.

§ 21.51 Responses to requests for amendment of records.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall take one of the following actions on the request for amendment of records as promptly as possible:

(1) Amend any portion of the record which the agency has determined, based upon a preponderance of the evidence, is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, and, in accordance with paragraph (d)(3) of this section, inform the individual and previous recipients of the record that has been amended of the amendment.

(2) Inform the individual of its refusal to amend any portion of the record in the manner requested, the reason for the refusal, and the opportunity for administrative appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs. Except as provided in § 21.32, such refusal may only be issued by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate.

(3) Where another agency was the source of and has control of the record, refer the request to that agency.

(b) The agency may, for good cause, extend the period for taking action an additional 30 working days if notice is provided to the individual explaining the circumstances of the delay.

(c) The officials charged with reviewing a record to determine how to respond to a request to amend it, shall assess its accuracy, relevance to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timeliness, or completeness. The determination shall be made in the light of the purpose for which the records or system is used, the agency's need for the record, and the possible adverse consequences to the individual from the record if not amended. Whenever the Food and Drug Administration receives a request for deletion of a record, or portions of a record, it shall consider anew whether the contested information in the record is relevant and necessary to a Food and Drug Administration purpose.

(d) If the Food and Drug Administration agrees with an individual's request, it shall take the following actions:

(1) So inform the individual in writing.

(2) In accordance with statute, regulation, or procedure, amend the record to make it accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, making note of the date and fact of the amendment.

(3) If an accounting was made under § 21.71(d) of a disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), provide a copy of the record as amended, to all previous recipients of the record.

§ 21.52 Administrative appeals of refusals to amend records.

(a) If an individual disagrees with a refusal under § 21.51(a)(2) to amend a

(k) The FDA Privacy Coordinator shall assure that records are maintained of the number, status, and disposition of requests under this subpart, including the number of requests for records exempt from access under this subpart and other information required for purposes of the annual report to Congress under the Privacy Act. These temporary administrative management records shall not be considered to be Privacy Act Record Systems. All records required to be kept under this paragraph shall only include requesting individuals' names or personal identifiers for so long as any request for notification access, or amendment is pending. The identity of individuals making requests under this subpart shall be regarded as confidential and shall not be disclosed under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) to any other person or agency except as is necessary for the processing of requests under this subpart.

§ 21.42 Responses to requests.

(a) The FDA shall respond to an individual's request for notification as to whether a Privacy Act Record System contains records about him that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier by sending a letter under this paragraph.

(1) If there are no records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier in the named Privacy Act Record System, or the requester is not an "individual" under § 21.3(a), the letter shall so state. Where appropriate, the letter shall indicate that the Food and Drug Administration's public information regulations in Part 20 of this chapter prescribe general rules governing the availability of information to members of the public, and that a request may be made in accordance with Part 20 of this chapter for records that are not retrieved by the requester's name or other personal identifier from a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) If there are records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier and the named Privacy Act Record System is not exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61, or the system is exempt but access is allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter shall inform him that the records exist and shall either:

(i) Enclose a copy of the records under § 21.43(a)(1) or indicate that the records will be sent under separate cover, where there has been adequate verification of the identity of the individual under § 21.44 and the fees under § 21.45 do not exceed $25, or

(ii) Inform the individual of the procedures to obtain access to the records by mail or in person under

§ 21.43(a)(2), as well as the approximate dates by which the requested records can be provided (if the records are not then available), the locations at which access in person may be had, and the information needed, if any, to verify the identity of the individual under § 21.44.

(3) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, and the system is exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61 and access is not allowed or required under § 21.65, the letter should inform him that the records are exempted from access and contest by § 21.61. The letter shall also inform him if the records sought are not available because they were compiled in reasonable anticipation of court litigation or formal administrative proceedings or are otherwise not available under § 21.41(b). Where appropriate, the letter shall also indicate whether the records are available under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations), and it may disclose the records in accordance with Part 20.

(4) If the named Privacy Act Record System contains records about the individual that are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier, but a final determination has not yet been made with respect to disclosure of all of the records covered by the request, e.g., because it is necessary to consult another person or agency having an interest in the confidentiality of the records, the letter shall explain the circumstances and indicate when a final answer will be given.

(b) Except as provided in § 21.32, access to a record may only be denied by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate. If access to any record is denied, wholly or in substantial part, the letter shall state the right of the individual to appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs.

(c) If a request for a copy of the records will result in a fee of more than $25, the letter shall specify or estimate the fee involved. Where the individual has requested a copy of any records about him and copying the records would result in a fee of over $50, the Food and Drug Administration shall require advance deposit as well as payment of any amount not yet received as a result of any previous request by the individual for a record about himself, under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) before the records are made available. If the fee is less than $50, prepayment shall not be required unless payment has not yet been received for records disclosed as a result of a previous request by the individual for a record about himself under this subpart or Part 20 of this chapter.

§ 21.43 Access to requested records.

(a) Access may be granted to requested records by:

(1) Mailing a copy of the records to the requesting individual, or

(2) Permitting the requesting individual to review the record in person between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the office of the FDA Privacy Coordinator, at the Public Records and Documents Center at the address shown in § 20.30 of this chapter, or at any Food and Drug Administration field office listed in § 5.115 of this chapter, or at another location or time upon which the Food and Drug Administration and the individual agree. Arrangements for such review can be made by consultation between the FDA Privacy Coordinator and the individual. An individual seeking to review records in person shall generally be permitted access to the file copy, except that where the records include nondisclosable information, a copy shall be made of that portion of the records, with the nondisclosable information blocked out. Where the individual is not given a copy of the record to retain, no charge shall be made for the costs of copying a record to make it available to an individual who reviews a record in person under this paragraph.

(b) An individual may request that a record be disclosed to or discussed in the presence of another individual, such as an attorney. The individual may be required to furnish a written statement authorizing the disclosure or discussion in such other individual's presence.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration will make every reasonable effort to assure that records made available under this section can be understood by the individual, such as by providing an oral or written explanation of the records.

§ 21.44 Verification of identity.

(a) An individual seeking access to records in a Privacy Act Record System may be required to comply with reasonable requirements to enable the Food and Drug Administration to determine his identity. The identification required shall be suitable considering the nature of the records sought. No identification shall be required to receive access to information that is required to be disclosed to any member of the public under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations).

(b) An individual who appears in person for access to records about himself shall be required to provide at least one document to identify himself, e.g., driver's license, passport, or alien or voter registration card to verify his identity. If an individual does not have any such document or requests access to records about himself without appearing in person under circumstances in which his identity cannot be verified from the request itself, he shall be required to certify in writing that he is the individual he claims to be and that he understands that the knowing and willful request for or acquisition of a record pertaining to an individual under false pretenses is a criminal offense subject to a $5,000 fine.

(c) In making requests under § 21.75, a parent of a minor child or legal guardian of an incompetent individual may be required to verify his relationship to the minor child or the incompetent individual, in addition to verifying his own identity, by providing a copy of the minor's birth certificate, a court order, or other evidence of guardianship.

(d) Where an individual seeks access to particularly sensitive records, such as medical records, the individual may be required to provide additional information beyond that specified in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, such as the individual's years of attendance at a particular educational institution, rank attained in the uniformed services, date or place of birth, names of parents, an occupation, or the specific times the individual received medical treatment.

§ 21.45 Fees.

(a) Where applicable, fees for copying records shall be charged in accordance with the schedule set forth in this section. Fees may only be charged where an individual has requested that a copy be made of a record to which he is granted access. No fee may be charged for making a search of a Privacy Act Record System whether the search is manual, mechanical, or electronic. Where a copy of the record must be made to provide access to the record, e.g., computer printout where no screen reading is available, the copy shall be made available to the individual without cost. Where a medical record is made available to a representative designated by the individual under § 21.33, no fee will be charged.

(b) The fee schedule is as follows:

(1) Copying of records susceptible to photocopying—$.10 per page.

(2) Copying of records not susceptible to photocopying, e.g., punch cards or magnetic tapes—at actual cost to be determined on a case-by-case basis.

(3) No charge will be made if the total amount of copying for an individual does not exceed $25.

(c) When a fee is to be assessed, the individual shall be notified prior to the processing of the copies, and be given an opportunity to amend his request. Payment shall be made by check or money order made payable to the "Food and Drug Administration" and shall be sent to the Accounting Operations Branch (HFA-210), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers

Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Advance deposit shall be required where the total amount exceeds $50.

Subpart E—Procedures for Requests for Amendment of Records

§ 21.50 Procedures for submitting requests for amendment of records.

(a) An individual who received access to a record about himself under Subpart D of this part may request that the record be amended if he believes that the record or an item of information is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete.

(b) Amendments under this subpart shall not violate existing statute, regulation, or administrative procedure.

(1) This subpart does not permit alteration of evidence presented in the course of judicial proceedings or Food and Drug Administration adjudicatory or rule making proceedings or collateral attack upon that which has already been the subject of any such proceedings.

(2) If the accuracy, relevancy, timeliness, or completeness of the records may be contested in any other pending or imminent agency proceeding, the Food and Drug Administration may refer the individual to the other proceeding as the appropriate means to obtain relief. If the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, or completeness of a record is, or has been, an issue in another agency proceeding, the request under this section shall be disposed of in accordance with the decision in the other proceeding, absent unusual circumstances.

(c) Requests to amend records shall be submitted in writing, to the FDA Privacy Coordinator in accordance with § 21.40(b). Such requests shall include information sufficient to enable the Food and Drug Administration to locate the record, a brief description of the items of information requested to be amended and the reasons why the record should be amended together with any appropriate documentation or arguments in support of the requested amendment. An edited copy of the record showing the described amendment may be included. Verification of identity should be provided in accordance with § 21.44.

(d) Written acknowledgement to the receipt of a request to amend a record shall be provided within 10 working days to the individual who requested the amendment. Such acknowledgement may request any additional information needed to verify identity or make a determination. No acknowledgement need be made if the request can be reviewed, processed, and the individual notified of the agency's agreement with the request or refusal within the 10-day period.

§ 21.51 Responses to requests for amendment of records.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall take one of the following actions on the request for amendment of records as promptly as possible:

(1) Amend any portion of the record which the agency has determined, based upon a preponderance of the evidence, is not accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, and, in accordance with paragraph (d)(3) of this section, inform the individual and previous recipients of the record that has been amended of the amendment.

(2) Inform the individual of its refusal to amend any portion of the record in the manner requested, the reason for the refusal, and the opportunity for administrative appeal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs. Except as provided in § 21.32, such refusal may only be issued by the Associate Commissioner for Compliance or his designate.

(3) Where another agency was the source of and has control of the record, refer the request to that agency.

(b) The agency may, for good cause, extend the period for taking action an additional 30 working days if notice is provided to the individual explaining the circumstances of the delay.

(c) The officials charged with reviewing a record to determine how to respond to a request to amend it, shall assess its accuracy, relevance to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timeliness, or completeness. The determination shall be made in the light of the purpose for which the records or system is used, the agency's need for the record, and the possible adverse consequences to the individual from the record if not amended. Whenever the Food and Drug Administration receives a request for deletion of a record, or portions of a record, it shall consider anew whether the contested information in the record is relevant and necessary to a Food and Drug Administration purpose.

(d) If the Food and Drug Administration agrees with an individual's request, it shall take the following actions:

(1) So inform the individual in writing.

(2) In accordance with statute, regulation, or procedure, amend the record to make it accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, or complete, making note of the date and fact of the amendment.

(3) If an accounting was made under § 21.71(d) of a disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), provide a copy of the record as amended, to all previous recipients of the record.

§ 21.52 Administrative appeals of refusals to amend records.

(a) If an individual disagrees with a refusal under § 21.51(a)(2) to amend a record, he may appeal that refusal to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, Rm. 14-81, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

(b) If, upon appeal, the Commissioner upholds the refusal to amend the record as requested, he shall inform the individual:

(1) Of his decision and the reasons for it.

(2) Of the individual's right to file with the Food and Drug Administration a concise statement of the individual's reasons for disagreeing with the agency's decision not to amend the record as requested.

(3) That the statement of disagreement will be made available to all persons listed in an accounting as having previously received the record and any person to whom the record is subsequently disclosed together with, in the discretion of the Food and Drug Administration, a brief statement summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record. Any individual who includes false information in the statement of disagreement filed with the Food and Drug Administration may be subject to penalties under 18 U.S.C. 1001, the False Reports to the Government Act.

(4) That the individual has a right to seek judicial review of the refusal to amend the record.

(c) If the Commissioner on administrative appeal or a court on judicial review determines that the record should be amended in accordance with the individual's request, the Food and Drug Administration shall proceed in accordance with § 21.51(d).

(d) A final determination on the individual's administrative appeal of the initial refusal to amend the record shall be concluded within 30 working days of the request for such review under paragraph (a) of this section, unless the Commissioner extends such period for good cause and informs the individual in writing of the reasons for the delay and of the approximate date on which a decision of the appeal can be expected.

§ 21.53 Notation and disclosure of disputed records.

When an individual has filed a statement of disagreement under § 21.52(b)(2), the Food and Drug Administration shall:

(a) Mark any portion of the record that is disputed to assure that the record will clearly show that portion is disputed whenever the record is disclosed.

(b) In any subsequent disclosure under § 21.70 or § 21.71(a), provide a copy of the statement of disagreement and, if the Food and Drug Administration deems it appropriate, a concise statement of the agency's reasons for not making the amendment(s) requested. While the individual shall have access to any such statement, it shall not be subject to a request for amendment under § 21.50.

(c) If an accounting was made under § 21.71(d) and (e) of a disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), provide to all previous recipients of the record a copy of the statement of disagreement and the agency statement, if any.

§ 21.54 Amended or disputed records received from other agencies.

Whenever the Food and Drug Administration is notified that a record that it received from another agency was amended or is the subject of a statement of disagreement, the Food and Drug Administration shall:

(a) Discard the record, or clearly note the amendment or the fact of disagreement in its copy of the record, and

(b) Refer persons who subsequently request the record to the agency that provided it.

(c) If an accounting was made under § 21.71 (d) and (e) of the disclosure of the record under § 21.71(a), inform all previous recipients of the record about the amendment or provide to them the statement of disagreement and the agency statement, if any.

Subpart F—Exemptions

§ 21.60 Policy.

It is the policy of the Food and Drug Administration that record systems should be exempted from the Privacy Act only to the extent essential to the performance of law enforcement functions under the laws that are administered and enforced by the Food and Drug Administration or that govern the agency.

§ 21.61 Exempt systems.

(a) Investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, including criminal law enforcement purposes, in the Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems listed in paragraph (b) of this section are exempt from the following provisions of the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) and of this part:

(1) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) and § 21.71(e)(4), requiring that an individual be provided with the accounting of disclosures of records about himself from a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) Except where access is required under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) and § 21.65(a)(2), such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a (d)(1) through (4) and (f) and §§ 21.40 through 21.54, requiring procedures for an individual to be given notification of and access to records about himself in a Privacy Act Record System and to be allowed to challenge the accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness of such records.

(3) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4) (G) and (H) and § 21.20(b)(10) requiring inclusion in the notice for the system of information about agency procedures for notification, access, and contest.

(4) Such records are exempt from 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(3) requiring that individuals asked to supply information be provided a form outlining the authority for the request, the purposes for which the information will be used, the routine uses in the notice for the Privacy Act Record System, and the consequences to the individual of not providing the information, but only with respect to records compiled by the Food and Drug Administration in a criminal law enforcement investigation where the conduct of the investigation would be prejudiced by such procedures.

(b) Records in the following Food and Drug Administration Privacy Act Record Systems that concern individuals who are subject to Food and Drug Administration enforcement action and consist of investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, including criminal law enforcement purposes, are exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) and (k)(2) from the provisions enumerated in paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) Clinical Investigator Records, FDA-3.

(2) Regulated Industry Employee Enforcement Records, FDA-10.

(3) Employee Conduct Investigative Records, FDA-13.

(4) Service Contractor Employees Investigative Records, FDA-14.

(c) The systems described in paragraph (b)(3) and (4) of this section include investigatory records compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualification for Federal civilian employment, military service, Federal contracts, and access to classified information. These records are exempt from disclosure under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5) to the extent that the disclosure would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under a promise of confidentiality, which must be an express promise if the information was furnished after September 27, 1975. Any individual who is refused access to a record that would reveal a confidential source shall be advised in a general way that the record includes information that would reveal a confidential source.

§ 21.65 Access to records in exempt systems.

(a) Where a Privacy Act Record System is exempt and the requested records are unavailable under § 21.61, an individual may nevertheless make a request under § 21.40 for notification concerning whether any records about him exist and request access to such records where they are retrieved by his name or other personal identifier.

(b) An individual making a request under paragraph (a) of this section:

(1) May be given access to the records where available under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) or the Commissioner may, in his discretion, entertain a request under any or all of the provisions of §§ 21.40 through 21.54, and

(2) Shall be given access upon request if the records requested are subject to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) and not to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) (i.e., because they consist of investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes other than criminal law enforcement purposes) and maintenance of the records resulted in denial to the individual of any right, benefit, or privilege to which he would otherwise be entitled by Federal law, or for which he would otherwise be eligible. An individual given access to a record under this paragraph (b)(2) is not entitled to seek amendment under Subpart E of this part. The FDA may refuse to disclose a record that would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under a promise of confidentiality, which must be an express promise if the information was furnished on or after September 27, 1975. Any individual refused access to a record that would reveal a confidential source shall be advised in a general way that the record contains information that would reveal a confidential source.

(c) The Commissioner shall not make available any record that is prohibited from public disclosure under § 20.82(b) of this chapter.

(c) Discretionary disclosure of a record pursuant to paragraph (b)(1) of this section shall not set a precedent for discretionary disclosure of a similar or related record and shall not obligate the Commissioner to exercise his discretion to disclose any other record in a system that is exempt under § 21.61.

Subpart G—Disclosure of Records in Privacy Act Record Systems to Persons Other Than the Subject Individual

§ 21.70 Disclosure and intra-agency use of records in Privacy Act Record Systems; no accounting required.

(a) A record about an individual which is contained in a Privacy Act Record System may be disclosed:

(1) To the individual who is the subject of the record, or his legal guardian under § 21.75;

(2) To a third party pursuant to a written request by, or with a written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, or his legal guardian under § 21.75;

(3) To any person:

(i) Where the names and other identifying information are first deleted, and under circumstances in which the recipient is unlikely to know the identity of the subject of the record;

(ii) Where disclosure is required by Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations); or

(4) Within the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to officers and employees who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties in connection with the laws administered and enforced by the Food and Drug Administration or that govern the agency. For purposes of this section, officers or employees of the Department shall include the following categories of individuals, who shall thereafter be subject to the same restrictions with respect to disclosure as any Food and Drug Administration employee: Food and Drug Administration consultants and advisory committees, State and local government employees for use only in their work with the Food and Drug Administration, and contractors and their employees to the extent that the records of such contractors are subject to the requirements of this part under § 21.30.

(b) No accounting is required for any disclosure or use under paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 21.71 Disclosure of records in Privacy Act Record Systems; accounting required.

(a) Except as provided in § 21.70, a record about an individual that is contained in a Privacy Act Record System shall not be disclosed by any method of communication except under any of the following circumstances, which are subject to the limitations of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section and to the accounting requirement of paragraph (d) of this section:

(1) For a use described as a "routine use" in the notice for the system under § 21.20(b)(5) that is compatible with the purpose for which the record was collected.

(2) To the Bureau of Census for a census, survey, or a related activity pursuant to Title 13 of the United States Code.

(3) To a recipient who has provided advance assurance, pursuant to paragraph (c)(2) of this section that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record and will not be communicated by the recipient to any other person except in a form that is not individually identifiable.

(4) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation, or to the General Services Administration for evaluation to determine whether the record has such value.

(5) To a Federal, State, or local agency for purposes of a law enforcement activity that is authorized by law, upon written request by the head of the agency specifying the particular portion of the record that is desired and the law enforcement purpose for which the record is sought. Disclosures under this paragraph are in addition to any disclosures for law enforcement purposes described as a "routine use" in a notice for a Privacy Act Record System.

(6) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health and safety of an individual, not necessarily the individual to whom the record pertains. Upon such disclosure, the Food and Drug Administration shall mail a notification of the fact of disclosure to the last known address of the individual who is the subject of the record.

(7) To either House of Congress, or to any Subcommittee or Committee thereof, to the extent that the subject matter of the record falls within its jurisdiction.

(8) To the General Accounting Office.

(9) Pursuant to an order of the court of competent jurisdiction. Upon such court-ordered disclosure, the Food and Drug Administration shall make reasonable efforts to notify the individual in accordance with § 20.83(b) of this chapter.

(b) The Food and Drug Administration may in its discretion refuse to make a disclosure permitted under paragraph (a) of this section, if the disclosure would in the judgment of the agency, invade the privacy of the individual or be inconsistent with the purpose for which the information was collected.

(c) The Food and Drug Administration may require any person requesting a disclosure of a record under paragraph (a) of this section to provide:

(1) Information about the purposes to which the disclosed record is to be put, and

(2) A written statement certifying that the record will be used only for the stated purposes and will not be further disclosed without the written permission of the Food and Drug Administration.

Under 5 U.S.C. 552a(i)(3), any person who knowingly or willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000. Such person may also be subject to prosecution under the False Reports to the Government Act, 18 U.S.C. 1001.

(d) An accounting shall be made, in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section, of any disclosure under paragraph (a) of this section of a record that is not a disclosure under § 21.70.

(e) Where an accounting is required under paragraph (d) of this section, the Food and Drug Administration shall

(1) Record the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made and the date, nature, and purpose of the disclosure. The accounting shall not be considered a Privacy Act Record System.

(2) Retain the accounting for 5 years or for the life of the record, whichever is longer following the disclosure.

(3) Notify those recipients listed in the accounting of amendments or disputes concerning the records previously disclosed to them pursuant to §§ 21.51(d)(3), 21.53(c), or 21.54(c).

(4) Except when the record is exempt from individual access and contest under § 21.61 or to the extent that the accounting describes a transfer for a law enforcement purpose pursuant to paragraph (a)(5) of this section, make the accounting available to the individual to whom the record pertains, in accordance with procedures of Subpart D of this part.

(f) A single accounting may be used to cover disclosure(s) that consist of a continuing dialogue between two agencies over a prolonged period, such as discussion of an enforcement action between the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Justice. In such cases, a general notation may be made that, as of a certain date, contact was initiated, to continue until resolution of the matter.

§ 21.72 Individual consent to disclosure of records to other persons.

(a) Individuals may consent to disclosure of records about themselves to other persons in several ways, for example:

(1) An individual may give consent at the time that the information is collected for disclosure for specific purposes or to specific persons.

(2) An individual may give consent for disclosure of his records to a specific person.

(3) An individual may request the Food and Drug Administration to transcribe a specific record for submission to another person.

(b) In each case the consent shall be in writing and shall specify the individual, organization unit, or class of individuals or organizational units to whom the record may be disclosed, which record may be disclosed, and, if applicable, for what time period. A blanket consent to release all of an individual's records to unspecified individuals or organizational units will not be honored. Verification of the identity of the individual and, where applicable, of the person to whom the record is to be disclosed shall be made in accordance with § 21.44. Consent documents shall be retained for a period of at least 2 years. If such documents are used as a means of accounting for the disclosure, they shall be retained as provided in § 21.71(e)(2).

§ 21.73 Accuracy, completeness, timeliness, and relevance of records disclosed from Privacy Act Record Systems.

(a) The Food and Drug Administration shall make reasonable efforts to assure that a record about an individual in a Privacy Act Record System is accurate, relevant to a Food and Drug Administration purpose, timely, and complete before such record is disclosed under § 21.71.

(b) Paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to disclosures that are required under Part 20 of this chapter (the public information regulations) or made to other Federal Government departments and agencies. Where appropriate, the letter disclosing the information shall indicate that the Food and Drug Administration has not reviewed the record to assure that it is accurate, relevant, timely, and complete.

§ 21.74 Providing notice that a record is disputed.

Whenever an individual has filed a statement of disagreement with the Food and Drug Administration concerning a refusal to amend a record under § 21.51(a)(2) or with another agency that provides the record to the Food and Drug Administration, the Food and Drug Administration shall in any subsequent disclosure under this subpart provide a copy of the statement of disagreement and a concise statement by the agency, if one has been prepared, of the reasons for not making the amendment(s) requested.

§ 21.75 Rights of legal guardians.

For the purposes of this part, the parent of any individual who is a minor or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction may act on behalf of the individual.

Title 3—The President

Columbus Day, 1977

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

On October 10 we once again pay tribute to the great Italian mariner and explorer whose historic voyage of discovery led to the permanent settlement of the New World by the Old.

With the support of the Spanish Crown, Columbus journeyed across uncharted waters to open the way for future generations of immigrants who would found the new nations of the Americas.

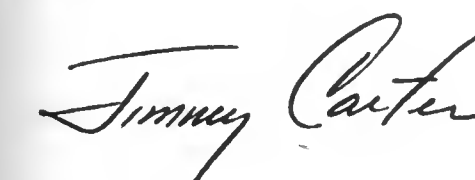

As his heirs, we take pride in commemorating the spirit of Christopher Columbus as part of our national heritage.

In tribute to the achievement of Columbus, the Congress of the United States, by joint resolution approved April 30, 1934 (48 Stat. 657), as modified by the Act of June 28, 1968 (82 Stat. 250), requested the President to proclaim the second Monday in October of each year as Columbus Day.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JIMMY CARTER, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Monday, October 10, 1977, as Columbus Day and invite the people of this Nation to observe that day in schools, churches, and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies in honor of the great explorer.

I also direct that the flag of the United States be displayed on all public buildings on the appointed day in memory of Christopher Columbus.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-eighth day of September, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and second.

[FR Doc. 77-29043 Filed 9-28-77; 4:31 pm]

EDITORIAL NOTE: The President's remarks of Sept. 28, 1977, on signing Proclamation 4527, are printed in the Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents (vol. 13, no. 40).

PART 831—RETIREMENT

Allotments From Civil Service Annuities

AGENCY: Civil Service Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission is amending its regulations to allow allotments to be paid to employee/annuitant organizations which have collected a minimum of 2,000 allotment authorizations from interested annuitants. The purpose of this amendment is to implement Public Law 94-166 which authorized allotments to be made from civil service retirement annuities.

EFFECTIVE DATE: September 30, 1977.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Frank D. Titus, Program Analyst, Bureau of Retirement, Insurance and Occupational Health, Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. 20415, phone 202-632-4650.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On June 10, 1977, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (42 FR 29880) a notice of proposed rulemaking setting forth the conditions under which the Civil Service Commission would effect allotments from civil service annuities. Interested parties were given the opportunity to submit, not later than July 11, 1977, comments regarding the proposed rules.

Other than requests for additional information, the Commission received only two letters suggesting modifications in the proposed rules. One letter recommended that the regulations be expanded to encompass allotments for savings bonds and another recommended that the number of potential allottee organizations be expanded beyond the maximum of twenty specified in § 831.1321(h) and that the requirement that an organization collect a minimum of 2,000 allotment authorizations prior to participation in the allotment program, § 831.1311(b), be reduced to 1,000 authorizations.

At this time, the Commission does not have the capability to effect annuity allotments for savings bonds. The Commission is undertaking a study to determine what types of additional allotment services, if any, are needed by its annuitants and the processing modifications required to effect such services. This study will address savings bonds allotments. The suggestion regarding savings bonds is therefore not adopted.

The restriction placed on the number of organizations which may receive allotments, twenty, contained in § 831.1321(h) is inherent in the current annuity roll processing system which will effect annuity allotments. Until such time as the Commission's annuity roll processing capacity is expanded, the allotment program must be limited to twenty organizations. Given this inherent limitation, maximum availability of allotment services is best assured by requiring a minimum participation level for each organization. The recommendation to modify § 831.1311(b) and § 831.1321(h) is therefore not adopted.

Accordingly, 5 CFR 831 is amended by adding a new subpart O as set out below.

NOTE.—The Civil Service Commission has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an Economic Impact Statement under Executive Order 11821, as amended, and OMB Circular A-107.

(g) Allottees shall agree that disputes regarding any authorized allotment shall be a matter between the allotter and the allottee.

(h) The total number of allottees shall be limited to twenty (20), with first preference given to those organizations participating in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program. Thereafter, preference shall be based on the date of application and the number of annuitants who have completed allotment authorizations.

(i) The Commission, in its discretion, shall recover from the allottee, the incremental costs of making allotments.

(j) The Commission, in its sole discretion, may terminate an allottee's participation in the allotment program described by this subpart at any time in accordance with its agreement with the allottee.

PART 890—FEDERAL EMPLOYEES HEALTH BENEFITS PROGRAM

Opportunities To Register To Enroll and Change Enrollment; Open Season

AGENCY: Civil Service Commission.

ACTION: Final rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The amendment changes the dates of the 1977 Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Program open season from November 15-30 to November 14-December 9. This extension is necessary to enable the Commission to ensure that all employees receive 1977 open season materials timely.

DATE: Effective September 30, 1977.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Edward G. Borchers, (202-632-4684).

of August 19, 1977, proposed rulemaking was published to change the 1977 FEHB open season from November 15-30 to November 14-December 9. Comments and suggestions were invited for a 30-day period, ending September 19, 1977.

Comments were received from many sources and all were favorable concerning extending the open season from two work-weeks to four work-weeks. A number of suggestions were made regarding the exact dates of the open season; most suggesting that the open season begin earlier than November 14. While beginning the open season one or two weeks earlier would provide agencies and carriers with more time to process open season forms, printing and distribution schedules make it extremely unlikely that most eligible employees will receive open season literature prior to November 14. As a result, the Commission will not change the dates proposed but will consider the possibility of earlier dates for future open seasons.

Accordingly, 5 CFR 890.301(d)(1) is amended to read as follows:

§ 890.301 Opportunities to register to enroll and change enrollment.

(d) Open season. (1) During the period November 14, 1977, through December 9, 1977, an employee who is not registered to be enrolled may register to be enrolled, and an enrolled employee or annuitant may change his or her enrollment from one plan or option to another, or from self only to self and family, or both.

CHAPTER IX—AGRICULTURAL MARKETING SERVICE (MARKETING AGREEMENTS AND ORDERS; FRUITS, VEGETABLES, NUTS), DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PART 989—RAISINS PRODUCED FROM GRAPES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

Changes To Improve Administrative Operating Procedures

AGENCY: Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule makes changes to improve administrative operating procedures, and makes organizational changes to facilitate reference in certain provisions established under the Federal marketing order for California raisins. Some of the changes bring the procedures and provisions in line with recent order amendments. Other changes update provisions so they are more reflective of current industry operating practices.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 1, 1977.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Charles R. Brader, Deputy Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, (202-447-3545).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 19, 1977, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (42 FR 41867) a proposal to revise Subpart—Administrative Rules and Regulations (7 CFR 989.101-989.176). Subpart—Supplementary Regulations (7 CFR 989.201-989.231), Subpart—Schedule of Payments (7 CFR 989.401), Subpart—Conversion Factors (7 CFR 989.601), and to add a new Subpart—Quality Control (7 CFR 989.701-989.702). The subparts are pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 989, as amended (7 CFR Part 989; 42 FR 37200), regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California (hereinafter referred to collectively as the "order"). The order is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601-674). The proposal was based on a recommendation of the Raisin Administrative Committee.

Interested persons were given the opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments on the proposal. A comment was received from a raisin handler. The comment opposes the proposal to revise § 989.210 to include Golden Seedless and Dipped Seedless raisins under a weight dockage system for immaturity. Currently, this system is applicable only to Natural (sun-dried) Seedless raisins. Under this system the quantity of raisins docked from the grower equals the quantity of immature raisins which have to be removed from the lot by the handler to bring it up to grade.

The main objection the commentator has is that Golden Seedless and Dipped Seedless raisins do not have the same stemming characteristics as do Natural (sun-dried) Seedless raisins because they are stickier. They are therefore much less free flowing during the stemming operation, and more difficult to process in the removal of immature raisins. The commentator contends that there is no loss to the grower other than some weight loss which he would have had anyway. Because the removal of excess immature raisins from lots of Golden Seedless and Dipped Seedless raisins during normal processing is more difficult than from lots of Natural (sun-dried) Seedless raisins, there is additional cost and risk transferred to the handler. In past years, the commentator found that lots high in substandard raisins prior to processing failed the outgoing standards for processed raisins. Thus, it appears that the risk of the raisins failing the outgoing requirements is present regardless of the care in processing taken by the handler.

It is further contended that the inclusion of these two artificially dried varietal types of raisins under a weight dockage system transfers what is essentially a grower problem to the handler. He states that the problem of immaturity in these two varietal types is essentially a grower problem, because it results from the grower making raisins from immature grapes. The more the grower maturity standard is relaxed, the more likely will be the tendency to pick earlier—hence, before grapes are ready to be picked—which will have a disadvantageous market effect.

Therefore, to give the Raisin Administrative Committee opportunity to reconsider the proposal in the light of the comment, Golden Seedless and Dipped Seedless raisins will not be included under the weight dockage system. If the Committee is able to resolve the objections contained in the comment, the proposal to include these two varietal types under the weight dockage system will be reconsidered.

The terms "Order" and "Terms in the order" defined in §§ 989.101 and 989.103, respectively, are deleted because they are superfluous. The administrative rules and regulations are operative pursuant to the order, and terms used in the administrative rules and regulations have the same meaning as in the order.

The August 1, 1977, amendment of the order reduced the extensive number of varietal type categories to simplify classification of raisins used in regulating the volume and quality of raisins moved to market. Seven varietal types were established incorporating those in § 989.110. These are now set forth in § 989.10 of the order, as amended August 1. Thus, the list of vertical types in § 989.110 is deleted.

The list of varietal types with conversion factors for converting packed weight to natural condition weight in § 989.601 is revised to reflect the changes in varietal type categories. The categories Dipped Seedless and Golden Seedless were not changed by the amendment and need not be changed in the table. All of the other varietal types in the list are changed according to the varietal types in § 989.10.

The 1977 amendment of the order also provided for the deletion of § 989.96, containing provisions dealing with Raisin Administrative Committee grower districts and representatives per district, and the transferral of these provisions from the order to the rules and regulations to facilitate reference. Producer representation is required to be reviewed every three years for equitable representation and any necessary changes made. Pursuant to this, changes were made in district boundaries and representation in 1973 and set forth in §§ 989.125 and 989.126, respectively. However, this format requires a reader to refer to the order and the rules and regulations to find the applicable provisions. To facilitate reference, the provisions in § 989.96 on districts are combined with the provisions of § 989.125 in a new § 989.122 and § 989.125 is deleted. Section 989.122 would be made applicable to the Raisin Administrative Committee, not the Raisin Advisory Board, because the Board was abolished and replaced with the Committee on August 4, 1976. The provisions in new § 989.122 would be slightly different from those in § 989.96 in that they would serve the purpose only of defining district areas and would not deal with the membership per district.

The number of members per district and provisions pertaining to change for equitable representation would continue to be specified in § 989.126. The provisions of § 989.126 are the same as the current provisions except for minor wording and conforming changes made necessary because of the establishment of § 989.122, and the establishment of the Raisin Administrative Committee in place of the Raisin Advisory Board.

The provisions in § 989.138 relating to producer districts and § 989.139 relating to producer representation per district on the Raisin Administrative Committee are moved to §§ 989.142 and 989.143, respectively, so that the numbering of these provisions conforms with the numbering of the corresponding provisions in the order. Also, these provisions are made applicable to the Executive Operations Committee, rather than the Raisin Administrative Committee. Effective August 4, 1976, the membership provisions of the order applicable to the Raisin Administrative Committee were made applicable to an Executive Operations Committee. Also, the references to "§ 989.125" in paragraphs (a) (1), (2), and (3) of § 989.138 are changed to "§ 989.122" because of the proposal to transfer the provisions in § 989.125 to § 989.122. The reference to "board" in § 989.129 relating to voting in nomination meetings is changed to "Committee".

Provisions relating to handler and dehydrator representation on the abolished Raisin Advisory Board are contained in §§ 989.127 and 989.128. These provisions are obsolete and are deleted because similar provisions were added to § 989.26 applicable to the Raisin Administrative Committee in August 1976. Handler representation provisions on the abolished

Raisin Administrative Committee in § 989.140 were moved to § 989.43 of the order and made applicable to the Executive Operations Committee by the August 1976 order amendment. Hence, § 989.140 is obsolete and is deleted. The mail and telegraph voting provisions in § 989.152 of the rules and regulations are deleted because the corresponding order provisions were deleted by the 1976 order amendment.

The provisions currently in § 989.148 on compensation for attendance at committee meetings are moved to § 989.139 so the numbering conforms with the corresponding order provisions. The title of revised § 989.139 would be the same as current § 989.148, but the provisions would contain minor changes clarifying that alternates of both the Raisin Administrative Committee and Executive Operations Committee are covered, and the reference to "§ 989.48" at the end of these provisions is changed to "§ 989.39".

The most recent amendment of the order provides for grading requirements on natural condition raisins in § 989.97 (Exhibit B) and for packed raisins in § 989.59(a) to be transferred from the order to the rules and regulations to facilitate reference. Numerous changes have been made in these requirements by rulemaking, and consequently the applicable requirements are in the order and/or Subpart—Supplementary Regulations. As a result, this format requires reference to the order and that subpart to find all applicable grading requirements.

Therefore, the grading requirements on natural condition raisins in § 989.97 (Exhibit B) and the changes in these requirements pursuant to § 989.58(b) in §§ 989.201, 989.203, and 989.211 are combined for better organization and included in a new Subpart—Quality Control. The requirements are placed in § 989.701 titled "Minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins". Except for the addition of requirements on water dipped, vine sprayed, or similarly treated Muscats (including other raisins with seeds), the grade and condition requirements prescribed for the individual varietal types would be essentially the same as currently prescribed.

The requirements in § 989.59(a) for packed raisins and the changes pursuant to § 989.59(b), in § 989.204, and 989.212 are combined and placed in § 989.702, titled "Minimum grade standards for packed raisins" for the same reasons that the relocation of the natural grade condition requirements are made. The requirements are the same as currently prescribed, and minor wording changes reflecting the varietal type changes are made.

Because of this change combining provisions on grading requirements, §§ 989.201, 989.203, 989.204, 989.211, and 989.212 are obsolete and are deleted.

The desirable free tonnage concept of volume control was eliminated August 4, 1976. With the elimination of this concept § 989.224 is no longer needed and it is deleted.

Also, rules and procedures are added to § 989.158(a) (8) to implement the authority added to § 989.58(d) (1) by the August 1977 amendment giving handlers the option of eliminating the initial inspection check for infestation at the time of receipt. To the extent that handlers take advantage of this option, the unnecessary delay in completion of the inspection and certification process would be eliminated, because these activities would not be interrupted by the fumigation process. If the handler elects not to take advantage of this option, and have the raisins inspected for infestation upon receipt, he would continue to be given the opportunity to fumigate lots prior to the completion of the inspection and certification process.

Currently, § 989.159(g) (2) and 989.173 (d) (2) contain parenthetical references to the definitions of off-grade raisins, and other failing raisins which had been contained in § 989.59(f). The most recent amendment of the order moved these definitions from § 989.59(f) to § 989.24. Section 989.24 is in that portion of the order devoted to definitions. Therefore, these references are no longer needed and are deleted. Also, included in paragraph (g) (2) of § 989.159 is a parenthetical expression defining raisin residual material. The definition of this term was also moved to § 989.24. Thus, it is not needed in § 989.159(g) (2).

Section 989.166(c) (2) provides that normal and natural deterioration and shrinkage of raisins stored in portable containers be judged as if they had been stored in sweat boxes or picking boxes. Bins are now the common storage containers used by the industry. This requirement is obsolete and is deleted because deterioration and shrinkage experienced with bins has been no different from that experienced with sweat boxes or picking boxes.

Section 989.166(c) (3) is revised to bring into conformity with the corresponding order provisions on substitutions of reserve tonnage raisins. The 1977 amendment of the order brought provisions in § 989.66(c) (3) relating to the substitution of reserve tonnage raisins in line with the method of Committee application by deleting the requirement that the raisins substituted for the reserve raisins be "like quality". A literal application of this requirement was never adopted because reserve tonnage raisins only have to be standard raisins, i.e., raisins at least meeting the effective minimum grade and condition standards. Section 989.166(d) pertains to the delivery of reserve tonnage raisins by a handler to the Committee in the quantity and quality for which he has become obligated. Since a handler is obligated to deliver only standard raisins to the Committee § 989.166(d) is revised to clarify this fact.

In the August 4, 1976, amendment, the crop year was changed from a September 1, August 31 period to an August 1, July 31, period. Because of this change, the provisions in § 989.173 are amended by changing the August 31 and September 6 dates for submission of inventory reports to July 31 and August 6, respectively. The reports would be submitted by handlers for each varietal type held by him.

The provisions in § 989.401 deal with compensation of raisin handlers for services performed on reserve tonnage raisins held for the account of the Committee during and beyond the crop year of acquisition. Because the crop period was changed, minor wording changes are made in paragraphs (a) (1), (b), and (c) of § 989.401. Also, the next-to-the-last sentence in § 989.401(c) is amended by changing the word "box" to "container" wherever it appears, to clarify that the sentence deals with the weight of raisins in both boxes and bids.

After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including that in the notice, the comment received, the Committee's recommendations, and other available information, it is hereby found that the changes in the various subparts and the establishment of a new subpart hereinafter set forth, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

It is hereby further found that good cause exists for not postponing the effective date hereof until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) in that: (1) This action should be effective as soon as possible during the 1977-78 crop year which began August 1, 1977, so handlers can operate under the improvements in program operations and procedures provided by these changes; (2) several of the changes implement provisions recently added to the order and handlers have expressed interest in operating under these provisions as soon as possible during this crop year; (3) certain provisions on quality control and grower representation will be deleted from the order October 1, 1977, and the provisions in this action covering those matters should become effective as soon as practical in order to assure continuous regulation; (4) handlers are aware of this action and need no additional time to operate under the various changes; and (5) no useful purpose would be served by postponing the effective time hereof.

It is, therefore, ordered, That the following changes be made to improve administrative operating procedures. As revised the various subparts, and the new subpart read as follows:

CHAPTER X—AGRICULTURAL MARKETING SERVICE (MARKETING AGREEMENTS AND ORDERS; MILK), DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

PART 1002—MILK IN THE NEW YORK-NEW JERSEY MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action amends the order based on industry proposals considered at a public hearing in February 1976. The amendments will adjust the prices for milk throughout the production area to more nearly reflect the costs incurred by handlers in assembling milk from farms and transporting it to plants for processing. Another amendment institutes a late-payment charge on overdue payments by handlers to the market administrator to encourage prompt payments for milk. Minor changes have been made in the classification of milk according to its use to reflect current marketing practices.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 1, 1977.

FINDINGS AND DETERMINATIONS

The following findings and determinations supplement those that were made when the order was first issued and when it was amended. The previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and confirmed, except where they may conflict with those set forth below:

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. A public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the New York-New Jersey marketing area. The hearing was held according to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in sec. 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as hereby amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum and who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the New York-New Jersey marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, as follows:

1. In § 1002.22(m), a new subparagraph (3) is added to read as follows:

§ 1002.22 Additional duties of the market administrator.

(m) .....
(3) For the purpose of allocating receipts from other Federal order plants under § 1002.45(a)(12) and the corresponding step of § 1002.45(b), his estimate of the utilization (to the nearest whole percentage) in each class during the month of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in pool milk of all handlers. Such estimate shall be final for such purpose.

2. In § 1002.41(c), subparagraphs (7) and (8) are revised and new subparagraphs (9), (10), and (11) are added to read as follows:

§ 1002.41 Classes of utilization.

(c) .....
(7) In shrinkage allocated to Class II pursuant to § 1002.42;

(8) In skim milk represented by the nonfat solids added to a fluid milk product for fortification which is in excess of the volume included within the fluid milk product definition pursuant to § 1002.15;

(9) Contained in fluid milk products that are disposed of for animal feed;

(10) Contained in fluid milk products that are dumped, if the market administrator is notified in advance and is given the opportunity to verify such disposition; and

(11) Contained in fluid milk products that are destroyed or lost by a handler in a vehicular accident, flood, fire, or in a similar occurrence beyond his control, to the extent that the quantities destroyed or lost can be verified from records satisfactory to the market administrator.

3. In § 1002.45(a), subparagraph (12) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1002.45 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified.

(12) Subtract in the manner specified below from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk in receipts of fluid milk products from other order plants not previously assigned pursuant to paragraphs (2) and (10) of this paragraph:

(i) Subject to the provisions of subdivisions (ii), (iii), and (iv) of this subparagraph, such subtraction shall be pro rata to the pounds of skim milk in each class with respect to whichever of the following quantities represents the higher proportion of Class II milk:

(a) The estimated utilization of skim milk of all handlers in each class as announced for the month pursuant to § 1002.22(m)(3); or

(b) The total pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at all pool plants of the handler (excluding any duplication of utilization in each class resulting from transfers between pool plants of the handler);

(ii) Should the proration pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph result in the total pounds of skim milk at all pool plants of the handler that are to be subtracted at this allocation step from Class II milk exceeding the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk at all such plants, the pounds of such excess shall be subtracted pro rata from the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class I-A milk and Class I-B milk after such proration at the pool plants at which such other source milk was received;

(iii) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, should the computations pursuant to subdivisions (i) or (ii) of this subparagraph result in a quantity of skim milk to be subtracted from Class II milk that exceeds the pounds of skim milk remaining in such class, the pounds of skim milk in Class II milk shall be increased (to the extent of available utilization in such class at the nearest other pool plant of the handler, and then at each successively more distant pool plant of the handler) by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class I-A milk and Class I-B milk combined shall be decreased by a like amount, pro rata to remaining utilization in each such class. In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount; and

(iv) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, should the computations pursuant to subdivisions (i) or (ii) of this subparagraph result in a quantity of skim milk to be subtracted from Class I-A milk or Class I-B milk that exceeds the pounds of skim milk remaining in that class, the pounds of skim milk in such class shall be increased by an amount equal to such excess quantity to be subtracted, and the pounds of skim milk in Class II milk shall be decreased by a like amount. In such case, the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class at this allocation step at the handler's other pool plants shall be adjusted in the reverse direction by a like amount in sequence beginning with the nearest other pool plant of such handler at which such adjustment can be made;

This rule is needed in order to satisfy statutory requirements which provide that price support shall be made available to rice producers who comply with provisions of the rice program. This rule will permit eligible rice producers to obtain loans and purchases on their eligible 1977 crop rice.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice of proposed rulemaking was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 11, 1977, 42 FR 2328, stating that the Department of Agriculture proposed to make determinations and issue regulations relative to a loan and purchase program for 1977 crop rice. Such determinations included determining loan rates, premiums and discounts for grades, classes, other qualities, location differentials, and other provisions as may be needed to carry out the program. Interested persons were given until February 11 to submit recommendations, views, and comments. Three responses were received. All recommended that the provisions established for 1976 crop rice remain the same for 1977 crop rice.

The General Regulations Governing Price Support for the 1976 and Subsequent Crops, as amended, and the 1977 and Subsequent Crops Rice Loan and Purchase Program Regulations, as amended, are further supplemented, as stated herein, for the 1977 crop of rice. The material previously appearing in this subpart remains in full force and effect as to the crops to which it was applicable. Accordingly, the regulations in §§ 1421.325 through 1421.328 are revised to read as follows:

Sec.
1421.325 Purpose.

(b) Warehouse storage loans and purchases. The loan rate for rice stored modified-commingled and identity-preserved in an approved warehouse shall be the applicable basic rate specified in paragraph (c) of this section, adjusted as provided in paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section. The loan rate for rice stored commingled in an approved warehouse and for settlement for modified commingled and identity preserved loans and purchases shall be the applicable basic rate specified in paragraph (c) of this section, adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this section and §§ 1421.310 and 1421.22.

The basic rate per 100 pounds of rice shall be computed as follows: Multiply the milling yield (in pounds per hundredweight) of whole kernels by the applicable loan value for whole kernels (as shown in the table below according to class) and round the result to the nearest hundredth. Similarly, multiply the difference between the total milling yield and the whole kernels yield (in pounds per hundredweight) by the applicable loan value for broken rice and round the result to the nearest hundredth. Add the results (as rounded) of these two computations to obtain the basic loan and purchase rate per 100 pounds of rice and express such rate in dollars and cents.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 710.1 Purpose

(a) This part establishes the criteria, procedures, and methods for resolving questions concerning the eligibility of individuals who are employed by or applicants for employment with ERDA contractors, agents, and access permittees of ERDA, individuals who are ERDA employees or applicants for ERDA employment and other persons designated by the Administrator of ERDA for access to Restricted Data or significant quantities of special nuclear material; pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974 or for access to national security information.

(b) This part is published to implement Executive Orders 10865, 25 FR 1583 (February 24 1960) and 10450, 18 FR 2489 (April 27, 1954), both as amended.

§ 710.2 Scope.

The criteria and procedures outlined in this part shall be used in those cases in which there are questions of eligibility for ERDA access authorization involving:

(a) Those employees (including consultants) of, and those applicants for employment with, contractors and agents of ERDA.

(b) Access permittees of ERDA and its employees (including consultants) and applicants for employment.

(c) Employees (including consultants) of, and applicants for employment with, ERDA; and

(d) Those other persons designated by the Administrator of ERDA.

§ 710.3 Reference.

The pertinent sections of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, which remain in effect are set forth in Appendix A.

§ 710.4 Policy

It is the policy of ERDA to carry out its responsibility for the security of the energy research and development programs in a manner consistent with traditional American concepts of justice. To this end, the Administrator has established criteria for determining eligibility for access authorization and will afford those individuals described in 710.2 the opportunity for administrative review of questions concerning their eligibility for access authorization.

§ 710.5 Definitions.

As used in this part:

(a) "Access authorization" means an administrative determination that an individual (including a consultant) who is employed by or an applicant for employment with ERDA contractors, agents, and access permittees of ERDA is eligible for access to Restricted Data or national security information or is eligible for access to, or control over, significant quantities of special nuclear material; and an individual (including a consultant) who is an ERDA employee or applicant for ERDA employment and other persons designated by the Administrator of ERDA is eligible for security clearance.

(b) "ERDA" means the Energy Research and Development Administration as provided by Section 101 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974.

(c) "Administrator" means the head of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) as provided by section 102 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974.

(d) "ERDA Personnel Security Review Board Panel" means an advisory panel of individuals appointed by the ERDA Assistant Administrator for National Security one of whom shall be designated as the Chairman of the Personnel Security Review Board Panel.

(e) "ERDA Personnel Security Review Board" means an advisory board, consisting of three members, one of whom shall be designated as Chairman, the members of which are selected by the Chairman of the Personnel Security Review Board Panel. The Chairman of the Personnel Security Review Board shall be an attorney.

(f) "Hearing Counsel" means an ERDA attorney assigned to prepare and conduct Personnel Security Board hearings.

(g) "Manager of Operations" means the Manager of an ERDA Operations Office (and at Headquarters, the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security—see § 710.38).

(h) "Personnel Security Board" means an advisory board appointed by the Manager of Operations and consisting of three members, one of whom shall be designated as Chairman.

(i) "Significant quantity of special nuclear material" means unclassified special nuclear material, not subject to a Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) license, in one facility or one shipment in the following quantities:

(1) Uranium 235 (contained in uranium enriched 20 percent or more in the Uranium 235 isotope) alone, or in combination with Plutonium and/or Uranium 233 when (multiplying the Plutonium and/or Uranium 233 content by 2½) the total is 5,000 grams or more.

(2) Plutonium and/or Uranium 233 when the Plutonium and/or Uranium 233 content is 2,000 grams or more.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES FOR DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY FOR ACCESS TO CLASSIFIED MATTER OR SIGNIFICANT QUANTITIES OF SPECIAL NUCLEAR MATERIAL

§ 710.10 Application of the criteria.

(a) The decision as to access authorization is a comprehensive, commonsense judgment, made after consideration of all the relevant information, favorable or unfavorable, as to whether the granting of access authorization would endanger the common defense and security and would be clearly consistent with the national interest.

(b) To assist in making these determinations, on the basis of all the information in a particular case, there are set forth in this part a number of specific types of derogatory information. These criteria are not exhaustive but contain the principal types of derogatory information which create a question as to the individual's eligibility for access authorization. While there must necessarily be adherence to such criteria, ERDA is not limited thereto, nor precluded from exercising its judgment that information or facts in a case under its cognizance are derogatory although at variance with, or outside the scope of, the stated categories. These criteria are subject to continuing review and may be revised from time to time as experience and circumstances may make desirable.

(c) When the reports of investigation of an individual contain information reasonably tending to establish the truth of one or more of the items in the criteria, such information shall be regarded as substantially derogatory and shall create a question as to the individual's eligibility for access authorization. The Manager of Operations may authorize an interview with the individual, and on the basis of such interview, may authorize the grant of access authorization. If the question as to the individual's eligibility is not resolved through interview, the Manager of Operations will forward the individual's case to the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA. The Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA, may authorize the granting of access authorization or such other investigation as he deems appropriate. Otherwise, a question concerning the eligibility of an individual for access authorization shall be resolved in accordance with the procedures set forth in § 710.20 et seq.

(d) In resolving a question concerning the eligibility or continued eligibility of an individual for access authorization, the following principles shall be applied by the ERDA Personnel Security Board:

(1) Where there are grounds sufficient to establish a reasonable belief as to the truth of one or more of the items in Category "A", these grounds shall be the basis for a recommendation by the ERDA Personnel Security Board for denying or revoking access authorization if not satisfactorily rebutted by the individual.

(2) Where there are grounds sufficient to establish a reasonable belief as to the truth of one or more of the items in Category "B", the extent of activities, the period in which such activities occurred, the length of time which has since elapsed, and the attitudes and convictions of the individual shall be considered in determining whether the recommendation will be adverse or favorable.

§ 710.11 Criteria.

(a) Category "A" derogatory information. Category "A" includes those cases in which the individual or spouse has:

(1) Committed or attempted to commit, or aided, or abetted another who committed or attempted to commit, any act of sabotage, espionage, treason, or sedition;

(2) Knowingly established an association with espionage or sabotage agents of a foreign nation; with individuals reliably reported as suspected of espionage or sabotage; with representatives of foreign nations whose interests may be inimical to the interests of the United States, with traitors, seditionists, anarchists, or revolutionists;

(3) Knowing membership with the specific intent of furthering the aims of, or adherence to and active participation in, any foreign or domestic organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons which unlawfully advocates or practices the commission of acts of force or violence to prevent others from exercising their rights under the Constitution or laws of the United States or of any State, which seeks to overthrow the Government of the United States or any State or subdivision thereof by unlawful means.

(4) Publicly or privately advocated revolution by force or violence to overthrow the Government of the United States or the alteration of the form of Government of the United States by unconstitutional means.

Category "A" also includes those cases in which the individual has:

(5) Deliberately omitted significant information from or falsified his Personnel Security Questionnaire or Personal History Statement concerning a significant matter;

(6) Willfully violated or disregarded security regulations to a degree which would endanger the common defense and security; or intentionally disclosed classified information to any person not authorized to receive it;

(7) Any mental illness of a nature which in the opinion of competent medical authority may cause significant defect in the judgment or reliability of the individual;

(8) Been convicted of crimes indicating habitual criminal tendencies;

(9) Been, or is, a user of narcotic or hallucinogenic drugs habitually, without adequate evidence of rehabilitation.

(b) Category "B" derogatory information. Category "B" includes those cases in which the individual or spouse has: (In evaluating items under this category, the extent of the activities, the period in which such activities occurred, the length of time which has since elapsed, and the attitudes and conviction of the individuals shall be considered.)

(1) Advocated totalitarian, fascist, communist, or other subversive political ideologies and has not subsequently established rejection of them.

(2) Associated with persons falling within the provisions of Category "B", paragraph (b)(1) of this section, when the individual did not establish rejection of such ideologies. (Ordinarily this will not include chance or casual meetings or contacts limited to normal business or official relations.)

(3) Affiliated with any organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons falling within provisions of Category "A", paragraph (a)(3) of this section, provided the individual or spouse did not discontinue his affiliation when he learned of its unlawful advocacy practices or objectives referred to in such paragraph (a)(3) of this section, or did not otherwise establish rejection of such unlawful advocacy, practices, or objectives.

(4) Associated with any person affiliated with any organization, movement, group, or combination of persons falling within the provisions of Category "A", paragraph (a)(3) of this section, provided the individual or spouse did not discontinue association when learning of the person's affiliation with such organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons, or did not otherwise establish rejection of the subversive aims of such organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons. (Ordinarily this will not include chance or casual meetings or contacts limited to normal business or official relations.)

(5) Parent(s), brother(s), sister(s), spouse, or offspring residing in a nation whose interests may be inimical to the interests of the United States, or in satellites or occupied areas thereof (to be evaluated in the light of the risk that pressure applied through such close relatives could force the individual to reveal sensitive information or perform an act of sabotage).

Category "B" also includes those cases in which the individual:

(6) Refuses to serve in the Armed Forces when such refusal cannot be clearly shown to be due to religious convictions;

(7) Has been grossly careless in failing to protect or safeguard Restricted Data, national security information, or special nuclear material;

(8) Has abused trust, has been dishonest, or has engaged in infamous, immoral, or notoriously disgraceful conduct without adequate evidence of reformation;

(9) Is a homosexual or other sexual pervert; or has engaged in homosexual or other sexually perverted conduct without adequate evidence of rehabilitation;

(10) Is a user of alcohol habitually and to excess, or has been such without adequate evidence of rehabilitation;

(11) Refuses, upon the ground of constitutional privilege against self-incrimination, to testify before a Congressional Committee regarding charges of alleged disloyalty or other misconduct;

(12) Has used a narcotic or hallucinogenic drug, except as prescribed or administered by a physician licensed to dispense drugs in the practice of medicine;

(13) Engaged in any other conduct, or is subject to any other circumstance, including demonstrated financial irresponsibility, which tends to show that the individual is not reliable or trustworthy, or which furnishes reason to believe that the individual may be subject to coercion, influence, or pressure which may cause him to act contrary to the best interests of the national security.

PROCEDURES

§ 710.20 Purpose of the procedures.

These procedures establish methods for the conduct of Personnel Security Board hearings and administrative review of questions concerning an individual's eligibility for access authorization when it is determined that such questions cannot be favorably resolved by interview or other investigation.

§ 710.21 Suspension of access authorization.

In those cases where information is received which raises a question concerning the continued eligibility of an individual for ERDA access authorization, the Manager of Operations shall forward to the Assistant Administrator for National Security via the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA, recommendation as to whether the individual's access authorization should be suspended pending the final determination resulting from the operation of the procedures provided in this part. In making this recommendation the Manager of Operations shall consider such factors as the seriousness of the derogatory information developed, the possible access of the individual to classified information or significant quantities of special nuclear material, and the individual's opportunity by reason of his position to commit acts adversely affecting the national security. The access authorization of an individual shall not be suspended except by direction of the Assistant Administrator for National Security.

§ 710.22 Notice to individual.

A notification letter, prepared by the Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA, approved by the Office of the General Counsel, and signed by the Manager of Operations, shall be delivered to each individual whose eligibility for access authorization is in question. Where practicable, such letter shall be delivered to the individual in person. The letter shall state:

(a) That reliable information in possession of ERDA has created a substantial doubt concerning the individual's eligibility for access authorization;

(b) That the information which creates a substantial doubt regarding the individual's eligibility for access authorization shall be as comprehensive and detailed as the national security permits;

(c) That in the event the individual desires a Board hearing he must within twenty days of the date of receipt of the notification letter indicate in writing to the Manager of Operations from whom he received such letter that he wishes a hearing before a Personnel Security Board;

(d) That within twenty days of the date of receipt of the notification letter, the individual shall file with the Manager from whom he received such letter his written answer under oath or affirmation to each item of reported information which raises the question of the individual's eligibility for access authorization;

(e) That, if the individual so requests, a hearing will be scheduled before a Personnel Security Board with due regard for the convenience and necessity of the parties or their representatives for the purpose of affording the individual an opportunity of supporting his eligibility for access authorization;

(f) That, if the individual requests a hearing, he will be notified in writing of the membership of a Personnel Security Board when it is appointed by the Manager of Operations;

(g) That the individual will have the right to appear personally before a Personnel Security Board, and present evidence in his own behalf, through witnesses, or by documents, or both, and subject to the limitations set forth in § 710.27(f), be present during the entire hearing and be accompanied, represented and advised by counsel of his own choosing.

(h) That the individual's failure to file a written request for a hearing before a Personnel Security Board, in accordance with paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, will be considered as a relinquishment by him of the opportunity of availing himself of the hearing and review procedure provided in this part and that in such event a recommendation as to the final action to be taken will be made by the Manager of Operations and submitted to the Assistant Administrator for National Security for decision on the basis of the information in the case without reference to a Personnel Security Board;

(i) The individual's access authorization status until further notice;

(j) The name of the designated ERDA official to contact for any further information desired.

§ 710.23 Additional information.

A copy of this part shall be given to the individual with the notification letter.

§ 710.24 Failure of individual to request a hearing.

(a) In the event the individual fails, within the prescribed time, to file a written request for a hearing before a Personnel Security Board, pursuant to § 710.22, a recommendation as to the final action to be taken shall be made by the Manager of Operations to the

Assistant Administrator for National Security on the basis of the information in the case;

(b) The Manager of Operations may for good cause shown, at the request of the individual, extend the time for filing a written request for a hearing or time for filing a written answer to the matters contained in the notification letter.

§ 710.25 Selection of ERDA Hearing Counsel.

(a) Upon receipt from the individual of a written answer to the notification letter, signifying the individual's desire to appear before a Personnel Security Board and answering under oath or affirmation the allegations contained in the notification letter, an ERDA attorney shall forthwith be assigned by the Manager of Operations to act as Hearing Counsel;

(b) Hearing Counsel shall, prior to the scheduling of the Board hearing, review the information in the case and shall request the presence of witnesses and the production of physical evidence in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (m), (n), (o), and (p) of § 710.27. When the presence of a witness is deemed by the Hearing Counsel to be necessary or desirable to a proper determination of the issues before the Board, the Manager of Operations shall make arrangements by subpoena or otherwise for such witnesses to appear, be confronted by the individual, and be subject to examination and cross-examination.

(c) Hearing Counsel is authorized to consult directly with the individual if he is not represented by counsel, or if so represented with counsel or representative, for purposes of reaching mutual agreement upon arrangements for expeditious hearing of the case. Such arrangements may include clarification of issues and stipulations with respect to testimony and contents of documents and other physical evidence. Such stipulations when entered into shall be binding upon the individual and the Administrator for the purposes of this part. Prior to such consultation the Hearing Counsel shall advise the individual of his right to Counsel or other representation and of the possibility that any statements made by the individual to the Hearing Counsel may be used in subsequent proceedings;

(d) The individual is responsible for producing witnesses in his own behalf or presenting other proof before the board to support the individual's answer and defense to the allegations contained in the notification letter. When requested, however, Hearing Counsel shall assist the individual to the extent practicable and necessary. In the Hearing Counsel's sound discretion he may request the Manager of Operations to arrange for the issuance of subpoenas for witnesses to attend the hearing in the individual's behalf, or for the production of specific documents or other physical evidence, provided a showing of the necessity for such assistance has been made.

§ 710.26 Appointment of ERDA Personnel Security Boards.

(a) Upon receipt of advice from the Hearing Counsel that all arrangements for an expeditious hearing have been completed, the Manager of Operations shall forthwith appoint a Personnel Security Board consisting of three members, one of whom shall be designated as the Chairman of the Personnel Security Board.

(b) The personnel of such Board, when practicable as determined by the Manager, shall consist of at least one member who is an attorney and one member who is familiar with the general field of work of the individual.

(c) The personnel of the Board shall be selected from a panel of individuals possessing the highest degree of integrity, ability, and good judgment. Such panels may include employees of ERDA or its contractors but no employee of an ERDA contractor shall serve as a member of a Personnel Security Board hearing the case of an employee of, or an applicant for employment with, that contractor; nor shall any employee of ERDA serve as a member of a Personnel Security Board hearing the case of an employee of, or applicant for employment with, ERDA.

(d) All persons serving as members of Personnel Security Boards shall have an ERDA "Q" clearance.

(e) No person shall serve as a member of a Personnel Security Board who has prejudged the case to be heard; who possesses information that would make it embarrassing to render impartial recommendations or advice; or who for bias or prejudice generated for any reason would be unable to render fair and impartial recommendations or advice;

(f) Immediately upon the appointment of a Personnel Security Board, the Manager of Operations will notify the individual of the identity of the members of the Personnel Security Board and of his right to challenge any member for cause, such challenge or challenges, accompanied by the reasons therefor, to be submitted to the Manager of Operations within seventy-two hours of the receipt of the notice;

(g) In the event that the individual challenges a member or members of the Personnel Security Board, the justification of the action of the individual shall be determined by the Manager of Operations. Where the challenge of the individual is sustained, the Manager of Operations shall forthwith appoint such new members as required to constitute a full Personnel Security Board and notify the individual. The individual shall have the right to challenge such new members for cause and such challenge shall be dealt with in the same manner as an original challenge. The Manager of Operations shall also notify the individual of the rejection of any challenge. The Personnel Security Board shall convene as soon as is reasonably practicable;

(h) The Manager of Operations shall notify the individual in writing, at least one week in advance, of the date, hour, and place the Personnel Security Board will convene. In the event the individual fails to appear at the time and place specified, a recommendation as to the final action to be taken shall be made by the Manager of Operations to the Assistant Administrator for National Security on the basis of the record in the case. However, the Manager of Operations may for good cause shown at the request of the individual, permit the individual to appear before a Personnel Security Board at a newly scheduled date, hour, and place.

§ 710.27 Conduct of proceedings.

(a) The proceedings shall be conducted by the Chairman of the Personnel Security Board in an orderly, impartial, and decorous manner with every effort made to protect the interests of the Government and of the individual and to arrive at the truth. In no case will undue delay be tolerated or will the individual be hampered by unduly restricting the time necessary for proper preparation and presentation. In performing their duties, the members of the Board shall always bear in mind and make clear to all concerned that the proceeding is an administrative hearing and not a trial;

(b) The proceedings shall be open only to duly authorized representatives of the staff of ERDA, the individual, counsel, and such persons as may be officially authorized by the Board. Witnesses shall not testify in the presence of other witnesses;

(c) (1) Hearing Counsel shall examine and cross-examine witnesses and otherwise assist the Board in such a manner as to bring out a full and true disclosure of all facts, both favorable and unfavorable, having a bearing on the issues before the Board. In performing his duties, he shall avoid the attitude of a prosecutor and shall always bear in mind that the proceeding is an administrative hearing and not a trial;

(2) Hearing Counsel shall not participate in the deliberations of the Board, and shall express no opinion to the Board concerning the merits of the case. Hearing Counsel shall also advise the individual of his rights under these procedures when the individual is not represented by counsel of his own choosing;

(d) The Board may ask the individual, ERDA representatives and other witnesses any supplemental questions which the Board deems appropriate to assure the fullest possible disclosure of relevant and material facts. The proponent of a witness shall conduct the direct examination of that witness;

(e) During the course of the proceedings the Chairman shall rule in open session on all questions presented to the Board of its determination, subject to the objection of any member of the Board. In the event of an objection by any member of the Board, a majority vote of the Board shall be determinative and constitute the ruling of the Chairman. Voting may be either in open or closed session on all questions except recommendations to grant or deny access authorization, which shall be in closed session;

(f) In the event it appears in the course of the hearing that Restricted Data or national security information may be disclosed, it shall be the duty of the Chairman to assure that disclosure is not made to persons who are not authorized to receive it.

(g) The Board shall admit in evidence any matters either oral or written which are material, relevant and competent in determining the issues involved, including the testimony of responsible persons concerning the integrity of the individual. The utmost latitude shall be permitted with respect to relevancy, materiality, and competency. Every reasonable effort shall be made to obtain the best evidence available. Hearsay evidence may for good cause shown be admitted without regard to technical rules of admissibility and accorded such weight as the circumstances warrant.

(h) Testimony of the individual and witness shall be given under oath or affirmation, and the individual and witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination. Attention of the individual and the witness shall be invited to 18 U.S.C. 1001 and 18 U.S.C. 1621.

(i) The individual shall be afforded the opportunity of testifying in his own behalf.

(j) The Board shall endeavor to obtain all the facts that are reasonably available in order for it to arrive at its recommendations. If, prior to or during the proceeding, in the opinion of the Board the allegations in the notification letter are not sufficient to cover all matters into which inquiry should be directed, the Board shall recommend to the Manager of Operations concerned that, in order to give more adequate notice to the individual, the notification letter should be amended. Any amendment shall be made with the concurrence of the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA, and the Office of the General Counsel. If, in the opinion of the Board, the circumstances or such an amendment may involve an undue hardship to the individual, because of limited time to answer the new allegations in the notification letter, an appropriate adjournment shall be granted upon the request of the individual.

(k) Unless permitted by paragraphs (l), (m), (n), (o), and (p) of this section, the record may contain no information adverse to the individual on any controverted issue unless (1) the information or its substance has been made available to the individual and he offers no objection to its presentation; or (2) the information or its substance is made available to him and the individual is afforded an opportunity to cross-examine the person providing the information. Information whose admission is not prohibited by this paragraph, or by any other provision of this part, may be received and made a part of the record and may be considered by the Board or officials charged with making determinations under this part.

(l) A written or oral statement of a person relating to the characterization in the notification letter of any organization or person other than the individual may be received and considered by the Board without affording the individual an opportunity to cross-examine the person making the statement on matters relating to the characterization of such organization, or person, provided the individual is given notice that it has been received and may be considered by the Board, and is informed of its contents provided such is not prohibited by § 710.27(f).

(m) The individual shall be afforded an opportunity to cross-examine persons who have made oral or written statements adverse to the individual relating to a controverted issue except that any such statement may be received and considered by the Board without affording such opportunity to either of the following circumstances:

(1) The head of the department supplying the statement certifies that the person who furnished the information is a confidential informant who has been engaged in obtaining intelligence information for the Government and that disclosure of the informant's identity would be substantially harmful to the national interest;

(2) The Administrator or his special designee for that particular purpose has preliminarily determined, after considering information furnished by the investigative agency as to the reliability of the person and the accuracy of the statement concerned, that the statement concerned appears to be reliable and material, and the Administrator or such special designee has determined that failure of the Board to receive and consider such statement would, in view of the access to Restricted Data, national security information, or significant quantities of special nuclear material sought, be substantially harmful to the national security and that the person who furnished the information cannot appear to testify (i) due to death, severe illness, or similar cause, in which case the identity of the person and the information to be considered shall be made available to the individual or (ii) due to some other cause determined by the Administrator to be good and sufficient;

(n) Whenever procedures under paragraph (m)(1) or (2) of this section are used (1) the individual shall be given a summary of the information which shall be as comprehensive and detailed as the national security permits, and (2) appropriate consideration shall be accorded to the fact that the individual did not have an opportunity to cross-examine such person or persons;

(o) Records compiled in the regular course of business, or other physical evidence other than investigative reports, may be received and considered subject to rebuttal without authenticating witnesses, provided that such information has been furnished to ERDA by an investigative agency pursuant to its responsibilities in connection with assisting the Administrator to safeguard Restricted Data, national security information or significant quantities of special nuclear material;

(p) Records compiled in the regular course of business, or other physical evidence other than investigative reports, relating to a controverted issue which, because they are classified, may not be inspected by the individual, may be received and considered provided that:

(1) The Administrator or his special designee for that purpose has made a preliminary determination that such physical evidence appears to be material;

(2) The Administrator or such designee has made a determination that failure to receive and consider such physical evidence would, in view of the access to Restricted Data, national security information or significant quantities of special nuclear material sought, be substantially harmful to the national security; and

(3) To the extent that national security permits, a summary or description of such physical evidence shall be made available to the individual. In every such case, information as to the authenticity and accuracy of such physical evidence furnished by the investigative agency shall be considered.

(q) The Board may request the Manager of Operations to arrange for additional investigation on any points which are material to the deliberations of the Board and which the Board believes need extension or clarification. In this event, the Board shall set forth in writing those issues upon which more evidence is requested, identifying where possible persons sources from which evidence should be sought. The Manager of Operations shall make every effort through appropriate sources to obtain additional information upon the matters indicated by the Board;

(r) A written transcript of the entire proceedings shall be made by a person possessing appropriate ERDA clearance and, except for portions containing Restricted Data or national security information, a copy of such transcript shall be furnished the individual without cost.

§ 710.28 Recommendations of the Personnel Security Board.

(a) The Board shall carefully consider the record and the standards set forth herein. In reaching its determination the Board shall consider the demeanor of the witnesses who have testified before the Board, the probability or likelihood of the truth of their testimony, their credibility, the authenticity and accuracy of documentary evidence, or lack of evidence upon some material points in issue. If the individual is, or may be, handicapped by the non-disclosure to him of confidential information or by lack of opportunity to cross-examine confidential informants, the Board shall take that fact into consideration. The Board may also consider as part of the record the individual's past employment in the energy research and development program, and the nature and sensitivity of the job he is or may be expected to perform. Possible impact of the loss of the individual's services upon the ERDA program shall not be considered by the Board.

(b) The Board shall make specific findings based upon the records as to whether each of the allegations contained in the notification letter is true or false and the significance which the Board attaches to such allegations. These findings shall be supported fully by a statement of reasons which constitute the basis for such findings.

(c) The recommendation of the Board shall be predicated upon its findings. If after considering all the factors in the light of the criteria set forth in this part, the Board is of the opinion that it will not endanger the common defense and security and will be clearly consistent with the national interest to grant access authorization to the individual, it shall make a favorable recommendation; otherwise, it shall make an adverse recommendation;

(d) The recommendation of the Board shall be determined by a majority vote. In the event of a dissent from the majority, the recommendation of the minority member shall be made a matter of record together with a statement of the reasons leading to the conclusions. The recommendation of the Board shall be submitted to the Manager of Operations accompanied by a statement of the reasons leading to the Board's conclusions.

§ 710.29 New evidence.

(a) In the event of the discovery of new evidence by the individual prior to final determination of the individual's eligibility for access authorization, such evidence shall be submitted by the individual or his representative to the Manager of Operations from whom he received the notification letter.

(b) The Manager of Operations with the advice of Hearing Counsel shall review the application for the presentation of new evidence to ascertain its materiality and relevancy and further, that the individual or his representative is without fault in failing to present the evidence before. In the event it is determined that the new evidence should be received, the Manager of Operations shall:

(1) Refer the matter to the Personnel Security Board which had been appointed in the individual's case when the Manager of Operations has not yet transmitted the record to the Assistant Administrator for National Security. The Board receiving the application for the presentation of new evidence shall determine the form in which it shall be received, whether by testimony before the Board, by deposition, or by affidavit.

(2) In those cases where the Manager of Operations has forwarded the record to the Assistant Administrator for National Security, the application for presentation of new evidence shall be referred to the Assistant Administrator for National Security with appropriate comment and recommendations. In the event the Assistant Administrator for National Security determines that the new evidence should be received, he shall determine the form in which it shall be received, whether by testimony before a Personnel Security Board, by deposition or by affidavit.

§ 710.30 Actions on the recommendations.

(a) The recommendations of the Board and any dissent therefrom shall be signed by the members of the Board as appropriate, and together with the record of the case, shall be transmitted with the least practicable delay to the Manager of Operations concerned;

(b) Upon receipt of the findings and recommendation of the Board and the record, the Manager of Operations shall forthwith transmit it to the Assistant Administrator for National Security through the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security. In those cases where denial of access authorization is recommended by the Board, the Manager of Operations shall forward a statement concerning the effect which denial of access authorization would have upon the energy research and development program.

(c) The Assistant Administrator for National Security may return the record to the Manager of Operations for further proceedings by the Personnel Security Board with respect to specific matters designated by the Assistant Administrator for National Security.

(d) (1) In the event a recommendation by the Board for a denial of access authorization, the individual shall be immediately notified in writing of that fact by the Assistant Administrator for National Security and shall be informed of the Board's findings with respect to each allegation contained in the notification letter. The individual shall also be notified of his right to request a review of his case by the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board and of his right to submit a brief in support of his contentions. The request for a review shall be submitted to the Assistant Administrator for National Security within five days after the receipt of the notice. The brief shall be forwarded to the Assistant Administrator for National Security through the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, no later than 10 days after receipt of such notice, unless such time is extended by the Assistant Administrator for National Security for good cause shown;

(2) Where the individual requests a review of the adverse recommendation, the Assistant Administrator for National Security shall forthwith send the record, with all findings and recommendations, to the Personnel Security Review Board;

(3) In the event the individual fails to request a review by the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board of an adverse recommendation within the prescribed time, the final determination shall be made on the basis of the record with all findings and recommendations;

(e) Where the ERDA Personnel Security Board has made a recommendation favorable to the individual and the Assistant Administrator for National Security proposes to transmit the record to the Personnel Security Review Board for its recommendation, the Assistant Administrator for National Security shall immediately cause the individual to be notified of that fact and of those matters contained in the notification letter concerning which he desires the advice of the Personnel Security Review Board. The Assistant Administrator for National Security shall further inform the individual that he may submit a brief concerning such matters for the consideration of the Personnel Security Review Board. Such brief shall be filed not later than 10 days from the receipt of the notice by the individual, unless extended for good cause shown. The brief shall be forwarded to the Assistant Administrator for National Security for transmission to the Personnel Security Review Board.

§ 710.31 Recommendations of the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board.

(a) The ERDA Personnel Security Review Board shall make its deliberations based upon the record supplemented by such brief as the individual submits. The ERDA Personnel Security Review Board may request such additional briefs as it deems appropriate. In any case where the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board determines that additional evidence or further proceedings are necessary, it may return the record to the Assistant Administrator for National Security with a recommendation that the case be remanded to the Manager of Operations for appropriate action;

(b) In its deliberations, the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board shall make its findings and recommendations as to the eligibility of an individual for access authorization on the record supplemented by additional testimony or briefs, as determined by the Board. When additional testimony is taken by the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board a verbatim transcript of such testimony shall be made part of the record;

(c) The ERDA Personnel Security Review Board shall not concern itself with the possible impact of the loss of the individual's services upon the ERDA program.

(d) After its deliberations, the ERDA Personnel Security Review Board shall make its findings and recommendations on the record in writing to the Administrator.

§ 710.32 Action by the Assistant Administrator for National Security.

(a) The Assistant Administrator for National Security, on the basis of the record accompanied by all recommendations, shall then make a final determination whether access authorization shall be granted or denied;

(b) In making the determination as to whether access authorization shall be granted or denied, the Assistant Administrator for National Security shall give due recognition to the favorable as well as the unfavorable information concerning the individual and shall take into account the value of the individual's services to the energy research and the development program and the operational consequences of denial of access authorization;

(c) In the event of an adverse determination, the Assistant Administrator for National Security shall notify the individual through the Manager of Operations of his decision that access authorization is being denied or revoked and of his findings with respect to each allegation contained in the notification letter for transmittal to the individual.

§ 710.33 Action by the Administrator.

(a) Whenever an individual has not been afforded an opportunity to confront and cross-examine witnesses who have furnished information adverse to the individual under the provisions of § 710.27 (m), (n), (o), or (p) and an adverse recommendation has been made by the Assistant Administrator for National Security, the Administrator shall personally review the record and determine whether access authorization shall be granted, denied or revoked, based upon the record;

(b) When the Administrator determines to deny or revoke access authorization the individual will be notified through the Manager of Operations of his decision that access authorization is being denied or revoked and of his findings with respect to each allegation contained in the notification letter for transmittal to the individual;

(c) Nothing contained in these procedures shall be deemed to limit or affect the responsibility and powers of the Administrator to deny or revoke access to Restricted Data, national security information, or significant quantities of special nuclear material if the security of the nation so requires. The Administrator's authority may not be delegated and may be exercised only when the Administrator determines that the procedures prescribed in § 710.27 (m), (n), (o), or (p) cannot be invoked consistently with the national security and such determination shall be conclusive.

§ 710.34 Reconsideration of cases.

(a) Where pursuant to the procedures set forth in §§ 710.20 through 710.33, the Assistant Administrator for National Security or the Administrator has made a determination granting access authorization to an individual, the individual's eligibility for access authorization shall be reconsidered only when, subsequent to the time of the prior hearing, there is new substantially derogatory information or a significant increase in the scope or sensitivity of the Restricted Data or national security information to which the individual has or will have access;

(b) Where, pursuant to those procedures, the Administrator or the Assistant Administrator for National Security has made a determination denying access authorization to an individual, the individual's eligibility for access authorization may be reconsidered when there is a bona fide offer of employment requiring access to Restricted Data, national security information or significant quantities of special nuclear material and either material and relevant new evidence which the individual and his representatives are without fault in failing to present before, or convincing evidence of reformation or rehabilitation. Requests for reconsideration shall be submitted in writing to the Assistant Administrator for National Security through the Manager of Operations having jurisdiction over the position for which access authorization is required. Such requests shall be accompanied by an affidavit setting forth in detail the new evidence or evidence of reformation or rehabilitation. The Assistant Administrator for National Security shall cause the individual to be notified as to whether his eligibility for access authorization will be reconsidered and, if so, the method by which such reconsideration will be accomplished.

(c) Where access authorization has been granted to an individual by a Manager of Operations without recourse to the procedures set forth in § 710.20 through 710.33, the individual's eligibility for access authorization shall be reconsidered only in a case where, subsequent to the granting of access authorization, new substantially derogatory information has been received or there is a significant increase in the scope or sensitivity of the Restricted Data or national security information to which the individual has, or will have access, and in any other case only with specific prior approval of the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security, ERDA.

MISCELLANEOUS

§ 710.35 Terminations.

In the event the individual is no longer an applicant for access authorization or no longer requires access authorization the procedures of this part shall be terminated without a final determination as to his eligibility for access authorization.

§ 710.36 Attorney representation.

In the event the individual is represented by an attorney or other such representative, the individual shall file with ERDA a document designating such attorney or representative and authorizing such attorney or representative to receive all correspondence, transcripts and other documents pertaining to the proceeding under this part.

§ 710.37 Certifications.

Whenever information is made a part of the record under the exceptions authorized by § 710.27 (m), (n), (o), and (p), the record shall contain certificates evidencing that the determinations required therein have been made.

§ 710.38 Washington Area cases.

In those cases which may arise involving individuals within the Washington Area of ERDA operations the Director, Division of Safeguards and Security shall discharge the functions and responsibilities assigned to Managers of Operations in these procedures.

3. Part 710 is amended by adding a new Appendix A as follows:

APPENDIX A—SELECTED PROVISIONS OF THE ATOMIC ENERGY ACT OF 1954, AS AMENDED.

§ 141 (42 U.S.C. 2161), § 145 (42 U.S.C. 2165), § 161 (42 U.S.C. 2201)

(By authority of the Energy Reorganization acts of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5814) the Administrator of ERDA or his designated representative is to be substituted for the "Commission" and "General Manager" as appropriate.)

Sec. 141. Policy. It shall be the policy of the Commission to control the dissemination and disclosure of Restricted Data in such a manner as to assure the common defense and security.

Sec. 145. Restriction. (a) No arrangement shall be made under section 31, no contract shall be made or continued in effect under section 141, and no license shall be issued under section 103 or 104, unless the person with whom such arrangement is made, the contractor or prospective contractor, or the prospective licensee agrees in writing not to permit any individual to have access to Restricted Data until the Civil Service Commission shall have made an investigation and report to the Commission on the character, association, and loyalty of such individual, and the Commission shall have determined that permitting such person to have access to Restricted Data will not endanger the common defense and security.

(b) Except as authorized by the Commission or the General Manager upon a determination by the Commission or General Manager that such action is clearly consistent with the national interest, no individual shall be employed by the Commission nor shall the Commission permit any individual to have access to Restricted Data until the Civil Service Commission shall have made an investigation and report to the Commission on the character, associations, and loyalty of such individual and the Commission shall have determined that permitting such person to have access to Restricted Data will not endanger the common defense and security.

(c) In lieu of the investigation and report to be made by the Civil Service Commission pursuant to subsection (b) of this section, the Commission may accept an investigation and report on the character, associations, and loyalty of an individual made by another Government agency which conducts personnel security investigations, provided that a security clearance has been granted to such individual by another Government agency based on such investigation and report.

(d) In the event an investigation made pursuant to subsections (a) and (b) of this section develops any data reflecting that the individual who is the subject of the investigation is of questionable loyalty, the Civil Service Commission shall refer the matter to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the conduct of a full field investigation, the results of which shall be furnished to the Civil Service Commission for its information and appropriate action.

(e) If the President deems it to be in the national interest he may from time to time determine that investigations of any group or class which are required by subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section be made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(f) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section, a majority of the members of the Commission shall certify those specific positions which are of a high degree of importance or sensitivity, and upon such certification, the investigation, and reports required by such provisions shall be made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

(g) The Commission shall establish standards and specifications in writing as to the scope and extent of investigations, the reports of which will be utilized by the Commission in making the determination, pursuant to subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section, that permitting a person access to Restricted Data will not endanger the common defense and security. Such standards and specifications shall be based on the location and class or kind of work to be done and shall, among other considerations, take into account the degree of importance to the common defense and security of the Restricted Data to which access will be permitted.

(h) Whenever the Congress declares that a state of war exists, or in the event of a national disaster due to enemy attack, the Commission is authorized during the state of war or period of national disaster due to enemy attack to employ individuals and to permit individuals access to Restricted Data pending the investigation report, and determination required by section 145b, to the extent that and so long as the Commission finds that such action is required to prevent impairment of its activities in furtherance of the common defense and security.

Sec. 161. General provisions. In the performance of its functions the Commission is authorized to:

(a) Establish advisory boards to advise with and make recommendations to the Commission on the legislation, policies, administration, research and other matters; Provided, That the Commission issues regulations setting forth the scope, procedure, and limitations of the authority of each such board.

(b) Establish by rule, regulation, or order, such standards and instructions to govern the possession and use of special nuclear material, and byproduct material as the Commission may deem necessary or desirable to promote the common defense and security or to protect health or to minimize danger to life or property.

(c) Make such studies and investigations, obtain such information, and hold such meetings or hearings as the Commission may deem necessary or proper to assist it in the administration or enforcement of this Act, or any regulations or orders issued thereunder. For such purposes the Commission is authorized to administer oaths and affirmations, and by subpoena to require any person to appear and testify, or to appear and produce documents, or both, at any designated place. No person shall be excused from complying with any requirements under this paragraph because of his privilege against self-incrimination, but the immunity provisions of the Compulsory Testimony Act of February 11, 1953, shall apply with respect to any individuals who specifically claim such privilege. Witnesses subpoenaed, under this subsection, shall be paid the same fees and mileage as are paid witnesses in the district courts of the United States.

(i) Prescribe such regulations or orders as it may deem necessary (1) to protect Restricted Data received by any person in connection with any activity authorized pursuant to this Act, (2) to guard against the loss or diversion of any special nuclear material acquired by any person pursuant to section 53 or produced by any person in connection with any activity authorized pursuant to the Act, to prevent any use or disposition thereof which the Commission may determine to be inimical to the common defense and security, including regulations or orders designating activities, involving quantities of special nuclear material which in the opinion of the Commission are important to the common defense and security, that may be conducted only by persons whose character, associations, and loyalty shall have been investigated under standards and specifications established by the Commission and as to whom the Commission shall have determined that permitting each person to conduct the activity will not be inimical to the common defense and security, and (3) to govern any activity authorized pursuant to this Act, including standards and restrictions governing the design, location, and operation of facilities used in the conduct of such activity in order to protect health and to minimize danger to life or property;

(n) Delegate to the General Manager or other officers of the Commission any of those functions assigned to it under this Act except those specified in sections 51, 57b, 61, 108, 123, 145b, (with respect to the determination of those persons to whom the Commission may reveal Restricted Data in the national interest), 145f, and 161a.

(p) Make, promulgate, issue, rescind, and amend such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act.

PART 810—UNCLASSIFIED ACTIVITIES IN FOREIGN ATOMIC ENERGY PROGRAMS

AGENCY: Energy Research and Development Administration.

ACTION: Final rules.

SUMMARY: This action is to amend ERDA's regulations on "Unclassified Activities in Foreign Atomic Energy Programs" to strengthen U.S. Government controls over the activities of U.S. persons abroad in the use of plutonium as a reactor fuel. ERDA believes these amendments are necessary because of increasing concern over the possibility of U.S. persons assisting certain sensitive nuclear facilities which are not subject to appropriate international safeguards. These amendments will assure that the U.S. Government has an opportunity to determine whether or not each such activity is inconsistent with the U.S. policy on nonproliferation, or is otherwise inimical to the interest of the United States.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This regulation shall become effective on September 30, 1977. Since this regulation involves a foreign affairs function of the United States, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553), the ERDA Administrator has found that good cause exists for making this amendment effective without the customary 30-day notice.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Irvin L. Williams, U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, Division of International Security Affairs, Washington, D.C. 20545 (301-353-4119).

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION: On May 11, 1977, a document was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (42 FR 23865) proposing to revise the rules governing the participation of U.S. persons in certain unclassified activities in foreign atomic energy programs. The proposed revision: (1) withdrew the general authorization in § 810.7 presently granted for activities in the Free World involving the separation of isotopes of any source of special nuclear material and certain fuel fabrication activities involving plutonium; (2) added Cambodia, Laos and Southern Rhodesia to the country/area list in § 810.7(a)(1); (3) added a new criterion § 810.8(b) to be used in evaluating those activities requiring specific authorization by the Administrator; and (4) revised the reporting requirements in § 810.10 to conform to the other changes. Interested persons and Federal Agencies were asked to comment and a period extending from the date of publication to July 11, 1977 was allocated for such responses. All comments received, insofar as they relate to matters within the scope of the notice, were given due consideration and many of them are incorporated in this final regulation.

A. As a result of comments received, the following changes in the revised rules are made in addition to language changes for further clarification.

1. New language has been inserted in § 810.7(a)(2)(i) to clarify that the revision is directed not at activities related to uranium oxide fuel fabrication but at activities related to the fabrication of nuclear fuel containing plutonium. This language change is also applicable to subparagraphs (2) (iii), (iv), and (v) of this section. In view of the fact that some equipment and/or components for uranium oxide fuel fabrication are also used for plutonium fuel fabrication, or vice versa, this new language in Part 810 will make it necessary for the U.S. person engaging in any of the activities in the above cited paragraphs to obtain an end-use statement.

2. A new paragraph (d) is added to § 810.9 and § 810.10 to clarify that proprietary information submitted pursuant to the requirements of 10 CFR Part 810 will be protected to the maximum degree allowed by law.

3. Additional wording is added to § 810.10 (b)(1)(iv) and (b)(5) to clarify that the reporting requirement is applicable to "reactor grade" beryllium.

4. A new subparagraph (4) is added at § 810.10(b) to clarify that the removal of activities involving the transmittal of information outside the U.S. of conceptual design or performance characteristics of nuclear reactors or facilities from the activities excepted from the reporting requirements of § 810.10(c)(1) is intended to require that such activities be subject to the reporting requirements of § 810.10 (b).

5. A new subparagraph (v) is added at § 810.10(c)(1) to exclude from the reporting requirements the export of a nuclear reactor for which an export license has been issued by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

B. In addition to the above and the revisions previously published in the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking which remain unchanged, the following changes are also made:

1. The provisions at § 810.7(b)(4), which provides a general authorization for persons subject to 10 CFR Part 810 to transmit unclassified information which constitutes directly or indirectly engaging in the production of special nuclear material outside the United States provided they make the information available to the public in published form within 60 days after the furnishing thereof is withdrawn. Persons who prior to the effective date of this notice engaged in such activity but have not yet made the information available to the public in published form have 60 days from the date of such transmittal to do so.

2. The addition of a new criterion at § 810.8(b) is withdrawn as it was determined that this criterion is adequately covered in the existing § 810.8(b)(5). With regard to the comment received that under this criterion ERDA could reject an application even if the country involved had entered into an IAEA safeguards agreement and IAEA is satisfied with their performance, regardless of whether or not the recipient country has entered into an IAEA safeguards agreement, the agreement may not cover all its nuclear facilities. For example, non-NPT countries do not have to place all their facilities under IAEA safeguards. Therefore, if there is reason to believe the recipient country proposes to use the assistance in nuclear facilities not subject to IAEA safeguards, that information will be given appropriate consideration in the review. The Administrator must, of course, weigh the effect of each of the factors in § 810.8 in reaching a determination.

C. Other recommendations have been carefully considered but are not adopted for the reasons assigned.

1. The recommendation that "the transmittal of information relating only to conceptual design or performance characteristics of nuclear reactors or facilities" not be removed from the exception to the reporting requirements of § 810.10(c)(1)(iii) is rejected. It has been found that it is in the best interest of the Government and industry if the Government is made aware at an early stage of proposals being made to a foreign recipient. Therefore, if any problem is foreseen with regard to the activity going beyond the proposal stage, the U.S. participant can be advised before additional commitments and expenditures are made. A new subparagraph (4) is added at § 810.10(b) to clarify that such activity is subject to the reporting requirements.

2. The suggestion that the word "indirectly" is too broad, that it should be defined, and that certain activities should be expected is rejected. More specificity would be undesirable since it would introduce rigidity in an area where because of the uncertainty of the impact of the assistance, such precision is not advisable; nor is it practicable to attempt to set forth a comprehensive and meaningful list of activities that may fall within the category of "indirect" assistance. Any questions concerning the applicability of this regulation to any specific activity may be directed to the Energy Research and Development Administration, Attn: Director, Division of International Security Affairs, Washington, D.C. 20545.

3. The suggestion that assistance in the overseas design of facilities for fabricating fuel that contains plutonium presupposes that the plutonium already exists and therefore does not constitute engaging directly or indirectly in the production of special nuclear material is rejected. Such activities are subject to the regulation since the fuel is for use in nuclear reactors which produce special nuclear material.

4. The suggestion that the applicability of § 810.10(b)(1) to research reactors is questionable is rejected. The Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and the ERDA implementing regulation, 10 CFR Part 810, do not limit the scope of authority to only those reactors which produce appreciable amounts of special nuclear material. The Atomic Energy Act states "... directly or indirectly engage in the production of any special nuclear material outside the United States ...".

5. It was suggested that if the words "Directly or indirectly assisting in" at the beginning of § 810.10(b)(2) are intended to broaden the reporting requirements to include the activities of their foreign licensees that fall under this section, then the accounting and administration of an effective reporting system will become burdensome on the company. This revision does not broaden the reporting requirement as it applies to whose activities must be reported. As presently promulgated this section is applicable to the activities of a foreign licensee to the extent that information under their licensing agreement with a U.S. company is being used in conducting such activities.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 810 of Title 10, Code of Federal Regulations is amended as set forth below:

1. By revising § 810.7 (a)(1) and (2) and (b)(4) to read as follows:

Subpart T—State Supplementation Provisions; Agreements; Payments

Agreements; Payments

Limitation on the Amount of the State's Fiscal Liability

AGENCY: Social Security Administration, HEW.

ACTION: Final regulation.

SUMMARY: This regulation amends the current regulations so that they will be consistent with recently enacted law. The Fiscal Year Transition Act, Pub. Law 94-274, provides for the transition to the new October 1 to September 30 fiscal year in an orderly manner. It clarifies section 401(a)(1) of Pub. L. 92-603, as amended, which currently provides that the amount which a State pays to the Secretary for any fiscal year according to its agreement under section 1616 of the Social Security Act shall not exceed the non-Federal share of expenditures as aid or assistance for quarters in calendar year 1972. Section 401(a)(2) of Pub. L. 92-603 limits the applicability of this rule (see 20 CFR 416-2080(c)). Section 102 of Pub. Law 94-274 provides that for the transition period, July through September 1976, the liability to the States shall be one-fourth of the 1972 expenditures. The regulations will now have the same provision.

EFFECTIVE DATE: September 30, 1977.
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Clara B. Powell, Legal Assistant, Division of Regulations, Office of Policy and Regulations, Office of Program Policy and Planning, Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Maryland 21235 (301-594-7459).

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION: The Secretary has no options in implementing this change because it is mandated by law. The necessity for changing the regulations is to make them consistent with the law. For this reason, we believe good cause exists for bypassing the normal procedure of publishing a Notice of Proposed Rule Making which provides the public an opportunity to comment on the change. For these reasons we have decided to proceed with final publication of the regulation.

Accordingly, the proposed amendment to the regulations relating to the limitation on the amount of the State's Fiscal Liability for a period of less than a full fiscal year is adopted as set forth below.

(Secs. 1102, 1601, and 1616 of the Social Security Act, as amended; sec. 102 of P.L. 94-274, 49 Stat. 647, as amended, 86 Stat. 1465, and 1474; 42 U.S.C. 1302, 1381, and 1382e.) (Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Program No. 13.807, Supplemental Security Income Program.)

NOTE: The Social Security Administration has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an Economic Impact Statement under Executive Order 11821 amended by Executive Order 11949 and OMB Circular A-107.

Dated: August 22, 1977.

DON WORTMAN,
Acting Commissioner of Social Security.

Approved: September 26, 1977.

JOSEPH A. CALIFANO, JR.,
Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Part 416 of Chapter III of Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as set forth below:

Section 416.2080 is amended by revising paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 416.2080 Limitation of fiscal liability of States.

(b) Less than full fiscal year period. Should the agreement cover less than a full fiscal year, the limitation on the amount of the State's fiscal liability protection is the same as described in paragraph (a) of this section. The only exceptions are the fiscal liability protection for States for January through June of 1974 which will be determined by dividing the calendar year 1972 non-Federal share of expenditures as described in § 416.2082 by two and the fiscal liability protection for States for July through September of 1976 which will be determined by dividing the calendar year 1972 non-Federal share of expenditures as described in § 416.2082 by four.

PART 73—LISTING OF COLOR ADDITIVES EXEMPT FROM CERTIFICATION

Logwood Extract

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final Rule.

SUMMARY: This document issues regulations to "permanently" list logwood extract for safe use in coloring nylon and silk nonabsorbable sutures for use in general and ophthalmic surgery. Ethicon, Inc., filed a petition for such use. Certification of the color additive is not necessary.

DATES: Effective October 31, 1977; objections by October 31, 1977.

ADDRESS: Written objections to the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Gerard L. McCowin, Bureau of Foods (HFF-334), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 200 C St. SW., Washington, D.C. 20204 (202-472-5740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 17, 1975 (40 FR 48706) stated that a petition (CAP 6C0113) for the "permanent" listing of logwood extract as a color additive for coloring nylon and silk nonabsorbable sutures for use in general and ophthalmic surgery had been filed by Ethicon, Inc., Route 22, Somerville, NJ 08876. The petition was filed pursuant to section 706 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 376).

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the data in the petition and other relevant material, concludes that logwood extract is safe and suitable for use, under the conditions prescribed in this regulation, in coloring nylon and silk nonabsorbable sutures for use in general and ophthalmic surgery, and that certification is not necessary for the protection of the public health.

With permanent listing, the provisional listing for "logwood" in § 81.1(f) (21 CFR 81.1(f)), which was extended to October 31, 1977 by a regulation published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of February 4, 1977 (42 FR 6992) will become obsolete. That entry, which provides only for the use of the form of logwood extract known by the trade name "Ade-lane 75" that was the form marketed for suture use prior to July 12, 1960, is being deleted from the regulations.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 706(b), (c), and (d), 74 Stat. 399-403 (21 U.S.C. 376 (b), (c), and (d))) and the transitional provisions of the Color Additive Amendments of 1960 (Title II, Pub. L. 86-618, sec. 203, 74 Stat. 404-407 (21 U.S.C. 376 note)), and under authority delegated to the Commissioner (21 CFR 5.1), Parts 73 and 81 are amended as follows:

1. Part 73 is amended by adding new § 73.1410 to read as follows:

§ 73.1410 Logwood extract.

(a) Identity. The color additive logwood extract is a reddish brown-to-black solid material extracted from the heartwood of the leguminous tree Haematoxylon campechianum. The active colorant substance is principally hematein. The latent coloring material is the unoxidized or leuco form of hematein called hematoxylin. The leuco form is oxidized by air.

(b) Specifications. Logwood extract shall conform to the following specifications and shall be free from impurities other than those named to the extent that such impurities may be avoided by good manufacturing practice:

Volatile matter (at 110° C), not more than 15 percent.
Sulfated ash, not more than 20 percent.
Hematein, not less than 5 percent and not more than 20 percent.
Lead (as Pb), not more than 70 parts per million.
Arsenic (as As), not more than 4 parts per million.
Mercury (as Hg), not more than 3 parts per million.

(c) Use and restrictions. Logwood extract may be safely used to color nylon 66 (the copolymer of hexamethylenediamine and adipic acid, nylon 6 (the polymer of  $\epsilon$ -caprolactam), or silk nonabsorbable sutures for use in general and ophthalmic surgery subject to the following restrictions:

(1) The quality of color additive does not exceed 1.0 percent by weight of the suture.

(2) When the sutures are used for the purposes specified in their labeling, there is no migration of the color additive to the surrounding tissue.

(3) If the suture is a new drug, an approved new drug application, pursuant to section 505 of the act, is in effect for it.

(d) Labeling. The label of the color additive shall conform to the requirements of § 70.25 of this chapter.

(e) Exemption from certification. Certification of this color additive is not necessary for the protection of the public health, and therefore batches thereof are exempt from the certification requirements of section 706(c) of the act.

§ 81.1 [Amended]

2. In Part 81, paragraph (f) of § 81.1 Provisional lists of color additives is deleted and designated as "Reserved."

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing regulation may at any time on or before October 31, 1977, file with the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, written objections thereto. Objections shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of § 71.30 (21 CFR 71.30). If a hearing is requested, the objections shall state the issues for the hearing, shall be supported by grounds factually and legally sufficient to justify the relief sought, and shall include a detailed description and analysis of the factual information intended to be presented in support of the objections in the event that a hearing is held. Four copies of all documents shall be filed and identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this regulation. Received objections may be seen in the office of the Hearing Clerk between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Effective date. This regulation shall become effective October 31, 1977 except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Bismuth Oxychloride

ACTION: Final Rule.

SUMMARY: This document "permanently" lists bismuth oxychloride for use in externally applied drugs and in cosmetics generally, including those intended for use in the area of the eye. The Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association filed a petition for such use. The provisional listing for bismuth oxychloride is deleted.

DATES: Effective date: October 31, 1977; objections by October 31, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Written objections to the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Gerard L. McCowin, Bureau of Foods (HFF-334), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 200 C St. SW, Washington, D.C. 20204 (202-472-5740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Cosmetic, Toiletry and Fragrance Association, Inc., 1133 15th St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20005, filed a petition (CAP 6C0119) for bismuth oxychloride. The petition proposed issuance of a color additive regulation to provide for safe use and exemption from certification of bismuth oxychloride to be used in coloring externally applied drugs and in cosmetics generally, including those intended for use in the area of the eye. Notice of the petition was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of August 19, 1977 (42 FR 41920).

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the data in the petition and other relevant material, concludes that bismuth oxychloride is safe and suitable for use, under the conditions prescribed in this regulation, in coloring externally applied drugs and in coloring cosmetics generally, including drugs and cosmetics intended for use in the area of the eye, and that certification is not necessary for the protection of the public health.

Bismuth oxychloride has been provisionally listed for use in cosmetics under § 81.1(g) (21 CFR 81.1(g)). With permanent listing of bismuth oxychloride under §§ 73.1162 and 73.2162, the listing under § 81.1(g) becomes obsolete.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 706(b), (c), and (d), 74 Stat. 399-403 (21 U.S.C. 376(b), (c), and (d))) and the transitional provisions of the Color Additive Amendments of 1960 (Title II, Pub. L. 86-618, sec. 203, 74 Stat. 404-407 (21 U.S.C. 376 note)) and under authority delegated to the Commissioner (21 CFR 5.1), Parts 73 and 81 are amended as follows:

1. Part 73 is amended:
a. By adding new § 73.1162 to Subpart B, to read as follows:

§ 73.1162 Bismuth oxychloride.

(a) Identity. (1) The color additive bismuth oxychloride is a synthetically prepared white or nearly white amorphous or finely crystalline, odorless powder consisting principally of BiOCl.

(2) Color additive mixtures for drug use made with bismuth oxychloride may contain only those diluents that are suitable and that are listed in this subpart as safe in color additive mixtures for coloring externally applied drugs.

(b) Specifications. The color additive bismuth oxychloride shall conform to the following specifications and shall be free from impurities other than those named to the extent that such other impurities may be avoided by good manufacturing practice:

Volatile matter, not more than 0.5 percent.
Lead (as Pb), not more than 20 parts per million.

Arsenic (as As), not more than 3 parts per million.

Mercury (as Hg), not more than 1 part per million.

Bismuth oxychloride, not less than 98 percent.

(c) Uses and restrictions. The color additive bismuth oxychloride may be safely used in coloring externally applied drugs, including those intended for use in the area of the eye, in amounts consistent with good manufacturing practice.

(d) Labeling. The color additive and any mixture prepared therefrom intended solely or in part for coloring purposes shall bear, in addition to any information required by law, labeling in accordance with the provisions of § 70.25 of this chapter.

(e) Exemption from certification. Certification of this color additive is not necessary for the protection of the public health, and therefore batches thereof are exempt from certification pursuant to section 706(c) of the act.

b. By adding new § 73.2162 to Subpart C, to read as follows:

§ 73.2162 Bismuth oxychloride.

(a) Identity and specifications. (1) The color additive bismuth oxychloride shall conform in identity and specifications to the requirements of § 73.1162(a) (1) and (b).

(2) Color additive mixtures of bismuth oxychloride may contain the following diluents:

(i) For coloring cosmetics generally, only those diluents listed under § 73.1001 (a) (1);

(ii) For coloring externally applied cosmetics, only those diluents listed in § 73.1001(b) and, in addition, nitrocellulose.

(b) Uses and restrictions. The color additive bismuth oxychloride may be safely used in coloring cosmetics generally, including cosmetics intended for use in the area of the eye, in amounts consistent with good manufacturing practice.

(c) Labeling. The color additive and any mixture prepared therefrom intended solely or in part for coloring purposes shall bear, in addition to any information required by law, labeling in accordance with provisions of § 70.25 of this chapter.

(d) Exemption from certification. Certification of this color additive is not necessary for the protection of the public health, and therefore batches thereof are exempt from certification pursuant to section 706(c) of the act.

§ 81.1 [Amended]

2. Part 81 is amended in paragraph (g) of § 81.1 Provisional lists of color additives, by deleting the entry "Bismuth oxychloride."

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing regulation may at any time on or before October 31, 1977, file with the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, Room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md.

PART 74—LISTING OF COLOR ADDITIVES SUBJECT TO CERTIFICATION

D&C Green No. 5

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This document amends regulations listing D&C Green No. 5 for coloring sutures to include its safe use in coloring nylon 6 [poly-(ε-caprolactam)] sutures and deletes the requirements that sutures dyed by D&C Green No. 5 conform in all respects to the requirements of the United States Pharmacopoeia. Ethicon, Inc., filed a petition for such use.

DATES: Effective October 31, 1977; objections by October 31, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Written objections to the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Gerard L. McCowin, Bureau of Foods (HFF-334), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 200 C St. SW, Washington, D.C. 20204 (202-472-5740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 4, 1976 (41 FR 43754) stated that a petition (CAP 6C0126) had been filed by Ethicon, Inc., Route 22, Somerville, N.J. 08876. The petition requested listing of D&C Green No. 5 under § 74.1205 (21 CFR 74.1205) as safe and suitable for coloring nylon 6 non-absorbable sutures for use in general surgery. The petition also requested the deletion of the present requirement in § 74.1205(c) (2) that nylon (the copolymer of adipic acid and hexamethylenediamine) nonabsorbable sutures colored with D&C Green No. 5 conform in all respects to the requirements of the United States Pharmacopoeia, e.g., the color may be used in new sutures designed to permit needles to be detached from suture material with less force than the U.S.P. requires. The petition was filed pursuant to section 706 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 376).

The Commissioner, having evaluated the data in the petition and other relevant material, concludes that D&C Green No. 5 is safe under the conditions set forth below for use in coloring nylon surgical sutures for use in general surgery and that certification is necessary for the protection of the public health. The generally recognized names, nylon 66 for the copolymer of adipic acid and hexamethylenediamine and nylon 6 for poly-(ε-caprolactam), are used to identify the types of nylon sutures that may be dyed with D&C Green No. 5.

The Commissioner also concludes that there are sufficient safeguards, other than the color additive regulations, available to ensure that the dyed sutures comply with appropriate specifications for surgical sutures, i.e., the requirements of the U.S.P. if the sutures are marketed as U.S.P. requirements of the applicable new drug applications, and the general requirements of good manufacturing practice. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the U.S.P. requirement is unnecessary, and § 74.1205 is amended below to delete this provision and to include some nonsubstantive changes.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 706(b), (c), and (d), 74 Stat. 399-403 (21 U.S.C. 376(b), (c), and (d))) and under authority delegated to the Commissioner (21 CFR 5.1), Part 74 is amended by revising paragraph (c) in § 74.1205, to read as follows:

§ 74.1205 D&C Green No. 5.

(c) Uses and restrictions. D&C Green No. 5 may be safely used to color nylon 66 (the copolymer of adipic acid and hexamethylenediamine) and/or nylon 6 [poly-(ε-caprolactam)] nonabsorbable surgical sutures for use in general surgery, subject to the following restrictions:

(1) The quantity of the color additive does not exceed 0.6 percent by weight of the suture.

(2) When the sutures are used for the purposes specified in their labeling, there is no migration of the color additive to the surrounding tissue.

(3) If the suture is a new drug, an approved new-drug application, pursuant to section 505 of the act, is in effect for it.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing regulation may at any time on or before October 31, 1977, file with the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order, specify with particularity the provisions of the regulation deemed objectionable, and state the grounds for the objections. Objections shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of § 71.30 (21 CFR 71.30). If a hearing is requested, the objections shall state the issues for the hearing, shall be supported by grounds factually and legally sufficient to justify the relief sought, and shall include a detailed description and analysis of the factual information intended to be presented in support of the objections in the event that a hearing is held. Four copies of all documents shall be filed and should be identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this regulation. Received objections may be seen in the Hearing Clerk's office, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Effective date: This regulation shall become effective October 31, 1977, except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SUBCHAPTER A—GENERAL

D&C ORANGE No. 4

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This document "permanently" lists D&C Orange No. 4 for safe use in coloring drug and cosmetic products that are applied externally. The Toilet Goods Association filed a petition for such use. Certification of the color additive is necessary. This rule will remove the color additive from provisional listing.

DATES: Effective October 31, 1977; objections by October 31, 1977.

ADDRESS: Written objections to the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, Room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Gerard L. McCowin, Bureau of Foods (HFF-334), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 200 C Street SW., Washington, D.C. 20204 (202-472-5740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of November 20, 1968 (33 FR 17205) stated that a petition (CAP 35) for the "permanent" listing of D&C Orange No. 4 as a color additive for use in drugs and cosmetics that are applied externally had been filed by the Toilet Goods Association, Inc. (now the Cosmetic, Toilet, and Fragrance Association, 1133 15th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20005); the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association (1155 15th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20005), and the Certified Color Industry Committee (now the Certified Color Manufacturers Association, 900 17th Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20006), c/o Hazelton Laboratories, Inc., P.O. Box 30, Falls Church, Va. 22046. The petition was filed pursuant to section 706 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 376).

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the data in the petition and other relevant material, concludes that D&C Orange No. 4 is safe and suitable for use, under the conditions prescribed in this regulation, in coloring drug and cosmetic products that are applied externally, and that certification is necessary for the protection of the public health.

With permanent listing, the provisional listing for "D&C Orange No. 4" in § 81.1(b) (21 CFR 81.1(b)), which was extended to October 31, 1977, by regulation published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of February 4, 1977 (42 FR 6992), will become obsolete, and that entry is being deleted from the regulations.

This regulation does not list D&C Orange No. 4 for use in lakes as requested in the petition. The Commissioner notes that proposed regulations related to the use of color additives in lakes were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of May 11, 1965 (30 FR 6490). The Commissioner advises that new proposed regulations governing the use of color additives in lakes will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in the near future and concludes that the listing of colors for use in lakes can best be implemented by general regulations. D&C Orange No. 4 will, therefore, continue to be approved for use in lakes for coloring externally applied drugs and cosmetics under the general provisional listing for "Lakes (D&C)" under § 81.1(b).

This regulation establishes specifications for the certification of batches of D&C Orange No. 4 that are more restrictive than those currently prescribed under § 82.1254 (21 CFR 82.1254). Additionally, the identity of the color has been revised to be consistent with current chemical nomenclature. The identity nomenclature and the specifications currently prescribed in § 82.1254 become obsolete upon the effective date of new §§ 74.1254 and 74.1254 (21 CFR 74.1254 and 74.2254). However, it is necessary to retain § 82.1254 to provide for the use of the color additive in lakes. Accordingly, § 82.1254 is revised to reference the identity nomenclature and specifications prescribed by § 74.1254.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, (sec. 706 (b), (c), and (d), 74 Stat. 399-403 (21 U.S.C. 376 (b), (c), and (d))) and the transitional provisions of the Color Additive Amendments of 1960 (Title II, Pub. L. 86-618, sec. 203, 74 Stat. 404-407 (21 U.S.C. 376 note)), and under authority delegated to the Commissioner (21 CFR 5.1), Parts 74, 81, and 82 are amended as follows:

PART 74—LISTING OF COLOR ADDITIVES SUBJECT TO CERTIFICATION

1. Part 74 is amended:

PART 81—GENERAL SPECIFICATIONS AND GENERAL RESTRICTIONS FOR PROVISIONAL COLOR ADDITIVES FOR USE IN FOODS, DRUGS, AND COSMETICS

§ 81.1 [Amended]

2. In Part 81, by amending the table in paragraph (b) of § 81.1 Provisional lists of color additives, by deleting the entry for "D&C Orange No. 4."

PART 82—LISTING OF CERTIFIED PROVISIONALLY LISTED COLORS AND SPECIFICATIONS

3. Part 82 is amended by revising § 82.1254 to read as follows:

The color additive D&C Orange No. 4 shall conform in identity and specifications to the requirements of § 74.1254 (a) (1) and (b) of this chapter. D&C Orange No. 4 is restricted to use in externally applied drugs and cosmetics.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing regulation may at any time on or before October 31, 1977, file with the Hearing Clerk (HFC-20), Food and Drug Administration, Room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857, written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the regulation, specify with particularity the provisions of the regulation deemed objectionable, and state the grounds for the objections. Objections shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of § 71.30 (21 CFR 71.30). If a hearing is requested, the objections shall state the issues for the hearing, shall be supported by grounds factually and legally sufficient to justify the relief sought, and shall include a detailed description and analysis of the factual information intended to be presented in support of the objections in the event that a hearing is held. Four copies of all documents shall be filed and identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this regulation. Received objections may be seen in the office of the Hearing Clerk between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Effective date: This regulation shall become effective October 31, 1977, except as to any provisions that may be stayed by the filing of proper objections. Notice of the filing of objections or lack thereof will be announced in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of February 17, 1976 (41 FR 7148), announced that a petition (MF-3539) has been filed by the National Cottonseed Products Association, Inc., P.O. The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the petition and other relevant material, concludes that § 573.140 should be amended as set forth below.

Title 24—Housing and Urban Development

CHAPTER VIII—LOW-INCOME HOUSING, DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

[Docket No. R-77-344]

PART 866—LEASE AND GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

Tenant Maintenance

AGENCY: Department of Housing and Urban Development.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This final rule amends Title 24, Chapter VIII, Part 866 § 866.4(g) Tenant Maintenance, to clarify the provision of § 866.4(g) permitting Public Housing Agencies (PHAs) to incorporate into the lease a provision for the performance of seasonal and other maintenance tasks by tenants where it has been common practice for tenants of the given type of dwelling unit to perform such tasks. The Department has become aware that interested parties have interpreted this section, which permits leases to provide for tenant performance of seasonal and other maintenance tasks, as (1) being limited to tenants of projects of the specified architectural or structural types mentioned as examples in the section and (2) specifying that the option of tenant performance shall be embodied in an agreement between the Public Housing Agency (PHA) and the tenant which is separate from the lease.

This rule clarifies the intent of the original issuance which was to permit PHAs to incorporate into the lease a provision for the performance of seasonal and other maintenance tasks by tenants where it has been common practice for tenants of the given type of dwelling unit to perform such tasks.

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 31, 1977.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Edward Whipple, Chief, Rental and Occupancy Branch, 202-755-6596, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Washington, D.C. 20410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Department gave notice on January 17, 1977, at 42 FR 3181, that it was proposing to amend Title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter VIII, § 866.4(g), Tenant Maintenance.

Five comments were received in response to the proposed amendment. The following is a discussion of the comments and suggestions and of the changes to the amendment made in response to those comments:

1. Two comments suggested that a universal application of the proposed amendment to require all tenants to perform maintenance tasks could cause serious injury or grave hardship to disabled or elderly tenants. In addition, it was suggested that hardship might result to tenants whose employment requires them to work long hours, or who have the sole responsibility for the care and custody of young children. It was therefore suggested that the amendment of § 866.4(g) should contain a clause requiring the PHA to exempt such persons from the mandatory maintenance requirement.

Although some degree of hardship may result to those tenants for whom the demands of family life and employment are stringent, no evidence has come to the attention of the Department which would justify exempting these tenants from the requirement of the amendment. Accordingly, this suggestion has not been adopted.

With respect to the exemption of disabled tenants from the requirement of the amendment, the Department recognizes that injury or hardship could result to such public housing tenants who may be handicapped. Similar considerations exist concerning the ability of the elderly to perform maintenance work. While the Department does not wish to impose any undue burdens on the elderly or disabled, it is our position that not all elderly, disabled, or handicapped tenants are incapable or unwilling to perform maintenance tasks by reason of age or physical impairment. In this connection, the amendment has been revised in response to this comment to provide that the PHA shall exempt those tenants who are unable to perform seasonal maintenance or other maintenance tasks because of age or physical disability.

2. One comment suggested that the amendment should specifically provide that tenants who object to a mandatory maintenance requirement must be informed of their right to contest such requirement pursuant to the regulations for grievance procedures, 24 CFR Part 866, Subpart B. The regulations for grievance procedures provide in 24 CFR, § 866.50 that grievance procedures shall be "established and implemented by . . . (PHAs) to assure that PHA tenants are afforded an opportunity for a hearing if the tenant disputes within a reasonable time any PHA action or failure to act involving the tenant's lease with the PHA or PHA regulations which adversely affect the individual tenant's rights, duties, welfare, or status." Since the above-quoted language entitling tenants to the HUD grievance procedures follows and refers to all the provisions governing PHA leases in Subpart A of Part 866, it was not deemed necessary to include a specific reference to the grievance procedures in the text of the amendment.

3. One comment expressed concern over the substantive meaning of the word "customary" in the amendment. The Department has decided that a further definition of the term would be inappropriate because of the extensive variations among projects related to building type, climate and past PHA practices. It was also suggested that the amendment should be revised to clarify that public housing agencies would be precluded from delegating maintenance tasks to tenants where such tasks were performed by management prior to the adoption of leases in accordance with Part 866. It was not deemed necessary to revise the amendment in response to this comment. The Department wishes to clarify, however, that the amendment is not intended to permit PHAs to shift to tenants under lease provisions adopted in response to this amendment those maintenance tasks which were performed by the PHA prior to the effective date of this amendment.

It was also suggested that the amendment should clarify that it is not intended to benefit those PHAs which have consistently neglected their maintenance responsibilities in contravention of State landlord-tenant laws. HUD wishes to emphasize that the responsibility for maintaining public housing projects in a decent, safe and sanitary condition rests with PHAs. However, where State laws and local custom permit landlords to require that certain tasks be performed by tenants, PHAs are also permitted to do so. The inaction of those PHAs which have been neglectful of their obligations is addressed by the clause of the amendment which states that a maintenance requirement provision in a PHA lease form shall be included "in good faith and not for the purpose of evading the obligations of the PHA," and this clause indicates that such neglect may not be continued by a shifting of responsibility for maintenance to the project tenants.

4. One comment suggested that the amendment removes the power from tenants to consent to perform maintenance responsibilities. It was not the intention of the Department to provide for tenant consent in this provision. The regulations of the Department for Lease and Grievance Procedures provide in section 866.3 that tenants shall have the right to make written comments on the PHA's proposed lease which the PHA is required to consider prior to formal adoption of the new lease by the PHA. PHAs are expected to consider all comments submitted to them pursuant to section 866.3 with care and with due concern for the Congressional admonition in the United States Housing Act requiring sound management practices. Tenants are, of course, free to petition the PHA at any time to request a change in the form of lease used by the PHA.

The same comment suggested that the amendment allows PHAs to unilaterally assign to tenants any maintenance responsibilities the PHA appropriate. The language of the amendment which empowers PHAs to include a required maintenance clause in the lease is limited, as stated in comment 3, above, to the performance of those tasks which are allowed by local custom and in accordance with applicable State law to be performed by tenants of dwelling units of a similar design and construction. Thus, the required performance of maintenance tasks by tenants could not be a unilateral assignment of "any maintenance responsibilities the PHA deemed appropriate."

A Finding of Inapplicability respecting the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 has been made in accordance with HUD procedures. A copy of this Finding of Inapplicability will be available for public inspection during regular business hours at the Office of the Rules Docket Clerk, Office of the Secretary, Room 5218, Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 7th Street, SW Washington, D.C. 20410.

§ 866.4 Lease requirements.

(g) Tenant Maintenance. The lease may provide that tenants shall perform seasonal maintenance tasks or other maintenance tasks, as specified in the lease, where performance of such tasks by tenants of dwelling units of a similar design and construction is customary: Provided, That such provision is included in the lease in good faith and not for the purpose of evading the obligations of the PHA: And provided further, That the PHA shall exempt those tenants who are unable to perform such tasks because of age or physical disability.

CHAPTER I—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Paroling, Recommending, and Supervising Federal Prisoners

AGENCY: The United States Parole Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule establishes a new category of offense severity ratings in the Commission's guidelines for parole decisionmaking. The rule sets specific time ranges for a number of offenses in the former "greatest" severity category, thereby narrowing the number of offenses for which the Commission sets only minimum suggested times to be served. These latter offenses have been treated differently from the other listed offenses because of their relative infrequency and the extreme variations possible in each instance.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 1, 1977.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This change in the Commission's offense severity table will affect only those prisoners who receive their initial hearings on or after November 1, 1977.

Prisoners who have been initially heard previously to that date will continue to be treated in accordance with the guideline evaluation rendered at that time. For example, such prisoners will not be required to serve until they have satisfied the minimum number of months set in the new guidelines, if release is otherwise determined to be appropriate.

	Parole prognosis
	Very good	Good	Fair	Poor
ADULT
Greatest I: Aggravated felony (e.g., robbery; Weapon fired—no serious injury); explosive detonation (involving potential risk of physical injury to person(s)—no serious injury occurred); robbery (multiple instances (2-3)); hard drugs (possession with intent to distribute/sale—large scale (e.g., over $100,000)); sexual act—force (e.g., forcible rape).	40 to 55	55 to 70	70 to 85	85 to 110
Greatest II: Aggravated felony—serious injury (e.g., injury involving substantial risk of death, or protracted disability, or disfigurement); aircraft hijacking; espionage; kidnapping; homicide (intentional or committed during other crime).	Greater than above—however, specific ranges are not given due to the limited number of cases and the extreme variation possible within the category.

AGENCY: The United States Parole Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission is publishing a rule which would enlarge the definition of "absconding" in an existing rule which denies sentence credit for the time a Youth Corrections Act or Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act parolee is in absconder status. The rule is designed to meet the problem of a parolee who evades supervision while remaining within his district, by removing from the existing rule a requirement that the parolee abscond "from his or her district of supervision" before sentence credit could be lost.

One comment was received on this proposal, which was addressed to the classification of the drug "cocaine" as a "hard drug". While the comment was not directly related to the primary issues raised by this change, the evidence cited therein for more leniency in the Commission's evaluation of cocaine will be considered along with other information currently being developed on this subject.

Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 4203(a)(1) and 4204(a)(6), 28 CFR, Chapter I, Part 2, is amended as set forth below to become effective November 1, 1977.

Dated: September 29, 1977.

GEORGE J. REED,
Acting Vice Chairman,
United States Parole Commission.

In the table in § 2.20:

1. In the very high severity category of both Adult and Youth/NARA guidelines, delete "sexual act—force".
2. In both Adult and Youth/NARA guidelines, delete entire "Greatest" severity category and replace with the Greatest I and II categories set forth below.

§ 2.20 Paroling policy guidelines: statement of general policy.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A summary of the comment previously received by the Commission regarding this rule may be found in the FEDERAL REGISTER of March 2, 1977 (42 FR 12043). The rule is made effective for all parole revocation hearings conducted by the Commission on or after November 1, 1977.

Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 4203(a)(1) and 4204(a)(6), 28 CFR chapter 1, Part 2, is amended as set forth below, effective November 1, 1977.

Dated: September 29, 1977.

GEORGE J. REED,
Acting Vice Chairman,
United States Parole Commission.

Section 2.10(c)(3) is revised to read as follows:

§ 2.10 Date service of sentence commences.

(c) Service of the sentence of a committed youth offender or a person committed under the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act commences to run from the date of conviction and is interrupted only when such prisoner or parolee . . .

(3) has absconded from parole supervision; . . .

CHAPTER VI—DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Use of a Priority Rating on Individual Delivery Orders of $2,500 or Less

AGENCY: Domestic and International Business Administration, Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Commerce Department amends the provisions of the Defense Priorities and Materials System's regulations and orders to increase to $2,500 from $500 the size of delivery orders which are exempt from the mandatory rating requirement for filing rated orders. Previously, the use of a priority rating was optional on delivery orders under $500. The purpose of these amendments is to reflect the current dollar level accepted by industry in small order procurements. These amendments will result in a reduction in paperwork and expense for business and government operating under the provisions of the Defense Priorities System and the Defense Materials System.

these amendments, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 27, 1977 (42 FR 38193). Interested persons were invited to file their views with the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Domestic Commerce within 30 days from the date of such publication. Views from ten persons were received and considered. All industry comments received endorsed the proposed rule. However, there were two suggestions to increase the exempt level to $10,000. It is believed the $2,500 exemption level is the appropriate level to cover most small order procurements. Accordingly, the suggestion to raise the limit to $10,000 is not being implemented. Therefore, the following amendments are made in 32A CFR Chapter VI in each of the following parts:

CHAPTER 3—DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

PART 3-4—SPECIAL TYPES AND METHODS OF PROCUREMENT

Negotiated Procurement Under the Buy Indian Act

AGENCY: Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Office of the Secretary, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is amending 41 CFR Subpart 3-4.57, Negotiated Procurement under the Buy Indian Act, by adding two contract clauses. The contract clauses, Indian Preference in Training and Employment and Use of Indian Business Concerns, are being added to Subpart 3-4.57 to fulfill the requirements set forth in section 7(b) of Public Law 93-638, the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450).

EFFECTIVE DATE: (Upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.)

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

E. S. Lanham, Division of Procurement Policy and Regulations Development, Office of Grants and Procurement, OASMB-OS, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington, D.C. 20201, (202-245-6347).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On June 10, 1977, the Office of the Secretary, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a proposed rule to add the referenced contract clauses to 41 CFR Subpart 3-4.57, Negotiated Procurement under the Buy Indian Act. A forty-five (45) day period was established in which to receive comments regarding the proposed rule. However, no public comments were received. Therefore, the clauses are to be incorporated as proposed.

This action has come about as a result of the enactment of Public Law 93-638, the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450), on January 4, 1975. The Act was intended, in part, to provide for maximum participation by Indians and Indian tribes in Federal programs for, and services to, Indians and to encourage the development of the capacity of the Indian people for self-determination.

Section 7(b), of that Act is directed at the achievement of those objectives by emphasizing preferences to, and opportunities for, Indians in training and employment under contracts and grants through the award of subcontracts and subgrants to Indian organizations and Indian-owned economic enterprises. Moreover, section 7(b) requires that any contract, subcontract, grant, or subgrant made pursuant to that Act, or any other Act authorizing Federal contracts with, or grants to, Indian organizations, or for the benefit of Indians, comply with the stipulations regarding such preferences and opportunities to the greatest extent feasible.

As a result of the impact of section 7(b) of that Act on procurements negotiated under the Buy Indian Act (25 U.S.C. 47), 41 CFR Subpart 3-4.57 is amended to add two contract clauses, Indian Preference in Training and Employment and Use of Indian Business Concerns, to fulfill those requirements.

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an Inflation Impact Statement under Executive Order 11821 and OMB Circular A-107.

Dated: September 25, 1977.

PAUL A. STONE,
Deputy Assistant Secretary, for Grants and Procurement.

Subpart 3-4.57—Negotiated Procurement Under the Buy Indian Act

Paragraphs 3-4.5703 (c) and (e) are revised to read as follows:

§ 3-1.5703 Requirements.

(c) Indian employment. Contracts negotiated under the Buy Indian Act shall contain the following clause:

INDIAN PREFERENCE IN TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT

(a) The Contractor shall give preference in employment for all work performed under the contract, including subcontracts, thereunder, to qualified Indians regardless of age, religion, or sex and, to the extent feasible consistent with the efficient performance of the contract, provide employment and training opportunities to Indians, regardless of age, religion, or sex that are not fully qualified to perform under the contract. The Contractor shall comply with any Indian preference requirements established by the tribe receiving services under the contract to the extent that such requirements are consistent with the purpose and intent of this paragraph.

(b) If the Contractor or any of its subcontractors is unable to fill its employment openings after giving full consideration to Indians as required in paragraph (a) above, these employment openings may then be filled by other than Indians under the conditions set forth in the Equal Opportunity clause of this contract.

(c) The Contractor agrees to include this clause or one similar thereto in all subcontract.

(e) Subcontracting. Not more than 50 percent of the work to be performed under a prime contract negotiated pursuant to the Buy Indian Act shall be subcontracted to one other than an Indian firm. For this purpose, work to be performed does not include the provision of materials, supplies, or equipment. Each prime contract shall incorporate the following clause.

USE OF INDIAN BUSINESS CONCERNS

(a) As used in this clause, the term "Indian business concern" means an Indian enterprise as defined in 42 CFR 36.204 (1).

(b) The Contractor agrees to give preference to qualified Indian business concerns in the awarding of any subcontracts entered into under the contract consistent with the efficient performance of the contract. The Contractor shall comply with any preference requirements regarding Indian business concerns established by the tribe(s) receiving services under the contract to the extent that such requirements are consistent with the purpose and intent of this paragraph.

(c) If no Indian business concerns are available under the conditions in paragraph (b) above, the Contractor agrees to accomplish the maximum amount of subcontracting, as the Contractor determines is consistent with its efficient performance of the contract, with small business concerns, labor surplus area concerns, or minority business enterprises, the definitions for which are contained in Subparts 1-1.7, 1-1.8, and 1-1.13 of the Federal Procurement Regulations. The Contractor is not, however, required to establish a small business, labor surplus, or minority business subcontracting program as described in §§ 1-1.710-3(b), 1-1.805-3(b), and 1-1.1310-2(b), respectively, of the Federal Procurement Regulations (41 CFR Chapter 1).

PART 86—GRANTS FOR EDUCATION PROGRAMS IN OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH

Educational Resource Centers

AGENCY: National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, Center for Disease Control, PHS, HEW.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends 42 CFR Part 86 to provide for the award of grants by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) for the establishment of occupational safety and health educational resource centers. An educational resource center grant is an award of funds to an eligible institution or agency to pay part of or all of the costs of the combination of long-term and short-term training activities in occupational safety and health. The objective of the educational resource center grants program is to provide a mechanism for combining and expanding existing activities and coordinating multidisciplinary and multilevel training and continuing education in occupational safety and health under a single grant for a geographic area.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These amendments are effective on September 30, 1977.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Joseph West, Grants Management Officer, NIOSH, Rockville, Md. Phone 301-443-3122 or Mr. David Thelen or Dr. Alan Stevens, Division of Training and Manpower Development, NIOSH, Cincinnati, Ohio. Phone: 513-684-8221.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: These amendments were published as a notice of proposed rulemaking on May 17, 1977 (42 FR 25340). Interested persons were given 30 days in which to comment on the proposal. Two comments were received and have been considered in the development of this final rule.

One comment suggested that the amendments specifically require that the content of the training programs be geared to the occupational safety and health problems pertinent to the geographic area served. In response to this suggestion, subparagraph (8) of § 86.13 (c) has been revised.

The other comment requested that field experience with public health and safety agencies be accorded the appropriate importance it deserves in the review and evaluation of grant applications. The regulation adequately covers this point in § 86.13(c)(5) and (8).

Accordingly, 42 CFR Part 86 is amended as set forth below.

(Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Program No. 13.263, Occupational Safety and Health Training Grants.)

NOTE.—The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an Economic Impact Statement under Executive Order 11821, as amended by Executive Order No. 11949, and OMB Circular A-107.

Dated: August 5, 1977.

JAMES F. DICKSON,
Acting Assistant Secretary for Health.

Approved: September 27, 1977.

JOSEPH A. CALIFANO, Jr.,
Secretary.

1. In § 86.10, a new paragraph (c) is added to read as follows:

§ 86.10 Nature and purpose of training grants.

(c) Educational Resource Center Grant. An educational resource center grant is an award of funds to an eligible institution or agency, hereinafter called the "grantee," to pay part or all of the costs of organized identifiable activities, hereinafter termed the "project," that are undertaken to provide for the combination of long-term and short-term training activities as described in § 86.13 (c).

2. In § 86.11, paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 86.11 Eligibility.

(b) Projects eligible for long-term or short-term training grants or educational resource center grants. Any project found by the Secretary to be a long-term training project within the meaning of § 86.10(a) or a short-term training project within the meaning of § 86.10 (b) or an educational resource center grant project within the meaning of § 86.10(c) shall be eligible for a grant award. However, no applicant is eligible for assistance for a separate training project grant in any project period in which it receives an educational resource center grant. Nothing in the section shall prevent an existing training grant from being incorporated into an educational resource center grant award.

3. In § 86.13, a new paragraph (c) is added to read as follows:

§ 86.13 Project requirements.

(c) In addition to the requirements set forth in paragraphs (a), (b) (1), and (b) (3) (ii), (iii) and (iv) of this section, an approvable application for an educational resource center grant must contain each of the following, unless the Secretary determines that the applicant has established good cause for its omission:

(1) A description, supported by appropriate documents, of cooperative arrangements to conduct an educational resource center among a medical school (with an established program in preventive or occupational medicine), a school of nursing, a school of public health or its equivalent, and a school of engineering or its equivalent. Other schools or departments with relevant disciplines and resources—e.g., toxicology, biostatistics, environmental health, law, business administration, education—may be represented and contribute as appropriate to the conduct of the total program.

(2) The identification of an educational resource center Director who possesses a demonstrated capacity for sustained productivity and leadership in occupational safety and health training who shall oversee the general operation of the educational resource center program and shall, to the extent possible, directly participate in training activities.

(3) A description of the full-time professional staff representing various disciplines and qualifications relevant to occupational safety and health and capable of planning, establishing, and carrying out or administering training projects undertaken by the educational resource center.

(4) A description of the training and research expertise, appropriate facilities and ongoing training and research activities in occupational safety and health areas.

(5) A description of its program for conducting education and training of occupational health physicians, occupational health nurses, industrial hygienists/engineers and safety personnel.

There shall be full-time students in each of these core disciplines, with a goal of a minimum total of 30 full-time students. Training may also be conducted in other occupational safety and health career categories, e.g., industrial toxicology, biostatistics, epidemiology, and ergonomics. Training programs shall include appropriate field experience including experience with public health and safety agencies and labor-management health and safety activities.

(6) A specific plan for making an impact on the curriculum taught by relevant medical specialties, including radiology, orthopedics, dermatology, internal medicine, neurology, perinatal medicine, and pathology.

(7) A description of its program to assist other institutions or agencies located within the applicant's region including schools of medicine, nursing and engineering, among others, by providing curriculum materials and consultation for curriculum/course development in occupational safety and health, and by providing training opportunities for faculty members.

(8) A specific plan for preparing, distributing, and conducting courses, seminars and workshops to provide short-term and continuing education training courses for physicians, nurses, industrial hygienists, safety engineers and other occupational safety and health professionals, paraprofessionals and technicians, including personnel of labor-management health and safety committees, in the geographical region in which the educational resource center is located. The content and orientation of the curriculum/courses shall take into consideration and address problems relevant to the geographic region served. The goal shall be that the training be made available each year to a minimum of 200-250 trainees representing all of the above categories of personnel with priority given to providing occupational safety and health training to physicians in family practice, as well as in industrial practice, and industrial nurses. These courses shall be structured so that educational institutions, public health and safety agencies, professional societies or other appropriate agencies can utilize them to provide training at the local level to occupational safety and health personnel working in the workplace. Further, the educational resource center shall have a specific plan and demonstrated capability for implementing such training directly and through other institutions or agencies in the region including cooperative efforts with labor unions and industry trade associations where appropriate.

4. In § 86.14, paragraphs (c), (d), and (e) are redesignated as paragraphs (d), (e), and (f) respectively and a new paragraph (c) is added to read as follows:

§ 86.14 Evaluation and grant award.

(c) In the case of educational resource center grants:

- (1) the criteria set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.
- (2) the degree to which the proposed project adequately provides for the requirements set forth in § 86.13(c).

Title 45—Public Welfare

CHAPTER XX—NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION AND CONTROL ADMINISTRATION, DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

PART 2000—PUBLIC SAFETY AWARDS TO PUBLIC SAFETY OFFICERS

AGENCY: National Fire Prevention and Control Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This part implements section 15 of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974, which establishes the President's Award for Outstanding Public Safety Service and the Secretary's Award for Distinguished Public Safety Service available to certain public safety officers. This part is authorized to be issued by the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Defense and the Attorney General.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 1978.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Joseph A. Moreland, Chief Counsel, National Fire Prevention and Control Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 19518, Washington, D.C. 20036 (202-632-9685).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of these rules by a notice of proposed rulemaking published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 26, 1976 (41 FR 30792 and 30793<sup>1</sup>), and due consideration has been given to all comments received in response to the notice, insofar as they relate to matters within the scope of the notice.

Except for editorial changes, and except as specifically discussed herein, after the regulations and the reasons therefor are the same as those contained in the notice.

Several comments were addressed to the need for further definition of "public safety officer" (§ 2000.2(a)). Accordingly, § 2000.2 contains three new definitions: "firefighter," "civil defense officer (or member of a recognized civil defense preparedness organization)," and "law enforcement officer."

Another comment was addressed to the procedures for selecting the recipients. It was suggested that the head of an executive department upon reviewing a Secretary's Award nomination should be able to submit it to the Joint Board for consideration for the President's Award, if merited. § 2000.7(e) was added for that purpose.

A comment argued for authorizing review by the national public safety community of Secretary's Award nominations and accompanying documentation. A similar procedure exists for the President's Award nomination, at the request of the Joint Board (§ 2000.5(e)). Accordingly, a new § 2000.7(c) was added and the old § 2000.7(c) was redesignated § 2000.7(d).

Section 2000.3(d) was modified to include the address of the nominee. This is necessary to facilitate announcement of the awards to recipients and to gain further information where it is determined to be desirable.

Finally, § 2000.10 has been added to provide an effective date for this Part.

In consideration of the foregoing, and for the reasons given in the notice of proposed rulemaking published at 41 FR 30792 and 30793, Title 45 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding a new Part 2000—Public Safety Awards to Public Safety Officers as follows:

AUTHORITY: Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974, Sec. 15, Pub. L. 93-498, 88 Stat. 1544-45 (15 U.S.C. 2214).

§ 2000.1 Background and purpose.

The regulations in this part are issued under the authority of the Federal Fire Prevention and Control Act of 1974 [Pub. L. 93-498, 88 Stat. 1535, 15 U.S.C. 2201 et seq., 278f, 42 U.S.C. 290 (a)]. That Act establishes two classes of honorary awards for public safety officers and directs the issuance of the necessary joint regulations by the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of Defense, and the Attorney General. The Secretary of Commerce has delegated authority, pursuant to D.O. 25-6A, for the issuance of the required regulations to the Administrator, National Fire Prevention and Control Administration. The Administrator has obtained the approval of the Secretary of Defense and the Attorney General to issue these regulations to implement the statutory provisions on behalf of the three agencies concerned.

§ 2000.3 Nomination process.

(a) The Nominating Officials shall submit their nominations for the Secretary's Award to the appropriate Secretary depending upon the category of the nominee involved, as follows:

(1) A firefighter: U.S. Department of Commerce, Attention: Administrator, National Fire Prevention and Control Administration, P.O. Box 19518, Washington, D.C. 20036.

(2) A civil defense officer (or member of a recognized civil defense preparedness organization): Director, Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, U.S. Department of Defense, Washington, D.C. 20231.

(3) A law enforcement, corrections or court officer: Assistant Attorney General for Administration, Office of Management and Finance, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, D.C. 20530.

(b) The Nominating Officials shall submit their nominations for the President's Award to the Executive Secretary, Joint Public Safety Awards Board, National Fire Prevention and Control Administration, P.O. Box 19518, Washington, D.C. 20036.

(c) All nominations shall be submitted in writing in accordance with the requirements prescribed in this section and § 2000.4 at the earliest practicable date after the performance of the act or acts for which the nomination is made. Nominations for each year shall be made before November 15; any received thereafter will be considered as having been made for the following year.

(d) Nominations for the President's Award or the Secretary's Award should include the name of the candidate, his/her position, title and address, the public agency served, the locale where the candidate performs his/her duties, the name of the nominating official, a summary describing the outstanding contribution, distinguished service or extraordinary valor, and the dates relating thereto. The description should be sufficiently concise and specific to justify the request for recognition of the public safety officer through the presentation of either of the awards. Copies of any published factual accounts of the nominee's accomplishments should also be attached when available.

(e) An annual invitation shall be issued by the Joint Board for nominations for the President's Award and, on behalf of the respective Secretaries, for the Secretary's Award. Such invitation shall be issued by letter or by notice in appropriate publications of interest to the public safety community. However, nominating officials need not wait for such invitation but may nominate at the most appropriate time in accordance with the other provisions of this part.

§ 2000.4 Nomination and selection criteria.

(a) Nominations for the President's or Secretary's Award shall be made on the basis of, and in conformity with, the following uniform criteria:

(1) President's Award.—Documentation accompanying the nomination for the President's Award must indicate not only that the nominee unquestionably meets the standards established for the Secretary's Award (see paragraph (a) (2) of this section), but also deserves greater public recognition than that afforded by the Secretary's Award because he/she has demonstrated unique qualities of courage, imagination or ability, which have resulted in outstanding contributions to the public safety.

(2) Secretary's Award.—The documentation that accompanies the nomination for the Secretary's Award must clearly show that the public safety officer's qualifying service or act is marked by courage, imagination or ability or has resulted in a significant contribution to the public safety accomplished through an originality of effort which far exceeds the expected quality of performance of the normal duties assigned to the nominee.

(b) A nomination shall specify whether it is being submitted for the President's Award or the Secretary's Award.

§ 2000.5 Joint Public Safety Awards Board.

(a) A Joint Public Safety Awards Board (Joint Board) is hereby established to fulfill the responsibilities of the Secretaries by administering the process of nomination for the President's Award and by participating in the selection process with the Executive Office of the President. The Joint Board shall consist of nine representatives who are of appropriate rank (at or equivalent to grades GS-14 or above). Three persons shall represent each of the three Secretaries. The representatives serving on the Joint Board shall select one of their number to act as the chairperson.

(b) Representatives on the Joint Board shall serve in addition to their regular duties and without additional compensation. Consistent with the requirements of this part, the members of the Joint Board shall establish the procedures by which the selections for the President's Award shall be made to assure the timely presentation of public safety awards.

(c) A Department of Commerce employee shall act as the Executive Secretary of the Joint Board. The Executive Secretary shall perform such functions as are appropriate to the Board's responsibilities, including the receipt of all nominations, and the communication of nomination information, for the purpose of receiving comments thereon, from members of the public safety community pursuant to § 2000.5(e).

(d) The Joint Board shall review the nominations for the President's Award and shall recommend to the Secretaries by February 1 of each year, those nominees determined by it to merit consideration for the President's Award, together with the reasons therefor. The Secretaries shall then recommend to the President those nominees determined by them to merit the President's Award, together with the reasons therefor.

(e) The Joint Board may request that persons representing a cross-section of the national public safety community comment upon nominations made to the Board for the President's Award. Both the request for comments and the comments themselves shall be made in writing.

§ 2000.6 Design and procurement of awards.

(a) The Joint Board shall consult with the Department of the Treasury and the Executive Office of the President in regard to the design and procurement of the appropriate citations and medal for the President's Award in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

(b) Insofar as practicable, the designs for the Secretary's Award of the three Departments shall be coordinated so as to avoid distinctly different recognition of the various public safety officers.

§ 2000.7 Selection process.

(a) President's Award.—Nominations for the President's Award shall be reviewed, and winners selected by the President (or his designee) in accordance with the requirements of § 2000.3, the criteria in § 2000.4(a)(1), and the procedures of § 2000.5.

(b) Secretary's Award.—Upon receipt of nominations for the Secretary's Award, the appropriate Secretary shall cause an evaluation and selection of the nominees in accordance with the requirements of § 2000.3 and the criteria prescribed in § 2000.4(a)(2).

(c) In reviewing a Secretary's Award nomination, the appropriate Secretary may request that persons representing the relevant segment of the national public safety community comment upon the nomination and accompanying documentation. Both the request for comments and the comments themselves shall be made in writing.

(d) Individuals nominated for the President's Award who are considered not to meet the criteria for the Award by the Joint Board or who are not recommended to or selected by the President shall be automatically considered by the appropriate Secretary for presentation of the Secretary's Award.

(e) Individuals nominated for a Secretary's Award may be considered by the Joint Board for the President's Award if the appropriate Secretary determines that consideration for the President's Award is merited.

§ 2000.8 Presentation of awards.

(a) Presentation of the President's Award shall be made at such time, place and circumstance as the Executive Office of the President directs. There shall not be more than twelve (12) President's Awards given out during any calendar year.

(b) Presentation of the Secretary's Award shall be made by the appropriate Secretary or a designee at such time, place and circumstance as the appropriate Secretary determines.

§ 2000.9 Funding.

(a) President's Award.—The costs involved in designing and striking the cast for the medal to be presented in conjunction with the President's Award shall be prorated among the three Departments concerned. The cost of producing the medal and printing the certificate for a recipient shall be borne by the Department of Commerce if the recipient is a firefighter, by the Department of Defense if the recipient is a civil defense officer, or by the Department of Justice if the recipient is a law enforcement officer.

(b) Secretary's Award.—All expenses in connection with the Secretary's Award shall be borne by the appropriate Department.

§ 2000.10 Effective date.

(a) These regulations are effective on January 1, 1978.

(b) Nominations may only be submitted on or after that date for acts, service, or contributions occurring on or after January 1, 1978.

NOTE.—The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an economic impact statement under Executive Order 11821, as amended by Executive Order 11949, and OMB Circular A-107.

PART 76—CABLE TELEVISION SERVICES

Applications for Certificates of Compliance and Federal-State/Local Regulatory Relationships

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Report and Order—Rule Amendment.

SUMMARY: In an attempt to streamline the Commission's procedures for filing cable television certificate of compliance applications and ease the regulatory burden on cable system operators and local franchising authorities, the Commission has amended Part 76 of its Rules. Section 76.13 (47 CFR 76.13) has been redrafted to eliminate the requirement for the filing of statements of consistency with the Commission's signal carriage, access and franchising rules. Additionally, each of the five franchise standards in § 76.31(a) (47 CFR 76.31(a)) has been deleted, although four of the five continue as non-mandatory guidelines. The franchise fee limitation formerly found at § 76.31(b) (47 CFR 76.31(b)) has been modified to allow franchising authorities to assess a fee on all cable service revenues, whereas the rule formerly permitted fees to be assessed only on basic subscriber revenues. Cable systems which were franchised or operating prior to March 31, 1972, will not be required to comply with the franchise fee limitation until 15 years from initial franchise grant or natural expiration of the franchise, whichever occurs first.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 7, 1977.

In the matter of amendment of Subparts B and C of Part 76 of the Commission's rules pertaining to applications for Certificates of Compliance and Federal-State/Local Regulatory Relationships (42 FR 18103).

Released: September 30, 1977.

1. By Notice of Proposed Rule Making in Docket No. 21002, FCC 76-1070, 63 FCC 2d 3 (1976), the Commission announced its intention to review and possibly modify its requirements for the filing of applications for certificates of compliance for cable television operations. This action stemmed from the Commission's desire to streamline its procedures by eliminating those provisions of its Rules that are no longer necessary, thereby easing the regulatory burden on both prospective and operating cable systems without sacrificing its goals for the industry as originally formulated in Cable Television Report and Order, FCC 72-108, 36 FCC 2d 143 (1972). Simultaneously, the Commission requested comments on whether the experience gained in the last five years would justify any modification in the franchise standards embodied in § 76.31 of the Rules.

2. Nearly 100 separate parties, representing a broad range of interests, filed comments and/or replies in this proceeding. The largest single group of respondents was composed of local governmental units, ranging from the cities of New York and Los Angeles to smaller communities such as Ithaca, New York, Kettering, Ohio and Lompoc, California. The cable industry's views were expressed by the National Cable Television Association (NCTA), the Community Antenna Television Association (CATA), and numerous individual cable companies. Also filing were several access groups, public interest organizations, and a number of individual citizens.

SUMMARY OF ACTIONS TAKEN

3. Based on an evaluation of the comments received and our experience, we have decided to simplify our filing requirements for applications for certificates of compliance, as well as modify our franchise standards by deleting all but one provision of the current rules and amending that remaining standard. The actions taken today may be briefly summarized as follows:

Applications for certificates of compliance will no longer be required to include a statement explaining how carriage of all proposed television signals is consistent with the Commission's signal carriage rules; instead, the applicant will be requested to justify only the carriage of signals that do not fall within the "normal" complement envisioned by the applicable rule. Additionally, certain information on microwave delivery eventually reported through Form 325 need not be supplied at the time of certification.

Applications will no longer be required to include a statement explaining how the system's franchise is consistent with Federal standards.

In lieu of the previously required statement explaining how the system will comply with the Commission's rules on access services, the applicant will be required to state the number of usable channels actually provided to any subscriber's home, and whether, if applicable under § 76.254(b) of the Rules, the applicant has reserved at least one channel exclusively for the presentation of access programming.

Section 76.13 of the Rules is redrafted to reflect the aforementioned changes, and to require the applicant to submit all the relevant information except that which has previously been filed for each community unit.

Each of the five franchise standards in § 76.31(a) of the Rules is deleted. However, four of the five—dealing with franchise award proceedings, franchise duration, construction timetables, and complaint procedures—are continued as non-mandatory guidelines. In addition, the franchise fee limitation found at § 76.31(b) will be modified to allow inclusion of all revenues derived from cable services in the fee base. Franchising authorities will be permitted to assess a fee on all cable revenues as of the effective date of this Report and Order (if consistent with the provisions of their franchise). The fee limitation will not be applied to system community units which were franchised or commenced operation prior to March 31, 1972 until 15 years from the date of initial grant of the underlying franchise, or the end of the current franchise period, whichever occurs first. In those cases, consistent with New York State Commission on Cable Television, FCC 77-98, 62 FCC 2d 975 (1977), any "grandfathered" fee in excess of the rule limitation is permitted to continue for the pertinent period, but not to rise.

All system community units which have not previously submitted a current franchise (e.g., some systems previously certified until March 31, 1977, and some systems that have received interim authorization) must do so by March 31, 1978. An existing community unit that was previously certified, whose franchise has already expired or will expire on or before March 31, 1978, will be required to file an application for certificate of compliance, including a valid local authorization, by the aforementioned date. The interim procedures adopted in the Notice herein will remain in effect for these systems until that time, thereby allowing these systems to add a signal without requiring the submission of a franchise. New systems, in lieu of an application for certification, may elect to file an application pursuant to the interim procedures, as specified above, until March 31, 1978.

Systems operating in communities where there is no local franchising authority and which have previously been granted certification until March 31, 1977, based on the submission of an acceptable alternative proposal, will be recertified automatically for 15 years until March 31, 1992. New systems commencing operations in such areas will be certified for 15 years.

4. Following is a subject-by-subject summary of the comments dealing with each of these matters, together with our analysis and conclusions. We consider first the area of application filing requirements; second, the question of federal franchise standards; next, the procedural ramifications of the rule changes. A copy of the amended rules is attached hereto as Appendix B.

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE APPLICATIONS (SECTION 76.13)

Comments

5. Although the number of parties filing comments in this proceeding was considerable, most of the interest was in possible revision of the franchise standards, rather than the certifying process. Less than a dozen commenters addressed themselves to the issue of streamlining the Commission's application processing procedures. Those who did comment, however, were largely in agreement.

6. Virtually all of the commenters, including the Minnesota Cable Communications Board, the State of New Jersey Office of Cable Television, the City of Macomb, Illinois, the Oregon Cable Communications Association (OCCA), NCTA, Cablecom-General, Inc., Warner Cable Corporation, and 72 CATV Companies filing jointly, agree that the franchise consistency statement required by § 76.13 (a) (4), (b) (3) and (c) (2) of the Rules is unnecessary. The commenters feel that a consistency statement is redundant when a copy of the franchise itself is required to be submitted and the Commission's staff routinely examines it for consistency. Only the Austin Video Users Council argues for retention of the franchise consistency statement, pointing out that the real beneficiary of the rule is the local franchising authority.

7. The commenters generally concur in the dispensability of the requirement found in § 76.13 (a) (4), (b) (4) and (c) (3) that a certificate of compliance application contain an explanation of the cable system's access program. The consensus is that since the Commission's access rules (§§ 76.252, .254, .256 and .258) are mandatory, there is no need for an operator to describe his plan for compliance. Viacom International, Inc. and 72 CATV Companies suggest that the access rules can be adequately enforced by complaint or by petition for order to show cause. The City of Rochester, New York, states that it has no objection to deleting the access statement, so long as the Commission makes it clear that deletion of the consistency statement does not alter the operator's obligation to comply with the access rules.

8. A few commenters recommend retaining the access statement. The Austin Video Users Council asserts that cable operators do not really understand the access rules. Citizens for Cable Awareness in Pennsylvania claims that local authorities and the public are both unaware of the rules. American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. (ABC) argues that the access statement is a "nominal burden which aids Commission processing, deters the filing of misdirected objections, and promotes comprehension of complex federal requirements by the public, broadcast stations and CATV operators themselves."

9. The parties who filed comments concerning the signal carriage consistency statement required by § 76.13 (a) (5) and (b) (5) of the Rules were in nearly universal accord that it should be deleted. Only ABC would continue this requirement, on the same basis for which it recommends retention of the access statement. The other commenters feel that the statement is duplicative, since Commission personnel carefully examine signal carriage for consistency anyway.

10. The commenters expressed virtually no interest in revising any of the other individual provisions of § 76.13, but a few have submitted proposals which provide alternatives to the current certifying process. The 72 CATV Companies suggest that we replace the current process by substituting a notice procedure, similar to that found in § 76.11(a) of the Rules,<sup>1</sup> for fully consistent proposals. Under this plan, Commission authorization to commence operations or add signals would automatically take effect 30 days after notice is given to the parties named in § 76.13(a) (6) and (7). The Commission could retain the power to stay the authorization for 60 to 90 days if, after reviewing the notice given, it

determined that the proposal was not in compliance with the Rules.<sup>9</sup>

11. ABC and 19 Television Broadcast Station Licensees filing jointly propose a system of periodic licensing in lieu of the present certificating process. Those commenters contend that the certificating process provides no enforcement tools, except an awkward and time-consuming cease and desist procedure. They maintain that if cable operators were required to renew their certificates periodically, the Commission would have a structured and continuous process for reviewing questions relating to compliance and basic operation.

Discussion

12. At the outset, we note that certain provisions of § 76.13 are necessary to the maintenance of any federal regulatory program and, accordingly, we will continue to require filing of certain information consistent with the substance of the current rules, although we are re-drafting the Section to eliminate the separate categories of applications it currently provides for. Accordingly, we will retain, albeit in somewhat altered form, the requirements of current § 76.13 (a) (1) and (2), (b) (1) and (2), and (c) (1) regarding the filing of the operator's name and mailing address, the community and area to be served and television signals to be carried, and the date operations commenced or will commence;<sup>10</sup> current § 76.13 (a) (2) and (b) (2) requiring the filing of Form 325; a certificate of service as required by § 76.13 (a) (6), (b) (6), and (c) (4); and a statement that a copy of the completed application has been served on the local franchising authority and, if applicable, the state regulatory authority. Further, we believe we should retain our rules on the filing of equal employment opportunity programs in their present form, pending the outcome of proceedings initiated in Notice of Proposed Rule Making in Docket No. 20829, FCC 76-749, 60 FCC 2d 618 (1976).

13. Because we are retaining the franchise fee limit, and because city-operator agreements also cover other areas of continuing federal interest, we will continue to require the filing of a copy of the franchise or other local authorization to provide cable service, as well as a copy of the authorization of any state regulatory body relevant to the applicant, if these documents have not previously been submitted for review by the Commission, as embodied in § 76.13 (a) (3), (b) (3), and (c) (2) of the current Rules. However, we are persuaded by the comments filed, and our own experience in the processing of applications, and particularly in light of the changes in the franchise standards we are adopting herein, that the statement of franchise consistency previously required by § 76.13 (a) (4), (b) (4) and (c) (3) of the Rules is not necessary, since all franchises are, in any case, carefully reviewed by the staff. Accordingly, we will delete this requirement.

<sup>9</sup> A similar procedure was advocated by Penasquitas Antenna Systems, Inc. in a petition for rulemaking. In Memorandum Opinion and Order in RM-2083, FCC 77-129, 63 FCC 2d 165 (1977), the Commission dismissed the petition, and indicated that the substance of the petition would be considered in this proceeding.

<sup>10</sup> The current rules also require the applicant to state whether microwave facilities are to be used to relay one or more signals. In practice, this provision has failed to produce significant useful information, often because it is not known prior to construction exactly what signals will be delivered to the headend off-the-air at sufficient signal strength to obviate the need for microwave facilities. Further, Form 325 currently requires the operator to indicate those signals that are received via microwave relay. Accordingly, we feel that this provision no longer serves any useful purpose, and therefore, in keeping with our intent to streamline the Rules whenever possible, we will delete this requirement. Finally, to facilitate the processing of applications, we will request the applicant to supply his telephone number.

14. The proposed deletion of the requirement of an explanation of a system's access program evoked a more diverse range of comment. As we noted above, access groups and public interest organizations have stated that problems of getting access on certain cable systems persist, and therefore it should not be stated that our educational mission on access is complete. However, we do not believe that the types of problems cited by these commenters can be overcome simply by the filing of a planned access statement at the time of certification. As previously noted at paragraph 8 of the Notice herein, our access rules are self-executing, and, through our Cable Complaint Service or by means of the filing of a petition for order to show cause directed against the offending party, we are prepared to assist in the rectification of any local problems that may arise. Another significant factor is that the access statement requirement has come to be fulfilled by a mere parroting of the language of our rules, thus raising the issue of whether any educational function is truly served by this process.<sup>11</sup> Accordingly, we will delete this requirement from the Rules. However, the Commission recently amended § 76.254(b) of the Rules to clarify that systems serving 3500 or more subscribers must have at least one channel reserved full time for the exclusive presentation of access programming, except in the case of systems operating on June 21, 1976 and having insufficient channel capability.<sup>12</sup> The access statements filed since this rule was amended have tended to indicate that many operators are not fully cognizant of their responsibilities in this regard. Accordingly, we will amend the Rules to require the applicant to state the number of usable channels actually provided to any subscriber's home, and whether, if applicable under § 76.254(b) of the Rules, the applicant has reserved at least one channel exclusively for the presentation of access programming.

<sup>11</sup> The Commission is not unmindful of its responsibility to educate cable operators, local authorities, and the public about its regulations covering the provision of access services. We believe, however, that this function can be carried out more effectively by other means, such as Cable Bureau publications explaining our rules in non-technical language.

15. As discussed above, many commenters viewed the signal carriage consistency statement required by § 76.13 (a) (5) and (b) (5) as unnecessary, particularly in view of the close scrutiny given the signal complement by the staff and, in some instances, local broadcasters. It is certainly true that the carriage statement is never by itself relied upon by the staff in the processing of applications, and to this extent the requirement may be considered redundant. However, a properly executed carriage statement can be of considerable aid to the processing staff, particularly in the more complex situations, such as where television markets overlap. With the foregoing in mind, we are deleting this requirement and leaving the filing of a carriage statement to the discretion of the applicant.

16. There is one area of signal carriage processing that has caused considerable delay in the handling of applications, and which we believe warrants clarification in the new rules. The difficulty arises when an application requests certification of one or more signals that fall outside the complement allowed by §§ 76.59, 76.61, and 76.63. Our present procedure is to send a letter to the applicant requesting that he justify carriage of the inconsistent signal(s), a procedure that is both time-consuming and cumbersome. Accordingly, in order to expedite this process, we will amend the Rules to require that any request for certification of signals that are not included within the normal complement outlined in the above-mentioned rules be accompanied by a statement justifying carriage of the signals. Such justification usually means submitting information showing that the signals in question were carried in the community prior to March 17, 1966; or carriage was instituted under the provisions of former § 74.1105 et seq. prior to March 31, 1972, or pursuant to a previous Commission decision; or that the signal is presently authorized for carriage by another cable system operating in the same community. Alternatively, a request for waiver of the applicable rule may be submitted.

17. Our intention in redrafting § 76.13 to eliminate the separate categories of applications is to streamline the rule and to clarify that, for the most part, an applicant should submit all the relevant information for each community unit except that which has previously been filed. We will also amend this Rule Section (and § 76.18) to reduce the number of copies required to be filed of the application and any amendments from 3 to 2. Additionally, we will continue to require the applicant to state that the filing fee prescribed in § 1.1116 of the Rules has been enclosed. However, applicants should note that the Commission has temporarily suspended collection of these fees. Suspension of Subpart G of Part 1 of the Commission's Rules, FCC 76-1197, FCC 2d _____ (released December 23, 1976). Accordingly, no fee need be submitted with an application until further Commission action in this matter.

18. Finally, we must reject the suggestion of various parties that we adopt a procedure authorizing cable operations thirty days after notice is given. True, such a procedure is embodied in the present rules for an existing system which is adding certain "must carry" signals.<sup>13</sup> However, we do not believe this procedure contains sufficient safeguards for certifying new operations, particularly when the certification process must serve as a principal means of enforcement. We also reject the suggestion that the certification process should be replaced by a system of federal licensing. We believe that the system of federal/local responsibility that was established in the 1972 Rules has worked well and should be maintained.

FRANCHISE STANDARDS (§ 76.31 (a))

Comments

19. The Commission's proposal to re-evaluate its present franchise standards generated much interest on the part of all parties concerned. However, with the sole exception of the public-interest groups—who clearly favored retention of all of the current rules—the comments, taken as a whole, fail to show any consensus on the proper role of the federal government in this area. For example, 14 parties recommended retention of all of the current rules. Typical of the comments in this group were those of the City of Macomb, Illinois, which felt that the present process is working well, and the Pocatello Citizens Committee on Cable, which stated that any reduction in the contents of § 76.31 would cripple their community's effort to amend their present "virtually useless, protection-less franchise." On the other hand, 12 parties suggested that the franchise standards should be deleted in their entirety. The National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC) questions the Commission's jurisdiction in the area of franchising, given the Supreme Court's statements that FCC jurisdiction over cable is limited to that which is reasonably ancillary to its jurisdiction over broadcasting. Similarly, the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers (NIMLO) argues that franchising is an element of a state's sovereign powers, and as such it is not subject to federal regulation. Communications Properties, Inc. states its belief that, with the exception of the franchise fee limitation, the present standards are redundant, unnecessary, and/or unenforceable, and therefore are not in the public interest. As will be evident, the comments that dealt with the desirability of particular provisions of § 76.31(a) were no less diverse.

20. Public proceeding requirement (§ 76.31(a)(1)).<sup>14</sup> The argument most frequently made for deletion of the existing rule was that local laws presently require a franchise to be issued only after a public proceeding, and, therefore, the current federal requirement is redundant and unnecessary. 72-CATV Companies expressed the view that the requirement is unenforceable, since the Commission is inherently unable to undertake a meaningful review of the local franchising process. This is particularly true, said OCCA, in light of the Commission's policy of presuming the regularity of the actions of local officials. The City of New York stated that, although it would not object to the adoption of voluntary guidelines similar to those in the current rule, it believes the choice of specific procedures used in the granting of franchises is a peculiarly local concern. The Borough of Conway, Pennsylvania declared this provision useless, because the vast majority of local citizens do not and will not attend these proceedings in any case.

21. Many commenters, however, supported retention of the rule. The cities of Huntington Beach, California, Rochester, New York, Bloomington, Minnesota, Westminster, California, and others stated that although this rule was redundant in light of their own laws, the rule should be retained to cover those instances where local provisions are inadequate. The City of Macomb, Illinois indicated that under its laws, a franchise could be granted in one council meeting without allowing any public comment. Pennsylvania State Representative Robert J. Butera further states that in the absence of any Commission rule, local laws alone may not ensure that an applicant's qualifications are fully investigated before the franchise is granted. Similarly, Storer Broadcasting Company points out the Commission's rule establishes a foundation for information-gathering and sets a common ground for discussion, a function for which the "myriad" of local laws do not provide a satisfactory substitute. Certain staff members of the Cable Television Information Center (CTIC) of the Urban Institute—while generally questioning the FCC's authority to set franchise standards—offered their judgment that Subsection (a)(1) has had a beneficial effect on franchise proceedings, in that it "can safely be said to have prevented completely closed-door franchise awards." They further state that without a due process requirement, the Commission may later find itself in the anomalous position of having to grant certification to a company that was se-

<sup>14</sup> Section 76.31(a)(1) provides that in order to obtain a certificate of compliance, a cable system must have a franchise containing recitations that the franchisee's legal, character, financial, technical, and other qualifications, and the adequacy and feasibility of its construction arrangements, have been approved by the franchising authority as part of a full public proceeding affording due process.

22. A number of parties not only favored retention of § 76.31(a)(1), but advocated its amendment to insure due process when a franchise is revoked, cancelled, or not renewed. NCTA, Cablecom-General, Inc., and Warner Cable Corporation propose that an existing operator who has provided adequate service consistent with franchise requirements should have a presumptive right to renewal of the franchise. They further advocate that the new operator in these cases should be required to pay the existing operator the fair market value of the existing system. Cablecom-General and Warner also suggest that any operator who has his operating authority revoked should be required to obtain Commission approval before terminating service. The Commission would at that time determine whether the revocation order was made as the result of a public proceeding affording due process.

23. Construction schedule and line extensions (§ 76.31(a)(2)).<sup>15</sup> Numerous parties, including the Seattle Board of Public Works, City of Minot, North Dakota, OCCA, and Sammons Communications, Inc., have suggested that the current federal standards for construction and line extension be deleted and that these areas should be left to the discretion of the local authority. NARUC points out that the federal standards appear superfluous since enforcement of the standards is left to the local officials. Other commenters, including the City of New York, 72-CATV Companies, Liberty Communications, Inc., and CTIC, indicate that since conditions vary so much from community to community, any attempt at imposing a national standard to cover all situations becomes meaningless. For these reasons, the County of San Diego, California and Indian River Cablevision, Inc., propose that the present mandatory requirements only be retained as suggested guidelines for local officials. Fetzner Cablevision and OCCA also stated that the requirement of a construction timetable for an existing system is unnecessary. Communications Properties, Inc. went further and expressed its belief that the current federal standards have had a negative effect on the growth of cable service. It contends that the present Commission policy has kept companies from even considering construction in certain communities.

24. On the other hand, many parties, including the Cities of Kettering, Ohio and Carbondale, Illinois, the Fridley <sup>15</sup> Section 76.31(a)(2) provides that in order to obtain a certificate of compliance, the applicant must submit a franchise containing a provision requiring the franchisee to accomplish significant construction within one year of certification, and thereafter reasonably make cable service available to a substantial percentage of its franchise area each year. The Subsection further states that any policy of construction requiring less than complete wiring of the franchise area shall be adopted only after a full public proceeding which includes specific notice of the consideration of such a policy.

(Minnesota) Cable Commission, and William R. Friedman, view the construction standards as an essential part of the franchise, even though many of the same parties recognize that the standards are not conducive to enforcement by the Commission alone. As indicated by Representative Butera and the Minnesota Cable Communications Board, among others, the existence of the standard assures that construction issues will be addressed. According to the City of Ithaca, New York, this may not otherwise be the case, particularly in the deliberations of an inexperienced franchising authority. Other commenters, including the cities of Bloomington, Minnesota and Macomb, Illinois, and the League of Women Voters of Austin, Texas, strongly recommend retention of the rule, based on their less than satisfactory local experiences. Citizens for Cable Awareness in Pennsylvania, et al., see the standard as preventing local authorities from allowing a cable system to wire only the affluent areas of a community; to this extent, they say, the standard accomplishes the legitimate federal goal of providing as much cable service to as many people as possible. Several parties recommended retention of § 76.31(a)(2), but proposed various amendments to the present provision. Viacom International, Inc., the City of Charlotte, North Carolina, and the County of Ventura, California Public Works Agency all stressed the need for greater flexibility on construction timetables. ABC suggested § 76.31(a)(2) should be strengthened to insure that service is made available to sparsely settled areas. Finally, NCTA, OCCA, CATA, and Liberty Communications, Inc., proposed that the rule be amended to clarify that any line extension policy required by local authorities must be reasonable and economically justifiable.

25. Franchise duration (§ 76.31(a)(3)). Although our Notice herein did not specifically raise the issue, several commenters took the opportunity to state their belief that the Commission should not limit franchise terms to 15 years. Almost all the parties expressing this view, including the Seattle Board of Public Works, the League of California Cities, the City of Minot, North Dakota, and Communications Properties, Inc., proposed that the length of the franchise term be left open for negotiation between local officials and the cable operator. 72 CATV Companies suggested that the Commission's desire for periodic public review of the cable operator's performance could best be accomplished by other means. The City of New York directly questioned the Commission's jurisdiction to impose limitations on a state's power to franchise.

26. On the other hand, many commenters supported retention of the 15 year limit. Viacom International, Inc. and the City of New York made the argument that 15 years may not be long enough for an operator to recoup his investment, particularly in the major urban markets. Viacom was joined by Sammons Communications, Inc., Becker Communications Associates, et al., and the New Jersey Cable Television Association, in advocating that the 15 year term should be established as a minimum term to promote economic stability and development of cable services. On the other hand, Councilman Stephan J. Delano of Winona, Minnesota, Video Factory, and the City of Inglewood, California, expressed the view that the 15 year term is too long.

27. There was, however, little agreement about when existing franchises that do not comply with whatever federal standards are established herein should be reviewed. Except for Citizens for Cable Awareness in Pennsylvania, et al., the Minnesota Cable Communications Board, and Rep. Butera, who believed that review should take place as soon as possible, the rest of the parties were equally divided between those who advocated review at the natural expiration of the franchise; those who suggested review in 1987 (15 years after the Commission's enactment of franchise standards); and those who proposed review 15 years after the date of initial grant of the franchise. Cablecom-General, Inc. and Warner Cable Corporation suggested that this issue could be mooted if the Commission would enforce its franchise standards by "flat" rather than require renegotiation of existing non-compliant franchises.

28. Complaint procedures (§ 76.31(a)(5)). The notice herein solicited comments on two questions relating to our current rules on subscriber complaint procedures: Is the current provision necessary in view of the fact that these matters can be and are handled at the local level; and if so, should existing franchises lacking this provision be amended to include this requirement, or would documentation of the existence of complaint procedures be a satisfactory alternative? The only three parties (Viacom, OCCA, and the New Jersey Office of Cable Television) that directly addressed the latter question were generally in agreement that existing operators should not have to amend their franchises, but should only be required to document the existence of complaint procedures. The former question, however, generated a more diverse response.

29. A common viewpoint expressed by many parties who support retention of § 76.31(a)(5), including the Carbondale, *Section 76.31(a)(5) provides that the franchise must specify that procedures for the investigation and resolution of all subscriber complaints have been adopted by the franchisee and franchisor; that the franchisee will maintain a local business office or agent for these purposes; that a local official responsible for continuing administration of the franchise and implementation of complaint procedures has been designated; and that notice of the procedures for reporting and resolving complaints will be given to each new subscriber.

Illinois Cable Television Commission, the Fridley, Minnesota Cable Commission, the borough of Conway, Pa., and Sea-King Media Access, is that good business practice alone does not assure the adoption of adequate procedures for the resolution of subscriber complaints. This is particularly true, according to the cities of Duluth, Minn. and Wilmington, N.C., the town of Narrows, Va., and the Pocatello Citizen's Committee on Cable, where off-the-air television service is inadequate, thereby making cable service a monopoly or "quasi-monopoly." Another oft-stated justification for maintaining the present rule, cited by the New Jersey Office of Cable Television, the Minnesota Cable Communications Board, the City of Camarillo, Calif., and 19 Television Broadcast Station Licensees, among others, is that the rule places no undue burden on cable operators, and therefore there is no compelling reason to delete this requirement. The cities of Macomb, Ill. and Milpitas, Calif. stated that they have experienced difficulties because complaint procedures were not established beforehand, and therefore they recommend retaining the current rule.

30. Several parties suggested various modifications to the present provision. Cablecom-General and Warner Cable urge deletion of § 76.31(a)(5)(iii), which requires the franchise to designate the local official that will have primary responsibility for the continuing administration of the franchise and implementation of complaint procedures. Peter Cablevision suggests requiring the specific procedures to be in the franchise; the cities of Westminster and San Diego, Calif., however, reject this proposal, because of the inherent difficulty in revising the procedures once they are in the franchise document.

31. Numerous parties took the opposite position, and recommended deletion of the rule. The Seattle Board of Public Works, NARUC, CTIC, and the League of California Cities suggest that the matter of complaint procedures is best left to the discretion of the local authorities, particularly when the local authority has the responsibility for enforcing these procedures. In a similar vein, the San Diego County Cable Television Review Committee, and the cities of Rochester and New York, N.Y., recommend maintaining the rules as voluntary guidelines. The city of Bloomington, Minn. and 72 CATV Companies express their belief that "good business practice" alone does assure the satisfactory resolution of subscriber complaints. In light of this, NCTA takes the position that the present provision is unnecessary, although it concedes it does not place an undue burden on the operator.

32. Modifications statement (§ 76.31(a)(6)). The Commission's proposal to delete the requirement of a modifications clause in the franchise raised little concern on the part of most commenters. Only one party, the City of Macomb, Ill., suggested the rule be maintained "for the knowledge and education of the local authorities." All other parties commenting on this issue agreed that the provision is unnecessary.

*Section 76.31(a)(6) provides that the franchise must contain a provision which states that any modifications to the provisions of § 76.31 resulting from amendment by the Commission shall be incorporated into the franchise within one (1) year of adoption of the modification, or at the time of franchise renewal, whichever occurs first.

Discussion

33. In the notice, we stated that we were reevaluating our franchise standards and we proposed three possible alternatives or some combination thereof: (a) eliminate the standards, (b) maintain the standards but delete the requirement that they be embodied in the franchise, or (c) continue the standards as they are now. The comments we received, with a few notable exceptions, such as those of the CTIC staff members and the City of New York, generally took the form of "votes" on the worthiness of individual standards, but did not focus on the crucial question of whether there is a genuine federal interest in retaining each particular standard. We have determined that there is insufficient need for any of the franchise standards presently found in § 76.31(a) of the Rules to warrant requiring their inclusion in cable operators' agreements with local authorities. All levels of government—non-Federal as well as federal—share a concern for fair procedures, fulfillment of contractual obligations, consumer protection and public participation. Five years' experience has shown that cities and states are a proper first line of such concerns and are able to regulate accordingly—usually with the added safeguard of local law. With this in mind, we encourage cable operators and franchising authorities to include in their franchise agreements terms covering the matters formerly embraced by § 76.31(a), but we shall no longer require them by rule. (See "Note" to revised rule, Appendix B). With respect to the franchise fee limit in § 76.31(b) (discussed in detail below), however, we believe that the interests of federal and non-federal levels of government are not so harmonious. While the Commission's concern is that local franchising authorities be adequately compensated for their regulatory costs while not unduly burdening the development of the cable television medium, local franchisors often see cable television as a convenient revenue-producing enterprise. With this potential for divergence of interest in mind, we think continued federal intervention in this area is justified, although we propose some modification of the current rule. Of course, we recognize that changing circumstances may justify future reevaluation of this rule.

34. Public proceeding requirement (§ 76.31(a)(1)). At paragraph 24 of the Notice, we stated our impression that local and state laws around the country assure that the process of selecting a franchise is open to the public. While most of the comments confirmed this impression, others expressed doubt that the process at the local level conforms on its own to the standard set forth in § 76.31(a)(1). Our own experience in the certifying process has shown that even in the rare instances where allegations of improper procedure or conduct are made, the evidence to support such allegations has persuaded the Commission to withhold certification on this basis only once in the last five years. In general, we have deferred to the decisions of the local courts in these matters. See, e.g., City of Valparaiso d.b.a. Valparaiso Cable Company (Valparaiso, Florida), FCC 76-602, 61 FCC 2d 328 (1976); Lynchburg Cablevision, Inc. (Lynchburg, Va.), FCC 75-41, 50 FCC 2d 797 (1975). Accordingly, subsection (a)(1) will be deleted from the Rules. However, we will continue to recommend, although we no longer shall require, that parties to franchise agreements consider including the basic elements of the former rule, particularly the "due process" interest in public notice and opportunity to be heard. To those commenters viewing (a)(1) as a necessary albeit rarely used safeguard against fraud or other criminal abuse of franchising unremedied at the local level, we suggest that deletion of the subsection would not necessarily foreclose Federal relief.<sup>13</sup>

35. As we have noted, several of the commenters have recommended expansion of § 76.31(a)(1) to insure due process when a franchise is revoked, cancelled or not renewed. The Commission has been considering whether to adopt rules establishing national due process standards (Docket No. 20019), specifying procedures relating to expiration and cancellation of service (Docket No. 20022) and regulating the transfer of franchises (Docket No. 20023). Clarification, supra. The effect of our actions here on those pending dockets will be addressed in the near future.

36. Construction schedule—line extensions (§ 76.31(a)(2)). In § 76.31(a)(2), we have required that a franchisee accomplish significant construction of a proposed cable system within one year after receiving Commission certification and then reasonably extend service each year to a substantial percentage of its franchise area. We left the exact percentage to the discretion of local authority, recognizing that the variability of local conditions precluded our devising a consistent national standard for construction timetables. Our stated intention in mandating inclusion of such timetables in franchises was to avoid the possibility that franchises would be permitted to lie fallow or become the subject of trafficking.<sup>14</sup> In 1974, we amended § 76.31(a)(2), providing that where a franchise calls for less than full wiring of the franchise area, such policy may be adopted only after a full public proceeding which includes specific notice of consideration of that policy. Our intention in adopting this latter provision was to prevent "cream-skimming"—the practice of wiring only the more profitable portions of the franchise area while leaving unserved the poorer or less populated areas. The rule was not expected to guarantee full construction of the franchise area, which we recognized in some instances might be physically impossible or financially impracticable, but to insure that any decision to leave areas unserved could only be made after the public had been informed and given the opportunity for comment.

37. Our objective of providing the fullest possible cable coverage to the nation remains vital. However, we recognize that a federal requirement that local franchises contain construction schedules does not guarantee that those schedules will be enforced. Enforcement at the federal level is unrealistic and was never contemplated by our rule, since local officials are in a better position to gauge individual community needs and be aware of applicable local law. Even when a construction schedule is part of a franchise, circumstances may develop which require adjustment to the schedule. This can only be resolved at the local level. In the end, whether inclusion of a construction schedule in the franchise is mandatory or optional, provision of the best and most extensive cable coverage to subscribers will depend on the dedication of local officials. The Commission's most appropriate role is to inform the local authorities of their responsibilities and to recommend helpful provisions. Mandatory federal standards no longer appear warranted. Therefore, we shall delete from the Rules § 76.31(a)(2), while adding a "Note" offering guidelines for the inclusion in franchises of construction schedules and specific notice to the public of line extension policies.

38. Our action today should not be interpreted as an abandonment of our ideal of prompt, full construction of franchise areas. We are merely recognizing that this ideal can be approached by issuing voluntary guidelines instead of mandatory standards. At the same time, we are satisfying our deregulatory goal by removing the cable operator from a burdensome position between two regulatory bodies—one of which promulgates a rule but leaves the other to enforce it.

39. Franchise duration (Section 76.31(a)(3)). Just as with subsection (a)(1) involving franchise award proceedings, we are persuaded that (a)(3) can be left to local law and/or local negotiation between the parties. Our action herein is consonant with the view expressed by many commenters that the length of the franchise term should be entirely left for local determination to permit maximum flexibility based on local conditions. Although we continue to recommend consideration of a franchise duration on the order of 15 years, we shall no longer require it. We think the recommendation for some limit to the franchise term is particularly prudent where an operator provides the only cable service to a community, including those communities where poor television reception makes cable subscription virtually essential. In such a community, a subscriber's best recourse when service is unsatisfactory is a franchise provision permitting review of the operator's qualifications at a specified interval.

40. Complaint procedures (§ 76.31(a)(5)). Section 76.31(a)(5) requires establishment of subscriber complaint procedures at the local level, a local business office to handle complaints, designation by the franchising authority of a local official for administering complaint procedures, and notice to new subscribers of such procedures. The first two requirements were included in the Cable Television Report and Order, supra, while the latter two were adopted in the Report and Order in Docket No. 20024, FCC 74-1381, 50 FCC 2d 43 (1974).

41. We consider procedures for resolution of subscriber complaints to be an important aspect of the cable television industry, and we are confident that good business practices will in most cases dictate their establishment, a view supported by many of the commenters. When they do not, we will continue to rely on local authorities to see that they are implemented. Although we have instituted a Cable Complaint Service at the Commission, we are ill-equipped to resolve local disputes. The design and enforcement of complaint procedures are inherently matters for local resolution. In that light, we can see no federal interest in retaining § 76.31(a)(5) and will delete it from the rules. We expect this action to have the beneficial effect of permitting local authorities greater flexibility in determining what complaint procedures are most appropriate for their communities. However, to insure that local officials are reminded of the advisability of including complaint procedures in the franchises they draft, we will recommend their adoption in our "Note" to § 76.31.

42. Modifications statement (§ 76.31(a)(6)). As we indicated in the Notice, we can see little merit in retaining this provision, which requires a statement that any modifications of § 76.31 of the Commission's Rules will be incorporated into the franchise within one year of adoption of the modification, or at the time of franchise renewal, whichever occurs first. Such a requirement could create unnecessary financial and administrative burdens for local governments and cable operators by forcing them to go through a franchising process in the middle of the regular franchise term. The commenters were in near-unanimous agreement that the rule should be excised. If we should at some time amend our franchise standards, we can either mandate immediate compliance with the rule or, in rare circumstances, require amendment of franchises to reflect the rule change within a specified period of time (longer than one year). There is no need for a provision in the franchise stating that our rules will be complied with when compliance is compulsory. Therefore, § 76.31(a)(6) will be deleted.

FRANCHISE FEE LIMIT (§ 76.31(b))<sup>14</sup>

43. At paragraph 29 of the Notice, we stated that our position with respect to fees that franchisors may impose on franchisees had been addressed in the Report and Order in Docket 20578, FCC 76-448, 59 FCC 2d 378 (1976). Therein, we determined that a fee limitation of 3-5 percent of gross subscriber revenues (where justified) was essential to prevent unduly burdensome fees which would frustrate our national goal for the development of cable television. On the other hand, a report of the House Commerce Committee's Communications Subcommittee issued in January 1976, entitled "Cable Television: Promise versus Regulatory Performance," concluded at p. 85 that fee regulation was not a matter of federal concern, although noting at p. 83 that "the Commission has no right to protect cable television against inappropriate local requirements unless it finds such requirements reasonably likely to frustrate federal objectives." We invited comments on the concept of a franchise fee limit and on the appropriate numerical level for such a standard.

COMMENTS SUPPORTING RETENTION OF THE LIMIT

44. All of the industry commenters and a majority of the local government commenters favored retention of some fee limit, not necessarily the present 3 to 5 percent. The public-interest group comments were evenly split on the issue.

45. NCTA, with whose remarks most industry commenters agree, considers it a reality of local regulation that franchise fees are utilized to raise general revenue rather than to defray the costs of regulating the cable operation; that absent such a limit the franchise fees demanded by localities would escalate dramatically to the point of burdening cable systems, regressively taxing cable subscribers, frustrating national communications policy, and obstructing interstate commerce; that in certain named cities such franchise fees, negotiated before the current FCC limits become effective, rose to 9 percent, 10 percent, 12 percent, 36 percent and 40 percent of gross subscriber revenues and that franchise fees would rise to similar levels in many other communities if the FCC fee limit were now removed.

46. Other industry proponents warn of dire consequences if the Commission abandons its fee limitation. The California Community Television Association argues that if cable operators are forced to pay higher fees, cutbacks in maintenance, deterioration of existing services, and no expansion into new services will result. Cablevision Systems Long Island Corp. (CSLIC) predicts bidding wars among competitors for franchises which would lead to such costs being passed on to subscribers in the form of very high rates and foresees subscribers being denied their constitutional rights to a diversity of information if higher fees retard the growth of cable television. Sammons Communications, Inc., states that unlimited franchise fees could literally cripple the industry. Many industry commenters envision a significant burden to interstate commerce if fees are allowed to be increased without limit.

47. The reply comments of Sammons Communications, Inc., Becker Communications Associates, New Channels Corp., and Cox Cable Communications, Inc., argue that existing cable systems with significant capital investment are extremely vulnerable at franchise renewal time to the fee demands of the franchisors and that absent FCC fee limits those systems would be forced to accept any fee provision, no matter how onerous or burdensome.

48. Asserting that the present 3 percent (up to 5 percent if justified) limit provides sufficient revenue for the franchising authority, Liberty Communications, Inc. posits that a 3 percent fee more than accounts for the administrative costs of cable regulation in most communities. OCCA terms the 3 percent limit more than sufficient to cover regulatory costs for most communities and alleges that 1-2 percent is probably all that is necessary in most small to medium-sized communities. Contending that local governments even derive revenues from cable systems above and beyond the franchise fees paid, Indian River Cablevision, Inc., reports that some localities charge a utilities tax" of 10 percent of revenues and TelePrompTer Corp. advises that it pays 26 percent of gross revenues of its Manhattan system to general state and municipal taxes.

49. Some industry commenters argue that in addition to retaining the 3-5 percent fee limit, fees should be based solely on the actual regulatory costs incurred by franchisor. TelePrompTer Corp. contends a 3 percent fee is too high because cities do not in fact incur any significant costs in regulating cable systems. Communications Properties, Inc., would have fees limited to the actual costs of local regulation, but not to exceed 3 percent. Councilman Stephen J. Delano stated that fees should be based on actual regulatory costs and not a desire to fill local coffers.

50. Most government commenters favor retention of some franchise fee limitation, although many argue for a fee limit of at least 5 percent based on all revenues instead of the present 3-5 percent. The City of Macomb, Ill., comments that the fee limitation is equitable. The City of Carbondale, Ill., contends that the 3 percent gross subscriber revenue limit is appropriate and necessary. The County of Ventura, Calif., argues that a limit of 5 percent of gross subscriber revenues would be reasonable. The comments of the governments of Los Angeles, Calif., Duluth, Minn., Conway, Pa., Kettering, Ohio, and Huntington Beach, Calif., support the concept of the Commission imposing franchise fee limits. The City of San Jose, Calif., reasons that if the Commission imposes a greater regulatory burden on local governments to police sections of the franchise currently cooperatively regulated with the FCC, the franchise fee limitation should be raised. The City of Wilmington, N.C., notes that to the extent localities are seriously monitoring the franchisees, a 5 percent fee limit would be adequate.

51. Various computation methods are advanced by the government commenters. The City of Lompoc, Calif., urges a limit of 3 percent of all revenues or 5 percent of gross subscriber revenues. The Town of Penfield, N.Y., favors a limit of 5 percent of all revenues. The City of Milpitas, Calif., urges a limit of 3 percent of all revenues plus the costs of local regulation. The League of California Cities has no objection to a limit of 5 percent of basic services. The City of Westminster, Calif., would retain the present 3-5 percent limit, but base that computation on all revenues.

52. The comments received from public-interest representatives are evenly divided on this issue. William R. Friedman believes the current 3 percent of gross subscriber revenues limit is sufficient. The Pocatello Citizens Committee on <sup>15</sup> For a discussion of the utilities tax issue, see In re Section 76.31(b) of the Commission's Rules and Regulations Relative to the Limitation Upon the Fee That a Franchising Authority May Exact From a Cable System, FCC 74-1390, 50 FCC 2d 540 (1975).

Cable contends that the 3 percent fee limit is not unreasonable or burdensome, but that the computation base should be expanded to include revenues from pay cable and other auxiliary services. Indiana University at South Bend's "Citizens and The Cable" project urges retention of the fee limitation with provision to increase the fee to allow for establishment of local cable development funds. Sea-King Media Access urges the Commission to base the limit on all cable revenues and provide for the expenditure of a portion of the fee for access programming.

COMMENTS OPPOSING RETENTION OF THE LIMIT

53. Comments opposing retention of the Commission's franchise fee limit were confined to a minority of the government comments and half of the public-interest comments. None of the industry commenters opposed retaining the fee limit.

54. The Seattle Board of Public Works argues that the local franchising authority should be allowed to charge whatever it desires for use of its rights of way. NARUC believes that the present federal limitation cannot be justified. The City of Pacific Grove, Calif., contends that cable operators do not need the protection a fee limit affords. Reasoning that cable operators can easily pay increased franchise fees by increasing the rates charged subscribers, the City of Lakeland, Fla., would have the fee limit deleted. NIMLO deems fee limits unconstitutional as violative of a state's sovereign power. The City of New York contends that the franchisor has exclusive jurisdiction over fees to be charged franchisees. The CTIC commenters contend that the Commission's fee limit can be removed without fear of local governments demanding exorbitant fees.

55. Of the public-interest comments opposing retention of the fee limit, Rep. Butera contends that franchise fees should not be a matter of federal concern. The Austin Video Users Council would have the fee set locally without limitation and part of the fee used for public access. The Office of Communications of the United Church of Christ urges removal of the fee limit because of the increased supervisory responsibilities of cities over cable systems.

Discussion

56. When we adopted the 1972 franchise fee limitation, we held it to be essential to prevent the assessment of unduly burdensome fees, which evidence indicated ran as high as 35 percent of revenue, and the concomitant economic frustration of cable television's potential within the national communications structure. In adopting a fee limitation, the Commission sought to balance its commitment to the development of cable with local authorities' need to obtain adequate revenues to defray the cost of local cable regulation. See Cable Television Report and Order, 36 FCC 2d 143, 185 (1972); Clarification of Cable Television Report and Order, 46 FCC 2d 175, 201 (1974); Report and Order in Docket No. 20578, 59 FCC 2d 378, 380-81 (1976). It is significant that nothing in our experience under this provision, nor in the comments submitted in this proceeding, has eroded the reasonableness of the underlying balance and policy objective. Indeed, a majority of local governments filing comments herein favored retention of the basic fee limitation, although offering variations of the 3 to 5 percent range and fee base. See paragraphs 50-52, supra.

57. As discussed in paragraph 33 above, our experience and the sense of the comments support our view that the public interest in orderly cable development will be protected by deferring supervision of franchise awards to responsible local governments. Certainly the evidence illustrates widespread and adequate local grasp of the essential regulatory concerns which our rules encompassed. However, federal goals and local needs are not necessarily aligned in the area of franchising fees. With this in mind, we initially intended the limit to insure that fees levied approximated the recovery of legitimate costs of local regulation and to prevent a burdensome, revenue-raising approach to fees. Since 1972, the fiscal needs of local and state governments have not lessened; and we have no reason to believe that the former propensity of some jurisdictions to assess exorbitant franchise fees, as evidenced in the comments here, has lessened; or that such fees would not be levied were we to delete our fee limitation. A significant burden was envisioned by cable interests commenting here. Since the promise of cable's abundance and diversity of services is integrally linked to its financial viability, we believe the fee limitation serves the goal of diversity and thus is within the scope of our authority. United States v. Midwest Video Corp., 406 U.S. 649, 665 (1972).

58. As noted above, most cities agreed that some federal limit on fees should be retained, although expressing differing views as to the specific fee and revenue base. The range of suggested fees falls within our current 3 percent to 5 percent limit. Because we understand that no single numerical percentage of revenues can fit all cases, we have provided for a range of three to five percent, depending on the extent of the local regulatory program and the justification for it.<sup>18</sup> Even the rule's upper limit of five percent is not immovable, but can be waived upon persuasive showing in the public interest, as is true of all other rules. Without the kind of guidance found in § 76.31(b), we fear that cable service in many instances could be stifled before getting started, to the detriment not only of cable operators and cities but, most importantly, potential subscribers. Thus, we will retain our current range of limitation. Furthermore, we believe this range makes franchising something more than a "bidding" war in which the spoils go to the applicants promising the highest fee to the locality. The setting of a fee limit, we believe, tends usefully to focus local attention on proposed consumer service rather than the price of the franchise privilege. Instead, principal attention should be given to cable's capacity to improve and extend broadcast service, and to initiate non-broadcast offerings for the benefit of the public. These considerations, we are persuaded, show § 76.31(b) to be a rule devoted to broadcast regulatory objectives.

59. It is our continuing judgment that franchise fees in the range of 3 percent to 5 percent (if justified) are fair, reasonable and ordinarily permit full reimbursement for the costs of regulation.<sup>19</sup> While we recognize that no single percentage or range of percentages can account for the multitude of local variations, we are confident that our waiver processes can deal adequately with unusual cases. We are bolstered in our decision by the apparent acceptance of the concept of a fee limit by the comments of the cities, who could be expected to be most opposed to it, and by the experience of the past five years discussed at note 18 above.

60. With respect to the justifications we will accept for allowing the maximum 5 percent fee, and in response to the numerous public comments arguing for an increase in franchise fees to fund public access programming, we must refer to our discussion of this matter at paragraph 119 of the Clarification.

<sup>18</sup> Our adoption of the fee limit in 1972 was based on a presumption that a franchise fee limited to 3 percent (up to 5 percent with adequate justification) is normally sufficient to defray the costs attendant to the local regulatory responsibilities of franchising authorities. The paucity of petitions we have received to allow fees above 3 percent since the limit was imposed supports our presumption of the sufficiency of the 3-5 percent fee. Our practice in the past five years has been to examine closely the justifications submitted for fees greater than 3 percent, but not to require any cost documentation for fees of 3 percent or less. Thus we have recognized that, in any given case, a 3 percent or lower fee might more than compensate for regulatory cost, and to that extent become "revenue-raising." Our assumption has been, however, that any difference between actual regulatory costs and 3 percent is small enough to fall short of being a burdensome regulation capable of inhibiting commerce or an inhibition to cable development contrary to the public interest.

supra. In Complete Channel TV, Inc. (Madison, Wis.), Mimeo No. 54591, 34 RR 2d 1372 (1975), we treated a well-reasoned access service package experiment as a contractual question left to the discretion of the franchisor and franchisee, limited only by our requirements that the fee not be excessive and that the plan could benefit all cable users. Similarly, in Open Channel, FCC 75-1344, 58 FCC 2d 1216 (1975), which cited Complete Channel TV, supra, we further clarified our position by enumerating various safeguards which the proposal must contain in order for us to approve the use of franchise fees above the 3 percent limit for public access purposes. Therein, we expressed as our primary concern that there be sufficient safeguards against government censorship, a problem which we considered inherent in government funding of public access facilities. Based on the concerns of the public interest commenters that using franchise fees is essential to encourage, develop, and insure a successful access program, we intend to allow the use of that portion of a franchise fee exceeding the 3 percent limit to fund public access in circumstances which are reasonably justified, without departing from our insistence on the safeguards enumerated in our past decisions.

REVENUE BASE FOR THE FEE

61. At paragraph 29 of the Notice, we refer to paragraph 95 of the Clarification describing the fee's revenue base. Section 76.31(b) of the rules provides that the franchise fee shall be based solely on gross subscriber revenues. The clarification defines such revenues and excludes from that definition per-program or per-channel charges of pay cable, leased channel revenues, and advertising revenues of the system. We further note that in a recent decision, New York State Cable Commission, FCC 76-599, 59 FCC 2d 1344 (1976), we stated that as long as the fee does not exceed 3 percent (or up to 5 percent with a justification) of gross subscriber revenues, the base upon which the fee is calculated need not be restricted to gross subscriber revenues. We invited comments on the appropriateness of a modification of our rules to permit franchising authorities to collect fees based upon all revenues of a cable system. We also asked if the maximum percentage fee limit should be lowered if such a broader base is adopted.

COMMENTS SUPPORTING RETENTION OF THE PRESENT BASE

62. With one exception, all of the industry commenters favored retention of the current base of gross subscriber revenues. Of the government commenters addressing the issue, only one favored retention of the present base. Of the three public-interest commenters addressing the issue, one would retain the gross subscriber revenue base.

63. CSLIC argues that the current fee base amply compensates the average franchisor for regulatory costs and should be retained. It warns that to tax such infant auxiliary services as pay-cable might retard their development. To support its contention that auxiliary services are in their infancy, the commenter notes that only a handful of communities now offer pay cable, that lending institutions are skeptical of it, and that profits are small. Further, CSLIC posits that it would be inequitable to broaden the base because arguably two cable systems of the same size, in the same community being similarly regulated by the same local franchisor, would pay vastly different fees because one risked sufficient capital to develop an innovative broadband service and the other did not. CSLIC points out that, with pay cable service presently provided to 98 percent of its subscribers, it would be forced to double its off-the-top franchise payments. Additionally, concludes the commenter, this would amount to a windfall for the franchising authority because local regulation of pay cable is forbidden anyway.

64. Warner Cable Corp. submits that circumstances have not materially changed with respect to auxiliary services since the Clarification was issued in 1974; the present fee base should therefore be retained. NCTA argues that it is simply too soon to gauge the success of pay cable. 72 CATV Companies comment that because substantial investment funds are required for the hardware and programming of auxiliary services, taxing them now would retard their development. Storer Broadcasting Co. notes a distinction between revenues from pay cable and gross subscriber revenues. Storer states that to show a film on its pay cable channel, a system pays 40 percent of the gross revenues derived from its showing to license fees and also pays for transportation, tape equipment, cassette costs and extra promotional costs, so that its net income from pay cable is very small. Viacom International, Inc., and Cablecom-General, Inc., maintain that pay cable is in fact still in its infancy as evidenced by these statistics: of the 11.5 million homes with cable, only 8.8 percent receive pay cable and only 1 percent receive other auxiliary services.

65. The sole government commenter to argue for retention of the present base, the California League of Cities, considers it inappropriate to expand the base because the auxiliary services are locally originated and not a subject of federal concern. Their argument for retention appears to be based on their belief that no federal limitation should apply to franchise fees assessed on revenues derived from these auxiliary revenues. Of the three public-interest commenters to address the issue, only William R. Friedman urged the retention of the present base. Mr. Friedman contends that, as most communities simply do not use the franchise fees to regulate cable, to expand the fee base would burden the cable subscriber to augment the general funds of municipalities.

COMMENTS OPPOSING RETENTION OF THE PRESENT BASE

66. Alone among all industry commenters, Sammons Communications,

Inc., contends that there is no longer justification to exclude pay cable revenues from franchise fee computation. Rather, Sammons proposes an absolute franchise fee limit of 2 percent of all revenues, reasoning that the administrative certainty resulting would outweigh any possible adverse impact on the development of ancillary services. Two of the three public-interest commenters to address the issue favor expansion of the base to include all cable system revenues. Of those, the Pocatello Citizens Committee on Cable urges expansion of the base because pay cable does require additional regulation by the franchising authority.

67. Of the twenty-four government commenters addressing this issue, twenty-three oppose the retention of the present limited base and favor instead its expansion to include all cable revenues. The thrust of many of these comments is that pay cable is no longer in infancy, that revenues to cable systems from auxiliary services are rapidly increasing, and therefore such revenues should no longer be excluded from the computation of the fee. The City of Wilmington, N.C., contends that in the near future revenues from pay cable and similar services will exceed gross subscriber revenues. The Minnesota Commission on Cable Communications, making reference to our commitment at paragraph 96 of the Clarification, supra, not to deprive franchising authorities of access to auxiliary cable receipts once those receipts constitute the bulk of a system's revenues, contends that such time has already arrived in some communities and thus the time has come to broaden the fee base. The City of Duluth, Minn., argues that basing the franchise fee on all revenues is only fair since that city's rationale for collecting any fee at all is the use of city public ways, and the use of city property for pay cable is indistinguishable from its use for basic subscriber services. In agreement is the comment of the City of Lompoc, Calif., which contends that the same relationship exists between the franchise granted and auxiliary revenues as exists between the franchise and gross subscriber revenues.

68. The City of Bloomington, Minn., advances yet another rationale for the expansion of the fee base: because the city collects its fee based only on subscriber revenues, it expends more on administration of the franchise than it takes in. Implicit in their argument is the contention that a franchisor must expend a certain amount of time and money to administer the pay cable activities, especially in the resolution of pay cable complaints.<sup>20</sup> In concurrence is the City of Fridley, Minn., which cites that city's inability to raise revenue from the subscriber fee base to adequately fund the city's regulatory program.

Discussion

69. Based on our experience with the present franchise fee base and consideration of the comments filed in this proceeding, we are persuaded that an adjustment in our rules is necessary. We are convinced that franchising authorities do in fact have a regulatory involvement with pay cable and similar auxiliary services that justifies expanding the franchise fee base to include gross revenues derived from all cable services. That regulatory involvement is comprised of the responsibility of franchisors to implement procedures for the investigation and resolution of complaints regarding cable operations including pay cable and other auxiliary service operations. Such complaint procedures in most localities include detailing a local official to the ongoing task of structuring an office procedure for the receipt of complaints from citizens and in practice investigating, expediting and negotiating in often time-consuming efforts to resolve the complaints. Mindful of the rapid growth of pay cable today and of its potential for significant continued growth in the future, it logically follows that complaints resulting from the operation of those auxiliary services are correspondingly extensive and are likely to increase in the future. For franchising authorities to expend the time and money to thus regulate that aspect of pay cable and other auxiliary services and yet be denied access to the revenues generated by those services in computation of the fee base appears inequitable.<sup>21</sup>

70. We note that the growth of pay cable during the past few years has been robust, and we anticipate that such healthy development will continue notwithstanding the adoption of an expanded fee base.<sup>22</sup> We are not persuaded that percent of gross subscriber revenues, provides them insufficient revenue to cover their regulatory costs, and impairs their ability to regulate at the local level.

an expanded fee base will become a barrier to cable systems entering the pay cable market, despite claims of low profitability. Since rates for pay are not subject to regulatory limit, the cost of the fee can be "passed through" to the pay subscriber. Because we feel that basic fairness requires us to allow franchisors access to pay cable revenues to defray costs which arise in some measure from oversight of pay service, and because we are convinced that an expanded fee base will not adversely affect the further development of cable television services, we are persuaded that justification no longer exists to exclude pay cable and other auxiliary service revenues from the computation. Therefore, we are expanding the base of computation of franchise fees to include gross revenues from all cable services. Taking into account our discussion of the franchise fee limit, supra, the new franchise fee standard will be as follows: 3 percent (up to 5 percent if justified) of gross revenues from all cable services.<sup>23</sup>

71. Although it is clear that our preemption of excessive fees applies immediately (as of the effective date of this Report and Order) to new or renegotiated franchises, a remaining question is when the fee limitation should be applied to system community units which were franchised or commenced operation prior to March 31, 1972. Since we have eliminated those standards that would have required renegotiation of these existing agreements, and more specifically, since we have deleted the fifteen year limitation on duration, without further Commission action, fees which we have found to be excessive could conceivably continue to be assessed against these systems for an indefinite period. While it might be argued that these fees should be allowed to continue until the expiration of the existing franchise, we do not believe such a position can be reconciled with our findings on the impact of excessive fees discussed above. On the other hand, imposition of an immediate preemption of these fees would not allow franchising authorities the opportunity to justify the portion of the fee that is in excess of 3 percent of gross revenues, and potentially could have a deleterious effect on the planned budgets of affected local governments. In light of these factors, as well as maintaining consistency with our suggestions on franchise duration, we believe that the proper course is to allow these "grandfathered" fees to continue until 15 years from the date of initial grant of the underlying franchise, or the end of the current franchise period, whichever occurs first.

<sup>23</sup> As discussed at note 18 and para. 59, supra, we are not asserting that a 3 percent fee levied on a base of total cable revenues exactly meets regulatory costs in all cases. Again, no single number can account for all possible variations. Instead, we are saying that if 3 percent more than recovers regulatory costs, it will not do so, in our judgment, by such an amount as to burden interstate commerce or cable development in contravention of the public interest.

72. A related issue is how we will apply our revised fee limitation to existing post-1972 systems. In general, franchising authorities will be permitted to assess a fee on all cable revenues as of the effective date of this Report and Order (if consistent with the provisions of their franchise).<sup>24</sup> The application of the new limitation can best be explained by means of the following examples.

73. If a franchise called for a fee of 4 percent of gross subscriber (basic) revenues, and no justification for this fee was presented, we had previously voided that portion of the fee that exceeded 3 percent of gross subscriber revenues.<sup>25</sup> In light of our action herein, the franchising authority may now assess a fee of 4 percent of basic revenues, so long as the fee collected does not amount to more than 3 percent of total revenues.<sup>26</sup> If, however, the franchise provided for a fee of 4 percent of total revenues, the local authority, absent justification, may still only collect 3 percent of total revenues. Similarly, an imposed fee of 2 percent of total revenues, which we had previously voided to the extent that the fee collected would amount to more than 3 percent of basic revenues, can now be collected in its entirety.<sup>27</sup>

PROCEDURAL MATTERS

74. The significant amendments we are making to the Rules today necessitate our clarifying the procedures we will adopt in processing applications.

Category 1. A system community unit that was previously certified, whose franchise has already expired or will expire on or before March 31, 1978, will be required to file an application for certificate of compliance, including a valid local authorization, by the aforementioned date.

Category 2. A system community unit that has been granted interim authorization pursuant to the procedures adopted in the Notice herein, as well as any system previously certified until March 31, 1977, must file a valid local authorization with the Commission by March 31, 1978, unless a franchise was previously submitted in the application for interim authorization or certification. The interim procedures adopted in the Notice will remain in effect for systems in categories 1 and 2 until that time, thereby allowing such systems to add a signal without requiring the submission of a franchise, although the authorization granted will be conditioned upon the systems possessing all necessary state and local authority. Of course, any franchise submitted for review will no longer be required to comply with former § 76.31(a)(1)-(6).

Category 3. In lieu of an application for certification pursuant to § 76.13, a new system proposing to commence operations may elect to file an application under interim procedures, as specified above, until March 31, 1978; by that date, however, it will be required to file a valid franchise.

75. Those systems discussed above in Category 2 that are only required to file a

Applicant is—	Certificate expires—	Applicant must file (for full certification)—	Filing date
Certificate	Mar. 31, 1977 (substantial compliance, alternative proposed).	Nothing	Not available.
Do	Mar. 31, 1977 (system in operation before Mar. 31, 1972, and has received certification to add signal since that date but has not submitted franchise).	Franchise	By Mar. 31, 1978.

Interim authorization (franchise submitted, but had problem). No authorization (new system, franchise granted before Mar. 31, 1978).	Do	Nothing	Not available
No authorization (new system, franchise granted after Mar. 31, 1978).	Do	CAC application with franchise (for interim authorization application without franchise until Mar. 31, 1978).	Anytime.
No authorization (new system, no franchising authority exists).	Do	CAC application with franchise.	After Mar. 31, 1978.
		CAC application without franchise, but with proof that no franchising authority exists.	Anytime.

77. The net result of the procedures we are adopting here is that no operator will be required to submit a franchise until March 31, 1978, although he may do so at any time before that date.<sup>28</sup> We believe that this will give operators and local authorities sufficient time in which to complete all necessary local negotiations, particularly since these parties have been aware of our intentions in this area since 1972 and since federal standards to be met will be fewer now than at the earlier date.

ALTERNATIVE PROPOSALS

78. As we previously indicated in the Notice, the Commission had been following a policy of certifying cable systems to March 31, 1977, in those instances where no regulatory authority exists to grant franchises. These authorizations stem from paragraph 116 of the Reconsideration of the Cable Television Report and Order, supra at 366, and paragraph franchise (as distinguished from a full application for certification pursuant to § 76.13), will be required to serve a copy of the submission only on the local franchising authority (and the state regulatory agency, if applicable). Those operators who were previously granted certification through March 31, 1977, based on a substantially compliant franchise, and those operators who were granted interim authorization because the franchise submitted was not fully consistent with former § 76.13(a)(1)-(6) (both described in Category 2, above), will be issued a new certificate that will terminate on the date the franchise under which the community unit is operating will expire.

76. The procedures described in paragraph 74 are illustrated by the following diagram:

46 of the Clarification of Rules and Notice of Proposed Rule Making, supra at 189, which provided for case by case consideration of such applications pursuant to the special relief provisions of § 76.7 of the Rules. Applicants in these situations filed alternative proposals pledging in detail to adhere to the franchise provisions of § 76.31.

79. Nothing in these documents limited the certification date to March 31, 1977. This date evolved from the early Commission decisions in this area. At that time there was a belief that 1977 was a reasonable date to review this situation. It was also assumed that by 1977 regulatory authority would exist to grant appropriate franchises. See Sun Valley Cable Communications (Sun City, Arizona), FCC 73-27, 39 FCC 2d 105 (1973), and Mahoning Valley Cablevision, Inc. (Liberty Township, Ohio), FCC 73-243, 39 FCC 2d 939 (1973). This policy helped foster cable development in these communities and we have not had any problems with operators failing to adhere to the alternative proposals. However, in most instances state laws have not been changed or clarified to create the appropriate regulatory authority. We are, therefore, faced with deciding what to do with respect to these systems seeking recertification in 1977 and also with new operations faced with the same regulatory dilemma.

80. Although none of the comments specifically addressed this issue, we believe that a reasonable resolution of this problem is as follows. Community units which had previously been granted certification until March 31, 1977, based upon the submission of an acceptable alternative proposal, automatically will be recertified until March 31, 1992.<sup>29</sup> Community units operating in those areas which were granted interim authorization pursuant to the procedures adopted in the Notice herein will be required to supplement their applications by March 31, 1978, by filing a showing establishing that there is in fact no local franchising authority in the areas where this has not been previously demonstrated. In the future, systems proposing to commence operations in these areas will be required to file a like showing with their applications for certification, but they will no longer be required to submit an alternative proposal.<sup>30</sup> These systems will then be certified for fifteen years.<sup>31</sup>

CONCLUSION

81. We believe that the changes in the Rules adopted herein will expedite and simplify the applications procedure by streamlining the filing requirements for applications for certificates of compliance, ease the burden on operators and local governments by deleting most of the franchise standards heretofore imposed on local cable franchises, and correct an inequity by expanding the base upon which to compute franchise fees to include all revenues derived from cable operations. Therefore, for those reasons, we have determined that the adoption of these changes is in the public interest.

Authority for adoption of the rules herein is contained in Sections 2, 4(i), 4(j), and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That effective November 15, 1977, Part 76 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations is amended as set forth below.

<sup>29</sup> The Commission will issue a certificate of compliance showing the corrected date of expiration upon the request of the operator. Otherwise, no further submissions will be required for systems in this category.

<sup>30</sup> Although we are no longer requiring the applicant to specifically state that complaint procedures have been adopted, we are confident that good business practices will suggest their establishment. Of course, our Cable Complaint Service will be available to assist in the resolution of subscriber problems if the need should arise.

<sup>31</sup> As stated in the new "Note" to § 76.31, while the former limit of 15 years no longer has the force of a rule, we think that limit is an appropriate one and we will apply it to those systems operating where there are no franchising authorities when, in the absence of such local franchise, the choice is entirely ours.

It is further ordered, That the proceeding in Docket 21002 is terminated. (Sees. 2, 4, 303; 48 Stat., as amended, 1064, 1066, 1082; 47 U.S.C. 152, 154, 303.)

VINCENT J. MULLINS,
Secretary.

Part 76 of Chapter I of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

§ 76.11 [Amended]

1. In Section 76.11, paragraph (a) is amended to delete the references to "§ 76.13(a)(1)" and "§ 76.13(a)(6) and (7)" and substitute "§ 76.13(a)" and "§ 76.13(f) and (g)," respectively; paragraph (b) is amended to delete "June 1, 1977" and substitute "March 31, 1978;" and paragraphs (c) and (d) are amended to delete "at least thirty (30) days prior to" and substitute "on or before."

2. Section 76.13 is revised to read as follows:

§ 76.13 Filing of applications.

No standard form is prescribed in connection with the filing of an application for a certificate of compliance; however, two (2) copies of the following information must be provided for each system community unit:

(a) The name, mailing address, and telephone number of the operator of the existing or proposed community unit, community or area served or to be served, television signals being carried or proposed to be carried (other than those permitted to be carried pursuant to § 76.61(b)(2) or § 76.63(a) as it relates to § 76.61(b)(2)), television signals authorized or certified to be carried but not being carried, date on which operations commenced or will commence, and date on which the current franchise expires;

(b) A copy of FCC Form 325, "Annual Report of Cable Television Systems," supplying the information requested as though the unit were already in operation as proposed. If parts of this form have already been submitted for this unit or another unit of the same cable system within one year of the date of filing the application, and the information remains the same, these parts need not be re-submitted;

(c) A copy of the local franchise, license, permit, or certificate under which the community unit operates or will operate upon Commission certification, unless a copy has previously been filed with the Commission. If no franchising authority exists, a showing which establishes that fact must be submitted;

(d) A statement which provides the justification for carriage of television signals which would otherwise be inconsistent with Subpart D of this part (e.g., notifications filed pursuant to former § 74.1105 of this chapter, waivers of the Rules granted by the Commission to permit carriage, proof of grandfathered status), unless such statement has previously been submitted for the community unit;

(e) A statement indicating the number of usable channels actually provided to all subscribers' homes, and whether, if required by § 76.254(b), the applicant has reserved at least one channel exclusively for the presentation of access programming;

(f) A certificate of service of the information described in paragraph (a) of this section on the licensee or permittee of any television broadcast station within whose predicted Grade B contour or specified zone the cable community is located, in whole or in part, the licensee or permittee of any 100-watt or higher power television translator station licensed to the cable community, the superintendent of schools in the cable community, and any local or state educational television authorities.

(g) A statement that a copy of the completed application has been served on any local or state agency or body asserting authority to franchise, license, certify, or otherwise regulate cable television, and that if such application is not made available by any such authority for public inspection in the cable community, the applicant will provide for public inspection of the application at any accessible place (such as a public library, public registry for documents, or an attorney's office) in the cable community, at any time during regular business hours;

(h) A statement of the proposed community unit's equal employment opportunity program, as described in § 76.311, unless such program has previously been filed for the community unit. However, if the operator of a proposed community unit believes that the unit will (continuously during January, February, and March of the year following commencement of operations) satisfy the conditions in § 76.311(c)(1)(i)(b), he may submit a statement justifying that conclusion in lieu of a statement of the proposed unit's equal employment opportunity program;

(i) A statement that the filing fee prescribed in § 1.1116 of this Chapter is attached.

§ 76.18 [Amended]

3. In § 76.18, the term "three (3)" is deleted and "two (2)" is substituted.

§ 76.29 [Amended]

4. In § 76.29, paragraph (b)(7) is amended to delete the reference to "§ 76.13(a)(6)" and substitute "§ 76.13(f)".

5. Section 76.31 is revised to read as follows:

§ 76.31 Franchise standards.

Franchise fees shall be no more than 3 percent of the franchisee's gross revenues per year from all cable services in the community (including all forms of consideration, such as initial lump sum payments). If the franchise fee is in the range of 3 to 5 percent of such revenues, the fee shall be approved by the Commission if reasonable upon showings: (a) by the franchisee, that it will not interfere with the effectuation of federal regulatory goals in the field of cable television, and (b) by the franchising authority, that it is appropriate in light of the planned local regulatory program. With respect to a system community unit that was franchised or in operation prior to March 31, 1972, the provisions of this paragraph shall not be effective until the end of the system's current franchise period, or until 15 years from the date of initial grant of the franchise, whichever occurs first.

NOTE.—The following procedures and provisions are recommended for adoption as part of the local franchising process, but are not mandatory: (1) The franchisee's legal, character, financial, technical, and other qualifications and the adequacy and feasibility of its construction arrangements should be approved by the franchising authority as part of a full public proceeding affording due process;

(2) The initial franchise period should not exceed fifteen (15) years; any renewal period should be of reasonable duration, not to exceed fifteen (15) years, such renewal to be granted after a public proceeding affording due process;

(3) The franchise should specify that the franchisee shall accomplish significant construction within one (1) year after receiving Commission certification, and shall thereafter reasonably make cable service available to a substantial percentage of its franchise area each year (such percentage to be determined by the franchising authority);

(4) Where a franchise contains a policy of construction requiring less than complete wiring of the franchise area, such policy should be adopted only after a full public proceeding, which includes specific notice of the consideration of such a policy;

(5) The franchise should: (i) specify that procedures have been adopted by the franchisee and franchisor for the investigation and resolution of all complaints regarding cable television operations; (ii) require that the franchisee maintain a local business office or agent for these purposes; (iii) designate, by title, the office or official of the franchising authority that has primary responsibility for the continuing administration of the franchise and implementation of complaint procedures; and (iv) specify that notice of the procedures for reporting and resolving complaints will be given to each subscriber at the time of initial subscription to the cable system.

DISSENTING STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER ABBOTT WASHBURN

Re: Applications for Certificates of Compliance and Federal-State/Local regulatory relationships, Cable Franchise Standards

I cannot agree with the majority's decision to delete the public proceeding requirement of our cable franchise rules. As the U.S. Court of Appeals said: "... local franchising decisions are so integrally related to the federal regulatory scheme that any corruption of the local process impacts upon the federal scheme as well * * *." TelePrompter Cable Systems, Inc. v. FCC, 543 F.2d 1379, 1385 (D.C. Cir. 1976).

Events of the past several years have revealed, again and again, the danger of favoritism in proceedings involving public officials, and certainly the cable-TV local franchising process is not immune from improper influence. That is why mere guidelines are not enough. Rather there is a compelling need for a Commission requirement which will let local authorities know that they must give adequate public notice for and then conduct a proceeding which is open to the public and in which all applicants will have an equal opportunity to obtain the franchise.

Our rule requiring a full public proceeding affording due process was a good rule which served a useful purpose and I would retain it.

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER JOSEPH R. FOGARTY CONCURRING IN PART; DISSENTING IN PART

In Re: Report and Order in Docket No. 21002, Cable Television Franchise Standards

I concur in that part of the Commission's decision to delete the mandatory franchise standards of § 76.31(a) because they clearly intrude upon the prerogatives and responsibilities of local franchising authorities. Cable franchising is (by its very subject and function) in my view uniquely a matter of local concern. With this decision the Commission begins at least to recognize the limits of our authority at the federal level in attempting to regulate the development of a technology as dynamic as cable without the benefit of a more specific Congressional mandate. At the same time, I believe it desirable for this Commission to continue to offer the local authorities the benefit of our views in the form of voluntary guidelines for their consideration while establishing or modifying their own franchise standards and process.

While I concur therefore in the Commission's withdrawal of the mandatory franchise standards of § 76.31(a), the same legal logic compels my dissent to the retention of the § 76.31(b) limitation on franchise fees which may be imposed by local authorities. The majority's retention of this fee limitation fails again to recognize the limited nature of the Commission's jurisdiction over cable and, fails, I believe, to meet judicially established standards for the valid assertion and exercise of our limited jurisdiction in this area.

The Congress has never explicitly defined the powers and duties of this Commission as they pertain to the regulation of cable television. In United States v. Southwestern Cable Co., 392 U.S. 157 (1968), the Supreme Court upheld the Commission's authority to restrict the carriage of broadcast signals by cable systems while at the same time holding the Commission's jurisdiction over cable to be limited only to that which is "reasonably ancillary to the effective performance of the Commission's various responsibilities for the regulation of television broadcasting." 392 U.S. at 178. The limited nature of the Commission's jurisdiction over cable was emphasized again by the decision of the Court in United States v. Midwest Video Corp., 406 U.S. 649 (1972), which upheld the Commission's origination rules in a divided opinion. The four Justices who formed the majority reasoned that the nexus between program origination and the Commission's broadcast regulatory goal of providing for programming diversity was established sufficiently to uphold the cable cast origination requirement as reasonably ancillary to broadcasting. But yet, the Chief Justice, who cast the fifth and deciding vote, concurred only in the result of the decision, finding that the origination requirement "strains the outer limits" of the Commission's jurisdiction and powers. 406 U.S. 338-39.

These decisions of the Supreme Court indicate that the Commission's jurisdiction over cable is not plenary. The Commission has no broad "public interest" mandate to regulate cable but, instead, must support any exercise of jurisdiction with a sufficient showing of a reasonable relationship between the particular cable regulation or policy in question and the attainment of a goal or the performance of a responsibility involving its jurisdiction over broadcasting. As the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has stated:

"... the Court's reasoning in both Southwestern and Midwest compels the conclusion that the cable jurisdiction * * * is really incidental to, and contingent upon, specifically delegated powers under the Act * * *. The Court thus was not recognizing any sweeping authority over the entity as a whole, but was commanding that each passed on to subscribers, there is still no evidence that such pass-throughs would have a significant impact on the demand for cable service. As the Court of Appeals has recently reminded this Commission, "... regulation perfectly reasonable and appropriate in the face of a given problem is highly capricious if that problem does not exist." Home Box Office, Inc. v. FCC, Slip. Op. March 25, 1977, ___ F.2d ___ (D.C. Cir. 1977), cert. pending, quoting City of Chicago v. FPC, 458 F.2d 731, 742 (D.C. Cir. 1971), cert. denied, 405 U.S. 1074 (1972). Without the necessary factual predicate, the Commission's assertion of jurisdiction fails to satisfy the test of Southwestern and Midwest. Clearly, there is no sufficient showing here that the imposition of a franchise fee limitation is "reasonably ancillary" to the broadcast goal of diversity.

The decision of the Court of Appeals in NARUC II, supra, appears directly on point. There the court invalidated the Commission's pre-emption of state common carrier regulation over the use of cable system leased access channels for two-way, point-to-point, non-video communications. In so holding, the court rejected as "highly speculative" the argument that such services would not be able to develop and provide seed-profits for other cable services without federal pre-emption designed to insure favorable economics of operation. 533 F.2d at 614. The Commission's argument now for pre-emption in the area of franchise fees is just as speculative and must fail as well for lack of evidentiary support.

Perhaps the Commission's jurisdictional statement is nothing more than the assertion that because cable's potential contribution to diversity of communications is "integrally linked" to the industry's "financial viability," any Commission regulation ostensibly designed to maximize the financial position of the industry is valid under the test of Southwestern and Midwest. Moreover, it might be argued here that since the Commission has a broadcast objective fostering the various broadcast services, it also has the authority to promulgate rules devoted to a like objective of fostering cable service. If this is the essence of the Commission's jurisdictional statement, the argument simply proves too much for it is tantamount to the assertion of plenary "public interest" jurisdiction over cable and as such cannot be reconciled with the limitations on the Commission's authority outlined in Southwestern and Midwest and clarified in NARUC II.

Moreover, as I read our broadcast rules and policies, any financial protection

"I believe that the factual record necessary to meet the 'reasonably ancillary' test must be comprised of something more than the recitation that 'a majority of local governments filing comments herein favored retention of the basic fee limitation.' Report and Order, par. 56, or that 'A significant burden was envisioned by cable interests commenting here [if the fee limitation were deleted].'" Id.

tion we afford the broadcast services in the name of "fostering" their development must be predicated on a factual showing that absent such protection the public interest will suffer. As the Court of Appeals stated in affirming the Commission in Carroll Broadcasting Co. v. FCC, 258 F. 2d 440 (D.C. Cir. 1958):

[E]conomic injury to an existing station, while not in and of itself a matter of moment, becomes important when on the facts it spells diminution or destruction of service. At that point the element of injury ceases to be a matter of purely private concern 258 F. 2d at 443.

Thus even if a cable analogy to the broadcast objective of "fostering" broadcast services is considered valid, its assertion here still fails for lack of a record.

The requirement of a supporting factual record is especially critical where Commission regulation intrudes the federal government into an area of primarily local jurisdiction and concern. As a number of comments in this proceeding have observed, the taxing power of state and local authorities is inherent and virtually unlimited unless it can be shown specifically to impose an unreasonable burden on interstate commerce or otherwise conflict with federal interests or objectives. While it may be a good thing as a matter of general policy for local authorities to limit franchise fees to recover only the costs of their cable regulation programs, this objective alone cannot satisfy the "reasonably ancillary" test of Southwestern and Midwest. Despite the decision's protestations to the contrary, I also see considerable inconsistency in the Commission's findings that while local authorities are fully competent to establish their own standards with respect to due process hearings, construction timetables, complaint procedures, and franchise duration and modification, nevertheless they are either incompetent or untrustworthy when it comes to the imposition of franchise fees.<sup>3</sup> The regularity and validity of local regulation should be presumed and deferred to unless there is factual evidence of conflict with a clearly defined and established federal interest. No such factual evidence has ever been presented to this Commission to justify federal pre-emption of franchise fees in excess of 3 percent. The availability of a procedure involving approval or waiver of fees in excess of 3 percent upon "adequate cost justification" fails to fill this evidentiary void.

While I recognize the possibility that "exorbitant" franchise fees could hinder cable's development, something more than mere speculation must provide the basis for Commission pre-emption in this area given both our limited cable jurisdiction and appropriate deference to local responsibility and authority.

The Commission has had since 1972 to support pre-emption of franchise fee limitations with a record of probative, factual evidence. It has failed to do so. Five years is long enough.

Therefore, I dissent.

[Docket No. 21033; RM 2664; RM 2780; FCC 77-651]

PART 97—AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

Simplifying the Licensing and Operation of Complex Systems of Stations and Modifying Repeater Subbands in the Amateur Radio Service

ACTION: Final rules.

SUMMARY: The FCC is revising its amateur radio rules to eliminate separate licenses for repeater, auxiliary link, and control stations. We are also allocating additional frequencies for amateur repeater operation, and we are making minor revisions of the rules concerning logging and identification for stations in repeater operation and remotely controlled stations. Adoption of these rules will afford amateur licensees greater flexibility in their operations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 4, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554.

Gregory M. Jones, Personal Radio Division, 202-632-7175.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In the matter of Deregulation of Part 97 of the Commission's Rules to simplify the licensing and operation of complex systems and stations and modify repeater subbands in the Amateur Radio Service (Docket 21033, RM-2664, RM-2780). Report and Order (Proceeding Terminated).

Adopted: September 21, 1977.

Released: September 27, 1977.

WHAT IS THE BACKGROUND OF THIS PROCEEDING?

1. In a Notice of Inquiry and Notice of Proposed Rule Making in Docket 21033 released January 6, 1977, 42 FR 2089 (1977), the Commission acted partially in response to rule making petitions RM-2664 and RM-2780, submitted by Messrs. Gordon Schlesinger and William F. Kelley and The Middle Atlantic FM and Repeater Council (T-MARC), respectively, and partially on its own motion. The Commission proposed substantial revisions to Part 97 of its Rules, 47 C.F.R. 97.1, et. seq., concerning the licensing and operation of repeater, auxiliary link, and control stations in the Amateur Radio Service. Other proposals concerned the licensing and operation of remotely controlled stations in the Amateur Service. Comments on our proposals were due no later than April 1, 1977. Reply comments were due no later than April 15, 1977. The deadline for the submission of reply comments was subsequently extended by the Chief of the Commission's Safety and Special Radio Services Bureau to April 29, 1977. We are now prepared to take action on our proposals in this proceeding.

WHAT WERE THE COMMISSION'S SPECIFIC PROPOSALS?

2. In our Notice of Inquiry and Notice of Proposed Rule Making in this proceeding, we made a number of proposals concerning the licensing and operation of complex systems of stations in the Amateur Service, which, if adopted in their entirety, would have had a significant impact on amateur licensing. Briefly summarized, our proposals in Docket 21033 were as follows:

a. We proposed to eliminate separate licenses for repeater, auxiliary link, and control stations. Operations now conducted by such stations would be permitted all remaining amateur stations without prior Commission approval under new forms of station operation to be known as "repeater operation" and "auxiliary operation".

b. We proposed no longer to require that an applicant wishing to operate a radio remotely controlled station obtain prior Commission authorization.

c. We proposed to permit portable and mobile operation by stations in auxiliary operation. (Auxiliary link stations are presently restricted to operation from a fixed location.)

d. We proposed to discontinue the issuance, in most instances, of call signs with "WR" prefixes to stations in repeater operation.

e. We proposed to require that stations in repeater and auxiliary operation transmit distinctive station identifications.

f. We proposed to increase the minimum interval at which stations in repeater operation must identify from five to ten minutes.

g. We proposed to delete the current requirement that transmissions from stations in repeater operation under automatic control either be recorded or monitored in real time by a duty control operator.

h. We proposed to require that the logs of all remotely controlled stations contain a list of all authorized control operators.

i. We proposed to require that a photocopy of the remotely controlled station license and a list of authorized control operators be posted conspicuously at the remotely controlled transmitter site and the station location of each control operator and be carried by each control operator operating a remotely controlled station from a portable or mobile control point.

j. We proposed to require that the antenna or mast associated with a remotely controlled transmitter bear a durable tag, marked with the remotely controlled station call sign, and the names of the station licensee and all authorized control operators.

k. We proposed to make all authorized amateur frequencies, except 435 to 438 MHz, available for repeater and auxiliary operation.

l. We proposed a new rule stating that a station occupying a frequency has priority in its use over other stations, and that all frequencies in the Amateur Service must be shared.

m. Finally, we requested comments concerning present and future anticipated interference patterns, the adequacy of current techniques for keeping interference to a minimum, and the adequacy of present voluntary spectrum management systems. We also asked for comments concerning the utility of the limitations on the effective radiated power (ERP) of stations in repeater operation contained in Section 97.67 of the Rules.

WHY DID WE MAKE THESE PROPOSALS?

3. Our purpose in issuing the Notice of Proposed Rule Making in this proceeding was to continue the relaxation of amateur regulations governing the licensing and operation of complex systems of stations. We stated in our Notice that since adoption in 1972 of regulations governing the licensing and operation of repeater and associated stations, (Report and Order, Docket 18803, 37 FCC 2d 225 (1972)), we have become increasingly convinced that amateur licensees could develop and operate complex systems of stations with a minimum of Commission regulation. Accordingly, in 1974 we began reducing the unnecessary burdens imposed on licensees of repeater and associated stations. In a series of rulemaking proceedings, we deleted the requirements that certain technical data be submitted with applications for repeater and remotely controlled stations and relaxed the rules to permit the linking, automatic control, and crossband operation of repeater stations. This proceeding is, in part, an attempt to provide amateur operators even greater flexibility in their operations and to create a more favorable regulatory atmosphere for the Amateur Radio Service.

WHO COMMENTED ON OUR PROPOSALS?

4. We received 86 timely comments in response to our Notice of Proposed Rule Making. Of these, 24 were submitted by clubs or other organizations. We received two timely reply comments. Twenty-four comments and one reply comment were received too late to be considered in this proceeding.<sup>1</sup> A list of those submitting timely comments in response to our Notice is contained in Appendix I.

WHAT DID THOSE COMMENTING ON OUR PROPOSALS SAY?

5. The number of comments we received makes it impossible to discuss each comment individually. Each comment has been read and carefully evaluated by the Commission's staff, however. Most of the comments received supported some aspects of our proposals but opposed others. In general, opposition was greatest to the major proposals. The less significant proposals were generally favored. In capsule form, the comments on our proposals were along these lines—

a. Most respondents argued that separate licenses for repeater stations should be retained. To eliminate separate repeater station licenses would, it was alleged, encourage "pirate" or "fly-by-night" repeater stations, and, in the words of T-MARC, permit "any amateur to, on a moment's notice, decide [sic] to operate as a repeater." Comments, The Mid-Atlantic FM and Repeater Council at 1. Others stated that operation of a repeater station is a serious and often expensive matter, and that effective spectrum management planning and coordination require that an amateur be placed on notice, by means of a separate repeater station license application, that "something more than the grant of a simple application is required." Comments, American Radio Relay League, Incorporated (ARRL) at 15.<sup>2</sup> On the other hand, our proposal to delete separate licenses for auxiliary link and control stations and create another form of amateur operation known as "auxiliary operation" met with general approval. Few comments specifically addressed the proposed deletion of the requirement that authorization from the Commission be obtained before remote control operation is undertaken, but of those that did, most approved.

b. Our proposal to permit auxiliary operation from control points in portable and mobile operation was nearly unanimously accepted. Operators of remotely controlled base stations were particularly enthusiastic, because adoption of this proposal would permit them to operate their remotely controlled stations from portable and mobile locations, a practice not currently allowed.

c. Most of our respondents wished to retain distinctive call signs for stations in repeater operation and requested that the practice of issuing call signs prefixed by the letters "WR" to such stations be continued, whether or not such stations are actually licensed as repeater stations. The ARRL, among others, argued that a distinctive call sign for a station in repeater operation is necessary to let those monitoring know a station in repeater operation is on the frequency. Because most comments favored distinctive call signs for stations in repeater operation, they opposed any other form of special identification for stations in repeater operation, although there was some support for requiring a station in auxiliary operation to transmit a distinctive identification. Our proposal to increase from five to ten minutes the minimum inter-operation to transmit a distinctive identification must identify was widely supported in the comments.

d. The vast majority of our respondents urged the Commission to adopt the proposal to delete the requirement that transmissions from open access automatically controlled stations in repeater operation either be recorded or monitored in real time. Many of the comments went further, however, and offered a suggestion outside the scope of this proceeding, namely, that stations in repeater operation be exempted from the third party traffic logging requirements of Section 97.103(b)(2) of the Rules. Not to modify third party traffic logging requirements for open access automatically controlled stations in repeater operation would, in the words of the ARRL, "render the Commission's proposed relaxation . . . a nullity in terms of practical application . . ." Reply Comments, ARRL at 6.

e. Our proposals to modify slightly the logging requirements for remotely controlled stations, to require the posting of certain information at the remotely controlled transmitter site, and to require that a durable tag bearing certain data be attached to the remotely controlled transmitter antenna were relatively uncontroversial. Opposition was expressed to the durable tag proposal, however. The Northern Amateur Relay Council (NARC) of California, for example, stated that such tags are easily stolen or lost and that a requirement of this sort would be an unfair burden on licensees operating stations at truly "remote" locations.

f. Our proposal to make all amateur frequencies available for repeater and auxiliary operation was the subject of intense criticism by nearly all respondents. Although a few groups, such as NARC, welcomed the opportunity to experiment with the possibilities such a relaxation would have offered, the vast majority of the comments opposed such a radical change. Virtually all those commenting opposed any expansion of the repeater subbands below 28 MHz. They stated that there is no demonstrated need for repeater operation in the high frequency range, and that such an expansion would create many more problems than the increased flexibility in repeater operation would justify. Similarly, the majority of those submitting comments opposed making all very high frequency (VHF) and ultra high frequency (UHF) bands available for repeater operation. Concern was especially acute over opening all frequencies in the two meter band (144-148 MHz) to repeater operation. Respondents such as the Radio Amateur Satellite Corporation (AMSAT) stated that certain amateur activity in the two meter band must be provided protection from repeater operation. This activity, which typically involves the reception of weak signals, is said to be incompatible with channelized repeater operation. Many other respondents, such as T-MARC, agreed that weak signal work must be protected but argued that there is a definite need for additional two meter frequencies for repeater operation. The ARRL said that it may well be desirable to increase the allocation for repeater operation in the amateur two meter band but urged that any such expansion be the subject of a separate rule making proceeding.

g. Our proposed new rule concerning priority in usage of a frequency was overwhelmingly opposed. Most respondents said the proposed rule was inherently (if necessarily) vague and that its adoption would create more problems than it would solve. The general belief appeared to be that existing rules and practices are working reasonably well, and that, absent a compelling indication to the contrary, the Commission should take no action in this area at the present time.

h. In response to our inquiries concerning the adequacy of the current system of voluntary spectrum management and the necessity for the limitations on the effective radiated power of stations in repeater operation contained in Section 97.67 of the Rules, we received many informative and helpful responses. These comments indicated, generally, a widespread dissatisfaction with the ERP limitations on repeater operation, as well as a belief that the Amateur Service's voluntary spectrum management system functions with considerable effectiveness in most instances.

WHAT RULES ARE WE ADOPTING AND WHY?

6. After a careful analysis of our proposals and the comments submitted in response to our proposals, we have decided that the public interest will be best served by the following action—

a. We are eliminating separate repeater, auxiliary link, and control station licenses, as proposed. Operations now conducted by such stations will be authorized other stations without prior Commission approval under new forms of amateur operation to be known as "repeater operation" and "auxiliary operation." We believe the contention that elimination of separate repeater station licenses will encourage "fly-by-night" repeater operation is frivolous. As the Iowa Repeater Council noted in its Comments, "[r]epeters are expensive. They take a lot of hard work . . . ." Comments, Iowa Repeater Council at 6. We doubt very much whether anyone willing to expend the time and effort necessary to place a station in repeater operation will do so on the spur of the moment. We simply do not believe that the incidence of so-called "ego-trip" repeaters will be any greater under the new rules than it is presently. The assertion made by T-MARC (and others) that elimination of separate licenses for stations in repeater operation will permit a licensee to decide "on a moment's notice" to engage in repeater operation is no more tenable now than it was before the adoption of rules for repeater stations in Docket 18803 in 1972. (Moreover, as NARC observed in its comments, absence of a repeater station license does not necessarily inhibit repeater operation under the existing rules. A licensee wishing to put a repeater station in operation need only find the licensee of an existing repeater station willing to share the responsibility of repeater operation from a portable location. The first licensee then operates a portable repeater station under the authority of the existing repeater station license.)

Further, processing and issuing repeater, auxiliary link, and control station licenses is much more complex than processing and issuing simple primary station licenses. Different data bases must be maintained, and FCC staff must be detailed to perform these specific functions. In sum, although repeater stations are relatively few, in comparison with the population of the Amateur Radio Service as a whole, their impact on the processing of other amateur licenses is far out of proportion to their number. Elimination of separate repeater, auxiliary link and control stations will enable us to provide the public with better service in other, more important areas, such as the processing of Novice Class and other classes of operator license applications.

Accordingly, beginning with the effective date of this Report and Order, no more licenses for repeater, auxiliary link, or control stations will be issued. Existing repeater, auxiliary link, and control stations may continue to be operated until expiration of their station licenses. Such licenses will not be renewed. Further, in order to continue the efficient processing of other amateur radio license applications, effective with the adoption of this Report and Order by the Commission we are imposing a "freeze" on the filing of applications for new, modified or renewed repeater, auxiliary link, and control station license applications. The freeze will continue until the date the regulations adopted in the Report and Order become effective.

We find that the public interest will be best served if the applications for new repeater station licenses presently on file are dismissed, and we hereby do so. Pending applications for renewed repeater station licenses or modified repeater station licenses will be processed, however.

b. We are authorizing auxiliary operation from control points in portable and mobile operation. This amendment, which was unopposed by the comments, will afford operators of remotely controlled stations much greater flexibility in their operations. It will permit operators of remotely controlled stations to operate their stations as they would locally controlled stations, without many

c. We are discontinuing our practice of issuing call signs prefixed by the letters "WR" to stations in repeater operation. We do not believe "WR"-prefixed call signs are a necessary aspect of repeater operation in the Amateur Service, any more now than they were before the regulations adopted in Docket 18803. We are aware, however, of the desire of many of those submitting comments in this proceeding, such as the ARRL, for rules ensuring that those monitoring a frequency know there is a station in repeater operation using that frequency. For this reason, we are adopting regulations as proposed requiring distinctive identification for stations in repeater and auxiliary operation. Stations in repeater operation will be required to transmit the letters "RPT" after the station call sign if identifying by telegraphy, or the word "repeater" if identifying by telephony. Stations in auxiliary operation will be required to transmit the letters "AUX" after the station call sign if identifying by telegraphy, or the word "auxiliary" if identifying by telephony. Finally, there was no opposition to our proposal to increase from five to ten minutes the minimum interval at which stations in repeater operation must identify, and we are adopting it as proposed.

d. We are eliminating as proposed the requirement that transmissions from open access automatically controlled stations in repeater operation be either monitored in real time or recorded. There was no opposition in the comments to our proposed relaxation. Our purpose in adopting this regulation originally was simply to ensure that licensees possess adequate means to determine whether their automatically controlled stations were being operated properly. Licensees of such stations continue to be responsible for the proper operation of their stations, but we believe we should provide amateurs with sufficient flexibility to enable them to determine compliance with our regulations in other ways. In addition, several respondents asked that the regulation be extended to exempt stations in repeater operation from third party traffic logging requirements entirely. Of course, our proposal to delete the monitoring/recording requirement had nothing whatsoever to do with third party traffic logging requirements, nor did we intend it to have. Although we do wish to relieve our licensees of unnecessary burdens, such as the monitoring/recording requirement, we do not believe at this time that stations in repeater operation should be exempt from third party traffic logging requirements. We recognize that as a practical matter many stations in repeater operation will continue to have to record their transmissions to ensure compliance with the third party traffic logging requirements. We also recognize these requirements may be a burden on certain stations in repeater operation, particularly those with telephone interconnection ("autopatch") capabilities. In our 1972 Report and Order in Docket 18803, however, amateur licensees were warned about use of autopatch equipment in violation of Section 97.114 of the rules, to facilitate the regular business affairs of any party. Since 1972, autopatch abuse has become, if anything, more widespread. The Amateur Radio Service is not now, and has never been, a common carrier, and third party traffic of all types must, under normal circumstances, constitute a very small part of amateur activity. We again warn the Amateur Service of unlawful use of telephone interconnection facilities and stress that unless voluntary compliance with our third party traffic regulations increases significantly, we may have to take action to curb the transmission of all third party traffic in the Amateur Radio Service. We are therefore eliminating the monitoring/recording requirement contained in Section 97.111(g) (2) of the rules but are retaining all existing third party traffic regulations.

<sup>3</sup> We do not believe separate regulations for so-called "remote base" stations are necessary or desirable at this time. As long as the auxiliary functions of such stations comply with the regulations for auxiliary operation, remote bases may be operated in the same manner as other amateur stations.

e. We are requiring that a photocopy of the remotely controlled station license be posted in a conspicuous place at the remotely controlled transmitter site and placed in the log of the station of each authorized control operator of the remotely controlled station. We will also require that the name and telephone number of the station licensee and at least one control operator be posted in a conspicuous place at the remotely controlled transmitter location. We are aware that many licensees consider requirements of this sort to be unjustifiable burdens, but we believe it essential that there be adequate procedures to ensure that the Commission is able to contact the licensee or control operators of a remotely controlled station in the event of station malfunction. We agree with respondents, such as NARC, that in our proposal to require attachment of a durable tag containing certain information to the antenna or antenna feedline of a remotely controlled station would serve no useful purpose, and we decline to adopt it. Our proposal to require the log of a remotely controlled station to contain a list of authorized control operators was generally supported in the comments, and we are adopting it as proposed.

f. We are making an additional one megahertz of spectrum available for repeater operation in the amateur two meter band. It is clear from the comments that amateurs engage in a wide variety of activities and that repeater operation is but one of these activities. It is also clear that many amateurs believe their activities must be protected from possible encroachment by stations in repeater operation. For this reason, we will not adopt our proposal to make all amateur frequencies available for repeater and auxiliary operation. The pervasive opposition to our proposed relaxation convinces us that the Amateur Service is not fully prepared to assume responsibility for complete management of its own spectrum. We are therefore not allocating any additional frequencies for repeater operation or auxiliary operation below 144 MHz. Many comments, however, stated that there is a definite, immediate need for additional frequencies for repeater operation in the two meter band and above. At the suggestion of T-MARC, we are allocating an additional one megahertz of spectrum, 144.5 to 145.5 MHz, for repeater operation. We are also increasing Technician Class operator privileges to include 144.5-145.0 MHz, to permit Technician Class licensees to take advantage of the new allocation for repeater operation. We believe this additional allocation will meet the future need for frequencies in the two meter band for repeater operation, while providing adequate protection for weak signal and other activity in that frequency range. We do not agree with the ARRL that this allocation requires a new rule making proceeding. In our Notice of Proposed Rule Making in this proceeding we proposed to make the entire two meter band available for repeater operation. Our licensees were put on notice that we were actively considering additional frequencies for repeater operation in the two meter band. The claim that adequate notice has not been given that 144.5-145.5 MHz, might be allocated for repeater operation cannot be supported. We are also making all amateur frequencies above 220 MHz, except 435-438 MHz, available for both repeater and auxiliary operation.<sup>4</sup> There was little, if any, opposition to an increase in the frequencies available for repeater operation above the two meter band, and we believe that in making all amateur frequencies above 220 MHz available for repeater and auxiliary operation we are providing amateur licensees with a great deal of flexibility while at the same time continuing to protect the "weak signal" two meter activity. We will continue to evaluate the spectrum requirements for repeater and auxiliary operation, however.

g. We are taking no action at this time on our proposed new rule concerning priority in usage of amateur frequencies. We may, however, take action at some time in the future if certain spectrum management problems within the amateur community are not settled by the amateurs themselves. As detailed in a recent Public Notice on this subject, we are increasingly concerned about malicious interference to, and from, certain amateur service "monitoring nets". If amateurs cannot solve these conflicts and others arising from competing demands for spectrum, then the Commission must consider additional regulations to resolve these matters. We are also not taking any action at this time on changing repeater ERP limits. Any action in this area will be done in a separate rulemaking proceeding.

7. Accordingly, it is ordered, pursuant to authority contained in Sections 4(1), 5(e), and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, That Part 97 of the Commission's Rules is amended as set forth below effective November 4, 1977. It is further ordered, That all pending applications for new repeater station licenses in the Amateur Radio Service are dismissed. It is further ordered, That the Motion to Accept Late Filed Comments submitted by the American Radio Relay League, Incorporated is granted, and that the Motion to Accept Late Filed Reply Comments submitted by the Empire Radio Club is granted. It is further ordered, That to the extent RM-2664 and RM-2780 have not been granted herein, they are denied. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

Part 97 of Chapter 1 of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

§ 97.3 Definitions.

(i) Additional station. An amateur radio station, other than a primary station, including the following:

Secondary station. An amateur radio station licensed for a land location other than the primary station location.

Special event station. An amateur radio station licensed for a specific land location for operation designed to bring public notice to the Amateur Radio Service and related to the celebration of an event, past or present, which is unique and of general interest to either the public at large or amateur radio operators.

Repeater operation. Radiocommunication, other than auxiliary operation, for retransmitting automatically the radio signals of other amateur radio stations.

(n) Control. Techniques used for accomplishing the immediate operation of an amateur radio station.

Automatic control. The use of devices and procedures for control so that a control operator does not have to be present at the control point at all times. (Only rules for automatic control of stations in repeater operation have been adopted.)

2. Section 97.7(d) is amended to read, as follows:

§ 97.7 Privileges of operator licenses.

(d) Technician Class. All authorized amateur privileges on the frequencies 50.1-54.0 MHz, 144.5-148.0 MHz, and all amateur frequencies above 220.0 MHz. Technician Class licensees may operate with all privileges available to Novice Class licensees.

3. In § 97.40, paragraphs (d) and (e) are deleted, and paragraph (c) is revised, as follows:

§ 97.40 Station license required.

(c) An amateur radio operator may be issued one or more additional station licenses. A secondary station license shall not be issued to an amateur radio operator for a land location where a primary station license has been issued to the same amateur radio operator.

4. In § 97.41, paragraph (c) is deleted, paragraphs (d), (e), (f), and (g) are redesignated paragraphs (c), (d), (e), and (f), respectively, and paragraph (b) is revised, as follows:

§ 97.41 Application for station license.

(b) Except for applications for club stations and military recreation stations, each application shall state whether the proposed station is a primary or additional station. If the proposed station is an additional station, the application shall state the type of additional station.

5. § 97.43 is revised to read, as follows:

§ 97.43 Location of station.

Every amateur radio station shall have one land location, the address of which appears on the station license, and at least one control point.

6. In § 97.61, paragraphs (a) and (c) are revised and a new paragraph (d) is added, as follows:

§ 97.61 Authorized frequencies and emissions.

(a) The following frequency bands and associated emissions are available to amateur radio stations for amateur radio operation, other than repeater and auxiliary operation, subject to the limitations listed in paragraph (b) of this section and § 97.65:

(c) All amateur frequency bands above 29.5 MHz are available for repeater operation, except 50.0-52.0 MHz, 144.0-144.5 MHz, 145.5-146.0 MHz, and 435.0-438.0 MHz. Both the input (receiving) and output (transmitting) frequencies of a station in repeater operation shall be frequencies available for repeater operation.

(d) All amateur frequency bands above 220.0 MHz, except 435-438 MHz, are available for auxiliary operation.

7. In § 97.63, the headnote is revised and the text amended, as follows:

§ 97.63 Selection and use of frequencies.

(a) An amateur station may transmit on any frequency within any authorized amateur frequency band.

(b) Sideband frequencies resulting from keying or modulating a carrier wave shall be confined within the authorized amateur band.

(c) The frequencies available for use by a control operator of an amateur station are dependent on the operator license classification of the control operator and are listed in § 97.7.

8. In § 97.67, paragraph (c) is revised to read, as follows:

§ 97.67 Maximum authorized power.

(c) Within the limitations of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, the effective radiated power of an amateur radio station in repeater operation shall not exceed the power specified for the antenna height above average terrain in the following table:

Below 50 ft.	100 watts.	800 watts.	Paragraphs (a) and (b).
50 to 99 ft.	do.	400 watts.	do.
100 to 499 ft.	50 watts.	do.	800 watts.	Paragraphs (a) and (b).
500 to 999 ft.	25 watts.	200 watts.	do.	Do.

9. Section 97.83 is redesignated § 97.82, as follows:

10. Section 97.85 is redesignated § 97.83, as follows:

§ 97.83 Availability of station license.

11. Section 97.87 is redesignated § 97.84, and paragraphs (c), (d), and (e) are revised, as follows:

§ 97.84 Station identification.

(c) An amateur radio station in repeater operation or a station in auxiliary operation used to relay automatically the signals of other stations in a system of stations shall be identified by radiotelephony or radiotelegraphy at a level of modulation sufficient to be intelligible through the repeated transmission at intervals not to exceed ten minutes.

(d) When an amateur radio station is in repeater or auxiliary operation, the following additional identifying information shall be transmitted:

(1) When identifying by radiotelephony, a station in repeater operation shall transmit the word "repeater" at the end of the station call sign. When identifying by radiotelegraphy, a station in repeater operation shall transmit the fraction bar DN followed by the letters "RPT" at the end of the station call sign.

(2) When identifying by radiotelephony, a station in auxiliary operation shall transmit the word "auxiliary" at the end of the station call sign. When identifying by radiotelegraphy, a station in auxiliary operation shall transmit the fraction bar DN followed by the letters "AUX" at the end of the station call sign.

(e) A station in auxiliary operation may be identified by the call sign of its associated station.

12. A new § 97.85 is added, as follows:

§ 97.85 Repeater operation.

(a) Emissions from a station in repeater operation shall be discontinued within five seconds after cessation of radio communications by the user station. Provisions to limit automatically the access to a station in repeater operation may be incorporated but are not mandatory.

(b) Except for operation under automatic control, as provided in paragraph (e) of this section, the transmitting and receiving frequencies used by a station in repeater operation shall be continuously monitored by a control operator immediately before and during periods of operation.

(c) A station in repeater operation shall not concurrently retransmit amateur radio signals on more than one frequency in the same amateur frequency band, from the same location.

(d) A station in repeater operation shall be operated in a manner ensuring that it is not used for one-way communications, except as provided in § 97.91.

(e) A station in repeater operation, either locally controlled or remotely controlled, may also be operated by automatic control when devices have been installed and procedures have been implemented to ensure compliance with the rules when a duty control operator is not present at a control point of the station. Upon notification by the Commission of improper operation of a station under automatic control, operation under automatic control shall be immediately discontinued until all deficiencies have been corrected.

13. A new § 97.86 is added, as follows:

§ 97.86 Auxiliary operation.

(a) A station in auxiliary operation, either locally controlled or remotely controlled, may also be operated by automatic control when it is operated as part of a system of stations in repeater operation operated under automatic control.

(b) If a station in auxiliary operation is relaying signals of another amateur radio station(s) to a station in repeater operation, the station in auxiliary operation may use an input (receiving) frequency in frequency bands reserved for auxiliary operation, repeater operation, or both.

(c) A station in auxiliary operation shall be used only to communicate with stations shown in the system network diagram.

14. In § 97.88, the headnote, introductory paragraph, paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) are amended to read as follows:

§ 97.88 Operation of a station by remote control.

An amateur radio station may be operated by remote control only if there is compliance with the following:

(a) A photocopy of the remotely controlled station license shall be:

(1) posted in a conspicuous place at the remotely controlled transmitter location, and

(2) placed in the log of each authorized control station.

(b) The name, address, and telephone number of the remotely controlled station licensee and at least one control operator shall be posted in a conspicuous place at the remotely controlled transmitter location.

(c) Except for operation under automatic control, a control operator shall be on duty when the station is being remotely controlled. Immediately before and during the periods the remotely controlled station is in operation, the frequencies used for emission by the remotely controlled station shall be monitored by the control operator. The control operator shall terminate all transmissions upon any deviation from the rules.

(c) A station in repeater operation shall be operated by radio remote control only when the control link uses frequencies other than the input (receiving) frequencies of the station in repeater operation.

15. § 97.89 [Amended]

In § 97.89, paragraphs (c) and (d) are deleted.

16. § 97.95(a)(1) is revised to read, as follows:

(a) . . .

(1) When there is no change in the authorized fixed operation station location, an amateur radio station, other than a military recreation or special event station, may be operated portable or mobile under its station license anywhere in the United States, its territories or possessions, subject to § 97.61.

17. § 97.103 Station log requirements.

(c) In addition to the other information required by this section, the log of a remotely controlled station shall have entered the names, addresses, and call signs of all authorized control operators and a functional block diagram of, and a technical explanation sufficient to describe the operation of the control link. Additionally, the following information shall be entered:

(1) A description of the measures taken for protection against access to the remotely controlled station by unauthorized persons;

(3) A description of the provisions for shutting down the station in the case of control link malfunction; and

(4) A description of the means used for monitoring the transmitting frequencies.

(d) When a station has one or more associated stations, that is, stations in repeater or auxiliary operation, a system network diagram shall be entered in the station log.

(e) In addition to the other information required by this section the log of a station in repeater operation transmitting with an effective radiated power greater than the minimum effective radiated power listed in § 97.67(c) for the frequency band in use shall contain the following:

(1) The location of the station transmitting antenna, marked upon a topographic map having a scale of 1:250,000 and contour intervals;<sup>1</sup>

(1) A system network diagram for each system with which the station is associated;

(2) The station transmitting band(s);

(3) The transmitter input power;

(4) If operated by remote control, the information required by paragraph (c) of this section.

(g) Notwithstanding the provisions of § 97.105, the log entries required by paragraphs (c), (d), (e), and (f) of this section shall be retained in the station log as long as the information contained in those entries is accurate.

18. Section 97.109 [Deleted]

Section 97.109 is deleted.

19. Section 97.110 [Deleted]

Section 97.110 is deleted.

22. Section 97.181(b) is amended to read as follows:

§ 97.181 Availability of RACES station license and operator licenses.

(b) In addition to the operator license availability requirements of § 97.82, a photocopy of the control operator's amateur radio operator license shall be posted in a conspicuous place at the control point of the RACES station.

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER MARGITA E. WHITE CONCURRING IN PART AND DISSENTING IN PART

As a strong proponent of deregulation, I feel it is important that I explain why in this particular instance I find it necessary to disagree with the Commission's decision to no longer require separate licensing of repeater stations. It should be noted, however, that I do concur in the remainder of the Commission's proposals to deregulate Part 97 of the Commission's rules.

I was impressed, after reading the comments in this proceeding personally, that almost all the comments opposed the elimination of separate repeater station licenses. The Commission believes that the contentions of various repeater organizations including T-MARC, petitioner in RM-2780, that elimination of separate repeater station licenses will encourage more casual and haphazard operation are frivolous. I respectfully disagree. The elimination of separate repeater station licenses will make the voluntary coordination, frequency management, and voluntary enforcement of repeater operation much more difficult, thus increasing the probability of increasing interference—a probability recognized by several repeater associations as well as by the American Radio Relay League (ARRL).

The Commission is adopting the proposed rules to decrease the administrative burden associated with the processing and issuing of separate repeater station licenses. However, this burden which I do not view as substantial, since presently there are only approximately 3,000 authorized repeater stations and recently only about an average of two applications a day are received for repeater stations, must be weighed against the likelihood of increased Commission involvement in enforcement problems. It is quite likely that the potential enforcement problems will prove to be more costly than the savings to be gained by elimination of the separate processing of repeater station licenses. Moreover, I agree with the ARRL comment that by requiring a separate application for a repeater station license "the applicant is placed on notice that something more than the grant of a simple application is required." Comments, ARRL, p. 15. I also believe that repeater licensees have a special responsibility to serve the public interest and the requirement of a separate license places the licensee on notice and assists in keeping the licensee accountable.

ACTION: Amendment of procedures.

SUMMARY: Section 255.4 (f) (3) of Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee program procedures was amended June 24, 1977, (42 FR 32249; June 24, 1977) to establish for the first time a fee for the refinancing or assumption of obligations guaranteed under the program. The new fee, set at 1/4 of 1 percent of the guaranteed obligation's unpaid principal balance, was established to cover the considerable cost of substituting a new obligor for an old obligor (i.e., the cost of credit and feasibility analysis in addition to document preparation and closing). Situations have since occurred, however, which involved substantially less work, such as the incorporation of a previously unincorporated obligor. The purpose of this amendment, consequently, is to establish administrative discretion for lower refinancing or assumption fees in cases such as the above. This amendment applies retroactively to June 24, 1977.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This amendment will be effective September 30, 1977. It is not being proposed for public comment since it involves only a relaxation of minor fees.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Fishing Vessel Obligation Guarantee program provides a Federal guarantee of obligations financing up to 75 percent of the cost of constructing, reconstructing, or refinancing fishing vessels. The program is authorized by Title XI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936 (46 U.S.C. 1271-1279), as amended, and its procedures are codified as 50 CFR 255.

Accordingly, 50 CFR 255.4(f)(3) is amended to read as follows:

§ 255.4 Applications.

(f) . . . . .

(3) Refinancing or assumption fee. The fee for refinancing or assuming previously guaranteed obligations shall be 1/4 of 1 percent of the principal amount of the guaranteed obligation to be refinanced or assumed. This fee must accompany the application for refinancing or assumption and will be retained by the Secretary regardless of the application's disposition. Where a refinancing or assumption serves mainly to protect the Secretary's interest (rather than principally as a convenience to the parties involved) the assumption fee may, in the Secretary's discretion, be waived. Where a refinancing or assumption does not involve the substitution of one wholly different obligor for another (such as, for example, the incorporation of a previously unincorporated obligor rather than the substitution of wholly different obligors which necessitate new credit and feasibility analysis), the refinancing or assumption fee may be in an amount equal to the Secretary's full actual cost (but in no event less than $250).

By order of the Administrator, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Dated: September 23, 1977.

Assistant Administrator for

PART 611—FOREIGN FISHING

AGENCY: National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Commerce.

ACTION. Final regulations.

SUMMARY: This document amends the final regulations which relates to foreign fishing vessels participating in the hake trawl fishery in the area seaward of the States of Washington, Oregon, and California over which the United States exercises exclusive fishery management authority. This amendment will enable fishing vessels of the U.S.S.R.

to harvest their total 1977 allocation of Pacific hake, by revising upward the limitation on vessel days.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Donald R. Johnson, National Marine Fisheries Service, NOAA, 1700 Westlake Avenue, Seattle, Wash.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 11, 1977, the National Marine Fisheries Service published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (42 FR 8812) final regulations implementing conditions and restrictions contained in a Preliminary Management Plan (PMP) for the trawl fisheries of Washington, Oregon, and California (42 FR 8577). The PMP was authorized by section 201(g) of the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976, 16 U.S.C. 1801-1882.

This PMP contained effort restrictions which were designed to assure compliance with the catch quotas. Effort restrictions for the U.S.S.R., expressed in terms of vessel-days on the primary hake fishing grounds, were published on March 3, 1977 (42 FR 12176) in footnote 4 of Table 2 as "105,200 metric tons or 7,514 vessel days, whichever occurs first."

The figure of 7,514 vessel days was based on observations made during the 1976 season which indicated that the U.S.S.R. fleet harvested hake at an average rate of 14 metric tons per day. The catch rate in the early part of the 1977 hake season, however, was observed to be approximately 33 metric tons per day and, accordingly, the figure of 7,514 vessel days was revised downward to 3,188 vessel days by amendment published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on September 6, 1977, (42 FR 44547).

A more precise estimation of the catch-rate based on actual reported catches now indicates that the 33 metric ton average daily rate was approximately 4 metric tons too high since 3,120 vessel days had produced a harvest of only 91,072 metric tons by September 20, which is 14,128 metric tons less than the 105,200 metric tons which were originally allocated to the Soviet Union. The actual average catch rate has been calculated to be 29.1 metric tons per vessel day.

Therefore, the available number of vessel days for the Soviet Union is adjusted to 3,615 vessel days.

This final regulation falls within the foreign affairs exemption of the Administrative Procedure Act and consequently, advance notice is not necessary.

This amendment will become effective on September 27, 1977, and will remain in effect until amended or terminated by appropriate public notice.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 27th day of September, 1977.

Associate Director,
National Marine Fisheries Service.

I. INTRODUCTION

Part B (42 U.S.C. 6291-6309) of Title III of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (Act) (Pub. L. 94-163), as amended by section 161 of the Energy Conservation and Production Act (Pub. L. 94-385), requires the implementation of an energy conservation program for consumer products other than automobiles. Section 325(a) of the Act requires that the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) direct the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) to develop, and that FEA by rule prescribe, energy efficiency improvement targets for covered products, which are types of appliances specified in section 322(a) in the Act. The targets are required to be designed so as to identify the maximum improvement in the energy efficiency of appliances determined by FEA to be technologically and economically feasible by 1980. Covered products are the following types of products (including their functional equivalents):

- (1) Refrigerators and refrigerator-freezers.
- (2) Freezers.
- (3) Dishwashers.
- (4) Clothes dryers.
- (5) Water heaters.
- (6) Room air conditioners.
- (7) Home heating equipment, not including furnaces.
- (8) Television sets.
- (9) Kitchen ranges and ovens.
- (10) Clothes washers.
- (11) Humidifiers and dehumidifiers.
- (12) Central air-conditioners.
- (13) Furnaces.

Targets for the product types listed in (1) through (10) above were proposed on July 8, 1977 (42 FR 36648, July 15, 1977). Targets for the product types listed in (11) and (12) above were proposed on August 4, 1977 (42 FR 40701, August 11, 1977). This notice proposes a target for furnaces.

Section 323 of the Act requires FEA to prescribe test procedures for covered products. The test procedures to be prescribed in Subpart B of Part 430 will be used in monitoring the progress of manufacturers toward meeting the energy efficiency improvement targets, which will be prescribed in Subpart C. The test procedures will also be used by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) under section 324 of the Act, which requires FTC to prescribe product labeling rules designed to provide consumers with energy information which will assist them in making purchasing decisions concerning appliances.

Under section 325(a)(4) of the Act, FEA will require manufacturers of covered products to submit such reports as FEA determines may be necessary to ascertain whether the energy efficiency improvement target for a type of covered product will be met. If FEA then determines that a particular target is not likely to be met, FEA is required to commence a proceeding to prescribe an energy efficiency standard for the particular type of product or a class thereof.

These proposed targets were established by first identifying design options having a potential for improving the energy efficiency of a product type, and then analyzing those options to determine whether they were technologically feasible. The energy savings of individual technologically feasible design options were combined to provide a single target for each product, and the economic feasibility of the energy efficiency improvement targets thus derived was then evaluated.

II. TECHNOLOGICAL ANALYSIS

The determination of a technologically feasible energy efficiency improvement target for a product type required a thorough analysis to identify the design characteristics of currently available products which affect their energy efficiency. The Act requires that the target for furnaces be designed to achieve the maximum improvement in energy efficiency which is technologically and economically feasible in 1980. This necessitated an iterative process whereby various design improvement options and combinations of these options were studied to determine their technological feasibility, their effects on improving the efficiency of the product type, and their economic feasibility.

The design options referred to in this notice are being used to demonstrate the technological and economic feasibility of the 1980 target but are not intended to dictate future product design. There may be other design options or combinations of design options which could be used by a given manufacturer to achieve the 1980 energy efficiency improvement target being proposed today, but no greater efficiency improvement is technologically and economically feasible for the furnace industry as a whole.

NBS analyzed various design options to determine their contributions to improving the annual fuel utilization efficiency of furnaces and boilers. A computer model, DEPAF-Design and Performance Analysis of Furnaces, was used for these studies. The first step was to establish a reference furnace for the base year 1975. Data collected by NBS were used to determine the steady state efficiency of a reference gas and oil furnace. Using the reference furnaces, the DEPAF computer model was used to evaluate the annual fuel utilization efficiency at two locations, Washington, D.C. (4,224 degree days) and Syracuse, N.Y. (6,756 degree days). The annual fuel utilization efficiencies computed for these two cities were interpolated to determine the annual fuel utilization efficiencies for the national average number of heating load hours, 2,080 (equivalent to 5,200 degree days). This national average was determined by NBS during the development of the test procedure for furnaces. The annual fuel utilization efficiencies of the reference furnaces with various design options or combinations of design options were determined in an identical manner, and an average efficiency improvement was computed for each design option and combinations of options.

The technological feasibility analysis then identified design options that would improve the energy efficiency of a product. Once these design options were identified, they were evaluated by NBS to determine their contribution to improving the energy efficiency of the product, their impact on increased retail cost, and their impact on material usage. In order for a design option to be considered technologically feasible, it had to be an available technology that could be incorporated into production by 1980 without significant hardship. Increased materials required by the implementation of each design change had to be readily available, so that incorporation of the design change would not be limited by the lack of materials.

The contribution of each design improvement to the product's efficiency was evaluated by NBS using the DEPAF computer model. The increased costs were estimated using industrial engineering techniques or catalogues for those design features which already existed in the marketplace. A simple payback analysis which compared increased retail costs to operating cost savings was used by NBS as the criterion for selecting a design option for further evaluation. Where the increased cost exceeded the savings, an option was rejected. Of course, the target incorporating these options still had to meet the further economic feasibility test discussed below.

After individual technologically feasible design options were identified, combinations of design options were evaluated using the DEPAF computer model to determine the maximum technologically feasible energy efficiency improvement for furnaces. The energy savings of each design option was then production-weighted.

Annual fuel utilization efficiencies for these products were determined using the proposed FEA test procedures.

The combination of design improvement options chosen to demonstrate the technological feasibility of the 1980 target for furnaces was then subjected to an economic analysis to determine their economic feasibility. As described in detail below, this economic feasibility analysis relied on NBS estimates of the design improvements' effects on efficiency improvements, increased retail costs, and increased material usage. The efficiency improvement targets for gas furnaces and boilers and for oil furnaces and boilers were combined by a simple weighted average approach using their estimated 1975 energy consumption.

A detailed discussion of the target determination procedure is contained in a separate technical paper prepared by NBS. As provided later in this notice, the paper is available for inspection by interested persons.

The proposed energy efficiency improvement target for furnaces is 23 percent. To arrive at this target, the determination was made that gas boilers and furnaces could be improved by 25 percent, and oil boilers and furnaces could be improved by 14 percent. Electric furnaces are considered to be 100 percent efficient at point of end use.

The gas furnace and boiler design options that were selected to demonstrate the technological feasibility of the proposed target are: improved heat transfer, electric ignition, installation of stack dampers, and an increase in the incorporation of power burners on furnaces. The oil furnace and boiler design options that were selected to demonstrate the technological feasibility of the proposed target are: improved heat transfer and the installation of stack dampers.

The production-weighted energy savings of these design options, and the estimated lead-time required for its implementation, are presented in tables 1 and 2. The data in table 3 were used in the methodology discussed above to determine the proposed energy efficiency improvement target of 23 percent for furnaces.

III. ECONOMIC ANALYSIS

A. Methodology for Determining Economic Feasibility. The economic feasibility analysis of today's proposal is complex because the analysis touches upon a vast array of demand-supply relationships which affect consumers not only in their purchasing decisions but also in their daily use of furnaces. In performing the analysis, a comprehensive methodology for examining all significant and relevant economic effects was used in order to insure that the proposed target maximizes benefits, especially in the area of energy conservation, while minimizing any adverse consequences.

The analytical procedures used both to project trends and to quantify economic factors consisted of the application of econometrics, statistics and other mathematical methods. In assessing the role of consumer products within the economy, a micro-economic analysis was relied upon, as much as possible, to project trends and simulate changes which the proposed targets might induce. However, where either the lack of data or limited model structure prevented strict adherence to econometrics, the expertise of FEA played a large role.

Most economic factors are quantified in terms of 1980 prices and quantities because 1980 is the year in which impacts of the targets will generally first occur. The projection of prices and quantities in 1980 relies upon a combination of analytical procedures. One essential feature of these procedures is that the outcome, both for energy savings and for cost-benefit impacts, is not significantly altered by variance around these projections. The forecast of shipments, price and other economic factors relating to 1980 provides a base case for quantifying possible impacts. If these projections were to shift, the quantified impacts for various costs and benefits would shift in a proportional manner. For example, variations in projected 1980 sales yield similar net benefits for consumers with negligible impact on long term energy trends.

Various data sources were used in quantifying economic factors and in the analysis of economic possibilities. Primary data sources were Federal Government publications, including the Census of Manufacturers (U.S. Bureau of the Census, Industry Series, 1975) and Current Industrial Reports (U.S. Bureau of the Census, 1973), together with private sector publications, such as Appliance Manufacturer (Dana Chase Publications, Inc., 1975-77) and Merchandising Week (Billboard Publication, Inc., 1972-77). Another source of data was testimony submitted at May and June 1976 hearings on Subpart C as previously proposed (41 FR 19977, May 14, 1976), as well as the written comments received in response to that proposal.

The methodology consists of establishing a test of economic feasibility, and conducting a four-stage analysis which quantifies all relevant economic factors. Use of this methodology by FEA should not preclude interested parties from suggesting the use of different methodologies, but such suggestions should include a clearly defined methodology along with verified quantifications. Presentations from respondents are encouraged, since a thorough understanding of all relevant economic factors is necessary in prescribing economically feasible targets for consumer products.

A proposed energy efficiency improvement target for a particular consumer product is economically feasible when:

1. Appropriate economic resources are available for production and shipment of the more energy-efficient consumer product, and

2. Either benefits exceed costs of implementing the proposed targets, or negative impacts are not of substantial consequence.

Economic resources are considered available when manufacturers can obtain necessary scarce or imported materials to implement energy efficiency improvements, and can secure sufficient capital to finance the required investment in plant and equipment, and to finance other costs, including materials. In addition, when costs of implementing and utilizing more energy-efficient consumer products are outweighed by the dollar value of benefits, the target is considered to be economically feasible. Where, however, costs exceed benefits, and both energy savings are substantial and economic impact on overall economic trends is not of substantial consequence, then the proposed target remains economically feasible. An economic impact is not of substantial consequence when it does not alter a reasonable projected path of stable growth by an appreciable margin in a manner which causes undue stress or burden to some sector of the economy.

FEA applied this test to each type of product, including furnaces. The first criterion on the definition, which involves an examination of scarce material supply and investment requirements, is analyzed in stage two of the analysis. The second criterion, which involves the quantification of costs and benefits associated with proposed targets, is analyzed in stages three and four of the analysis, where effects on employment, production, prices, demand, energy, investment, and market structure are also quantified. The first stage of the analysis relates energy saving design options to basic economic factors upon which the other stages depend.

Stage I—Integration of Design Options with Economic Impacts.—Certain technological engineering factors are accepted as given for the purpose of the economic analysis. These technological factors include the set of design options discussed in Part II above, with corresponding material requirements and resulting energy efficiency improvements for each consumer product. The economic analysis derives a cost estimate for implementing each design option by pricing required materials along with costs for labor and overhead when these are considered important elements in the redesign. The energy savings attributable to the individual design options, and their costs, are combined so as to account for any overlapping energy savings, in order to arrive at an overall energy improvement and total cost increase. The increase in total cost is then translated into an increase in purchase price. Evidence of current price differentials for products already incorporating energy efficient design options was used where appropriate. In this manner, the price increase per unit is directly linked to technological design options and energy efficiency improvements.

The per unit price increase is further adjusted in two ways. First, the per unit price increase is production-weighted, as are energy efficiency improvements, according to 1975 and 1980 shipment characteristics. For each consumer product, the percentage of 1975 shipments incorporating the same design option, resulting in the percentage increase in products marketed with a specific design option in 1980 over 1975. This net increase in production of improved products between base period and target date is multiplied by the appropriate design option price increase, yielding a production-weighted price increase by design option. The production-weighted price increase for each design option is summed for all design options to arrive at a production-weighted price increase for the consumer product.

The second adjustment is the calculation of the production-weighted price increase expressed in 1980 prices. Because recent available retail prices were most often 1975 prices, a price increase rate of about 3 percent per year, compounding to 15.9 percent, was used to convert 1975 prices into 1980 prices. An annual price rise of 3 percent is in line with past consumer product price trends.

Projected unimproved consumer product prices multiplied by base-case projected 1980 shipments yields an initial unimproved purchase cost that is compared to the increased purchase cost of improved products for evaluating the impact on demand and supply relationships.

Stage II—Availability of Economic Resources.—This stage of the analysis evaluates the sufficiency of economic resources, including materials and capital, to permit the manufacture and shipment of the more energy-efficient consumer products. The particular investment requirements described in this evaluation are not meant to prescribe for manufacturers a necessary investment or financial procedure. Although particular manufacturing and financial factors are presented along with their impacts, the purpose of this analysis is only to demonstrate one economically feasible approach in the achievement of the proposed energy target.

This evaluation relies essentially upon the given technological factors to define material requirements. Each design option is related to the number of pounds of material per unit. Per unit material requirements are aggregated by using production-weighted percentages such as were used for price increases. The total change in each material resulting from incorporation of a particular design option is the product of the number of projected 1980 shipments and the production-weighted material change for each unit. Total material changes are expressed as a percent of the total U.S. production of each material in order to assess the potential impact. If the material impact is judged to be nonsignificant then it is considered to be an available economic resource.

Investment requirements are also analyzed in stage two. First, investment requirements are estimated for a typical size manufacturing firm. A typical size firm is considered to be one which has a market share equal to or better than the average market share of all firms manufacturing the product. The necessary investment resources are considered to be available if the financial status of a typical firm manufacturing the particular production is adequate to undertake the investment. Second, the availability of sufficient funds for the entire industry is evaluated by aggregating the investment requirements of all firms in the industry. The aggregation of investment at the industry level is calculated by multiplying the investment required by a typical firm times the number of firms estimated to account for a major portion of the market. The additional investment for the industry is compared to recent investment trends by the industry itself to assess the possible burden. Also, the availability of funds in the financial market is evaluated by contrasting the additional industry needs with manufacturers' performance in terms of growth and profitability. If the financial position of manufacturers of a consumer product is adequate to obtain necessary funds, then the investment requirements are considered to be an available resource.

Stage III—Cost-Benefit Tradeoffs and Energy Consumption.—This stage of the analysis examines the cost-benefit trade-off confronting consumers of household appliances along with corresponding energy savings. The tradeoff is essentially a measurement of net life cycle benefits from the perspectives of both an individual purchaser and all household sector purchasers. These purchases decisions determine net energy savings, which are quantified by comparing the reduced energy consumption in the normal operation of the product and the possible greater energy consumed in the manufacture of a more efficient product.

First, costs and benefits to the household sector are evaluated. Net life cycle benefits are derived both for individual purchases of a more energy-efficient product and for total consumer purchases of the product. The premise underlying both perspectives is that a more energy-efficient consumer product typically sells for a higher price but operates at a lower cost, since less energy is required to perform the same task. Future dollar savings from lower operating costs are accumulated over the life of the product and expressed in present dollars by discounting future dollar flows. The discounting formula is based on a 10 percent interest rate and an engineering estimate of product life. In this manner, a rational consumer can compare, dollar for dollar, the current value of future operating savings with the increase in purchase price of the more energy-efficient product.

The present value of net life cycle benefits for individual purchasers is aggregated by using a projection of 1980 shipments. The 1980 shipment projection is assumed to equal all household purchases and provides the basis for quantifying reduced energy consumption, household savings and increased expenditures resulting from the household sector purchase and use of more efficient products which sell at a slightly higher price but operate at a lower energy cost.

However, total energy savings is even greater than the amount of reduced consumption by the household sector. Reduced energy consumption is measured first at household end use in cubic feet of natural gas and barrels of fuel oil and second at utility plants in Btu's. The measurement of energy consumed by the utility is the actual energy content of fuel consumed in order ultimately to operate the consumer product in the home.

The measurement of energy consumed by the utility is further converted into barrels of crude petroleum by using a conversion factor of 5.6 million Btu's per barrel. However, simply because reduced energy consumption is equivalently measured in quantity of crude petroleum, this does not imply that either imports or domestic production of petroleum will decline by a similar amount, since this is only an equivalent measure of the savings for gas furnaces and boilers. But overall reduction in household energy consumption will proportionately make available for more productive use supplies of petroleum, coal, and natural gas, especially in industry.

Stage IV—Assessment of Negative Impacts on Demand and Employment.—The last stage of the analysis quantifies impacts within and between household and manufacturing sectors. This stage is primarily an evaluation of possible substantial negative impacts but, where appropriate, costs are offset by benefits. The analysis examines the potential impact of shifts in household demand on production and employment. Other areas of potential negative impacts include industry structure and income groups.

The purpose of this stage is to examine changes in demand-supply relationships in terms of economic feasibility. The study of the interaction of demand-supply relationships within and between the household and manufacturing sectors yields costs, benefits, and impacts of energy efficiency targets. The extent to which costs, benefits and impacts vary depends essentially upon two factors:

1. The extent to which manufacturing costs, including substituted materials, new investment in plant and equipment, and additional financing costs, increase purchase price.
2. The degree to which household demand for consumer products varies with respect to higher prices on the one hand but lower operating costs on the other.

The higher the manufacturing cost requirements to implement the proposed target, the greater the negative impact from higher prices on household demand, employment, production, inflation, and market structure. Negative impacts are, however, viewed in relative terms since, although they may be significant, such impacts may also be outweighed by favorable benefits consisting of either reduced energy consumption on the demand side or innovative manufacturing techniques on the supply side. In contrast, the lower the manufacturing cost requirements, the greater the opportunity for energy savings, enhanced household purchasing power, and negligible negative impacts.

This fourth stage of the analysis initially evaluates the possible changes in aggregate demand along with the resulting impact on production, employment and market structure. The analysis examines possible deviations from the 1980 base case shipment projection in order to assess possible substantial negative impacts resulting from the achievement of the proposed energy efficiency improvement target. The 1980 base case projection of shipments and purchases was used as the most reasonable basis and best approximation for quantifying material and energy impacts along with life cycle benefits discussed in stages two and three. Thus, even though possible negative impacts might cause a deviation around the base case projection, the previously quantified impacts would not be substantially altered. The reasonableness of using 1980 base case projections in stages two and three stems, in part, from an assumption that between 1975 and 1980 manufacturers will have introduced higher-priced more efficient products in a progressive manner so that households are not suddenly faced with a one-time jump in prices of more energy-efficient products in 1980. If this assumption holds true, the negative impacts would not be of material consequence because they would be spread over a number of years and in essence diluted by other economic factors.

However, in order to measure the possibility of more substantial negative impacts, this methodology in stage four further analyzes an alternative case in which households react to a sudden jump in 1980 prices of more energy-efficient products. The extent to which demand shifts in response to a sudden jump in prices is subject to continuing fluctuation as the relative prices of purchasing and operating a product change, along with changes in awareness and perception of future price trends. For these reasons, a plausible maximum-minimum range of household response to higher prices is presented. For example, where rational consumers compare life cycle operating savings to increased purchase price and the positive impact from operating savings outweigh the negative impact from higher purchase price then demand could, in fact, exceed the 1980 base case projections. Where life cycle operating savings are ignored, however, demand could fall below the base case projection. It is these two plausible consumer perceptions which are described in the maximum-minimum range.

FEA has determined that minimum negative impact is the most plausible case for several reasons. First, the quantification of shifts in both demand and employment does not fully consider the positive effect that a successful consumer education and labeling program might have on increasing consumer preference for low energy usage products with the ultimate effect of outweighing the negative effects of purchase price elasticity. Also, recent structural changes in consumer preferences between purchase price and operating cost have not been given appropriate weighting, since time series used in this analysis of relative price elasticities primarily reflect attitudes before the 1973 energy crisis. On this basis, it is concluded that the fall in demand with attendant employee layoffs may approach the minimum negative impact but that it is temporary (probably less than one year).

In order to examine the responsiveness of households to higher-priced, more energy-efficient products, a demand function was developed for each of the consumer products. Historical time series were relied upon to quantify changes in household purchases with respect to changes in product prices, energy prices, real income, housing starts, household stock and other relevant economic factors. These equations, correlated in log form, measure the responsiveness between quantity purchased as it relates to product purchase price on the one hand and quantity purchased as it relates to energy usage price on the other. Correlation analysis of the logarithm of quantity purchased (the dependent variable) together with the logarithm of purchase price, energy price, and other related parameters yields coefficients which are the pertinent elasticities. The two key elasticities are purchase price and energy price.

A product price elasticity of one indicates that for every 1 percent increase in product purchase price, quantity purchased declines by 1 percent. If product purchase price elasticity is less than one, then a 1 percent increase in product purchase price generates something less than a 1 percent decrease in quantity purchased. If price elasticity is greater than one, however, then a 1 percent increase in product purchase price generates something greater than a 1 percent decrease in quantity purchased.

The relationship between the number of units purchased and operating cost elasticity of a particular product is the reverse of the demand elasticity. It is assumed that energy price elasticity derived from regression analysis is similar to operating cost elasticity. Large savings in operating costs are directly correlated with lower energy usage prices. For an energy price (or operating cost) elasticity larger than one, a reduction in the operating cost of a particular product will result in a greater increase in the quantity purchased than would result if the energy price elasticity were one less. The lower the energy usage price elasticity (less than one), the less will be the positive effect of increased efficiency on the quantity purchased. The positive effect on quantity purchased due to higher prices, are netted to derive a corresponding increase or decrease in quantity purchased by households.

The impact of shifting household demand on employment is the direct consequence of a net increase or decrease in quantity purchased. The net change in quantity purchased is expressed as a percent of 1980 projections of sales. The percent increase or decrease in quantity purchased is expressed as a percent of 1980 projections of sales. The percent increase or decrease in quantity purchased is assumed to equal the corresponding percent increase or decrease in direct employment. This is an assumption based on available information. Direct employment is the number of production workers in the appropriate industry. If the industry SIC category of production workers according to Bureau of Census Standard Industrial Code does not match the consumer product being evaluated, then the ratio of dollar value of shipments of a consumer product to shipments of the SIC industry as a whole is used to apportion industry production workers to correspond to the consumer product classification.

Two other concerns which are examined in terms of potential negative impact are industry structure and income groups. With respect to industry structure, typical size firms are compared to smaller firms in order to evaluate possible bias against smaller firms. Smaller firms are examined in light of their cost structure and market share. If the investment requirements or other factors do not appear to cause dramatic shifts in industry structure, then the negative impact on small firms is not considered to be of substantial consequence.

With respect to income groups, the burden on lower income purchasers is examined for possible unfavorable bias. If the percentage increase in purchase price for lower income groups does not appear to exceed that for higher income groups by a significant amount, then the negative impact is not considered to be of substantial consequence.

FEA used this methodology to evaluate the economic feasibility of the proposed energy efficiency improvement target for furnaces. The entire economic analysis is available for inspection by interested persons, as provided for later in this notice. A summary of the analysis follows:

GAS FURNACES

FEA, in a manner consistent with the methodology presented above, has determined that the proposed energy efficiency improvement for gas furnaces is the maximum improvement which is technologically and economically feasible. A summary of economic findings for gas furnaces follows:

Stage I—The total price increase resulting from implementation of the selected design options is $233 per unit, which yields a production-weighted price increase of $161 in current prices and $187 in 1980 prices.

Stage II—Both scarce material supplies and investment funds are sufficiently available to permit the implementation of the proposed target for gas furnaces.

The scarce materials primarily affected by the proposed target are steel, for which demand increases by 2600 tons, cast iron, for which demand increases by 2400 tons, aluminum, for which demand increases by 152 tons, and copper, for which demand increases by 88 tons. All of these material changes are a negligible percent of the total U.S. production, and the respective industries will be able to meet demand shifts without limiting domestic supplies or significantly increasing imports.

Profitability and growth of the major manufacturers is adequate to finance the total gas furnace industry investment of $1.3 million, which amounts to about $124 thousand per firm in additional research and development along with capital costs. The investment requirement per firm is the cumulative cost for each design option. Alternative investment to produce an amount of energy equivalent to that which will be saved by the design options is $187.3 million.

Stage III—Benefits exceed costs for the household sector in the purchase and use of higher-priced, more efficient gas furnaces, resulting in measurable energy savings.

The purchase and use of projected 1980 shipments of 1,600,000 gas furnaces complying with the proposed target initially costs households an additional $296 million but lowers life cycle operating costs by $691 million, yielding a net benefit of $395 million calculated on a present value basis.

Achievement of proposed operating efficiency for projected 1980 shipments results in an annual energy savings of 30.2 billion cubic feet of natural gas, equivalent to 33.9 trillion Btu's of utility energy supply. Total energy savings of these 1980 shipments is 600 billion cubic feet of natural gas, equivalent to 674 trillion Btu's over the 20-year life of an average gas furnace.

Stage IV—Negative impacts resulting from implementation of the proposed gas furnace target are not of substantial consequence.

Demand in 1980 might reasonably increase by 10.1 percent, or 161,600 gas furnaces, because the improvement in energy efficiency, which translates into lower operating costs, more than offsets the increase in purchase price.

Employment might temporarily increase 438 production workers, or about 10 percent of gas furnace employment, in response to increased demand.

The threat of shifts in industry market structure which might affect the existence of small firms apparently does not exist for gas furnace manufacturers, since a revenue base of about $5 million, or 1 percent of market share, is sufficient to finance investment requirements of the stated design options. Such a revenue base is typical of the small firms.

The lowest income quartile will not pay a proportionately larger price increase than higher income groups for more efficient gas furnaces, because available information suggests that all income groups pay approximately the same price for gas furnaces.

OIL FURNACES

FEA, in a manner consistent with the methodology presented above, has determined that the proposed energy efficiency improvement for oil furnaces is the maximum improvement which is technologically and economically feasible. A summary of economic findings for oil furnaces follows:

Stage I—The total price increase resulting from implementation of the selected design options is $113 per unit, which yields a production-weighted price increase of $113 in current prices and $131 in 1980 prices.

affected by the proposed target are steel, for which demand increases by 575 tons, cast iron, for which demand increases by 688 tons, aluminum, for which demand increases by 100 tons, and copper, for which demand increases by 75 tons. All of these material changes are a negligible percent of the total U.S. production, and the respective industries will be able to meet demand shifts without limiting domestic supplies or significantly increasing imports.

Profitability and growth of the major manufacturers is adequate to finance total furnace industry investment of $300 thousand, which amounts to about $30 thousand per firm in additional research and development along with capital costs. The investment requirement per firm is the cumulative cost of each design option. Alternative investment required to produce an amount of energy equivalent to that which will be saved by the design options is $15.3 million.

Stage III—Benefits exceed costs for the household sector in the purchase and use of higher-priced, more efficient oil furnaces, resulting in measurable energy savings.

The purchase and use of projected 1980 shipments of 250 thousand oil furnaces complying with the proposed target initially costs households an additional $32.7 million but lowers life cycle operating costs by $88.8 million, yielding a net benefit of $56.1 million calculated on a present value basis.

Achievement of proposed operating efficiency for projected 1980 shipments results in an annual energy savings of 18.0 million gallons of fuel oil, which is equivalent to 2.7 trillion Btu's of energy. Total energy savings of these 1980 shipments is 360 million gallons of fuel oil, equivalent to 54 trillion Btu's, over the 20-year life of an average oil furnace.

Stage IV—Negative impacts resulting from implementation of the proposed oil furnace target are not of substantial consequence. In order to quantify the impacts of the target on demand and employment FEA used the purchase price elasticity and the energy price elasticity previously estimated for gas furnaces. This assumption was made due to the absence of shipment data sufficient to determine elasticities for oil furnaces. Given the similarities in market demand for all classes of furnaces, FEA believes that the assumption is valid. The resulting conclusions are that:

Demand in 1980 might reasonably increase by 8.7 percent, or 21,800 oil furnaces, because the improvement in energy efficiency, which translates into lower costs, more than offsets the increase in purchase price.

Employment might temporarily increase by 220 production workers, or about 9 percent of oil furnace employment, in response to higher demand.

The threat of shifts in industry market structure which might affect the existence of small firms apparently does not exist for oil furnace manufacturers, since a revenue base of about $1.4 million, or 1 percent of market share, is sufficient to finance investment requirements of the stated design options. Such a revenue base is typical of the small firms.

The lowest income quartile apparently will not pay a proportionately larger price increase than higher income groups for more efficient oil furnaces, because available information suggests that all income groups pay approximately the same price for oil furnaces.

GAS BOILERS

FEA, in a manner consistent with the methodology presented above, has determined that the proposed energy efficiency improvement for gas boilers is the maximum improvement which is technologically and economically feasible. A summary of economic findings for gas boilers follows:

Stage I—The total price increase resulting from implementation of the selected design options is $233 per unit, which yields a production-weighted price increase of $161 in current prices and $187 in 1980 prices.

Stage II—Both scarce material supplies and investment funds are sufficiently available to permit the implementation of the proposed target for boilers.

The scarce materials primarily affected by the proposed target are steel, for which demand increases by 211 tons, cast iron, for which demand increases by 195 tons, aluminum, for which demand increases by 7.8 tons, and copper, for which demand increases by 11.7 tons. All of these material changes are a negligible percent of the total U.S. production, and the respective industries will be able to meet demand shifts without limiting domestic supplies or significantly increasing imports.

Profitability and growth of the major manufacturers are adequate to finance the total gas boiler industry investment of $643,068, which amounts to about $71 thousand per firm in additional research and development along with capital costs. Investment requirement per firm is the cumulative cost for each design option. Alternative investment to produce an amount of energy equivalent to that which will be saved by the design options is $13 million.

Stage III—Benefits exceed costs for the household sector in the purchase and use of higher-priced, more efficient gas boilers, resulting in measurable energy savings.

The purchase and use of projected 1980 shipments of 130,000 gas boilers complying with the proposed target initially costs households an additional $24.3 million but lowers life cycle operating costs by $56.3 million, yielding a net benefit of $32 million calculated on a present value basis.

Achievement of proposed operating efficiency for projected 1980 shipments results in an annual energy savings of 2.46 billion cubic feet of natural gas, which is equivalent to 2.8 trillion Btu's of utility energy supply. Total energy savings of these 1980 shipments is 49.1 billion cubic feet of natural gas, or 55.2

trillion Btu's, over the 20 year life of an average gas boiler.

Stage IV—Negative impacts resulting from implementation of the proposed gas boiler target are not of substantial consequence. In order to quantify the impacts of the target on demand and employment FEA used the purchase price elasticity and the energy price elasticity previously estimated for gas furnaces. This assumption was made due to the absence of shipment data sufficient to determine elasticities for gas boiler. Given the similarities in market demand for all classes of furnaces, FEA believes that the assumption is valid. The resulting conclusions are that:

Demand in 1980 might reasonably increase by 34 percent, or 44,200 gas boilers, because the improvement in energy efficiency, which translates into lower operating costs, more than offsets the increase in purchase price.

Employment might temporarily increase by 402 production workers, or about 34 percent of the gas boiler industry employment, in response to higher demand.

The threat of shifts in industry market structure which might affect the existence of small firms apparently does not exist for gas boiler manufacturers, since a revenue base of about $1.3 million, or 1 percent of market share, is sufficient to finance investment requirements of the stated design options. Such a revenue base is typical of the small firms. Alternatively, smaller firms could achieve the target by choosing other design options which require smaller investments.

The lowest income quartile apparently will not pay a proportionately larger price increase than higher income group for more efficient gas boilers, because available information suggests that all income groups pay approximately the same price for gas boilers.

OIL BOILERS

FEA, in a manner consistent with the methodology presented above, has determined that the proposed energy efficiency improvement for oil boilers is the maximum improvement which is technologically and economically feasible. A summary of economic findings for oil boilers follows:

Stage I—The total price increase resulting from implementation of the selected design options is $113 per unit, which yields a production-weighted price increase of $113 in current prices and $131 in 1980 prices.

Stage II—Both scarce material supplies and investment funds are sufficiently available to permit the implementation of the proposed target for oil boilers. The scarce materials primarily affected by the proposed target are steel, for which demand increases by 244 tons, cast iron, for which demand increases by 231 tons, aluminum for which demand increases by 14 tons, and copper, for which demand increases by 25 tons. All of these material changes are a negligible percent of the total U.S. production, and the respective industries will be able to meet demand shifts without limiting domestic supplies or significantly increasing imports.

Profitability and growth of the major manufacturers is adequate to finance total boiler industry investment of $594 thousand, which amounts to about $66 thousand per firm in additional research and development along with capital costs. The investment requirement per firm is the cumulative cost of each design option. Alternative investment required to produce an amount of energy equivalent to that which will be saved by the design options is $19.2 million.

Stage III—Benefits exceed costs for the household sector in the purchase and use of higher-priced, more efficient oil boiler, resulting in measurable energy savings.

The purchase and use of projected 1980 shipments of 140 thousand oil boilers complying with the proposed target initially costs households an additional $18.3 million but lowers life cycle operating costs by $49.8 million, yielding a net benefit of $31.5 million calculated on a present value basis.

Achievement of proposed operating efficiency for projected 1980 shipments results in an annual energy savings of 9.9 million gallons of fuel oil, which is equivalent to 1.3 trillion Btu's of energy. Total energy savings of these 1980 shipments is 199 million gallons of fuel oil or 30 trillion Btu's over the 20 year life of an average oil boiler.

Stage IV—Negative impacts resulting from implementation of the proposed oil boiler target are not of substantial consequence. In order to quantify the impacts of the target on demand and employment FEA used the purchase price elasticity and the energy price elasticity previously estimated for gas furnaces. This assumption was made due to the absence of shipment data sufficient to determine elasticities for oil boilers. Given the similarities in market demand for all classes of furnaces, FEA believes that the assumption is valid. The resulting conclusions are that:

Demand in 1980 might reasonably increase by 20.2 percent, or 28,300 oil boilers, because the improvement in energy efficiency, which translates into lower operating costs, more than offsets the increase in purchase price.

Employment might temporarily increase by 393 production workers, or about 20 percent of oil boiler employment, in response to greater demand.

The threat of shifts in industry market structure which might affect the existence of small firms apparently does not exist for oil boiler manufacturers, since a revenue base of about $1.4 million, or 1 percent of market share, is sufficient to finance investment requirements of the stated design options. Such a revenue base is typical of the small firms. Alternatively, smaller firms could achieve the target by choosing other design options which require smaller investments.

The lowest income quartile apparently will not pay a proportionately larger price increase than higher income groups for more efficient oil boilers, because available information suggests that all income groups pay approximately the same price for oil boilers.

IV. REQUEST FOR PARTICULAR COMMENTS

While FEA is soliciting comments on all aspects of this proposed energy efficiency improvement target, FEA is particularly interested in receiving comments on the following matters:

1. Information relating to the number of furnaces manufactured in 1975, by capacity, and their corresponding steady state efficiencies.
2. Information relating to the number of furnaces manufactured in 1975 that incorporated any of the design options suggested in the technological analysis presented above.
3. Information relating to the reasons for recent annual growth in shipments of gas and oil boilers.

In addition, FEA is interested in receiving comments on all definitions previously promulgated or proposed in section 430.2 as these provisions might affect the efficiency improvement target. Comments with respect to the efficiency improvement target regarding provisions in previously promulgated or proposed section 430.2 are timely until the close of the written record. It is expected that definitions for this product type will be made final before the prescription of the target.

For the convenience of the reviewer, the proposed definitions directly related to the efficiency improvement target for furnaces are as follows:

"Furnace" means a device designed to be the principal heating source for the living space of a residence having a heat input rate less than 400,000 Btu's per hour, and includes forced air central furnace, gravity central furnace, electric central furnace, electric boiler, and low pressure steam or hot water boiler (42 FR 40829, August 11, 1977).

"Forced air central furnace" means a gas or oil burning furnace designed to supply heat through a system of ducts with air as the heating medium. The heat generated by combustion of gas or oil is transferred to the air within a casing by conduction through heat exchange surfaces and is circulated through the duct system by means of a fan or blower (42 FR 40829, August 11, 1977).

"Gravity central furnace" means a gas fueled furnace which depends primarily on natural convection for circulation of heated air and which is designed to be used in conjunction with a system of ducts (42 FR 40829, August 11, 1977).

"Electric central furnace" means a furnace designed to supply heat through a system of ducts with air as the heating medium, and in which heat is generated by one or more electric resistance heating elements and the heated air is circulated by means of a fan or blower (42 FR 40829, August 11, 1977).

"Direct vent system" means a system supplied by a manufacturer which provides outdoor air directly to a furnace for combustion and draft relief, if the unit is so equipped (42 FR 40830, August 11, 1977).

"Electric boiler" means an electrically powered furnace designed to supply low pressure steam or hot water for space heating application. A low pressure steam boiler operates at or below 15 psig steam pressure; a hot water boiler operates at or below 160 psig water pressure and 250° F water temperature (42 FR 40830, August 11, 1977).

"Low pressure steam or hot water boiler" means a gas or oil burning furnace designed to supply low pressure steam or hot water for space heating application. A low pressure steam boiler operates at or below 15 psig steam pressure; a hot water boiler operates at or below 160 psig water pressure and 250° F water temperature (42 FR 40830, August 11, 1977).

VI. ENVIRONMENTAL AND INFLATIONARY REVIEW

As required in section 7(c)(2) of the FEA Act, a copy of this notice has been submitted to the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency for his comments concerning the impact of this proposal on the quality of the environment. The Administrator has no comments.

The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 requires that FEA review Agency proposals to determine whether they constitute "major Federal actions significantly affecting the quality of the human environment" within the meaning of section 102(2)(c) of that Act. Since the targets proposed today are voluntary, compliance with these targets is a voluntary private action. This type of Compliance is not a "Federal action" within the meaning of the statutory language. Since any compliance with the targets is entirely at the initiative of affected manufacturers and not FEA, it is virtually impossible for FEA to undertake meaningful analysis of the nature or scope of any environmental effects which might indirectly flow from the targets. Moreover, the goal of these targets is to induce reductions in energy consumption, as well as the environmental residuals of energy consumption and, thus, to improve environmental quality. On this basis, FEA has determined that, with respect to prescribing efficiency improvement targets under the conservation program for appliances, no environmental impact statement is required.

This proposed target has been reviewed in accordance with Executive Order 11821 as amended by Executive Order 11949, and OMB Circular No. A107, and has been determined to be a major proposal, but only on the assumption that manufacturers will in fact implement the measures which the economic feasibility analysis has found to be reasonable and achievable and that, therefore, they will fully comply with the target. The target, however, is voluntary in nature and since FEA cannot predict the actual degree of compliance it cannot, accordingly, predict the target's actual economic impact. An economic impact evaluation, based upon the assumptions contained in the economic feasibility analysis rather than on actual economic impact, has been completed and is available for public review, as provided above.

On consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend Chapter II of Title 10, Code of Federal Regulations, as set forth below.

Issued in Washington, D.C., September 23, 1977.

ERIC J. FYGI,
Acting General Counsel,
Federal Energy Administration.

1. Section 430.32 is amended by adding paragraph (n), to read as follows:

§ 430.32 Energy efficiency improvement targets.

(n) The energy efficiency improvement target for furnaces shall be a 23 percent increase in energy efficiency for the total number of fueled furnaces manufactured by all manufacturers in calendar year 1980, when compared with the energy efficiency on the total number of furnaces manufactured by all manufacturers in calendar year 1975.

SUMMARY: It is proposed to combine into a single part not only annual rules, which have previously been published on a yearly basis and have general applicability and future effect, but also special rules, previously published separately in the FEDERAL REGISTER or in the Code of Federal Regulations and which relate to the Secretaries' responsibility to allocate duty-free quota for watches and watch movements assembled in the U.S. insular possessions under Public Law 89-805 (19 U.S.C. 1202).

DATE: Comments due October 31, 1977.

ADDRESS: Any written communication in connection with this notice should be addressed to: Special Import Programs Division, Attention: R. M. Seppa, Room 6895, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230.

FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Seppa, who can be reached by telephone on 202-377-2925.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Departments of Commerce and the Interior have the joint responsibility for allocating fairly and equitably among the various producers the quota which resulted from the imposition by Public Law 89-805 of a limitation on the number of watches and watch movements containing foreign components which may be imported duty-free from insular possessions of the United States. In the past proposed watch quota rules have been published each year in the FEDERAL REGISTER, with interested parties invited to comment prior to publication of the final rules, even though several sections of the rules did not change from year to year. The new Part 303 proposed below provides for the publication of annual rules as before, but brings together in the Code of Federal Regulations those provisions of the annual rules having general applicability and future effect and other rules, policies and designations previously incorporated by references in the annual rules, including:

(1) Rules restricting transfers of duty-free quotas published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 31, 1968 (33 FR 2399), and

(2) The codified regulations on appeals to the Secretaries found in 15 CFR Part 13.

In addition, the Secretaries' joint delegation to the Governors of the territories of authority to issue shipment permits (41 FR 37385 et seq.) is incorporated in this part.

While the proposed revisions are primarily organizational and editorial, it is also proposed to make minor substantive revisions with respect to the definitions of "producer" and "new entrant" and to the requirements for valid duty-free entry. Moreover, the proposed revisions formalize a number of procedures growing out of administrative practice in the Departments' exercise of their responsibility and which have regulatory effect, but which have not previously been published as rules. Accordingly, these proposed provisions will be published in final form only after consideration of any written comments received from interested parties prior to October 31, 1977.

The Departments propose to codify these regulations in 15 CFR Chapter III as follows:

§ 303.1 Purpose.

This part implements the responsibilities of the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of the Interior under Public Law 89-805, enacted November 10, 1966, which amended general headnote 3(a) of the Tariff Schedules of the United States (TSUS) (19 U.S.C. 1202), and added headnote 6 to schedule 7, part 2, subpart E. General headnote 3(a), TSUS, exempts from duty products of the insular possessions containing fifty percent or less foreign materials, with certain exceptions. Public Law 89-805 established a limitation (equal to one-ninth of apparent U.S. consumption the preceding calendar year) on the number of watches and watch movements containing foreign components which may be entered free of duty under general headnote 3(a) during any one calendar year (no provision is made for carryover of unutilized quota from one year to the next). The International Trade Commission (ITC) is responsible for determining apparent consumption and applying the percentage factors provided in the Act to determine the total duty-free quota and the distinct quotas for the Virgin Islands (87.5 percent of the total), Guam (8.33 percent) and American Samoa (4.17 percent), respectively. On or before April 1 of each year the ITC is required to publish these determinations in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The law further provides that the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of the Interior, acting jointly, shall allocate the annual quotas fairly and equitably among producers of watches and watch movements located in the insular possessions, and gives the Secretaries authority to issue any regulations they deem necessary to carry out their duties. Public Law 94-88, enacted August 9, 1975, further amended general headnote 3(a) to exempt from duty watches and watch movements assembled in the insular possessions which do not contain foreign materials to the value of more than 70 percent of their total value.

§ 303.2 Definitions and forms.

(a) Unless the context otherwise indicates:

(1) "Act" means Public Law 89-805, enacted November 10, 1966, 80 Stat. 1521 (19 U.S.C. 1202) as amended by Public Law 94-88, 89 Stat. 433.

(2) "Departments" means jointly the U.S. Department of Commerce and the U.S. Department of the Interior.

(3) "Secretaries" means the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of the Interior or their delegates.

(4) "Director" means the Director of the Special Import Programs Division, Office of Import Programs, Domestic and International Business Administration, Department of Commerce.

(5) "Sale or transfer of a business" means the sale or transfer of control, whether temporary or permanent, over a firm to which a quota has been allocated, to any other firm, corporation, partnership, person or other legal entity by any means whatsoever, including but not limited to, by merger, transfer of stocks or assets or voting trusts.

(6) "New firm" means an entity which is completely separate from and unassociated with (in terms of ownership and control) any present quota recipient in the same territory in which the entity is requesting a quota. A "new entrant" is a new firm which has received a quota allocation.

(7) "Producer" means a quota holder performing assembly operations pursuant to a quota allocation which has maintained its eligibility for further allocations by compliance with all applicable rules and regulations issued by the Departments.

(8) "Established industry" means all producers, including new entrants, which have maintained their eligibility for further quota allocations.

(9) "Territories", "territorial" and "insular possessions" refer to the insular possessions of the United States, i.e., the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam and American Samoa.

(10) "Quota allocation" refers to the Departments' formal act of authorizing the duty-free entry of a specified number of watches and watch movements into the customs territory of the United States by the several producers during each calendar year or portion thereof.

(11) "Initial allocation" refers to the allocation made at the beginning of each calendar year to each eligible producer. It is an interim allocation designed to permit the continuation of production and marketing operations pending issuance of the "annual allocation."

(12) "Annual allocation" refers to the full calendar year allocation made to each producer. The sum of the annual allocations, plus any amount of quota that may be set aside or reserved for allocation to new firms, equals in each territory the amount of quota available for that territory.

(13) "Supplemental allocation" refers to an allocation made between an initial allocation and an annual allocation or after an annual allocation which increases the amount of a producer's quota. Supplemental allocations are special allocations for the purpose of allowing a producer to continue operations.

(14) A "reduced allocation" is an allocation made to supersede a producer's allocation with a smaller quota amount, whether for cause or as the result of the producer's voluntary relinquishment of quota.

(15) A "reallocation" is a process whereby quota held by one or more producers, or quota set aside for new entrants, is placed with one or more other producers. Such will generally involve reduced allocations and supplemental allocations. Reallocations are made for the purpose of facilitating maximum utilization of a territory's calendar year quota and of promoting the greatest possible economic contribution to the territory.

(b) The forms used in the administration of Public Law 89-805 are:

(1) DIB-334P, "Application for License to Enter Watches and Watch Movements into the Customs Territory of the United States (Pub. L. 89-805)." This form must be completed once annually by all producers desiring to receive an annual allocation of quota. It is also used, with appropriate special instructions for its completion, by new firms applying for quota at the time of a new entrant provision.

(2) DIB-333, "License to Enter Watches and Watch Movements into the Customs Territory of the United States (Pub. L. 89-805)." This form is issued by the Departments to producers which have received a quota allocation and constitutes the formal authorization for the issuance of specific shipment permits by the territorial governments. It is also used to record the balance of a producer's quota remaining after the issuance of each shipment permit.

(3) DIB-340, "Permit to Enter Watches and Watch Movements into the Customs Territory of the United States (Pub. L. 89-805)." This form is issued by the territorial government to producers holding a valid quota license and constitutes the authorization for the duty-free entry of an amount of watches or watch movements specified on the form at the U.S. Customs port of entry specified on the form.

(4) DIB-321P, "Quarterly Report on Watch Assembly Operations of Firms granted a Watch Quota Allocation (Pub. L. 89-805)." This form provides the Director with data on a producer's purchase, assembly and shipment activity during the quarterly report period, and scheduled delivery of components and finished movements for the remainder of the calendar year. These data are used by the Departments for program evaluation and planning purposes. Each producer is required to return the completed form to the Director on or before April 15, July 15, and October 15 of each calendar year.

§ 303.3 Publication of annual rules.

Between November 1 and December 15 each calendar year the Departments will publish proposed rules for the allocation of quotas for the forthcoming calendar year. Interested parties will be asked to provide written comments within the time period specified in the notice of proposed rules. As early as possible each calendar year the Departments shall publish a notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER announcing the annual rules governing the allocation of quotas for each territory for that particular year. These rules generally shall contain:

(a) Criteria or formulae which will be used by the Departments in calculating each producer's annual watch quota allocation.

(b) Such other special rules or provisions as the Departments may prescribe, e.g. notice of a new entrant provision, and

(c) Any revisions of the codified rules.

§ 303.4 Application for quotas.

(a) Application forms (DIB-334P) shall be furnished to producers as soon as practicable, but not later than January 1, and must be completed and returned to the Departments on or before January 31 of each calendar year. Failure to supply the data required in the application form may result in the producer's ineligibility for an annual allocation of quota and in the cancellation of its initial quota allocation.

(b) All data supplied are subject to verification by the Departments and no allocation of the annual quota shall be made to a producer until the Departments are satisfied as to the accuracy of the data it has supplied. To verify the data it is necessary for representatives of the Departments to have access to relevant company records including, but not limited to:

(1) work sheets used to answer all applicable questions on the application form;

(2) original records from which such data are derived;

(3) records pertaining to ownership and control of the company and to its satisfaction of eligibility requirements for duty-free treatment of its product by the U.S. Customs Service;

(4) records pertaining to corporate income taxes paid by each producer in the territories on the basis of which a portion of each producer's annual quota is predicated;

(5) customs, bank, payroll and production records; and

(6) records on purchases of components and sales of movements, including proof of payment.

The verification of data shall be performed in the territories by the Departments' representatives as soon as practicable each calendar year, but no later than the end of March.

§ 303.5 Allocation and reallocation of quotas.

(a) Allocation of quotas.—(1) Initial allocations. As soon as practicable after January 1 of each year the Departments shall make an initial allocation to each producer equaling 70 percent of the number of watch units it has assembled in the particular territory and entered duty-free into the customs territory of the United States during the first eight months of the preceding calendar year, or any lesser amount requested in writing by such producer. In calculating the initial allocations, the Director shall count only those duty-free watches and watch movements verified by the U.S. Customs Service on Form DIB-340 as having been released for immediate delivery (or formally entered if such occurred simultaneously with release) on or before August 31.

(2) Annual allocations. As soon as practicable after April 1 of each year the Departments shall make the annual allocations among the several producers on the basis of the data supplied by producers in their annual application (Form DIB-334P) and verified by the Departments, and in accordance with the allocation criteria specified in the annual rules. A notice of such allocations shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(3) Supplemental allocations. At the request of a producer, the Departments may make an allocation of quota supplementing a producer's initial allocation if the Departments determine the producer's initial allocation will be used before the Departments can issue the annual allocations. Before making such supplemental allocations, the Departments shall take into account the requesting producer's estimated annual allocation to ensure that the sum of its initial and supplemental allocations is not a disproportionate amount of the annual allocation. Allocations to supplement a producer's annual allocation shall be made under the real-location provisions prescribed below.

(b) Reallocation of quotas. Quota may become available for reallocation as a result of cancellation or reduction for cause, non-utilization of quota resulting from business failure, voluntary relinquishment or non-placement of quota set aside for new entrants. The Departments may reallocate such quotas among the remaining producers which are able to utilize additional quota in a manner which in the judgment of the Departments is best suited to contribute to the economy of the territories. In reallocating quota the Departments shall take into account such factors as the wage and income tax contributions of the respective producers during the preceding year, the nature of the producers' present assembly operations and any other factors which, in the judgment of the Departments, bear on the well being and established character of the industry itself and thereby on the economy of the territory. The Departments may determine that applications from new firms, in lieu of reallocation, should be invited for any part or all of any unused portions of quotas. Among the factors the Departments may evaluate in making this latter determination are:

(1) The ability of the established industry to utilize the available quota;

(2) Whether the available quota is sufficient to support viable operations for one or more new entrants;

(3) The market for territorial watches and watch movements in the United States;

(4) The possible impact upon the established industry of selecting any new entrant(s), particularly with respect to the effect on local employment, tax contributions to the territorial government, and on the ability of the established industry to maintain satisfactory production levels; and

(5) Whether the addition of new entrants offers the best prospect for added economic benefits accruing to the territory.

Following consideration of such factors, if the Departments determine that it would be in the best interest of the territory, they may set aside all or a portion of the quota available for reallocation and invite applications from new entrants through publication of a notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The annual rules may also provide for setting aside a portion of a territory's annual quota for new entrants. In determining whether or not to do so, the Departments shall consider factors similar to those considered in determining to invite applications from new firms in lieu of reallocating unutilized quota to the established industry. If the Departments determine that inviting applications from new firms would be in the best interests of the territory, they shall set aside a portion of the annual quota for this purpose in the annual rules, set forth their reasons for doing so, and describe the kinds of information new firms will be required to submit in applying for a quota allocation, including but not limited to the applicant's financial capacity, production and marketing experience, proposed source of parts and components, affiliation with other business entities in the watchmaking and marketing industry, proposed degree of assembly, proposed wage rates by job classification, and the applicant's intentions with regard to the number of units to be assembled and shipped duty-free into the customs territory, to establishing or acquiring a local production facility and to seeking territorial tax exemptions or other local industrial incentive benefits. In such circumstances the reasons for such set-aside provision will be set forth in the annual rules.

§ 303.6 Issuance of licenses.

(a) Concurrent with quota allocations under § 303.5, the Director shall issue a non-transferable license (Form DIB-333) to each producer. The Director shall also issue a replacement license if a producer's quota is reduced pursuant to section 303.9 of this part.

(b) Annual quota licenses shall be only for that portion of a producer's annual quota not previously licensed under an initial and initial supplemental allocation.

(c) If a producer's quota has been reduced, the Director shall not issue a replacement license for the reduced amount until the producer's previous license has been received for cancellation by the Director.

(d) A producer's licenses shall be used in their entirety, except when they expire or are cancelled, in the order of their date of issuance, e.g., an initial license must be completely used before shipment permits can be issued against an initial supplemental license.

(e) Outstanding licenses issued by the Departments automatically expire at midnight, December 31, of each calendar year. No unused quota may be carried over into the subsequent calendar year.

(f) The Director shall ensure that all licenses issued are conspicuously marked to show the type of license issued, the identity of the producer, and the year for which the license is valid, and all such licenses shall bear the signature of the Director.

(g) Each producer is responsible for the security of its licenses. The loss of a license shall be reported immediately to the Director. Defacing, tampering with or unauthorized use of a license may result in the cancellation of the producer's quota.

§ 303.7 Issuance of shipment permits.

(a) The Governors of the respective insular possessions are authorized to issue shipment permits (Form DIB-340) against producers' quota licenses. With the prior concurrence of the Departments the Governors may delegate this authority to responsible government officials by providing the name, official title and sample signature of the designated official(s) to the Director. Such delegations shall become effective upon receipt of the Departments' written concurrence.

(b) Each permit shall, among other things, specify the number of watches and watch movements included in the shipment and the unused balance remaining on the producer's license as well as pertinent shipping information.

(c) Producers shall request and the Governors or their delegates shall issue only one shipment permit for each separate shipment or consignment.

(d) Shipment permits shall be valid only for the calendar year in which issued. In order to accomplish duty-free entry, the importer of record or his broker must present the original of the related Form DIB-340, together with other documents required by the U.S. Customs Service, to the District Director of Customs at the port of entry. No entry shall be afforded duty-free treatment unless the merchandise has been formally entered for consumption prior to midnight, December 31, of the year in which the shipment permit is issued unless the merchandise was timely presented at the port of entry together with all required entry documents and the Customs official at the port of entry certifies to the Director that formal entry could not be effected due to circumstances beyond the control of the importer of record.

(e) If a shipment permit expires before the shipment can be presented to Customs officials, due to transportation delays, carrier mishandling or other circumstance beyond the control of the shipper, the shipment may be entered duty-free upon presentation of a new shipment permit issued against a currently valid license, provided all customs regulations and procedures are complied with. In such cases the expired shipment permit must be forwarded to the Director with a letter explaining the pertinent circumstances in the case. Such entries shall be counted as a shipment in the current year for purposes of calculating the producer's annual quota the following year.

(f) For purposes of calculating calendar year quotas as prescribed in the annual rules, any watches or watch movements shipped by a producer for duty-free entry into the customs territory of the United States, and which were lost prior to entry into the customs territory of the United States, shall nevertheless be considered as having been entered into the customs territory during the year in which they were shipped: Provided, that the Departments have been satisfied that shipment was in fact made but lost prior to entry into the customs territory. In the event time remains and parts are available in the quota year to assemble and ship a replacement shipment, the Director will upon the written request of the producer direct the issuing office in the territory to issue a replacement permit without charge against the producer's license. In such cases, credit for quota calculation purposes will be accorded the replacement shipment but not the lost shipment.

(g) If a shipment permit has been issued and thereafter is not used, the holder of the license shall notify the office which issued the shipment permit and present the permit for cancellation. The issuing office shall correct the balance shown on the producer's license and shall notify the Director of the action it has taken. If a shipment permit is lost, the shipper shall immediately notify both the issuing office and the Director. Improper utilization of shipment permits may result in the cancellation of the producer's quota.

§ 303.8 Quarterly reporting requirements.

(a) Each producer is required to file a report (Form DIB-321P) on April 15, July 15, and October 15 of each year covering the periods January 1 to March 31, April 1 to June 30, and July 1 to September 30, respectively. No report is required for the fourth quarter (October 1 to December 31) as this data will be reflected on Form DIB-334P at the time the producer applies for an annual watch quota allocation. Copies of Form DIB-321P will be forwarded by the Director to each producer at its territorial address of record at least 15 days prior to the required reporting date. The Form DIB-321P must be completed on a timely basis and returned to the Director by registered mail.

(b) In addition to providing the Departments with specified information regarding the producer's watch movement assembly operations during the reporting period and projected operations for the remainder of the calendar year, Form DIB-321P is also to be used for reporting any changes in ownership interest and control which have occurred during the reporting period.

§ 303.9 Maintenance of quota entitlements.

(a) The Departments may issue a show-cause order requiring a producer to show cause, within 30 days or receipt of the order, why the duty-free quota to which it would otherwise be entitled should not be cancelled or reduced by the Departments whenever:

(1) A producer has not assembled and entered duty-free into the customs territory of the United States at least 25 percent of its initial quota allocation prior to April 1;

(2) The Departments have reason to believe a producer will fail to enter by December 31 at least 90 percent of its annual allocation or, in the event the producer has voluntarily relinquished some of its quota to the Departments, 90 percent of its reduced quota;

(3) A producer has failed in the judgment of the Departments to make a meaningful contribution to the territory, for a period of two or more consecutive calendar years, when compared with the performance of the duty-free watch assembly industry in that territory as a whole. This comparison shall include the producer's utilization of quota, amount of direct labor employed in the assembly of watches and watch movements, and the amount of corporate income taxes paid to the government of the territory. If the producer fails to satisfy the Departments as to why such action should not be taken, the firm's quota shall be reduced or cancelled, whichever is appropriate under the show-cause order. The eligibility of a firm whose quota has been cancelled to receive further allocations may also be terminated.

(b) If a firm's quota is reduced or cancelled, or if a firm voluntarily relinquishes a part of its quota, the Departments may reallocate the quota involved among the remaining producers in a manner best suited to contribute to the economy of the territory, may invite applications from new firms in accordance with § 303.5(b), or may do neither of the above if deemed in the best interests of the territories and the established industry.

§ 303.10 Restrictions on transfer of duty-free quotas.

(a) The sale or transfer of a quota from one firm to another shall not be permitted.

(b) The sale or transfer of a business together with its quota may be permitted with the prior approval of the Departments. Prior approval may be sought by submitting a written request to the Departments, setting forth all facts regarding the proposed sale or transfer, including a copy of the formal sales or transfer agreement, a current financial statement covering the business and assets being transferred, and a detailed statement of the producer's proposed watch assembly operations subsequent to the transfer or sale. The Departments may require such additional information as they consider relevant.

(c) If the Departments make an initial determination that a firm has made a sale or transfer in violation of these rules, they shall send written notice of the initial determination by registered or certified mail to the firm's territorial address of record. The firm shall be entitled to a hearing in accordance with the procedures set forth in § 303.11 below. Failure to make written request for a hearing within 15 days from the date of receipt of an initial determination shall constitute a waiver of a firm's right to the hearing and shall result in the automatic cancellation of its quota.

(d) Any firm whose quota has been cancelled for violating the regulations in this Part may be declared ineligible for quota allocations in future years.

§ 303.11 Appeals.

(a) Any decision or action of the Departments relative to the allocation of duty-free watch quotas may be appealed to the Secretaries by any interested party. Interested parties may also petition for relief from the application of any rule on the basis of hardship or extraordinary circumstances resulting in the inability of the petitioner to comply with the rule. Petitions shall be addressed to the Secretaries and filed in one original and two copies with the U.S. Department of Commerce, Domestic and International Business Administration, Office of Import Programs, Washington, D.C. 20230, Attention: Special Import Programs Division.

(b) Petitions shall bear the name and post office address of the petitioner and the name and address of the principal attorney or authorized representative (if any) for the party concerned. Petitions shall contain the following:

(1) A reference to the decision or action which is the subject of the petition.

(2) A short statement of the interest of the petitioner.

(3) A statement of the facts as seen by the petitioner.

(4) The petitioner's argument as to points of law, policy or fact. In cases where policy error is contended, it should be pointed out what policy of the Departments is alleged to be wrong, what is wrong with it, and what policy the submitting party advocates as the correct one.

(5) A conclusion specifying the action which the petitioner believes the Secretaries should take.

(c) The Secretaries may at their discretion schedule a hearing and invite the participation of other interested parties.

(d) Notice of the Secretaries' decision, together with their reasons, shall be communicated to the petitioner promptly by registered mail. Decisions made by the Secretaries shall be final.

Dated: September 27, 1977.

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Resources and Trade Assistance,

Mailing of the complaint and decision containing the agreed-to order to proposed respondent's address as stated in this agreement shall constitute service. Proposed respondent waives any right it may have to any other manner of service. The complaint may be used in construing the terms of the order, and no agreement, understanding, representation or interpretation not contained in the order or the agreement may be used to vary or contradict the terms of the order.

8. Proposed respondent has read the proposed complaint and order contemplated hereby, and it understands that once the order has been issued, it will be required to file one or more compliance reports showing that it has fully complied with the order and that it may be liable for a civil penalty in the amount provided by law for each violation of the order after it becomes final.

ORDER

It is ordered, That respondent Security Pacific Mortgage Corp., as successor in interest to Kassler & Co., a corporation, its successors and assigns, and its officers, and respondent's agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporation, subsidiary, division or other device, in connection with the extension of "consumer credit" or arranging for "consumer credit" as defined in Regulation Z (12 CFR 226) of the Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. §§ 1601-65 (1970)), as amended, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1601-65(a) (Supp. IV, 1974)), do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Failing to include in the stated finance charge, as required by section 226.4(a) of Regulation Z, any monies payable directly or indirectly by the customer to any third party who may have referred consumer loans to them or who may have assisted them in arranging for consumer credit, of which respondent is aware or should be aware through its reasonable effort.

2. Failing to disclose the amount of the finance charge accurately as required by section 226.8(d)(3) of Regulation Z.

3. Failing to disclose the amount of any "prepaid finance charge" as directed in section 226.8(d)(2) of Regulation Z.

5. Failing to disclose the annual percentage rate accurately to the nearest quarter of one percent, in accordance with section 226.5 of Regulation Z, as required by section 226.8(b)(2) of Regulation Z.

6. Failing to make reasonable efforts to obtain or to estimate information required for disclosures as is allowed by section 226.6(f) of Regulation Z, and thus failing to accurately disclose the finance charge as required by section 226.8(d)(3) of Regulation Z.

7. Failing in any consumer credit transaction or advertising to make all disclosures determined in accordance with sections 226.4 and 226.5 of Regulation Z at the time and in the manner, form and amount required by sections 226.6, 226.8, and 226.10 of Regulation Z.

It is further ordered, That the respondent henceforth obtain from each person receiving consumer credit from it a completed and signed statement relating to monies or obligations to pay monies which are payable, directly or indirectly, by the customer to any third party who may have referred the customer to respondent or who may have assisted the customer in arranging for consumer credit with respondent. A sample of such a form is attached hereto as Appendix A. In each instance in which respondent has obtained such a completed form and in which a customer has indicated thereon that he is not liable for and has not paid a fee to any other person in connection with the loan, respondent shall be deemed to have made sufficient reasonable efforts as required by subparagraph 1 of this order, unless respondent otherwise has actual knowledge of monies or fees payable by the customer to any third party.

It is further ordered, That respondent shall, within sixty (60) days after service of this order upon respondent, file with the Commission a report showing the manner and form in which it has complied and is complying with each and every specific provision of this order.

ANALYSIS OF PROPOSED CONSENT ORDER TO AID PUBLIC COMMENT

The Federal Trade Commission has accepted an agreement to a proposed consent order from Security Pacific Mortgage Corporation, as successor in interest to Kassler & Co.

The proposed consent order has been placed on the public record for sixty (60) days for reception of comments by interested persons. Comments received during this period will become part of the public record. After sixty (60) days, the Commission will again review the agreement and the comments received and will decide whether it should withdraw from the agreement or make final the agreement's proposed order.

The complaint in this matter charges a mortgage lending company with violations of the Truth in Lending Act by Pacific Mortgage Corporation is a "successor and assign" of Pacific Mortgage Corporation is a "successor and assign" of Kassler & Co., having merged with Kassler in 1974, after the acts and practices alleged in the complaint.

The consent order requires Security Pacific Mortgage Corporation to include in the finance charge any fees payable to a third party for that party's assistance in arranging consumer credit, whenever the company is aware or should be aware through reasonable effort of such fees. Security Pacific Mortgage Corporation is further required to make reasonable efforts to obtain information required to be disclosed, especially concerning any fees paid to third party loan finders. Part of this inquiry will be accomplished by the use of a questionnaire the company will present to its customers. The purpose of this analysis is to facilitate public comment on the proposed order, and it is not intended to constitute an official interpretation of the agreement and proposed order or to modify in any way their terms.

CAROL M. THOMAS,
 Secretary.

PRESERVATION OF CONSUMERS' CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

Public Record Reopening in Proposed Amendment to Trade Regulation Rule

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.
 until November 30, 1977.

ACTION: The public record has been reopened to receive additional written comment.

SUMMARY: The Federal Trade Commission hereby gives notice that the public record in the proposed amendment to the trade regulation rule, Preservation of Consumers' Claims and Defenses (Holder in Due Course), has been reopened until November 30, 1977, to receive additional written comment on the proposed amendment, the text of which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on November 18, 1975 (40 FR 53530).

DATES: The record has been reopened until November 20, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Send comments to C. W. Keller, Presiding Officer, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580. The public record may be reviewed at the Commission's Division of Legal and Public Records, Room 132, Federal Trade Commission Building, 6th Street at Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D.C., during regular business hours.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Martin White, 202-523-3369, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commission promulgated a final trade regulation rule on November 14, 1975 (40 FR 53506, November 18, 1975). The final rule became effective May 14, 1976, and applies to retail sellers of consumer goods and services. Concurrent with publication of the final rule, the Commission proposed an amendment to extend the coverage of the rule to creditors (40 FR 53530); see also 41 FR 4833, February 2, 1976 (correction of a text error). The closing date for submission of comments on the amendment was March 5, 1976. Public hearings on the proposed amendment were completed in April of 1976.

The Commission's decision to reopen the record is based on the chronology outlined in the previous paragraph. Because the written record on the proposed amendment was closed and hearings completed before the effective date of the original rule, May 14, 1976, the record on the proposed amendment does not include information based on experience under the rule. Over a year of such experience has now been accumulated. While ordinary procedures are adequate for the development of the record needed for decision on a proposed rule, the Commission has decided that, in the unusual situation presented by the circumstances of this proposal, it should exercise its discretion to reopen the record. This will provide an opportunity for interested parties to bring to its attention any relevant information that has been developed as a result of experience under the existing rule. In addition, comments on any aspect of the proposed amendment will be accepted.

As noted in the initial FEDERAL REGISTER notice of November 18, 1975, page 53530, the Commission is not in this proceeding reopening any issues concerning the original rule.

Issued: September 29, 1977.

CHRISTOPHER W. KELLER,
 Presiding Officer.

[Regulations No. 16]

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME FOR THE AGED, BLIND, AND DISABLED

Exclusion From Income of Assistance Based on Need Furnished by States or Political Subdivisions Thereof

ACTION: Notice of Proposed Rule Making.

SUMMARY: The proposed amendments to Subpart K of Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations (20 CFR) extend the scope of that assistance based on need which is excluded from countable income under the Supplemental Security Income program. The purpose of the amendments is to reflect section 505(b) of Pub. L. 94-566 which amends section 1612(b)(6) of the Social Security Act. These amendments will result in previously countable income being excluded if based on need and funded wholly by a State or by a political subdivision of such a State, including Indian tribes. The requirement that an assistance payment must be made in cash to an eligible individual in order to be excluded as assistance based on need has been abolished, and payments made to a vendor on behalf of an eligible individual can now qualify for this exclusion.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before November 14, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Prior to final adoption of these proposed amendments to the regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments, pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Commissioner of Social Security, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, P.O. Box 1585, Baltimore, Maryland 21203.

Copies of all comments received in response to this notice will be available for public inspection during regular business hours at the Washington Inquiries Section, Office of Information, Social Security Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, North Building, Room 5131, 339 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Henry D. Lerner, Legal Assistant, Office of Policy and Regulations, Social Security Administration, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21235, telephone (301-594-7336).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: As originally enacted (Pub. L. 92-603, effective January 1, 1974), section 1612(b)(6) of the Social Security Act authorized the total exclusion from countable income, for supplemental security income purposes, of assistance described in section 1616(a) of the Act, which has based on need and furnished by any State or political subdivision of a State. In order to meet the requirements of section 1616(a) of the Act, excludable assistance payments based on need had to be made directly to an eligible individual in cash, on a regular basis, and in supplementation of such individual's supplemental security income benefits. A payment was considered to be "based on need" if the program under which the payment was made required use of the individual's or family's income (or income and resources) as a criterion for determining eligibility for and amount of payment. A payment was considered to be "in cash" only if a cash payment was made directly to an eligible individual (and eligible spouse, if any) or to such a person's representative payee. Thus, third party vendor payments which resulted in an individual's receipt of in-kind support and maintenance, even though made by a State or a political subdivision of a State under a needs-based program, were not excluded under this provision because the payments were not made in cash directly to an eligible individual. Therefore, assistance such as a State or local government funded payment made for the foster care of an eligible individual resulted in countable income to that individual in the form of in-kind support and maintenance. Similarly, adoption subsidies paid to low-income parents who were not eligible for supplemental security income benefits to enable them to adopt a child were considered income to the parents. Consequently, if the parents applied for supplemental security income benefits, the adoption subsidies could affect their eligibility. If the adopted child was eligible for supplemental security income benefits and the parents were not, the adoption subsidy would be included in parental income to be deemed to the child under the provisions of section 1614(f) of the Act.

Section 505(b) of Pub. L. 94-566 provides that, effective October 1, 1976, assistance, furnished to or on behalf of an individual (and spouse), which is based on need and furnished by any State or political subdivision of a State shall be excluded in determining income. The payment does not have to be in supplementation of supplemental security income benefits and does not have to be paid on a regular basis. In addition, the reference to section 1616(a) of the Act has been deleted. Hence, certain State or local government payments which previously resulted in countable income (e.g., foster care payments, adoption subsidies, and other payments to providers of food, clothing, or shelter) are excluded under the amendments if they are based on need and are funded wholly by a State or by a political subdivision of a State, including Indian tribes. The amendments will permit State and local governments more freedom in deciding the best manner in which to make an assistance payment in order to help an eligible individual, since such payment no longer need be as a cash payment directly to him.

However, excludable assistance payments cannot involve any Federal or private agency funding. Consequently, payments under a needs-based program such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, though made to or on behalf of an eligible individual and administered by a State agency, are not excluded under section 1612(b)(6) of the Act because of the Federal funding involved.

Once it is established that certain payments qualify as assistance based on need under section 1612(b)(6) of the Act, existing regulations automatically exclude them from consideration in the deeming process under § 416.1185 (published as a Notice of Proposed Rule Making with interim effectiveness, at 42 FR 3316 on January 18, 1977) of Regulations No. 16. The result is the total exclusion from countable income of such payments, as well as of State supplementary payments which have always before been excluded under this provision.

As section 505(b) of Pub. L. 94-566 was effective October 1, 1976, operating personnel have been alerted to the change and the need to process such cases under the newly enacted legislation. That action was necessary to insure prompt recognition and equitable handling of these cases, on an interim basis, pending publication of final regulations.

Part 416 of Chapter III of Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations is proposed to be amended as follows:

1. Section 416.1145 is amended by revising paragraph (b)(2) to read as follows:

§ 416.1145 Exclusions from income: order of application.

(b) For the purpose of determining countable income in accordance with § 416.1115, the following income shall be excluded after income described in paragraph (a) of this section:

(2) Assistance based on need which is furnished by a State or political subdivision thereof (including Indian tribes), or any combination of such jurisdictions (§ 416.1151).

2. Section 416.1151 is revised to read as follows:

§ 416.1151 State assistance based on need.

(a) Prior to October 1, 1976, assistance furnished by a State or a political subdivision thereof (including Indian tribes) which is based on need and which meets the definition of State supplementation in Subpart T of this part shall not be considered in determining countable income under § 416.1115.

(b) Effective October 1, 1976, assistance based on need furnished to or on behalf of an eligible individual (and eligible spouse, if any) shall not be considered in determining countable income under title XVI provided:

(1) The assistance is provided by a State or political subdivision (including Indian tribes) under a program which uses income, or income and resources, as criteria for determining eligibility for and amount of such assistance; and

(2) The assistance payment is funded wholly by a State or by a political subdivision of a State (including Indian tribes), or any combination of such jurisdictions. When Federal or nonpublic monies are provided for the assistance payment, e.g., when there is a specific Federal/State program of project or formula grants (such as grants-in-aid under title IV-A of the Act), the assistance payment is not funded wholly by a State or a political subdivision thereof.

(c) Assistance described in paragraph (b) of this section is excluded from countable income regardless of whether such assistance meets the definition of State supplementation in Subpart T of this part.

(d) Any payments which are excluded from countable income because such payments constitute assistance based on need under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section are also excluded from income to be deemed under § 416.1185 (published as a Notice of Proposed Rule Making with interim effectiveness at 42 FR 3316 on January 18, 1977).

[29 CFR Part 30]

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT IN APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAMS

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary of Labor.

ACTION: Proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This proposed regulation would amend the Department of Labor's regulations concerning equal employment in apprenticeship programs to include specific provisions requiring affirmative action for women.

DATES: Comments on this proposal will be received until November 14, 1977.

ADDRESSES: Send comments to James P. Mitchell, Deputy Administrator, Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, Employment and Training Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, Room 5000, Patrick Henry Building, 601 D Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20213. Comments received will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the above address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

James P. Mitchell, Deputy Administrator, BAT, room 5000, 601 D Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20213, telephone 202-376-6585.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Regulations published at 29 CFR Part 30 establish policies and procedures to promote equality of opportunity in apprenticeship programs registered with the U.S. Department of Labor or with recognized state apprenticeship agencies. The regulations prohibit discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin or sex.

They also require the adoption of written affirmative action programs including the development of goals and timetables. But while the regulations require the elimination of sex-based discrimination, they do not require that the written affirmative action plans cover women. Also, a sponsor is not required to establish and attain goals and timetables for women although goals and timetables are required for minorities.

Over the last several years the Department of Labor has received a number of requests to amend 29 CFR Part 30 to make the written affirmative action plan, including goals and timetables, applicable to women. Most recently a group of organizations petitioned the Department of Labor pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553 (e) to initiate rulemaking proceedings to cover women in affirmative action plans relating to registered apprenticeship programs.

The Department of Labor has examined the status of women in apprenticeship programs and has concluded, based on their participation rate, that 29 CFR Part 30 should be amended to require that written affirmative action plans for apprenticeship programs cover women, including the establishment of goals and timetables.

As the petition for rulemaking states:

The percentage of women in the civilian labor force has steadily increased from 1920 to 1976, when the percentage of the workforce which is female had climbed to a new high of 40.5 percent. However, despite a continuing climb in overall labor force participation, women are generally confined to five low-paying categories of work: clerical, domestic work, teaching, nursing and sales. Women comprised only 4.5 percent of all craft and kindred workers—"The skilled trades"—in 1975. A woman working full-time, year-around, in 1974 as a clerical had a median income of $6,827; a domestic earned $2,676; a salesperson $5,168; and a teacher below the college level, not a year-round worker, could expect $7,739. In contrast, male craft workers reached a median income of $12,028. [Footnote and reference omitted.]

Historically, women have had only limited participation in apprenticeship programs, which is how many skilled craftworkers enter their jobs.

In 1976 of the 11 million skilled blue-collar workers, only slightly over a half million (545,038) were women. Nearly 165,000 of these women were bakers, tailors, upholsterers, and decorators and window dressers, constituting, respectively, 37.2, 32.1, 28.6, and 70.6 percent of total employed. On the other hand, the proportion of women carpenters, electricians, painters, plumbers, machinists, mechanics, stationary engineers, and a few other skilled trades ranged from less than 1 percent to about 3 percent of the total. Although the number of women apprentices increased by 74 percent in one year (1974-75), they still represented only 1.2 percent of the total number of apprentices registered.

According to the latest available data for January through June 1976, there were 3,545 women apprentices, representing 1.4 percent of the total apprentices (249,060). A further look at the number of women employed in several occupations for which apprenticeships are available shows generally that women are making very small gains, numerically and proportionately. The gains, in fact, are so small that if women are ever to be fairly representative in the skilled crafts, their entry into apprenticeship programs must be greatly accelerated. The Department of Labor's experience has shown that the use of goals and timetables is the most effective means for increasing the number of women and minorities in employment areas from which they previously have been excluded or have not been represented in proportion to their availability. Minority participation in apprenticeship and in individual construction trades, for example, has increased measurably as a result of the minority outreach program and the goals and timetables requirements under 29 CFR Part 30. The data for the first 6 months of 1976 indicate that minorities (who constitute 11.5 percent of the work force) are 17.7 percent of all apprentices. This is a rise from 9.1 percent in 1970, the last year before 29 CFR Part 30 was issued. During the same months in 1976, women (41.1 percent of the work force) held only 1.4 percent of all apprenticeship positions.

Based on these results, affirmative action in apprenticeship programs would appear to be particularly appropriate at this time. The petition for rulemaking states, for example, that:

Women are often discouraged from even considering skilled trades as a viable source of employment because of views about "women's role." By rule and/or by practice, young girls are excluded from such courses as auto shop, drafting and wood shop, and tracked into so-called "women's work" courses such as home economics and typing. The majority of girls and women are not even aware of possibilities of employment in male-dominated areas, or assume that they could never break into non-traditional areas of employment simply because they are of the "wrong" sex. [Footnotes omitted.]

The Department of Labor's experience and the experience of other entities have shown that when jobs traditionally associated with men have been opened to women the response has been extremely good. In this connection, it should be pointed out that the 29 CFR 30 Manual, published by the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, Employment Training Administration, requires each apprenticeship program sponsor to analyze the availability of female applicants and to suggest appropriate goals for women for the year 1977.

PROPOSED CHANGES

The regulations proposed today make conforming changes (such as acknowledging the 1972 amendments to the Civil Rights Act of 1964) and some editorial type changes. The major change, however, is to insert appropriate words to show that the written affirmative action plan requirement applies to women as well as to minorities. The basic sections affected by this change are §§ 30.4, 30.5, 30.6, 30.8, 30.11, 30.13, and 30.15. Also, the proposed regulations would allow sponsors of Federally registered programs 90 days from the effective date of the regulations to conform their written affirmative action program to the proposed regulations. State Apprenticeship Councils will be required to conform their equal opportunity plans to the revised regulation, within 60 days of the effective date. These revised state plans shall require that all state apprenticeship programs registered with the State Apprenticeship Councils comply with the revised state plans within 90 days of the effective date of these revised regulations.

The proposed procedures which the program sponsors are to use in establishing goals and timetables are similar to those set forth in the current regulations for minorities and to the procedures used in California. Under these proposed procedures, goals are based on the percentage of minorities or women in the workforce in the program sponsor's labor market area who are qualified or have the potential to qualify for apprenticeship. The Department of Labor is concerned, however, that these criteria be properly applied in developing goals for women and that proposed goals be presented which are realistic and which demonstrate a proper application of these criteria. Thus, although the California Plan serves as a model for these amendments it is necessary for the Department of Labor to take certain precautions to ensure that the criteria are not misapplied and that realistic goals are established. In California, for example, apprenticeship goals for women in nontraditional jobs for 1977 ranged from 1 to 10 percent. The Administrative Guidelines for Implementing the Plan for Equal Employment of Apprentices in California provide that "[e]ach program sponsor shall analyze the availability of female applicants for its program and shall suggest appropriate goals for the year 1977 for women." The Division of Apprenticeship Standards' form 24B sets out the factors to be considered in ascertaining availability. They include the number of female applicants; number of qualified female applicants; total of all qualified applicants; and the estimated intake of apprentices in the following year.

These factors, when used in conjunction with others, may be appropriate to determine a goal level. When used alone, however, they tend to be subjective and exclusionary. This is particularly true when nontraditional jobs are in issue or when women and/or minorities have been excluded from specific jobs. Accordingly 29 CFR 30.4, in measuring availability, does not rely on applicant flow but rather on the number of qualified women and/or minorities who can be identified in a vigorous outreach program.

It is the Department's view that the use of goals and timetables, when combined with a vigorous outreach program, can result in attracting a substantial number of qualified women applicants to apprenticeship programs. It is therefore expected that goals for the first year will be at least one half the proportion of qualified women in the workforce in the program sponsor's labor market area. First year goals for other than the entry class should be established at a level not less than the participation rate of women currently in those classes. These goals are to be reexamined annually and revised in accordance with these principles and the procedures set forth in 29 CFR 30.4.

These proposed regulations do not amend 29 CFR 30.5(b) (4) (B) which permits school diplomas as a qualification standard. However, in recent years the courts have indicated that a high school diploma is not a valid selection standard. This issue has been broached with Apprenticeship, and that Committee may consider it at its next meeting scheduled for October 6-7, 1977. Accordingly, comments are invited on the issue of whether the school diploma should be retained as an alternative selection method.

This document was prepared under the supervision of James D. Henry, Associate Solicitor for Labor Relations and Civil Rights.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend 29 CFR Part 30 as set forth below.

Dated: September 23, 1977.

ERNEST G. GREEN,
Assistant Secretary, Employment and Training Administration.

§ 30.1 Scope and purpose.

This part sets forth policies and procedures to promote equality of opportunity in apprenticeship programs registered with the U.S. Department of Labor or with state apprenticeship programs registered with recognized state apprenticeship agencies. These policies and procedures apply to the recruitment and selection of apprentices, and to all conditions of employment and training during apprenticeship. The procedures established provide for review of apprenticeship programs, for registering apprenticeship programs, for processing complaints, and for deregistering noncomplying apprenticeship programs. This part also provides policies and procedures for continuation or withdrawal of recognition of state agencies for registering of apprenticeship programs for Federal purposes. The purpose of this part is to promote equality of opportunity in apprenticeship by prohibiting discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, or sex in apprenticeship programs, by requiring affirmative action to provide equal opportunity in such apprenticeship programs, and by coordinating this part with other equal opportunity programs.

§ 30.2 Definitions.

(a) "Department" means the U.S. Department of Labor.

(b) "Employer" means any person or organization employing an apprentice whether or not the apprentice is enrolled with such person or organization or with some other person or organization.

(c) "Apprenticeship program" means a program registered by the Department and evidenced by a Certificate of Registration as meeting the standards of the Department for apprenticeship, but does not include a state apprenticeship program.

(d) "Sponsor" means any person or organization operating an apprenticeship program, irrespective of whether such person or organization is an employer.

(e) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Labor, the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Employment and Training, or any person specifically designated by either of them.

(f) "State Apprenticeship Council" means a state apprenticeship council or other state agency in any of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, or any territory or possession of the United States, which is recognized by the Department as the appropriate agency for registering programs for Federal purposes.

(g) "State apprenticeship program" means a program registered with a State Apprenticeship Council and evidenced by a Certificate of Registration or other appropriate document as meeting the standards of the State Apprenticeship Council for apprenticeship.

(h) "State program sponsor" means any person or organization operating a State apprenticeship program, irrespective of whether such person or organization is an employer.

§ 30.3 Equal opportunity standards.

(a) Obligations of sponsors. Each sponsor of an apprenticeship program shall:

(1) Recruit, select, employ, and train apprentices during their apprenticeship, without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex; and

(2) Uniformly apply rules and regulations concerning apprentices, including but not limited to, equality of wages, periodic advancement, promotion, assignment of work, job performance, rotation among all work processes of the trade, imposition of penalties or other disciplinary action, and all other aspects of the apprenticeship program administration by the program sponsor; and

(3) Take affirmative action to provide equal opportunity in apprenticeship, including adoption of an affirmative action plan as required by this part.

(b) Equal opportunity pledge. Each sponsor of an apprenticeship program shall include in its standards the following equal opportunity pledge:

PROPOSED RULES

The recruitment, selection, employment, and training of apprentices during their apprenticeship, shall be without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex. The sponsor will take affirmative action to provide equal opportunity in apprenticeship and will operate the apprenticeship program as required under Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 30.

(c) Programs presently registered. Each sponsor of a program registered with the Department as of the effective date of this part shall within 90 days following that effective date take the following action:

(1) Include in the standards of its apprenticeship program the equal opportunity pledge prescribed by paragraph (b) of this section;

(2), or (3) shall prepare, and have available by § 30.4; and

(3) Adopt a selection procedure required by § 30.5. A sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5(b) (1), (2), or (3) shall prepare, and have available for submission upon request, copies of its amended standards, affirmative action plans, and selection procedure. A sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5(b) (4) shall submit to the Department copies of its standards, affirmative action plan and selection procedure in accordance with the requirements of § 30.5(b) (4) (i) (A).

(d) Sponsors seeking new registration. A sponsor of a program seeking new registration with the Department shall submit copies of its proposed standards, affirmative action plan, selection procedures, and such other information as may be required. The program shall be registered if such standards, affirmative action plan, and selection procedure meet the requirements of this part.

(e) Programs subject to approved equal employment opportunity plans. A sponsor shall not be required to adopt an affirmative action plan under § 30.4 or a selection procedure under § 30.5 if it submits to the Department satisfactory evidence that it is in compliance with an equal employment opportunity program providing for the selection of apprentices and for affirmative action in apprenticeship which has been approved as meeting the requirements of title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, (42 U.S.C. 2000e et seq.) or Executive Order 11246, as amended, and the implementing regulations published in Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter XIV, and Title 41 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter 60 except to the extent that the goals and timetables in such program are less than would be required under this part.

(f) Program with fewer than five apprentices. A sponsor of a program in which fewer than five apprentices are indentured shall not be required to adopt an affirmative action plan under § 30.4 or a selection procedure under § 30.5 provided that such program was not adopted to circumvent the requirements of this part.

§ 30.4 Affirmative action plans.

(a) Adoption of affirmative action plans. A sponsor's commitment to equal opportunity in recruitment, selection, employment, and training of apprentices shall include the adoption of a written affirmative action plan.

(b) Definition of affirmative action. Affirmative action is not mere passive nondiscrimination. It includes procedures, methods, and programs for the identification, positive recruitment, training, goals, and timetables and motivation of present and potential minority and female (minority and nonminority) apprentices. It is action which will equalize opportunity in apprenticeship so as to allow full utilization of the work potential of minorities and women. The overall result to be sought is equal opportunity in apprenticeship for all individuals participating in or seeking entrance to the Nation's labor force.

(c) Outreach and positive recruitment. An acceptable affirmative action plan must also include adequate provision for outreach and positive recruitment that would reasonably be expected to increase minority and female participation in apprenticeship by expanding the opportunity of minorities and women to become eligible for apprenticeship selection. In order to achieve these objectives, sponsors shall undertake activities such as those listed below. It is not contemplated that each sponsor necessarily will include all the listed activities in its affirmative action program. The scope of the affirmative action program will depend on all the circumstances including the size and type of the program and its resources. However, the sponsor will be required to undertake a significant number of appropriate activities in order to enable it to meet its obligations under this part. The affirmative action plan shall set forth the specific steps the sponsor intends to take in the areas listed below. Whenever special circumstances warrant, the Department may provide such financial or other assistance as it deems necessary to implement the requirements of this paragraph.

(1) Dissemination of information concerning the nature of the apprenticeship, requirements for admission to apprenticeship, availability of apprenticeship opportunities, sources of apprenticeship applications, and the equal opportunity policy of the sponsor. For programs accepting applications only at specified intervals, such information shall be disseminated at least 30 days in advance of the earliest date for application at each interval. For programs customarily receiving applications throughout the year, such information shall be regularly disseminated but not less than semiannually. Such information shall be given to the Department, local schools, employment service offices, women's centers, outreach programs and community organizations which can effectively reach minorities and women, and shall be published in newspapers which are circulated in the minority community and among women, as well as in the general areas in which the program sponsor operates.

(2) Participation in annual workshops conducted by employment service agencies for the purpose of familiarizing school, employment service and other appropriate personnel with the apprenticeship system and current opportunities therein.

(3) Cooperation with local school boards and vocational education systems to develop programs for preparing students to meet the standards and criteria required to qualify for entry into apprenticeship programs.

(4) Internal communication of the sponsor's equal opportunity policy in such a manner as to foster understanding, acceptance, and support among the sponsor's various officers, supervisors, employees, and members and to encourage such persons to take the necessary action to aid the sponsor in meeting its obligations under this part.

(5) Engaging in programs such as outreach for the positive recruitment and preparation of potential applicants for apprenticeships; where appropriate and feasible, such programs shall provide for pretesting experience and training. If no such programs are in existence the sponsor shall seek to initiate these programs, or, when available, to obtain financial assistance from the Department. In initiating and conducting these programs, the sponsor may be required to work with other sponsors and appropriate community organizations. The sponsor shall also initiate programs to prepare women and encourage women to enter traditionally male programs.

(6) To encourage the establishment and utilization of programs of preapprenticeship, preparatory trade training, or others designed to afford related work experience or to prepare candidates for apprenticeship, a sponsor shall make appropriate provision in its affirmative action plan to assure that those who complete such programs are afforded full and equal opportunity for admission into the apprenticeship program.

(7) Utilization of journeymen to assist in the implementation of the sponsor's affirmative action program.

(8) Granting advance standing or credit on the basis of previously acquired experience, training, skills, or aptitude for all applicants equally.

(9) Admitting to apprenticeship, persons whose age exceeds the maximum age for admission to the program, where such action assists the sponsor in achieving its affirmative action obligations.

(10) Other appropriate action to ensure that the recruitment, selection, employment, and training of apprentices during apprenticeship shall be without discrimination because of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex, (e.g., general publication of apprenticeship opportunities and advantages in advertisements, industry reports, articles, etc.; use of present minority and female apprentices and mechanics as recruiters; career counseling; periodic auditing of affirmative action programs and activities; and development of reasonable procedures between the sponsor and employers of apprentices to ensure that equal employment opportunity is being granted, including reporting systems, onsite reviews, briefing sessions, etc.) The affirmative action program shall set forth the specific steps the sponsor intends to take, in the above areas, under this paragraph (c). Whenever special circumstances warrant, the Department may provide such financial or other assistance as it deems necessary to implement the above requirements.

(d) Goals and timetables. (1) A sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5(b)(1) or (2) which determines on the basis of the analysis described in paragraph (c) of this section that it has deficiencies in terms of underutilization of minorities and or women (minority and nonminority) in the craft or crafts represented by the program shall include in its affirmative action plan percentage goals and timetables for the admission of minority and or female (minority and nonminority) applicants into the eligibility pool.

(2) A sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5(b)(3) or (4) which determines on the basis of the analysis described in paragraph (c) of this section that it has deficiencies in terms of the underutilization of minorities or women in the craft or crafts represented by the program shall include in its affirmative action plan percentage goals and timetables for the selection of minority and female (minority and nonminority) applicants for the apprenticeship program.

(3) "Underutilization" as used in this paragraph refers to the situation where there are fewer minorities and/or women (minority and nonminority) in the particular craft or crafts represented by the program than would reasonably be expected in view of an analysis of the specific factors in subparagraphs (1) through (5) in paragraph (c) of this section. Where, on the basis of the analysis, the sponsor determines that it has no deficiencies, no goals and timetables need be established. However, where no goals and timetables are established, the affirmative action plan shall include a detailed explanation why no goals and timetables have been established.

(4) Where the sponsor fails to submit goals and timetables as part of its affirmative action plan or submits goals and timetables which are unacceptable, and the Department determines that the sponsor has deficiencies in terms of underutilization of minorities and/or women (minority and nonminority) within the meaning of this section, the Department shall establish goals and timetables applicable to the sponsor for the admission of minority and female (minority and nonminority) applicants into the eligibility pool or selection of apprentices, as appropriate. The sponsor shall make good faith efforts to attain these goals and timetables in accordance with the requirements of this section.

(e) Analysis to determine if deficiencies exist. The sponsor's determination as to whether goals and timetables shall be established, shall be based on an analysis of at least the following factors, which analysis shall be set forth in writing as part of the affirmative action plan.

(1) The size of the minority and female (minority and nonminority) labor force in the program sponsor's labor market area;

(2) The percentage of minority and female (minority and nonminority) participation as apprentices in the particular craft as compared with the percentage of minorities and women (minority and nonminority) in the labor force in the program sponsor's labor market area;

(3) The percentage of minority and female (minority and nonminority) participation as journey persons employed by the employer or employers participating in the program as compared with the percentage of minorities and women (minority and nonminority) in the sponsor's labor market area and the extent to which the sponsor should be expected to correct any deficiencies through the achievement of goals and timetables for the selection of apprentices; and

(5) The general availability of minorities and women (minority and nonminority) with present or potential capacity for apprenticeship in the program sponsor's labor market area.

(f) Establishment and attainment of goals and timetables. The goals and timetables shall be established on the basis of the sponsor's analyses of its underutilization of minorities and women and its entire affirmative action program. A single goal for minorities and a separate single goal for women is acceptable unless a particular group is employed in a substantially disparate manner in which case separate goals shall be established for such group. Such separate goals would be required, for example, if a specific minority group of women were underutilized even though the female goals generally had been achieved. In establishing the goals, the sponsor should consider the results which could be reasonably expected from its good faith efforts to make its overall affirmative action program work. Compliance with these requirements shall be determined by whether the sponsor has met its goals within its timetables, or failing that, whether it has made good faith efforts to meet its goals and timetables. Its "good faith efforts" shall be judged by whether it is following its affirmative action program and attempting to make it work, including evaluation and changes in its program where necessary to obtain the maximum effectiveness toward the attainment of its goals. However, in order to deal fairly with program sponsors, and with women who are entitled to protection under the goals and timetables requirements, during the first 12 months after the effective date of these regulations, the program sponsor would generally be expected to set a goal for women for the entering year class at a rate which is not less than one half the proportion women are of the workforce in the program sponsor's labor market area and set a percentage goal for women in all classes beyond the entering class which is not less than the participation rate of women currently in those classes. At the end of the first 12 months after the effective date of these regulations, sponsors are expected to make appropriate adjustments in goal levels. See 29 CFR 30.8(b).

(g) Data information. The Secretary of Labor, or a person or agency designated by the Secretary, shall make available to program sponsors data and information on minority and female (minority and nonminority) labor force characteristics for each Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area and for other special areas as appropriate.

§ 30.5 Selection of apprentices.

(a) Obligations of sponsors. In addition to the development of a written affirmative action plan to ensure that minorities and women have an equal opportunity for selection as apprentices and otherwise ensure the prompt achievement of full and equal opportunity in apprenticeship, each sponsor shall further provide in its affirmative action program that the selection of apprentices shall be made under one of the methods specified in the following paragraphs (b) (1) through (4) of this section.

(b) Selection methods. The sponsor shall adopt one of the following methods for selecting apprentices:

(1) Selection on basis of rank from pool of eligible applicants—(i) Selection. A sponsor may select apprentices from a pool of eligible applicants created in accordance with the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph on the basis of the rank order of scores of applicants on one or more qualification standards where there is a significant statistical and practical relationship between rank order of scores and performance in the apprenticeship program. In demonstrating such relationship, the sponsor shall follow the procedures set forth in Guidelines on Employee Selection Procedures published at 41 CFR Part 60-3, effective December 23, 1976 (41 FR 51744).

(ii) Requirements. The sponsor adopting this method of selecting apprentices shall meet the requirements of subdivisions (iii) through (vii) of this subparagraph.

(iii) Creation of pool of eligibles. A pool of eligibles shall be created from applicants who meet the qualifications of minimum legal working age; or from applicants who meet qualification standards in addition to minimum legal working age: Provided, That any additional qualification standards conform with the following requirements:

(A) Qualification standards. The qualification standards, and the procedures for determining such qualification standards, shall be stated in detail and shall provide criteria for the specific factors and attributes to be considered in evaluating applicants for admission to the pool. The score required under each qualification standard for admission to the pool shall also be specified. All qualification standards, and the score required on any standard for admission to the pool, shall be directly related to job performance, as shown by a significant statistical and practical relationship between the score and the standards, and the score required for admission to the pool, and performance in the apprenticeship program. In demonstrating such relationships, the sponsor shall follow the procedures set forth in 41 CFR Part 60-3 (effective December 23, 1976). Qualifications shall be considered as separately required so that the failure of an applicant to attain the specified score under a single qualification standard shall disqualify the applicant from admission to the pool.

(B) Aptitude tests. Any qualification standard for admission to the pool consisting of aptitude test scores shall be directly related to job performance, as shown by significant statistical and practical relationships between the score on the aptitude tests, and the scores required for admission to the pool, and performance in the apprenticeship program. In determining such relationships, the sponsor shall follow the procedures set forth in 41 CFR Part 60-3 effective December 23, 1976. The requirements of this subparagraph (B) shall also be applicable to aptitude tests utilized by a program sponsor which are administered by a state employment agency, or any other person, agency, or organization engaged in the selection or evaluation of personnel. A national test developed and administered by a national joint apprenticeship committee will not be approved by the Department unless such test meets the requirements of this subsection.

(C) Educational attainments. All educational attainments of achievement as qualifications for admission to the pool shall be directly related to job performance as shown by a significant statistical and practical relationship between the score required for admission to the pool and performance in the apprenticeship program. In demonstrating such relationships, the sponsor shall meet the requirements of 41 CFR Part 60-3 (effective December 23, 1976). School records or the results of general education development tests recognized by the state or local public institution authority shall be evidence of educational achievement. Education requirements shall be applied uniformly to all applicants.

(iv) Oral interviews. Oral interviews shall not be used as a qualification standard for admission into an eligibility pool. However, once an applicant is placed in the eligibility pool, and prior to selection for apprenticeship from the pool, he or she may be required to submit to an oral interview. Oral interviews shall be limited to such objective questions as may be required to determine the fitness of applicants to enter the apprenticeship program, but shall not include questions relating to qualifications previously determined in gaining entrance to the eligibility pool. When an oral interview is used, each interviewer shall record the questions and the general nature of the applicant's answers, and shall prepare a summary of any conclusions. Each applicant rejected from the pool of eligibles on the basis of an oral interview shall be given a written statement of such rejection, the reasons therefor, and the appeal rights available to the applicant.

(v) Notification of applicants. All applicants who meet the requirements for admission shall be notified and placed in the eligibility pool. The program sponsor shall give each rejected applicant notice of his or her rejection, including the reasons for the rejection, the requirements for admission to the pool of eligibles, and the appeal rights available to the applicant.

(vi) Goals and timetables. The sponsor shall establish, where required by § 30.4(d), percentage goals and timetables for the admission of minorities and women (minority and nonminority) into the pool of eligibles, in accordance with the provisions of § 30.4 (d), (e), and (f).

(vii) Compliance. A sponsor shall be deemed to be in compliance with its commitments under subdivision (vi) of this subparagraph if it meets its goals or timetables or if it makes a good faith effort to meet these goals and timetables. In the event of the failure of the sponsor to meet its goals and timetables, it shall be given an opportunity to demonstrate that it has made every "good faith effort" to meet its commitments (see § 30.4(f)). All the actions of the sponsor shall be reviewed and evaluated in determining whether such good faith efforts have been made.

(2) Random selection from pool of eligible applicants (i) Selection. A sponsor may select apprentices from a pool of eligible applicants on a random basis. The method of random selection is subject to approval by the Department. Supervision of the random selection process shall be by an impartial person or persons selected by the sponsor, but not associated with the administration of the apprenticeship program. The time and place of the selection, and the number of apprentices to be selected, shall be announced. The place of the selection shall be open to all applicants and the public. The names of apprentices drawn by this method shall be posted immediately following the selection at the program sponsor's place of business.

(ii) Requirements. The sponsor adopting this method of selecting apprentices shall meet the requirements of subdivisions (iii) through (v) of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph relating to the creation of pool of eligibles, oral interviews, and notification of applicants.

(iii) Goals and timetables. The sponsor shall establish, where required by § 30.4(d), percentage goals and timetables for the admission of minorities and women (minority and nonminority) into the pool of eligibles in accordance with the provisions of § 30.4(d), (e), and (f).

(iv) Compliance. Determinations as to the sponsor's compliance with its obligations under these regulations shall be in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (vii) of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph (b).

(3) Selection from pool of current employees.—(i) Selection. A sponsor may select apprentices from an eligibility pool of the workers already employed by the program sponsor in a manner prescribed by a collective bargaining agreement where such exists, or by the sponsor's established promotion policy. The sponsor adopting this method of selecting apprentices shall establish goals and timetables for the selection of minority and female apprentices, unless the sponsor concludes, in accordance with the provisions of § 30.4 (d), (e), and (f) that it does not have deficiencies in terms of underutilization of minorities and/or women (minority and nonminority) in the apprenticeship of journeymen crafts represented by the program.

(ii) Compliance. Determinations as to the sponsor's compliance with its obligations under these regulations shall be in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (vii) of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph (b).

(4) Alternative selection methods.—(i) Selection. A sponsor may select apprentices by means of any other method including its present selection method: Provided, That the sponsor meets the following requirements:

(A) Selection method and goals and timetables. Within 60 days of the effective date of this amendment, the sponsor shall complete development of the revised selection method it proposes to use along with the rest of its written affirmative action program including, where required by § 30.4(d), its percentage goals and timetables for the selection of minority and/or female (minority and nonminority) applicants for apprenticeship and its written analysis, upon which such goals and timetables, or lack thereof, are based. The establishment of goals and timetables shall be in accordance with the provisions of § 30.4 (d), (e) and (f).

(B) Qualification standards. Apprentices shall be selected on the basis of objective and specific qualification standards. Examples of such standards as fair aptitude tests, school diplomas, occupationally essential health requirements, fair interviews, school grades, and previous work experience. Where interviews are used, adequate records shall be kept including a brief summary of each interview and the conclusions on each of the specific factors, e.g., motivation, ambition, and willingness to accept direction which are part of the total judgment.

(ii) Compliance. Determinations as to the sponsor's compliance with its obligations under these regulations shall be in accordance with the provisions of subdivision (vii) of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph (b). Where a sponsor, despite its good faith efforts, fails to meet its goals and timetables within a reasonable period of time, the sponsor may be required to make appropriate changes in its affirmative action program to the extent necessary to obtain maximum effectiveness towards the attainment of its goals. The sponsor may also be required to develop and adopt an alternative selection method, including a method prescribed by the Department, where it is determined that the failure of the sponsor to meet its goals is attributable in substantial part to the selection method. Where the sponsor's failure to meet its goals is attributable in substantial part to its use of a qualification standard which has adversely affected the opportunities of minorities and/or women (minority and nonminority) for apprenticeship, the sponsor may be required to demonstrate that such qualification standard is directly related to job performance, in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (1)(iii)(A) of this paragraph.

§ 30.6 Existing lists of eligibles and public notice.

A sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5(b) (1) or (2) and a sponsor adopting a selection method under § 30.5 (b) (4) who determines that there are fewer minorities and/or women (minority and nonminority) on its existing lists of eligibles than would reasonably be expected in view of the analysis described in § 30.4(e) shall discard all existing eligibility lists upon adoption of the selection methods required by this part. New eligibility pools shall be established and lists of eligibility pools shall be posted at the sponsor's place of business. Sponsors shall establish a reasonable period of not less than 2 weeks for accepting applications for admission to an apprenticeship program. There shall be at least 30 days of public notice in advance of the earliest date for application for admission to the apprenticeship program (see § 30.4(c) on affirmative action with respect to dissemination of information). Applicants who have been placed in a pool of eligibles shall be retained on lists of eligibles subject to selection for a period of 2 years. Applicants may be removed from the list at an earlier date by their request or following their failure to respond to an apprentice job opportunity given by registered return receipt mail notice. Applicants who have been accepted in the program shall be afforded a reasonable period of time in light of the customs and practices of the industry for reporting for work. All applicants shall be treated equally in determining such period of time. It shall be the responsibility of the applicant to keep the sponsor informed of his or her current mailing address. Upon request, a sponsor may restore to the list of eligibles applicants who have been removed from the list or who have failed to respond to an apprenticeship job opportunity.

§ 30.8 Records.

(a) Obligations of sponsors. Each sponsor shall keep adequate records including a summary of the qualifications of each applicant, the basis for evaluation and for selection or rejection of each applicant, the records pertaining to interviews of applicants, the original application for each applicant, information relative to the operation of the apprenticeship program, including but not limited to job assignment, promotion, demotion, layoff, or termination, rates of pay, or other forms of compensation or conditions of work, and any other records pertinent to a determination of compliance with these regulations, as may be required by the Department. The records pertaining to individual applicants, whether selected or rejected, shall be maintained in such manner as to permit identification of minority and female (minority and nonminority) participants.

(b) Affirmative action plans. Each sponsor must retain a statement of its affirmative action plan required by § 30.4 for the prompt achievement of full and equal opportunity in apprenticeship, including all data and analyses made pursuant to the requirements of § 30.4. Sponsors shall review their affirmative action plans annually and update them where necessary, including the goals and timetables, until minority and female workforce parity is achieved.

(c) Qualification standards. Each sponsor must maintain evidence that its qualification standards have been validated in accordance with the requirements set forth in § 30.5(b).

(d) Records of State Apprenticeship Councils. State Apprenticeship Councils shall keep adequate records, including registration requirements, individual program standards and registration records, program compliance reviews and investigations, and any other records pertinent to a determination of compliance with this part, as may be required by the Department, and shall report to the Department as may be required by the Department.

(e) Maintenance of records. The records required by this part and any other information relevant to compliance with these regulations shall be maintained for 5 years and made available upon request to the Department or other authorized representative.

§ 30.9 Compliance reviews.

(a) Conduct of compliance reviews. The Department will regularly conduct systematic reviews of apprenticeship programs in order to determine the extent to which sponsors are complying with these regulations and will also conduct compliance reviews when circumstances, including receipt of complaints not referred to a private review body pursuant to § 30.11(b) (1), so warrant, and take appropriate action regarding programs which are not in compliance with the requirements of this part. Compliance reviews will consist of comprehensive analyses and evaluations of each aspect of the apprenticeship program, including on-site investigations and audits.

(b) Reregistration. Sponsors seeking reregistration shall be subject to a compliance review as described in paragraph (a) of this section by the Department as part of the reregistration process.

(c) New registrations. Sponsors seeking new registration shall be subject to a compliance review as described in paragraph (a) of this section by the Department as part of the registration process.

(d) Voluntary compliance. Where the compliance review indicates that the sponsor is not operating in accordance with this part, the Department shall notify the sponsor in writing of the results of the review and make a reasonable effort to secure voluntary compliance on the part of the program sponsor within a reasonable time before undertaking sanctions under § 30.13. In the case of sponsors seeking new registration, the Department will provide appropriate recommendations to the sponsor to enable it to achieve compliance for registration purposes.

§ 30.10 Noncompliance with Federal and State equal opportunity requirements.

A pattern or practice of noncompliance by a sponsor (or where the sponsor is a joint apprenticeship committee, by one of the parties represented on such committee) with Federal or state laws or regulations requiring equal opportunity may be grounds for the imposition of sanctions in accordance with § 30.13 if such noncompliance is related to the equal employment opportunity of apprentices and/or graduates of such an apprenticeship program under this part. The sponsor shall take affirmative steps to assist and cooperate with employers and unions in fulfilling their equal employment opportunity obligations.

§ 30.11 Complaint procedure.

(a) Filing. (1) Any apprentice or applicant for apprenticeship who believes that he or she has been discriminated against on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex with regard to apprenticeship or that the equal opportunity standards with respect to his or her selection have not been followed in the operation of an apprenticeship program may, personally or through an authorized representative, file a complaint with the Department, or, at the apprentice's or applicant's election, with a private review body established pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. The complaint shall be in writing and shall be signed by the complainant. It must include the name, address, and telephone number of the person allegedly discriminated against, the program sponsor involved, and a brief description of the circumstances of the failure to apply the equal opportunity standards provided for in this part.

(2) The complaint must be filed not later than 180 days from the date of the alleged discrimination or specified failure to follow the equal opportunity standards; and, in the case of complaints filed directly with review bodies designated by program sponsors to review such complaints, any referral of such complaint by the complainant to the Department must occur within the time limitation stated above or 30 days from the final decision of such review body, whichever is later. The time may be extended by the Department for good cause shown.

(3) Sponsors are encouraged to establish fair, speedy, and effective procedures for a review body to consider complaints of failure to follow the equal opportunity standards. A private review body established by the program sponsor for this purpose should number three or more responsible persons from the community serving in this capacity without compensation. Members of the review body should not be directly associated with the administration of an apprenticeship program. Sponsors may join together in establishing a review body to serve the needs of programs within the community.

(b) Processing of complaints. (1) (i) When the sponsor has designated a review body for reviewing complaints, the Department, unless the complainant has indicated otherwise or unless the Department has determined that the review body will not effectively enforce the equal opportunity standards, shall upon receiving a complaint refer it to the review body.

(ii) The Department shall, within 30 days following the referral of a complaint to the review body, obtain reports from the complainant and the review body as to the disposition of the complaint. If the complaint has been satisfactorily adjusted and there is no other indication of failure to apply equal opportunity standards, the case shall be closed and the parties appropriately informed.

(iii) When a complaint has not been resolved by the review body within 90 days or where, despite satisfactory resolution of the particular complaint by the review body, there is evidence that equal opportunity practices of the apprenticeship program are not in accordance with this part, the Department may conduct such compliance review as found necessary, and will take all necessary steps to resolve the complaint.

(2) Where no review body exists, the Department may conduct such compliance review as found necessary in order to determine the facts of the complaint, and obtain such other information relating to compliance with these regulations as the circumstances warrant.

(3) Sponsors shall provide written notice of the above complaint procedure to all applicants for apprenticeship and all apprentices.

§ 30.12 Adjustments in schedule for compliance review or complaint processing.

If, in the judgment of the Department, a particular situation warrants and requires special processing and either expedited or extended determination, it shall take the steps necessary to permit such determination if it finds that no person or party affected by such determination will be prejudiced by such special processing.

§ 30.13 Sanctions.

(a) Where the Department, as a result of a compliance review or other reason, determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that an apprenticeship program is not operating in accordance with this part and voluntary corrective action has not been taken by the program sponsor, the Department shall institute proceedings to deregister the program or it shall refer the matter to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or to the Attorney General with recommendations for the institution of a court action under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, or to the Attorney General for other court action as authorized by law.

(b) Deregistration proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) The Department shall notify the sponsor, in writing, that a determination of reasonable cause has been made under paragraph (a) of this section and that the apprenticeship program may be deregistered unless, within 15 days of the receipt of the notice, the sponsor requests a hearing. The notification shall specify the facts on which the determination is based.

(2) If within 15 days of the receipt of the notice provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph the sponsor mails a request for a hearing, the Secretary shall convene a hearing in accordance with § 30.16.

(3) The Secretary shall make a final decision on the basis of the record, which shall consist of the compliance review file and other evidence presented and, if a hearing was conducted pursuant to § 30.16, the proposed findings and recommended decision of the hearing officer. The Secretary may allow the sponsor a reasonable time to achieve voluntary corrective action. If the Secretary's decision is that the apprenticeship program is not operating in accordance with this part, the apprenticeship program shall be deregistered. In each case in which deregistration is ordered, the Secretary shall make public notice of the order and shall notify the sponsor and the complainant, if any.

§ 30.14 Reinstatement of program registration.

Any apprenticeship program deregistered pursuant to this part may be reinstated upon presentation of adequate evidence to the Secretary that the apprenticeship program is operating in accordance with this part.

§ 30.15 State Apprenticeship Councils.

(a) Adoption of consistent state plans.

(1) The Department shall encourage State Apprenticeship Councils to adopt and implement the requirements of this part.

(2) Within 60 days of the effective date of these regulations, each State Apprenticeship Council shall complete development of a revised equal opportunity plan which shall be consistent with this part. The revised state plan shall require all state apprenticeship programs registered with the State Apprenticeship Council to comply with the requirements of the revised State plan within 90 days of the effective date of these regulations. No State Apprenticeship Council shall continue to be recognized by the Department if it has not adopted within 60 days of the effective date of these regulations a plan implementing the requirements of this part.

(3) The Department retains authority to conduct compliance reviews to determine whether the state plan or any state apprenticeship program registered with a State Apprenticeship Council is being administered or operated in accordance with this part.

(4) It shall be the responsibility of the State Apprenticeship Council to take the necessary action to bring a noncomplying program into compliance with the state plan. In the event the State Apprenticeship Council fails to fulfill this responsibility, the Secretary may withdraw the recognition for Federal purposes of any or all state apprenticeship programs, in accordance with the procedures for deregistration of programs registered by the Department, or refer the matter to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or to the Attorney General with a recommendation for the institution of a court action under title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, or to the Attorney General for other court action as authorized by law.

(5) Each State Apprenticeship Council shall notify the Department of any state apprenticeship program deregistered by it.

(6) Any state apprenticeship program deregistered by a State Apprenticeship Council for noncompliance with requirements of this part may, within 15 days of the receipt of a notice of deregistration, appeal to the Department to set aside the determination of the State Apprenticeship Council. The Department shall make its determination on the basis of the record. The Department may grant the state program sponsor, the State Apprenticeship Council and the complainant(s), if any, the opportunity to present oral or written argument.

(b) Withdrawal of recognition. (1) Whenever the Department determines that reasonable cause exists to believe that a State Apprenticeship Council has not adopted or implemented a plan in accordance with the equal opportunity requirements of this part, it shall give notice to such State Apprenticeship Council and to appropriate state sponsors of this determination, stating specifically wherein the state's plan fails to meet such requirements and that the Department proposes to withdraw recognition for Federal purposes, from the State Apprenticeship Council unless within 15 days of the receipt of the notice, the State Apprenticeship Council complies with the provisions of this part or mails a request for a hearing to the Secretary.

(2) If within 15 days of the receipt of the notice provided for in subparagraph

(1) of this paragraph the State Apprenticeship Council neither complies with the provisions of this part, nor mails a request for a hearing, the Secretary shall notify the State Apprenticeship Council of the withdrawal of recognition.

(3) If within 15 days of the receipt of the notice provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph the State Apprenticeship Council mails a request for a hearing, the Secretary shall proceed in accordance with § 30.16.

(4) If a hearing is conducted in accordance with § 30.16, the Secretary upon receipt of the proposed findings and recommended decision of the hearing officer shall make a final decision whether the State Apprenticeship Council has adopted or implemented a plan in accordance with the equal opportunity requirements of this part.

(5) If the Secretary determines to withdraw recognition for Federal purposes, from the State Apprenticeship Council, the Secretary shall notify the State Apprenticeship Council of this determination. The Secretary shall also notify the State sponsors that within 30 days of the receipt of the notice the Department shall cease to recognize, for Federal purposes, each State apprenticeship program unless the State program sponsor requests registration with the Department. Such registration may be granted contingent upon finding that the State apprenticeship program is operating in accordance with the requirements of this part.

(6) A State Apprenticeship Council whose recognition has been withdrawn pursuant to this part may have its recognition reinstated upon presentation of adequate evidence to the Secretary that it has adopted and implemented a plan carrying out the equal opportunity requirements of this part.

§ 30.16 Hearings.

(a) Within 10 days after receiving a request for a hearing, the Secretary shall designate a hearing officer. The hearing officer shall give reasonable notice of such hearing by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the appropriate sponsor (Federal or State registered), the State Apprenticeship Council, or both, as the case may be. Such notice shall include (1) a reasonable time and place of hearing, (2) a statement of the provisions of this part, pursuant to which the hearing is to be held, and (3) a concise statement of the matters pursuant to which the action forming the basis of the hearing is proposed to be taken.

(b) The hearing officer shall regulate the course of the hearing. Hearings shall be informally conducted. Every party shall have the right to counsel, and a fair opportunity to present his or her case including such cross-examination as may be appropriate in the circumstances. Hearing officers shall make their proposed findings and recommended decisions to the Secretary upon the basis of the record before them.

§ 30.17 Intimidatory or retaliatory acts.

Any intimidation, threat, coercion, or retaliation by or with the approval of any sponsor against any person for the purpose of interfering with any right or privilege secured by title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended or Executive Order 11246, as amended, or because he has made a complaint, testified, assisted, or participated in any manner in an investigation proceeding, or hearing under this part shall be considered noncompliance with the equal opportunity standards of this part. The identity of complainants shall be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of this part, including the conduct of any investigation, hearing or judicial proceeding arising therefrom.

§ 30.18 Nondiscrimination.

The commitments contained in the sponsor's affirmative action program are not intended and shall not be used to discriminate against any qualified applicant or apprentice on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex.

§ 30.19 Exemptions.

Requests for exemption from these regulations, or any part thereof, shall be made in writing to the Secretary, and shall contain a statement of reasons supporting the request. Exemptions may be granted for good cause. State Apprenticeship Councils shall notify the Department of any such exemptions granted affecting a substantial number of employers and the reasons therefor.

[ 6320-01 ] CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD AIRPORT SECURITY COUNCIL Order Granting Discussion Authority

Issued under delegated authority September 23, 1977.

The Airport Security Council, on behalf of the domestic and foreign airlines providing service at the three major New York airports (JFK, LaGuardia, and Newark), has filed an application for renewed authority to conduct inter-carrier discussions aimed at dealing with, on a joint basis, the problems which are expected to arise with respect to air cargo security, traffic and storage should a dock strike occur this fall. Comparable discussions were authorized by the Board in 1971 by Order 71-8-15 when a similar strike was imminent.<sup>1</sup>

In support of its request, the Council<sup>2</sup> states that there is a strong likelihood of a dock strike this fall on the East Coast—possibly as early as October 1, 1977; that such a strike would result in major increases in the cargo volumes handled at the three New York metropolitan area airports; and that as a consequence inter-carrier discussions are needed to establish various guidelines and procedures to cope with the security problems which are expected to be attendant with the sudden increases in the amount of air cargo handled at these facilities. The Council notes that no precautionary measures were taken prior to the dock strike in 1969, and that, as a consequence, there was substantial confusion, and significant losses of cargo. However, when the next dock strike became imminent in 1971, the Council states that, as a result of this previous experience, it sought, and was granted, the authority mentioned above to enable its members to plan in advance for the strike. The Council believes that these discussions, and the agreement which resulted from them, were of major value to the industry and the public in enabling them to deal with the strike.

Because the current longshoremen's labor contract expires on September 30, 1977—and because, as indicated, a strike could occur as early as October 1—the Council has requested expedited action on its application. The Council states that it would like to hold its first discussions on September 27, 1977.

The Council anticipates that the discussions will result in an agreement in the form of guidelines similar to those which were reached in 1971, and that the agreement would then be submitted to the Board for prior approval.

No comments relative to this application or requests for hearing have been received.

Upon consideration of all relevant facts, it has been concluded that the Council's request for renewed discussion authority should be granted subject to the conditions noted herein. These conditions are comparable to those which were imposed by the Board when it authorized the earlier discussions in 1971 under similar circumstances.

The Council has indicated that there is a strong likelihood of a dock strike occurring this fall which would affect coastal ports in the New York area. As the Board found in Order 71-8-15, the occurrence of such a strike in the New York area presents extraordinary circumstances which warrant intercarrier action. Specifically, the Board found that without adequate planning and preparation on the part of the carriers serving the metropolitan New York airports, such a strike can cause major cargo inundation at these airports, and also result in substantial security, storage and traffic problems. It would appear then that a renewal of the earlier grant of discussion authority by the Board would be in the public interest. Moreover, assuming the discussions are limited to the topical areas authorized herein, and the other conditions of this order are complied with, it does not appear that these discussions will present any significant anticompetitive constraints.

<sup>2</sup> The Airport Security Council was established pursuant to an agreement among 23 foreign and domestic air carriers (Agreement CAB 20374) which the Board approved by Order 68-7-126. The Council's mission has been to organize and implement a cooperative program to take effective action against crime and pilferage at the major New York airports. A list of the current members of the Council is attached hereto in the appendix.

The conditions set forth in the ordering paragraphs of this order should be self-explanatory. As indicated, these conditions are comparable to those which the Board set forth in Order 71-8-15. Basically, these conditions are designed to delineate those areas in which discussion will be authorized and not authorized; to stipulate those individuals or representatives who have a right to participate in the discussions; to ensure that there will be advance notice of all meetings and minutes will be taken; to ensure that all agreements subject to section 412 of the Act reached as a result of the discussions are submitted to the Board for prior approval; and to limit the duration of the discussion authorization.

Accordingly, pursuant to authority duly delegated by the Board in its regulations, 14 CFR 385.3 and 385.13,<sup>3</sup> it is found that the request of the Airport Security Council for renewed discussion authority in Docket 23629 should be granted.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That:

1. The members of the Airport Security Council and the other air carriers and foreign air carriers providing air transportation from or to John F. Kennedy International Airport, La Guardia Airport or Newark Airport be authorized to hold discussions to reach agreement on procedures to be followed to alleviate cargo security problems at the aforementioned airports in the event of a dock strike in the metropolitan New York area, subject to the following conditions:

(a) The purpose of these discussions shall be to seek solutions to the serious cargo security, traffic and storage problems which may occur at the metropolitan New York airports if a dock strike affecting the waterports in the metropolitan New York area takes place in the fall of 1977;

<sup>3</sup> Renewals or extensions of prior discussion authorizations have previously been granted under delegation. (See, for instance, Order 76-4-6.)

(b) The discussions and any agreements resulting therefrom shall be limited to those cargo security problems which will arise at the three metropolitan New York airports in the event of a dock strike in the metropolitan New York area, and cargo traffic acceptance, customs, and storage procedures necessary to deal with such problems.

(c) Eligibility to participate in the discussions authorized herein shall extend to all U.S. certificated air carriers and all foreign air carriers authorized to engage in air transportation from or to JFK, La Guardia, or Newark Airports.

(d) In addition, representatives of the Board and all interested Federal, State, or local departments and agencies; of the Port of New York Authority; and of any trade, shipping, or consumer association or group shall be permitted to participate in the meetings;

(e) A notice of the date, time and location of any meeting called pursuant to this order shall be served on the Director, Bureau of Operating Rights, Civil Aeronautics Board, and all carriers referred to in subparagraph (c), supra, and those other persons and agencies referred to in paragraph 3, infra, at least 48 hours prior to such meetings; a detailed report (or complete and accurate minutes of all discussions) will be made and copies thereof shall be served on each of the above persons upon whom a meeting notice must be served and two copies thereof shall be filed with the Board within five working days after the conclusion of each discussion meeting or at the same time that copies are served upon the carriers whichever is earlier;

(f) The discussants shall not discuss matters other than those directly related to cargo traffic acceptance procedures, cargo customs and storage facilities and cargo security;

(g) Except to the extent granted herein, the authorization granted herein shall not be construed as authorizing discussions of rates, fares, charges or inflight and other service in connection with air transportation; and

(h) The approval granted herein shall not be construed as approval of any agreement subject to section 412 of the Act which is entered into pursuant to any meetings or action of the discussants; all such agreements shall be filed with the Board for approval under section 412 of the Act, and shall be effective only upon receipt of Board approval.

2. The authorization granted herein expires on December 31, 1977, if a dock strike in the metropolitan New York area has not commenced prior to such date; or, in the event such a dock strike does occur prior to such date, such authorization shall expire within 15 days after the date of termination of such dock strike; in addition this order may be revoked or amended earlier at any time at the discretion of the Board; and

3. A copy of this order shall be served upon the Airport Security Council; each certificated air carrier; each foreign air carrier holding a foreign air carrier per-

[Docket Nos. 31413, etc.; Order 77-9-74]
UNITED AIR LINES, INC.

Order Regarding Pittsburgh-Los Angeles/San Francisco/Denver Service Investigation

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C. on the 20th day of September 1977.

This order (Docket Nos. 31413, 30455, 30117) deals with two related applications concerning service to Pittsburgh. The first is United's application requesting that the Board amend its certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to Subpart N of the Board's Rules of Practice (14 CFR Part 302, Subpart N) to authorize nonstop service between Pittsburgh and Denver. The second is the Pittsburgh Parties' petition asking the Board to institute an investigation of the need for authorization of first competitive nonstop air service in the Pittsburgh-Denver/Los Angeles/San Francisco markets.

UNITED'S APPLICATION

On December 7, 1976, United filed its Subpart N application in Docket 30167 requesting nonstop authority between Pittsburgh and Denver. On December 17, 1976, TWA filed a statement requesting dismissal of United's application.<sup>1</sup> On May 11, 1977, United filed a Motion For Leave To File An Otherwise Unauthorized Document and reply to TWA's May 2 response. On May 18, 1977, United filed a Motion For Leave To File An Otherwise Unauthorized Document and a copy of its answer to a TWA complaint filed in Docket 30703.

Board Order 77-2-100, February 22, 1977, stated that United's application was not in compliance with section 1404 of Subpart N and directed the carrier to submit revised exhibits that would correct the deficiencies. In allowing United to revise its exhibits we expressed our dissatisfaction with the carrier's failure to comply with the provisions of Subpart N in several recent cases,<sup>2</sup> a practice that causes unnecessary procedural delays and increases the staff's workload. Furthermore, the order explicitly stated that the Board would expect United's revised exhibits to set forth the necessary data on a fully responsive basis, and that failure to do so would result in dismissal of its application. The Board directed United to submit the following data:<sup>3</sup>

(1) All present and proposed schedules relating to the proposal. This should, of course, reflect all changes in affected markets. Existing schedules which would be continued should be clearly identified, as should new, deleted, or changed schedules;

(2) Estimates of self-diversion and diversion from other carriers. These estimates should reflect the complete effect of the proposal, including any self-diversion/diversion of revenues in beyond markets;

(3) Anticipated operating revenues which reflect the gross increase in all markets, less self-diversion; and

(4) Estimates of operating expenses which reflect the entire impact of the proposal, including the effect of any related off-segment changes in direct or indirect expenses.

The Board is of the opinion that United's supplement to its original application, filed April 18, 1977, is not fully responsive to Order 77-2-100. In computing self-diversion, the carrier omitted data showing its total market share, which makes it impossible to make the computation. Moreover, the Board's order specifically directed United to estimate revenues and expenses in beyond markets. However, United's Exhibit UA-202 shows proposed Pittsburgh-Chicago flights that would serve "a point west of Chicago but not Denver" and proposed Denver-Chicago flights that would serve "a point east of Chicago but not Pittsburgh." Nowhere does United indicate what beyond points would be served by these flights or what revenues, expenses, diversion and self-diversion would occur as a result of these proposed services.

Because of these deficiencies United's application in Docket 30167 will not be given expedited treatment under Subpart N. Instead it will be consolidated with the Pittsburgh Parties' petition and processed under Subpart A.

PETITION OF THE PITTSBURGH PARTIES<sup>4</sup>

By petition dated February 9, 1977, Docket 30455, the Pittsburgh Parties requested that the Board institute an investigation of the need for authorization of the first competitive nonstop air service in the Pittsburgh-Denver/Los Angeles/San Francisco markets.

An answer supporting the petition was filed by United on February 18, 1977. On February 25, 1977, TWA filed an answer opposing the petition. On April 18, 1977, the Pittsburgh Parties filed a Motion For Leave To File A Late Document, a Motion For Leave To File An Unauthorized Document, and the document itself—a reply to TWA's answer. On May 2, 1977, TWA filed a Motion For Leave To File An Unauthorized Document and a response to the Pittsburgh Parties' April 18 reply. On May 11, 1977, United filed a Motion For Leave To File An Otherwise Unauthorized Document and reply to TWA's May 2 response. On May 18, 1977, United filed a Motion For Leave To File An Otherwise Unauthorized Document and a copy of its answer to a TWA complaint filed in Docket 30703.

The Board will deny all motions to file late or unauthorized documents, except TWA's May 2, 1977, motion and United's May 11, 1977, motion, which will be granted in part. The Board will accept those unauthorized documents to the extent that they discuss the effect of the President's then recent messages regarding fuel conservation. TWA requests that the Board consider fuel conservation issues in deciding whether to institute this route proceeding. United argues that if such issues are to be considered at all, it should be done at the hearing. The Board is of the opinion that it need not consider the complex issues surrounding fuel conservation at this preliminary stage of the proceeding. The parties will have ample opportunity to adduce evidence and to make arguments on these issues.

The remainder of the motions to file unauthorized documents amount to little more than the parties' attempts to have the last word. They contain no facts or arguments that could not have been included in the original pleadings. While the Board has previously been lenient in granting such motions, the number of unauthorized replies is beginning to impose an unreasonable burden on the Board's staff. Therefore, except as discussed above, we will deny the motions.

In each of the three markets at issue TWA is the only carrier with unrestricted nonstop authority. The Pittsburgh Parties argue that Pittsburgh-Los Angeles is Pittsburgh's largest revenue passenger-mile market without nonstop competition. Pittsburgh-San Francisco, they argue, is the fourth largest such market. Additionally, the Pittsburgh Parties contend that all three markets at issue can support competitive nonstop service. TWA argues that the markets are not very large, and that the authorization of competitive nonstop service would jeopardize their profitability.

The Board has decided to institute an investigation to consider the need for competitive nonstop service in the Pittsburgh-Denver/Los Angeles/San Francisco markets.

The Pittsburgh-Los Angeles market generated 146,790 O&D plus interline connecting passengers, or about 402 passengers per day during the year ended March 31, 1978. As of May 15, 1977, TWA operated only one daily nonstop round trip in the market. Pittsburgh-Los Angeles is a large market, and, with TWA providing only one daily nonstop round trip, clearly qualifies for consideration of the authorization of first competitive nonstop service.

The Pittsburgh-San Francisco market had 85,550 O&D plus interline connecting passengers, or about 234 passengers per day during the year ended March 31, 1978. TWA has served the market intermittently, providing only one nonstop round trip per day for 4½ months in 1976. Moreover, there is a pronounced directional imbalance in the service offered in the market: the preponderance of single-plane service between Pittsburgh and San Francisco is offered eastbound. In view of the size of the Pittsburgh-San Francisco market, this pattern of service indicates that the market may be receiving deficient service. We will therefore examine in this case the need for first competitive nonstop service in the market.

In the Pittsburgh-Denver market (the subject of United's application) there were 68,830 O&D plus interline connecting passengers, or about 189 passengers per day during the year ended March 31, 1978. Again, as of May 15, 1977, TWA was operating only one daily nonstop round trip. Its 1976 load factor was 67 percent. Although United offers only one-stop service in the market, it carried 38 percent of the traffic in the market in 1976.<sup>5</sup> Considering TWA's high load factors, and United's large market share, the Board finds that the Pittsburgh-Denver market should be included in the Pittsburgh-Los Angeles/San Francisco/Denver Service Investigation for consideration of first competitive nonstop service.

We note that we have not received any air carrier applications for authority in the Pittsburgh-Los Angeles/San Francisco markets. We have instituted this investigation on the assumption that such applications will be filed shortly. However, if no applications seeking authority in these markets are filed within the prescribed period, the Board will issue an order excluding those markets from the case. While we are fully prepared to go forward with an investigation of the need for competitive service in these markets, to do so without a willing carrier would result in a waste of the Board's resources.

<sup>5</sup> TWA alleges that certain United routings are illegal, and that the Board should not here consider United traffic carried over such routings. However, even ignoring the allegedly illegal traffic, United's market share is 19 percent.

United submitted an environmental evaluation with its application, and all other applicants should submit, with their applications, environmental evaluations pursuant to section 312.12 of the Board's Procedural Regulations.

Accordingly, it is ordered that: 1. A proceeding to be known as the Pittsburgh-Los Angeles/San Francisco/Denver Service Investigation, Docket 31413 be instituted, and shall be set down for hearing before an administrative law judge of the Board at a time and place to be designated later, as the orderly administration of the Board's docket permits;

2. The application of United Air Lines in Docket 30167 be consolidated into the Pittsburgh-Los Angeles/San Francisco/Denver Service Investigation, Docket 31413;

3. The issues in said proceeding shall include the following:

(a) Do the public convenience and necessity require the certification of an air carrier or carriers to engage in additional nonstop air transportation between Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on the one hand, and Los Angeles and San Francisco, California, and Denver, Colorado, on the other hand?

(b) If the answer to (a) is in the affirmative which air carrier(s) should be authorized to engage in such transportation; and

(c) What terms, conditions, and limitation, if any, should be placed on the operations of such carrier(s)?

4. All authority awarded in this proceeding shall be subsidy-ineligible;

5. Trans World Airlines, United Air Lines, the County of Allegheny, and the Pittsburgh Airport Advisory Committee be made parties to this proceeding;

6. The motion of Trans World Airlines, filed May 2, 1977, in Docket 30455, and the motion of United Air Lines, filed May 11, 1977 in Dockets 30455 and 30167 be granted to the extent that the unauthorized documents discuss the question of energy conservation, and denied in all other respects;

7. All other motions to file unauthorized documents be denied;

8. All applicants in this proceeding shall file, with their applications, environmental evaluations pursuant to section 312.12 of the Board's Procedural Regulations; and

9. Applications, motions to consolidate, and petitions for reconsideration of this order shall be filed within 20 days from the date of service of this order, and answers thereto shall be filed within 10 days thereafter.

This order shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

PHYLLIS T. KAYLOR,
Alternate Secretary.

FERTILIZERS

June 1977

United States exports of nitrogen containing fertilizers during the month of June 1977 totaled 99,578 content tons. This represents an increase of 18,669 content tons, or 23 percent, over the export level of the previous month when 80,909 content tons were exported. It is 4 percent below the export level of the same month a year ago, when 103,704 content tons of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials were shipped abroad.

Imports of nitrogen fertilizers during June amounted to 190,328 content tons. Although this constituted a decrease of 19.8 percent from the 237,231 content tons imported in May, June's imports were at a level 82.6 percent above those of the previous year, when only 104,227 content tons of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials were imported.

Ammonium phosphate was the nitrogen containing fertilizer material exported in largest quantity during June 1977. During June, 274,185 short tons of ammonium phosphate were shipped abroad. This was 33,400 short tons, or 13.8 percent, more than the 240,785 short tons exported in the preceding month, and 52,722 short tons, or 45.7 percent, above the 188,063 short tons of ammonium phosphate exported in June 1976. Anhydrous ammonia, the commodity under monitoring which was exported in second largest quantity in June, showed a decline in export level from both the previous month and from June a year ago. In June 1977, 42,658 short tons of anhydrous ammonia were exported. This was 10.3 percent, or 4,947 short tons, less than the May 1977 exports of 47,605 short tons, and 14 percent, or 6,945 short tons, lower than the June 1976 anhydrous ammonia exports of 49,603 short tons. Ammonium sulfate exports in June 1977 also declined when compared to exports during the previous month and in June 1976. In June 1977, 34,297 short tons of ammonium sulfate were exported. These June exports constitute a decrease of 14.5 percent, or 5,818 short tons, from the May 1977 ammonium sulfate exports of 40,115 short tons; and a decrease of 13.7 percent, or 5,440 short tons, from the 39,737 short tons exported in June 1976.

Exports of mixed fertilizers, on the other hand, showed an upturn. In June of this year 33,189 short tons of mixed fertilizers were exported; a 12,748 short ton, or 62.4 percent, increase over May mixed fertilizer exports of 20,441 short tons, and 94.4 percent, or 16,116 short tons, over the 17,073 short tons exported during June of last year. The two other nitrogen containing fertilizer materials under monitoring, urea and ammonium nitrate, each reflected a decrease in exports during June. Urea exports amounted to 6,428 short tons; a decrease of 53.8 percent from May 1977 exports of 13,911 short tons, and a decrease of 83.6 percent from June 1976 exports of 39,123 short tons. Ammonium nitrate exports in June 1977 were 1,179 short tons. This was 66.5 percent below May 1977 exports of 3,521 short tons, or 19.2 percent below the 1,459 short tons of ammonium nitrate exported in June of the preceding year.

Imports of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials during June, were led by anhydrous ammonia. A total of 136,326 short tons of this commodity was entered into the United States, representing a 21.6 percent, or 24,174 short ton, increase over the May import level of 112,152 short tons, and a 165 percent, or 85,054 short tons, more than was imported in June 1976. The commodity imported in second largest quantity was urea. The 92,273 short tons of urea the United States received in June, constituted a 70 percent increase, or 37,933 short tons, over the amount imported in June 1976, but was 39.8 percent, or 61,039 short tons, below May 1977 imports, when 153,312 short tons of urea entered this country.

At the end of June 1977, contracts for the export of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials through the 1978 crop year (July 1977 through June 1978) amounted to 206,768 content tons. This was slightly above the quantity of 192,068 content tons that was contracted for future export at the end of June 1976. As spot sales have traditionally comprised a large portion of the trade in these commodities, the 14,702 content ton difference between June 1976 and June 1977 commitments for exports is not considered significant, and exports of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials throughout the 1978 crop year are expected to continue at the 1977 crop year level.

modity monitored than it was in June 1976. Anhydrous ammonia production was 1,477 short tons in June of this year, where as in June 1976, it was 1,374 short tons. Urea production in June 1977 exceeded June's of the previous year by only 6 short tons, 360 short tons being manufactured this June. Production of ammonium nitrate totaled 696 short tons in June 1977; this compares to June 1976 output of 614 short tons. Ammonium phosphate production during June 1977 was 882 short tons, an increase of 256 short tons over the June production of a year ago.

With June being the conclusion of the 1977 crop year, industrial analysts commented that there appeared to be an ample world supply of nitrogen containing fertilizer materials for the forthcoming crop year, and that the United States would be one of the prime import markets. Net imports into this country during the 1977 crop year were over 600,000 content tons. (Imports totaled 1,884,332 content tons; exports were 1,237,250 content tons during the 1977 crop year.) This level of net imports is expected to be maintained during the 1978 crop year.

A shift in trade patterns is anticipated, however, with the commencement of imports of anhydrous ammonia from newly completed plants in the Soviet Union. Other new plants recently built or now under construction in the Soviet Union and the Peoples' Republic of China will further add to the world supply, although the new Chinese capacity will be dedicated to domestic consumption. This new Chinese production is expected to force Japan, the traditional exporter to mainland China, to look elsewhere for export markets.

Producers' prices remained stable during June, having shown no change since January of this year. When viewed from a year long vantage point, however, producers' prices for anhydrous ammonia, urea, and ammonium phosphate had declined slightly during the 1977 crop year. As of this June, industry experts began to discern new downward price pressure, although transaction prices had not changed perceptibly by the end of June from the levels prevailing since January.

Intent To Withdraw

In accordance with § 10.12 of the Department's "Procedures for the Development of Voluntary Product Standards" (15 CFR Part 10), notice is hereby given of the intent to withdraw Commercial Standards CS 246-62, "Steel Chain Link Galvanized Fence Fabric," and CS 269-65, "Aluminum Alloy Chain Link Fencing."

This withdrawal action is being taken for the reason that CS 246-62 and CS 269-65 are adequately covered by the American Society for Testing and Materials' standards ASTM A392-74, "Zinc-Coated Steel Chain-Link Fence Fabric," and ASTM A491-74, "Aluminum-Coated Chain-Link Fence Fabric," respectively, and duplication is inappropriate and not in the public interest.

Any comments or objections concerning this intended withdrawal of these standards should be made in writing to the Standards Development Services Section, National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C. 20234, on or before October 31, 1977. The effective date of withdrawal will not be less than 60 days after the final notice of withdrawal. TRAWL FISHERIES OF WASHINGTON,
OREGON, AND CALIFORNIA

Revision to Preliminary Fishery
Management Plan

Pursuant to section 201(g) of the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 (Pub. L. 94-265), the Secretary of Commerce published a preliminary fishery management plan entitled "Trawl Fisheries of Washington, Oregon, and California" on February 10, 1977 (42 FR 8577). The plan, which provides proposed conservation and management measures for foreign trawl fisheries in the Washington, Oregon, and California area, was revised on August 31, 1977 (42 FR 44568). One of the changes to the plan provided for an effort limitation in vessel-days based upon a catch rate of 33 metric tons per vessel-day observed in the early part of the 1977 season.

A more precise catch-rate based upon actual reported catches of Soviet vessels now indicates that the average daily catch rate for Soviet vessels is determined to be 29.1 metric tons per vessel-day. However, the Soviet hake fishery has suspended fishing operations because its vessel-day effort limitation (based upon the 33 metric ton catch rate) has been reached without attaining its Pacific hake allocation of 105,200 metric tons. In the interest of full resource utilization, and in keeping with the specific biological standards set forth in the preliminary fishery management plan, as revised, it has been determined appropriate to provide additional fishing days for the Soviet Pacific hake fishery.

The formula used to determine maximum number of days on the grounds for the Soviet Pacific hake fleet will be revised using a catch rate of 29.1 metric tons. This revised catch rate, when applied to the formula used to determine maximum number of days on the grounds, provides for a revised effort limitation of 3,615 vessel days.

Monitoring of the hake resource in 1977 by a larval hake survey and by observations of U.S. and foreign hake catches reveals no evidence of reduced hake abundance as was reported in 1976. The outlook for the hake resource is very encouraging. It is essential for full utilization of the Pacific hake resource that the number of Soviet fishing days be increased at the earliest practicable time in order to facilitate effective management by the United States in accordance with the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976. Therefore, this provision is made effective September 27, 1977.

The Associate Administrator for Marine Resources of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has approved this document pursuant to delegations of authority in Department of Commerce Organization Order 25-5A, Section 3-01dd, Amendment 4 (dated September 30, 1976) and NOAA Directives Manual 05-57 (dated December 1, 1976).

Dated: September 27, 1977.

WINFRED H. MEIBOHM,
Associate Director, National Marine Fisheries Service.

Revisions to the preliminary fishery management plan are as follows:

1. Section 3.B(e) is amended by deleting the second, fourth, and fifth sentences in their entirety.

2. A new Section 3.B(f) is added as follows:

(f) Monitoring of the hake resource in 1977 reveals no evidence of reduced hake abundance. However, U.S. fishermen have reported unusually large numbers of hake on some Pacific trawl grounds and the observed Soviet catch rate of hake is more than double that of 1976. The distribution of hake larvae observed during the March 1977 larval survey was similar to the period 1963-66 (prior to the development of the hake fishery). The extremely below-normal extent of the hake spawning area and possible hake spawning biomass implied by the 1976 hake larval survey did not persist into 1977. Therefore, the future outlook for the hake resource is very encouraging.

3. Section 5.C.1 is revised by deleting the section in its entirety and substituting the following:

1. Landward of 125° 40' W.—a. U.S.S.R.—Soviet hake quota = 29.1 mt/vessel-day on the grounds.

b. All others—Hake quota = 33 mt vessel-day on the grounds.

4. Section 9, Appendix B, Subpart E, (b)(1) is revised by deleting the section in its entirety and substituting the following:

(1) Landward of 125° 40' W.—Soviet hake quota = 29.1; Others: hake quota = 33

WATCHES AND WATCH MOVEMENTS

New Entrant Announcement for American Samoa

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Invitation for applications from new firms.

SUMMARY: This notice announces that the calendar year 1978 duty-free watch quota for American Samoa will be available for allocation to a new firm and invites applications from interested parties. The notice provides guidance on how to apply for the duty-free watch quota and establishes a December 9, 1977, deadline for receipt of applications.

DATE: Applications from interested parties must be received on or before December 9, 1977.

FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Frank Creel, who can be reached by telephone on 202-377-2197.

SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION: Pacific Time Corp., which received the calendar year 1977 duty-free watch quota for American Samoa pursuant to Public Law 89-805, has notified the Departments of Commerce and the Interior that it is ceasing operations and will not seek a watch quota for calendar year 1978.

New firms are therefore invited to apply for the calendar year 1978 American Samoa duty-free watch quota. The Departments have set forth their policy with respect to the allocation of the American Samoa quota in their joint notice of June 8, 1967 (32 FR 8318), noting, among other things, that the division of the American Samoa quota among two or more firms might result in a "weak and inefficient" industry; and in the judgment of the Departments this policy remains valid in the present circumstances. Accordingly, it is the intention of the Departments to allocate the calendar year 1978 American Samoa quota to the single firm which offers the best prospect of making a meaningful and long term contribution to the economy of American Samoa.

Interested parties may apply for the calendar year 1978 American Samoa quota on Form DID-334P, copies of which may be obtained from:

Special Import Programs Division, Room 6805, Domestic and International Business Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230.

In addition to the information to be supplied on Form DIB-334P, applicants will also be required to provide the following information:

1. A copy of a certified financial statement for (a) The applicant (principals in proposed company or parent company); (b) any company listed in answer to question No. 8 of Form DIB-334P.

2. Anticipated source of financing of capital investment required for proposed watch movement assembly operation in American Samoa (land, building, equipment, parts inventory, etc.). If proposed operation is contingent upon receiving financial or other assistance from the Federal Government, the territorial government or from other sources, give complete details, including details of any exemption from territorial taxes or customs duties sought.

3. A statement as to whether or not the applicant expects to be able to assemble and ship during calendar year 1978 and in subsequent years the total amount of American Samoa quota that becomes available. (In this respect, the Departments cannot say with certainty what amount will be available since the amount depends on total apparent U.S. consumption of watches during the current calendar year, as determined by the International Trade Commission not later than April 1, 1978. However, the amount available in 1977 was 309,000 units, and the Departments estimate that between 250,000 and 300,000 units will be available in 1978.)

4. A statement as to whether or not the applicant plans to case watch movements in American Samoa. If so, when and how many?

5. Anticipated number of local workers to be employed in American Samoa by job classification (see question No. 28 of Form DIB-334P) and proposed wage rates.

6. Estimated direct labor cost, by type of movement (see question No. 17 of Form DIB-334P) per watch movement assembled in American Samoa, exclusive of general, sales and administrative costs.

7. Once notified of selection as quota recipient, estimated time applicant would require to: (a) Establish watch movement assembly in American Samoa; (b) Begin shipment of locally assembled watch movements to the United States.

8. Applicant's experience which qualifies it to establish and operate a watch movement assembly facility in American Samoa.

9. A statement indicating how the watch movements assembled in American Samoa would be distributed in the United States market and through whom, if known.

All applications for the calendar year 1978 American Samoa quota must be filed with the Departments on or before December 9, 1977. It is the intention of the Departments to announce the successful applicant on or about January 1, 1978, and to allocate the 1978 American Samoa quota as soon as possible after April 1, 1978, when the amount of quota available must be published by the International Trade Commission. In the event the successful applicant is able to begin assembly operations and shipments prior to April 1, 1978, it is the intention of the Departments to award the successful applicant an initial quota allocation in an appropriate amount pending allocation of its annual quota.

If in the judgment of the Departments no application is received which proposes a sufficient number of assembly operations or otherwise offers the prospect of a meaningful contribution to the economy of American Samoa, the Departments shall notify such applicant(s) of the specific deficiencies and may issue a new invitation or extend the date for revised applications or applications from other firms.

The recipient of the American Samoa quota allocation will be required to comply with the applicable 1978 watch quota rules of the Departments and with United States Customs Service regulations regarding assembly operations which must be performed in the insular possession under General Headnote 3 (a), Tariff Schedules of the United States, as well as with the general requirements of the territorial government regarding the establishment and conduct of a business in American Samoa.

Dated: September 26, 1977.

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Resources and Trade Assistance, U.S. Department of Commerce.

EXCLUSIVE PURCHASE OF TELEVISION PROGRAM PRODUCT

Report and Order

Adopted September 21, 1977

Released September 23, 1977.

By the Commission: Chairman Wiley absent; Commissioner Fogarty concurring in the result.

In the matter of inquiry into policies and practices concerning the exclusive purchase of television program product and the ability of conventional television stations, subscription television stations, cable television systems, and subscription cable television operations to obtain programming. Report and order terminating proceeding (40 FR 51083).

INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY OF COMMENTS

1. This proceeding was initiated by Notice of Inquiry, 52 FCC2d 87, 40 FR 15576 (1975) on the same day the Commission adopted modified "anti-siphoning" rules restricting the use of programming by subscription television.<sup>1</sup> At the time it was felt that available programming, particularly feature films, might be further restricted by operation of exclusive contracts between conventional television interests and program producers. Thus, this inquiry was initiated to provide an in-depth exploration of the effects of exclusive contracts entered into either by conventional or subscription television interests which give one form of television service exclusive use of program material vis a vis the other, and to elicit comments of interested persons on the subject.

Comments have been received from television broadcast licensees, the three commercial television networks, cable television system owners and programmers, feature film producers, and one public interest group. In addition, the Commission has considered evidence presented during the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee hearings in May and June of 1975, as well as information gleaned from other related Commission public proceedings including Dockets 18179 and 19554.

2. On March 25, 1977 the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit issued an opinion striking down the Commission's anti-siphoning rules in their application to subscription cable television operations. In conjunction with its decision the Court ordered the Commission to "terminate" this proceeding because of the anti-trust questions presented by contract exclusivity and also "in view of the potentially deleterious effect of exclusivity on the interest of viewers in having the greatest possible access to diverse sources of information". In other related proceedings, the United States Department of Justice has brought suit against the three national commercial television networks,<sup>2</sup> charging that they have violated the Sherman Act by using their control over access to broadcasting time to deny program suppliers an opportunity to market programs on a competitive basis. In connection with this litigation a Consent Decree with the National Broadcasting Company has been proposed that would prohibit NBC from obtaining any exclusive rights to theatrical feature films more than thirty days prior to the first date of availability for network exhibition. The decree would also have limited NBC to a period of two years of exclusivity between the first and last availability dates with an additional year of exclusivity allowed for each exhibition greater than two to which NBC acquires the exhibition rights. However, on May 16, 1977, after the receipt of objections to this provision of the decree, a new decree was proposed that would make no provision restricting NBC's acquisition of exclusivity of this type.

3. It is uncontested that commercial television networks in the past have obtained exclusivity from feature film suppliers against subscription television. The American Broadcasting Companies state that their general policy is to obtain exclusivity against the other networks and pay originations directed to homes for the period of time ABC has presentation rights plus an additional six month period before the film is available for broadcast. The procedure of CBS, Inc. is to obtain exclusivity against competing home television exhibition by pay cable during the entire period in which CBS has broadcast rights. It asserts that CBS obtains no exclusivity against pay during the first three years following release of a film and where the expected broadcast is shortly after the three year period, 90 days of exclusivity prior to the availability date is obtained. The National Broadcasting Company generally seeks exclusivity against pay cable commencing 60 days prior to the first date the film is available for broadcast, and throughout the time allowed for all uses or "runs" of the film. Evidence supplied by other parties not only confirms the networks' exclusivity practices, but also supports the contention that their exclusivity frequently commences during the two or three year "up front" period when, under the former anti-siphoning rules, the films were available for pay use even though they were not available for network broadcasts. Thus, pay television is precluded from films months and sometimes years in advance of any intended broadcast.<sup>3</sup> As part of its comments Optical Systems Corporation has produced a list of 28 films which were withdrawn from pay cable availability during a nine month period, after network contracting, notwithstanding the fact that the "up front" period permitted for pay cable exhibition by the Commission's rules had not yet expired. The National Cable Television Association argues an additional point, that network exclusivity is reference to an "availability date," which bears little or no relationship to the initial "broadcast date", and thereby further encroaches on the initial, limited access period of pay cable. It provides numerous examples of "warehousing" where a film's "availability" date is months or years in advance of the first "broadcast" date of the particular film.

<sup>3</sup> The pre-"availability" period ranges from two to six months, but it appears the interval between availability and first play may cause the total span of exclusivity before use to exceed a year or even two years.

4. These issues were addressed in 1975, when the United States Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly held hearings to determine whether the growth of cable television had been retarded by these or other restraints. The Commercial networks acknowledged their general contracting practice incorporating the exclusivity described above. The subcommittee also received approximately 33 contracts between the networks and various film producers. The exclusivity clauses in these contracts indicate that exclusivity nearly always is obtained against pay operations. A further analysis reveals that often exclusivity is obtained during the "up front" period when films initially are available to pay use, and that it frequently covers a period of months if not years prior to any telecast.

5. The practice of contracting for exclusivity against pay television use is not confined to the commercial networks. Individual station licensees, both independents and network affiliates, also receive protection for their films. In their "Comments of Television Licensees" twenty network affiliated broadcast stations state that they generally obtain exclusivity against other television stations in direct competition and against pay cable operations within their service area. Metromedia, Inc., a diversified communications corporation, expresses its contention that individual stations, particularly independent ones, need "to obtain such exclusive rights for a meaningful term (at least seven years)."

6. NBC in particular responded to the allegations of excessive exclusivity and "warehousing" by stating that showings are misleading because applicable contracts were negotiated long before pay cable was actively competing for films. It submits that a more relevant measure of prevailing exclusivity practices is films acquired in later years, and notes that of the 46 films it obtained in 1974, 26 were available for telecast and of these 20 already had been shown. In 1975, 3 were available and 2 of them were shown by February of 1976.

7. The Commission expressed in its Notice the two basic concerns of this inquiry: first, whether the degree of exclusivity now contracted for is necessary to protect conventional broadcasters, and second, whether it inhibits development of pay television as a diverse source of programming. Regarding the first issue, broadcast interests assert that contracting for exclusivity is a necessary, lawful, and accepted practice. For several reasons they vehemently oppose any elimination or restriction of their ability to obtain exclusivity. Foremost, they believe any prohibition of exclusivity could lead to a loss of quality films on conventional television through "siphoning" and de facto exclusivity by the rapidly growing pay cable interests. Now is the time, they argue, to establish business patterns necessary to prevent any disruption of programming available via conventional television and a corresponding loss of public services. Already, NBC states, few films suitable for network presentation are available and their fees are extremely high. Therefore, audiences must be maximized through exclusivity. In addition, the networks say broadcast rights are offered by the film producers while the films are still in theatrical production so that the broadcast date usually is not known. They also argue that the broadcast date should not be prematurely established so that schedule flexibility can be maintained, enabling periodic "resting". Metromedia, Inc. states that independent station licensees, dependent upon being the primary or exclusive market outlet for movies, particularly need conventional exclusivity to maintain their position and to justify acquisition of high quality programs.

8. Broadcast interests contend that their exclusivity practices are lawful as well as necessary. Belo Broadcasting Corp., licensee of two independent television stations, cites the Commission's syndicated exclusivity rules and suggests that they demonstrate Commission recognition and acceptance of exclusivity arrangements between conventional and pay television. It also is submitted that traditional exclusivity against pay is a logical extension of the exclusivity obtained by conventional television and recognized by the Commission in accordance with its limitations set forth in Sections 73.658(b) and 73.658(m) of the Rules. CBS argues another tack, averring that the existing laws of property in copyrighted works would be changed significantly if the Commission rather than the copyright proprietor (i.e., the program producer), should decide whether and under what circumstances property rights would be transferred, and whether exclusivity would be granted. Finally, the broadcast interests argue the exclusivity they obtain is "reasonable" and therefore, not in conflict with antitrust law precedent. The National Association of Broadcasters, in its comments, asserts that broadcast television stations and networks are in competition with pay cable, that the antitrust laws as applied to feature film distribution, permit reasonable restraints between competitors, that the test of reasonableness necessarily involves an analysis of the unique factors in each individual case, and that the licensee of a film has a recognized right to protect its financial stake in the film it exhibits. United States v. Paramount Pictures, 66 F. Supp. 323, 70 F. Supp. 53 (S.D.N.Y. 1946) reversed and remanded in part, 334 U.S. 131 (1948), 85 F. Supp. 881 (S.D.N.Y. 1949) aff'd, 339 U.S. 974 (1950), among other cases, is cited as controlling precedent. Even if contracts become unreasonable, however, adequate remedies are available through the antitrust laws.

9. Other comments dispute claims of the broadcasters' and networks' need for exclusivity. While they have focused on estimates of cable's potential growth, NCTA argues that no effort has been made to translate any reasonable estimates into actual and substantial adverse impact on the networks or their affiliates if exclusivity is prohibited. In fact, it is suggested that pay cable exhibition would likely promote additional network viewing. Nor would there be a loss of programming through "siphoning" if exclusivity were prohibited. That allegation is characterized as a "shop worn, boilerplate threat" because the "predicted substantial losses of revenue to the networks resulting from cable operation have never occurred." NCTA further challenges the exclusivity practices as being illegal, and cites the same Paramount decision relied on by the broadcast interests. They argue that contrary to the broadcasters' contention, pay cable is not in substantial competition with conventional television since pay subscribers equal only 1/2 percent of total network audiences, and because broadcast revenues far exceed those of pay. Also, pay competes for its dollars from consumers while conventional television obtains revenues from advertisers. Therefore, the exclusivity is said to be illegal per se. It additionally is unreasonable and therefore illegal because the protection does not reflect the revenue requirements of the copyright owners, who obtain their best commercial reward from maximum circulation. It is argued that the Commission has a responsibility to promote competition and protect against practices such as this which are contrary to the antitrust laws.

10. As previously stated, the second concern of this inquiry is whether the degree of exclusivity presently contracted for inhibits development of pay cable as a diverse source of programming. Pay cable interests argue that the exclusivity obtained by broadcasters, as previously documented, unreasonably deprives them of substantial feature film exhibition time even if some films remain available for pay cable. And, they argue, the Commission's pay cable rules, in conjunction with the broadcasters' unreasonable practices, have served to further severely restrict the availability of films. Restricted access to films has impeded the growth of traditional pay cable services and also the use of new and other formats, such as packages of film "classics" necessary for the industry's future development. Predictably, broadcast interests disagree, asserting that the pay cable industry is developing and that film suppliers are aware of pay's economic potential. Several lists have been submitted indicating that a plethora of films, including premieres and "blockbusters", currently are available and are being exhibited by pay cable. They also argue that pay cable has available, in addition to films, a wide range of other, different and diverse programs in the sports, cultural, and series areas. The most compelling demonstration that pay cable development has not been inhibited by exclusivity, however, is said to be its rapid growth, "spreading like an oil slick in a hurricane" (NAB Comments, p. 14) so that producers and other copyright owners, even at the present stage of development, find it profitable to license pay exhibitions.

11. Another perspective on the necessity and effect of film exclusivity is provided by the film producers. Several have filed comments in this proceeding and their positions are not united. In joint comments MCA, Inc., and Warner Bros., Inc. argue that the disparate economic position of conventional versus pay television poses a real threat to the development of pay, and urge adoption of measures to restrict the networks' "oligopolistic" power. Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. suggests that any Commission action is premature until the appeal of the subscription television rules is concluded, and more marketplace experience and data is obtained. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation and the United Artists Corporation, in joint comments, agree that Commission action would be premature. However, they also argue that the basis of the inquiry is erroneous because economics of the marketplace will not permit "siphoning" to occur no matter how big pay cable becomes, and because normal marketplace forces have been interfered with by existing Commission regulatory programs. After a thorough analysis of the various issues Paramount Pictures Corporation concludes that no restrictive rules should be adopted because they would unduly restrict development of pay. Rather Paramount believes pay will be assimilated by the marketplace in a sequential process whereby films will be distributed to pay after theatrical distribution but before distribution to conventional television and syndication interests. For this to evolve however distribution must be left to the free interplay of market forces.

12. Although it did not file comments in this proceeding, as mentioned earlier the United States Department of Justice also has addressed the issue of network exclusivity practices. In United States v. National Broadcasting Company, Inc.,<sup>41</sup> supra, and similar actions against CBS and ABC the Department charged that the networks, in violation of the Sherman Act, had entered into restrictive contracts and had combined with affiliated television stations to use their control over access to television broadcast time to restrain and monopolize prime time entertainment programming. On November 17, 1976 a consent judgment between the Department and NBC was proposed for resolution of the case against NBC. NBC would have been prohibited from acquiring exclusive exhibition rights for films against pay television except for 30 days prior to the first date the film was available for exhibition and extending for 2 years. It sanctioned an additional year of exclusivity for each network showing beyond two. In May of 1977, however, these restrictions were deleted after comments persuaded the Department that it was being misconstrued as a standard rather than a maximum term of permissible exclusivity.<sup>42</sup> In its written statement responding to comments on the pay cable exclusivity provisions of the proposed consent decree, the Department of Justice said:

The relief proposed in this provision was simply intended to establish an upper limit on terms obtained by NBC, at a level lower than the current practice, rather than a determination of what period of network exclusivity would be reasonable under the Sherman Act. Because of strong adverse comment by numerous public interest and Congressional entities, and by pay cable television operators, asserting that the provision would establish a standard which would adversely affect the pay cable industry, the Government became convinced that it would not provide meaningful relief. And, since no agreement on a more limited period for this type of exclusivity could be reached with NBC, the Government seriously considered withdrawing its consent to entry of the Judgment. However, in a recent decision the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, citing "antitrust questions," ordered the FCC to consider and resolve this problem within 180 days. Consequently, it was decided that outright removal of this provision would be appropriate and desirable as well, because its deletion would permit entry of the remainder of the Judgment. #### DISCUSSION

13. The Commission has been concerned for many years with the competitive relationships between conventional advertiser supported broadcast television and developing systems for direct payment or subscription television. Our initial concern, resulting in the adoption of rules in 1968 and their subsequent expansion and modification in 1970 and 1975, was that the presumed superior economic base inherent in direct payment systems of television distribution not result in a loss of programming distributed to the public on a conventional broadcast basis. The rules adopted, among other things, restricted subscription television rights to distribute feature films to those films not under contract for broadcast exhibition and those films not likely to be broadcast even in the absence of a competing pay use.<sup>43</sup>

<sup>43</sup> To be more precise the rules prohibited pay use of any feature film between 3 and 10 years of age unless that film was also under contract in the market for broadcast exhibition. Films more than 10 years of age were only available for pay use if they had not been broadcast in the market during the preceding three years. See Sections 73.643(a) and 76.255(a).

Although we were concerned with the "siphoning" of feature films from conventional to pay television use, we recognized that there was also a public interest in fostering an alternative distribution system whereby film product could be made available free of commercial interruption and with the additional flexibility of viewing times which subscription operations make possible.

14. As a number of commenters have noted, the inquiry was opened in the wake of revisions to our subscription television rules in 1975 out of our concern "that the programming available to subscription television might be further restricted by operation of exclusion contracts between conventional television interests and program producers." Inquiry, supra, at paragraph 2 (emphasis supplied). We recognized that alleged "warehousing" (excessive protection of a film through contractual exclusivity) could render nugatory the additional year of initial pay availability allowed under the amended rules and that the under-contract provision would only increase access for pay showing if the broadcaster-supplier agreements were non-exclusive.

15. As noted early, as the result of a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, the pay cable television feature films rules have now been vacated and the Commission has been ordered to bring this proceeding to a conclusion.<sup>44</sup>

16. Although the legal and policy conclusions that should be drawn from this proceeding are hotly contested, there does not appear to be any serious debate as to the basic facts which resulted in commencement of the proceeding. Historically television stations have typically purchased feature films in packages. Although some contracts are longer and some shorter, the contract is typically for a 5-7 years period and allows the station to make use of a mixed number of telecasts of each film during the term of the contract. Each contract gives the stations an exclusive-right to broadcast the films in the package as against other television stations in the market and against cable television use in the market. In the larger markets almost all of the more desirable film product is usually under contract. As contracts run out, the packages may be reassembled and consolidated as age and changing fads and mores decrease the popularity of individual films. Individual stations (and particularly the stronger VHF independent stations) frequently have large inventories of films under contract.

17. The situation with respect to feature films purchased by the television networks is somewhat different. The films they purchase are far fewer, if purchased in packages at all the packages
